OTHER RESOLUTION.

lution setting forth that all authority of the Executive Committee had been delegated to the State Campaign Committee, and expressing confidence in this committee was adopted, Bacon voting "no." It directed that the Campaign Committee be continued in authority "until such time as another executive committee shall be chosen, as provided by law."

Thereafter the committee adjourned, twenty-nine of the thirty-one going to dinner apparently in a comfortable frame of mind.

At the opening of the meeting, W. F. Mixon of Woodland, vice-chairman of the State Campaign Committee, wanted to speak, but Bacon, in the chair, decided first to make a statement and let Mixon talk later. The statement admitted friction in the party.

BACON'S STATEMENT.

"I think you will all agree," it said, "that had Gov. Hughes never come to California he would have carried it by a handsome majority and that without friction or bickering. . . . Now that he is gone, we are confronted by serious discord among the people who are anxious to support him. This is peculiarly regrettable as he is in no wise chargeable with this state of affairs."

Mr. Bacon said that Gov. Johnson, "the second most prominent Progressive in the United States, with a personal following larger than that of any other man in California,

PRICE OF BIBLES TO BE RAISED.

European War has Greatly Increased the Cost of Materials.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—The American Bible Society announced today that the price of Bibles was likely to be advanced at once. The European war, which has increased the cost of paper and other raw material, was given as the cause. The stock of Bibles and books printed in foreign languages, previously purchased from Germany, is being rapidly exhausted, it was said.

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

Fighting continues on all the battles fronts in Europe, but no notable successes are chronicled. France and the region north of Saloniki have seen the most intense activity, and in both fields the initiative generally has been with the central powers. Paris and London announce the repulse of repeated German attacks on the Somme and Verdun fronts. London claims an additional British advance near the Mouquet farms. German trenches on a front of 400 yards along the Courcelette-Thiepval road were occupied. Sofia records the repulse of eighteen consecutive attacks by Serbian soldiers northwest of Saloniki. Northeast of Saloniki the Bulgarians, apparently without opposition from the Greeks, have seized a good part of Northeastern Macedonia for fifty miles along the Aegean.

Little is heard below the border. Both parties to the Mexican controversy are evidently awaiting the action of the joint commission. Even Villa is reported quiet.

SOLUTION IN DOUBT.

Wilson's Plan is Refused.

President Tells Senators of Railroads' Need of More Revenue.

Counter Proposal by Executive Expected to be Made Tomorrow.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The threatened railway strike took on such a grave aspect today that President Wilson turned toward Congress for a solution of the problem.

Suddenly this afternoon when it became known that the railway executives were unanimous in their refusal to accept his plan of settlement, President Wilson personally went to the Capitol and laid before Majority Leader Kern of the Senate and Senator Newlands, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, the statement of the railway heads that Congress must guarantee some source of added revenue if they are to meet the demands of their employees.

How this should be accomplished President Wilson did not suggest. Immediately afterward, Senators began discussing proposals to have Congress record itself in favor of a rate increase.

No arrangements were made today for the President to address Congress on the subject, but it was considered likely that he might do so during the coming week if the situation continues critical.

Tonight the railway executives finished their answer to President Wilson's plan and notified the White House they were ready. President Wilson sent word he would prefer to see them Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

BROTHERHOOD ADJOURNS.

The brotherhood leaders, after being in meeting most of the day, adjourned to 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The refusal of the railway executives to accept the President's plan, including concessions of the eight-hour day, and proposing a counter-plan such as previously has been outlined, will put the next move up to the brotherhood leaders. It probably will be communicated to them officially Monday after President Wilson has heard it from the executives.

Meanwhile some development of possible Congressional action is expected and will depend on the outcome of the next steps between the employers and employees.

The executives held several meetings during the day, but no change resulted in the position they took last night when they approved a rough draft of their reply to President Wilson. It was 6:40 tonight when the committee of eight, which has handled the negotiations, announced that they had asked for a conference with President Wilson and awaited his pleasure. After a two hours' wait the executives announced that President Wilson had informed them he would prefer not to see them tonight.

SITUATION SUMMED UP.

The situation, as summed up late tonight by those close in touch with it, was this:

President Wilson has seen the published reports of the reply the executives will make him Monday and does not wish to accept it. It would not surprise those in the confidence of the railroad officials to have him make a counter-proposal at that time, retaining his original proposition for an eight-hour day, but offering the roads as compensation Congressional assurances of a freight rate increase and a commission to settle future disputes.

Among the executives tonight it clearly was evident that such a counter-proposal probably would not be accepted. Whether they would receive it from President Wilson and take it under consideration for a few days was not at all certain, but its ultimate rejection was forecast generally.

The proposition of the men is not clear. Apparently they might be willing to negotiate with it as a basis.

ATTITUDE OF CONGRESS.

Nobody knows the attitude of Congress toward the suggested legislation. It was pointed out tonight that there are many Senators who bitterly opposed the 5 per cent. increase recently granted the eastern railroads, and criticised the commission for its position in the case and who might be expected to oppose any proposal that would direct the commission to grant another increase.

The executives appear confident that public opinion will be with them in their insistence upon the principle of arbitration and their opposition to an eight-hour day.

The executives' reply will be divided into argument and statement of their position. Their statement will show that they do not accept the eight-hour day with pay for ten hours as demanded by the men; that they maintain this demand really is one for an increase of wages, and that a question of a wage increase is a matter of arbitration. They will suggest the creation of a commission to arbitrate the wage question or delegation of power to the Interstate Commerce Commission to arbitrate. It would make the arbitration retroactive and the roads

War Game.

DEFENDING FLEET SUNK, INVADING ARMY LANDS.

Greatest Maneuvers Ever Undertaken by the American Navy End with Victory for "Red" Forces, Which Practically Annihilate "Blue" Enemy — Results Reported to Washington.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The greatest war game ever undertaken by the American Navy ended today with a victory for Admiral Mayo's "red" fleet, which theoretically wiped out the defending "blue" fleet and landed an invading army at Far Rockaway Beach, L. I.

Rear-Admiral Knight, acting as umpire, announced the result in this report to the Navy Department:

"Maneuver completed. Red and blue bodies engaged 9:30 o'clock to 10:30 o'clock this morning, ten miles south of Ambrose Lightship. Blue decisively defeated, red gaining command of sea. Red effects landing at Far Rockaway and secures base."

The final report closely followed one announcing that Rear-Admiral Helm's "blue" defending fleet virtually had been annihilated in a dramatic fight off Scotland Lightship at the entrance to the New York harbor. With the exception of a few light craft, the entire "blue" fleet was "sunk." The full extent of the "red" loses was not known tonight, although early reports showed that they included the superdreadnaughts Nevada and Texas and two destroyers.

SUBMARINES DISPOSED OF.

With Admiral Helm's fleet out of the way, only a thin line of submarines remained to protect the coast. Then these, too, were quickly disposed of by the "red" fleet and with no foes left to interrupt the landing of troops from his transports, Admiral Mayo was declared victor in the game and the ships, "red" and "blue" alike, started for Newport after four days of arduous duty at sea.

The story of the game as pieced together from radio reports to the Navy Department indicates that the tactics of Admiral Mayo completely puzzled Admiral Helm and forced him to accept battle in a position from which there was no hope of escape. The umpire declared the "blue" fleet was destroyed hours before the time limit of the action expired.

When the game began Admiral Helm's fleet was assembled at Narragansett while Admiral Mayo with his fleet and long transport train were 600 miles off Cape Hatteras. At 6 a.m. August 22, Admiral Helm received word of his enemy's location and his seventeen scouts swept out to sea in a long circling line. An hour later, the "blue" battleships also were at sea, following the scouts.

The cruiser Baltimore sighted two battleships, two cruisers and three other units of the "red" fleet at 6 p.m. August 23. They were 500 miles off the coast, steaming west. The Baltimore dared not attack such a force and presumably fled for safety.

It was 11 a.m. August 25, before the "red" fleet again was sighted. This time it was a battleship which was picked up 120 miles off New York. Again the "blue" scout was outmatched.

SIGHTS "RED" TRANSPORT.

At 5:30 p.m., August 25, the destroyer Benham, later reported destroyed in action, sighted the "red" transport train seventy-five miles off the New Jersey Coast. Relying on her speed to escape the convoying warships, the Benham followed the transport, keeping Admiral Helm informed. At that time, the "blue" battle fleet was fifteen miles farther inshore, steaming in a line parallel to the transport train. At 8:30 the same evening the Benham reported that three enemy battleships and the transport train had headed inshore to make a landing.

Admiral Helm drove his battle fleet forward to intercept the "enemy" at daylight. He sighted the "red" ships at 5 o'clock this morning. The transport train was steaming in toward the Long Island coast with its destroyer screen thrown out to the southward.

During the night, however, the

BAN CIGARETTES AT YERBA BUENA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—"Fifteen men on the dead men's chest, yo ho yo ho and a cigarette." Thus runs the ditty at Yerba Buena, alias Goat Island, as the naval recruits swab decks on their training ship. Up to today it has been good form for the "rooky" when the smoking lamp is lit to borrow the "makings" and practice on smoke rings to his heart's content.

But no more. Surgeon A. M. Rossitter has banned cigarettes from the island, as has been done long since at the other three naval training stations of the country. The "cutty" pipe, bids fair to regain its standing as the navy favorite.

ASPHALT DROPPED ON BUSLOAD OF GUARDS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—Representatives of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association declared today that a 100-pound chunk of asphalt was dropped through the roof of a motor bus full of workmen and guards last night as it passed under an aqueduct in the Potrero district en route from the Ralston Iron Works, where the men were employed. None was injured. It was said police have been asked to guard the aqueduct tonight.

John Totwell, stevedore, is in the hospital today suffering injuries, and M. Foley, a guard, is carrying bruises received last night when bricks were thrown at a motor bus of stevedores and guards, returning from the Pope Talbot lumber yard, according to statements made today.

Special detachments of police have been guarding the lumber yards in the Potrero since the beginning of the lumber workers' and longshoremen's strike.

Preparedness.

AMERICA TO HAVE GUNS BIGGER THAN GERMANY'S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Army ordnance experts are at work on designs for huge field howitzers as large or larger than the German 42-centimeter guns which wrecked Belgian and French forts early in the war. They will be of at least sixteen-inch caliber with a range of twelve to fifteen miles, hurling a projectile weighing more than a ton and carrying a huge amount of high explosive.

In addition to placing several of these mammoth weapons along the coast line for mobile defense against naval attack, army officials are considering the creation of a special regiment equipped with six of the howitzers, to work as a unit of the mobile army. The problem confronting the designers in that regard is to distribute the enormous weight of the gun and carriage in such a way that it can be moved over any good road. That difficulty is a determining factor in American heavy artillery designs. About a few of the largest cities well ballasted roads which would support the weight of the huge guns can be found, but even such a highway as the Boston post road from Boston to New York, it is said, has many sections so lightly built that the great weight would crush through.

For these reasons, it is planned to build the new howitzers primarily for transportation by rail on special cars. The regiment would not be attached to any army corps, as in the case with lighter artillery, but would be directly under the orders of the General Staff, to be sent to a point where it was desired to blast a way through an enemy's field works. It is believed possible, however, that the weight can be so distributed on several carriages drawn by motor tractors that it could be dragged over any fairly well balanced highway.

BULGARS CONTINUE TO OVERRUN GREECE.

Entente Powers now Considering New Demands on Athens.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Bulgars continue to overrun Greece. Driving back British cavalry patrols as they advance, they have seized more than fifty square miles of eastern Macedonia. They have pushed as far west as Orfano and have occupied the heights overlooking Kavala.

Diplomatic circles in London heard today of new negotiations with Athens. Under pressure of the allied fleet, King Constantine was forced to demobilize his army last spring and to pledge a benevolent neutrality. But the Bulgar advance has altered conditions since then.

The Entente powers are now considering new demands on Athens. They will not countenance, it is said, a free entry to the Bulgar, for the occupation of Eastern Macedonia threatens the flank of Sarrail's army, striving to advance up the Vardar Valley.

MAY FORCE KING'S HAND.

If King Constantine, therefore, con retain control of the situation and prevent Greek intervention in the war on the side of the allies, the Entente may force his hand again. The specific nature of the new requirements the allies may impose on Athens is not known here, but the assumption is they will demand a restriction on Bulgar movements. There are increasing signs, however, that the resentment among the Greeks themselves may bring so strong an agitation for the ejection of the Bulgar that Constantine may be forced to yield. The occupation of so much territory is looked on with suspicion among the Greeks, and Teuton promises to evacuate it after the war are regarded with skepticism.

Such struggles as the heroic resistance of the Greek commander at Seres have aroused the Greeks. This feeling has been intensified by a Bulgarian attack on the Greek fort of Startila, where, according to dispatches from Saloniki, the Greek commander, Changas, and the entire garrison were killed after a spirited resistance.

SARRAIL IS CAUTIOUS.

Until the Bulgar drive is halted, Sarrail is not likely to resume the advance up the valley. London tonight reports only artillery actions on the Doiran front. On the Struma, too, where the Bulgars have entrenched, the allied forces have attempted no action.

On the western end of the fighting line the Bulgars are still forging ahead. They report that eighteen consecutive attacks by the Serbs between August 21 and August 22 were hurled back "with immense losses." On the Aegean coast, British cavalry patrols were repulsed.

Meanwhile the Italians, holding the Albanian line, have begun an advance. They have seized Porto Palermo and the summit of Mount Kalarat, in Southern Albania, and are sending out more detachments from their base at Valona. An offensive by the Italians in this sector would force the Bulgars to send more troops from the Doiran and Ostrovo fronts.

SITUATION IN MACEDONIA.

The situation in Macedonia and its reaction in Athens and from the rest of the Greeks is exciting the greatest interest at the present moment. It is hardly probable Czar Ferdinand's troops will push further. They are not strong enough to storm the Struma line and attack the main allied army along the Vardar, but they can cut in on Sarrail's flank.

Moreover, the Bulgars' occupation of the Macedonian district as far as Orfano has removed all possibility of a drive up the river to Sofia, at present. This, however, has not been part of the allied plan. Sarrail's main push is planned for the Vardar Valley, with its objective the cutting of the railway to Nish.

CAPT. KOENIG IS HOARSE FROM MAKING SPEECHES.

Celebration Over Return of the Deutschland is Kept up Until Long After Midnight — Praises Americans for the Treatment Accorded Him While in the United States.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BREMEN, Aug. 26 (via London, 5:30 p.m.)—The celebration of the return yesterday of the submarine Deutschland to this port after its voyage to the United States was kept up until long after midnight. In the early hours of this morning the streets, especially those near the historic Town Hall, were still thronged with crowds waiting for Capt. Paul Koenig and his crew.

During the evening Capt. Koenig was obliged to make innumerable speeches. He was on the verge of exhaustion when he retired, with the crowd still clamoring for him and singing "Deutschland Uber Alles."

To the Associated Press correspondent the captain reiterated his great satisfaction at the treatment accorded him at Baltimore.

"Send the American people my love," he said. "They are good sportsmen. They treated me finely."

The homeward trip was without unusual incidents. No British warships were seen, the captain said, after he left American territorial waters.

MR. LOHMANN'S ADDRESS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

THE HAGUE, Aug. 25 (via London, Aug. 26.)—The Wolff Bureau gives an account of the address made on the occasion of the return of the German submarine Deutschland to Bremen by Alfred Lohmann, head of the German Ocean Navigation Company, owners of the Deutschland.

"It is with especial joy," Mr. Lohmann said, "that I note that all true Americans who are not in British pay, men with the independent character of Washington or Franklin, have greeted the Deutschland feat with satisfaction. It is the pride of our company that we, under the German flag in the midst of war, have succeeded in taking dyes to America at a time when America herself could not even obtain her European mails without interference, not to mention numerous other violations of the laws of the seas by our enemies against neutrals, especially small peoples.

"Your achievement," he said to Capt. Koenig, "symbolizes liberty as we Germans interpet the right of nations on free seas. The enemy could not prevent your departure from Chesapeake Bay. There is no question of a closed North Sea, as is proven by the many millions worth of goods brought from America, which is now before us. Yours is the seamanlike performance worthy of the best traditions of our Hanseatic forebears."

LOUISIANA NEGRO LYNCHED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SHREVEPORT (La.) Aug. 26.—A mob of 1000 yesterday took Jess Hammet, a negro, from the jail at Vivian, twenty miles north of here, and hanged him to a telegraph pole. He was identified by a white woman as the man who attempted an assault upon her, armed with a butcher-knife. The woman's parents were among those who pleaded with the mob to desist.

GERMANS AGAIN ATTACK ON THE SOMME FRONT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 26 (via London.)—The War Office communication tonight reads: "On the Somme front the artillery fighting was violent at the end of the day yesterday and during part of last night. South of Maurepas at about 10 p.m. strong enemy reconnoitering parties in the vicinity of hill 121 were dispersed by our fire. The Germans made no other attempt to atack.

"In the Champagne, after an intense bombardment, the enemy attacked our positions west of Tahure at two points. The attack was held up by our curtain of fire except in a small salient of our line where the enemy gained a footing. Shortly afterward we drove him out by a counter-attack.

"On the right bank of the Meuse the enemy violently bombarded the region of Thiaumont and Fleury and several times carried out lively offensive actions against the village and trenches bordering on Thiaumont work. None of these attempts succeeded in reaching our lines.

"In Lorraine we caught under our fire a German reconnoitering party before Neuvillers, northwest of Badonvillers.

"The German attack on the Somme front was made at hill 121, near the town of Maurepas, recently captured by the French.

"Near Craon our anti-aircraft gun brought down a Fokker. North of Chalons a Fokker which was attacked and pursued fell headlong."

Comparison.

CHECKERBOARD OF WAR; VERDUN AS GETTYSBURG

Situation now Analagous to Second Year of the Great Rebellion.

BY HARRY CARR.

THERE are many writers who are fond of comparing this great war in Europe with the American Civil War. I am one of them. The similarity between the position of the Central powers and the Confederate States is really astonishing.

Like Germany, the Confederate States at the outset of the war had most of the trained officers and the arsenals. Like the Germans, the Southern people were a martial people. Just as in the case of England and Germany, the North immediately proceeded to blockade all southern ports with the intention of starving the rebels into submission. And like the Confederate States, Germany has devised fast blockade runners to circumvent this effort; and has attempted to erect a counter blockade to destroy shipping outside of the regular blockade. The difference is that the Confederate counter blockade was done with the Alabama and other fast cruisers, while the Germans prey upon enemy shipping and run the blockade with submarines.

Like England, the North tried one commander after another and grumbled at them all, but blundered along.

The comparison has been carried further by the events of the past week.

VERDUN LIKE GETTYSBURG.

Verdun is compared to Pickett's charge at Gettysburg, as being the high tide of the beleaguered country's offensive. What corresponds to the Union-Confederate campaign of the Wilderness is now in progress.

The allies, under the supreme command of Gen. Joffre, have adopted exactly the tactics of Gen. Grant who saw that it didn't matter so much whether his armies won or lost the particular battles; the important thing was to keep up an attack that never gave the Confederates a chance to draw a long breath.

As with the Federal army in the Civil War, the element of overwhelming importance to the allies is the continuity of their attack. It is now not so important that the attack of the allies should be a furious or successful effort as that it should be a continuous effort.

While the campaign of the Wilderness is going on along the west front, Sherman is marching from Atlanta to the sea; or at least the Grand Duke Nicholas has the same end in view in his renewed advance upon the Turks in the vicinity of Lake Van, south of the Black Sea.

HOPE TO RELIEVE SERBS.

I imagine that the Russian campaign in this quarter is something like a time shot in billiards. The Russians hope to be able to tear their way across Asia Minor, cutting the Turkish expedition at the Suez Canal off from its base.

If the Suez can thus definitely be relieved from pressure, a large army will be released from Egypt to join the forces in Saloniki. If Rumania comes into the war on the side of the allies this will doubtless be the time chosen.

To my mind, the Saloniki expedition is useless unless Rumania comes into the war. Rumania would not be useless without the Saloniki expedition; but the weight and importance of Rumania as one of the allies would be multiplied many times if taken in conjunction with a movement north from Saloniki.

It begins to look very much as though the summer would pass without any very pronounced change in the battle tide. The Germans have stiffened their defenses in Galicia with the object of saving Lemberg from capture, this being an important railroad center and one of the most important military points on the east front.

GAINS ON WEST FRONT.

Gains are being made on the west front by the allies, but the sum of the allied offensive on the west front seems to have been scarcely worth the tremendous losses which are now admitted. This west front push is worth while only as Gen. Grant's tragic Wilderness campaign was worth while. It keeps the fight up at a white heat and prevents Germany from sending any large number of troops to other fields of battle.

Serbian and Bulgarian troops are fighting in the mountains without great results in either direction.

The snows are too near now to make it probable that the allies will be able to force the issue this summer.

When the spring comes, we can be sure that it will be Bulgaria that will be singled out for a terrific thumping. Modern war is a good deal like football. They pick out the weakest player in the line and hammer him all the time. The aim of the allies will undoubtedly be to fall upon Bulgaria with Russian and Rumania armies from the north and a mixed force driving in from Saloniki.

IF BULGARIA FALLS.

If Bulgaria falls, they will undoubtedly try again to drive a wedge through between the German and Austrian armies in Galicia and repeat the squeeze. I think the allies will try to dispose of Germany's nearest allies, relying upon the naval blockade to bring Germany to terms rather than by an invasion of German soil by troops.

I look to see the Russians left to handle Turkey alone. If the Czar wants to get the Dardanelles, he will have to get there single handed. None of the other allies will be inclined to lose any blood helping the Slav in his world ambitions.

Exterminators.

FRENCH "KILLING SQUAD" CHARGED BY GERMANS.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (via Sayville.)—The charge that the French have an organized force whose duty it is to exterminate all the Germans found in captured trenches is made in a statement issued today by the Overseas News Agency.

"The French some time ago," says the statement, "introduced a new fighting system which is the most cowardly and flagrant violation of the laws of war developed up to this time. Coincident reports confirm the fact, not known until now that within companies special detachments have been formed with express orders to remain behind in captured trenches and exterminate all Germans yet alive. These troops are called "nettoyeurs" (cleaners or sweepers.) Their equipment is not the rifle, cartridges and bayonet of other soldiers, but the revolver, knife and hand grenade. Every man, whether wounded or not, whether armed or not, is mercilessly stabbed or shot."

The "nettoyeurs" are operating by order of the commander-in-chief of the French armies, the statement says, this fact being demonstrated by an army order found on a dead French soldier.

A former corporal of the Fourth Company of the Greek legion of the French army, Adolf Levy, the news agency statement continues, on July 26, 1916, made the following voluntary statement before the Austro-Hungarian Consul-General at Saloniki:

"The Greek legion, stationed seven kilometers from Bois de Folie, was preparing for an attack on the following day. The officers gave the command to take no prisoners and to kill the wounded. The sergeants distributed knives especially for this purpose.

"On June 16, during an attack in Souchez, I saw with my own eyes several cases in which Germans, who had thrown down their arms in trenches we had entered, were killed mercilessly with knives."

GERMAN COMMENT ON WOMAN SPY CASE.

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (via Sayville.)—In Marseilles, on Augusa 22, a woman named Pfaat, 28 years old, was shot as a spy, says the Overseas News Agency. "She had appealed against the death sentence of the Court-martial at Marseilles, but the Paris court of appeals rejected her plea.

The Cologne Gazette states that this is not the first case in which the French have put a woman to death during the war. It recalls the agitation of the English and French press in regard to the case of Miss Edith Cavell, whose execution for high treason and continued spying caused these newspapers to express indignation. The Cologne Gazette asks whether the same ideas will hold good now that a German woman has been put to death by the French."

A Marseilles dispatch of August 22 told of the execution of Felice Pfaat as a spy.

Discrimination by discerning advertisers between newspapers that bring them quick and satisfactory results and those that do not is responsible for The Times regularly printing more paid advertising than any other Los Angeles newspaper.

Every day in the year The Times leads all of its competitors by a wide margin.

The thorough and careful reading of The Times, induced by the fact that this newspaper regularly prints approximately twice as many separate "want ads" as its nearest competitor, necessarily is of great benefit to display advertisers.

TO POPULARIZE "TWINKLE TROT"

Dancing Masters Declare it will be All the Rage this Winter.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—The "twinkle trot," similar to fox trots, will be among the newest dances to become popular this winter, it was decided today at the convention of the National Dancing Masters. The "Chinese processional dance" and "Gem waltz" also will be among the new novelties.

Solution in Doubt.

tration retroactive and the roads would pledge themselves to create a fund to care for back wages if increases are approved by the arbitrators.

THREE THINGS CITED.

Three things are cited by the executives to back up this position. The first is that many of the big shippers of the country have declared themselves opposed to an abandonment of arbitration and have insisted that an eight-hour day must not be granted. A second is a conviction that to give in to the men under present conditions would undermine discipline on the roads to a serious extent and would leave far-reaching after effects. The third is that no matter what assurances are given they feel they cannot expect a rate increase. This feeling is explained with statements that the roads have not forgotten the way they were attacked when the 5 per cent. case was up, and that they do not now care to lose the position which they feel they have gained with the public by risking another attempt.

The attitude of the executives tonight was in marked contrast to that of a few days ago. Apparently differences of opinion have been swept away and they are facing the situation with a united front and are ready for what may come.

Brotherhood leaders said tonight that departure of a large number of the 640 representatives for their homes during the day should not be interpreted as an indication that the men were breaking off negotiations or had abandoned hope of a settlement.

WOULD MEET ASSOCIATES.

It was understood that the chief reason of the exodus of labor men lay in the fact that they were anxious to keep in closer touch with the unions they represent and want to make sure of their ground in that direction before taking a decisive step. They will canvass sentiment very carefully among the rank and file of the brotherhood men.

After President Wilson's conference with Senators Newlands and Kern, Senator Newlands discussed the situation with Senators Robinson, Saulsbury, Lewis and other Democratic members and Senator Cummins, member of the Commerce Committee. Senators were reticent but the whole situation is said to have been laid before the Democratic Senators just as it stands, for them to think over and, if possible, to find some means of satisfying the demands of the railroads.

Senator Newlands said he had not called a meeting of the Commerce Committee and did not know whether it would meet. It was regarded as probable, however, that a meeting might be held Monday.

Informal conference of Democratic members probably will be held during the next few days to deliberate on the proposal. At any rate, no immediate Congressional action is anticipated and no one in authority would state whether the railroad crisis would operate to prevent adjournment of Congress next week.

POWER OF CONGRESS.

Senator Newlands said Congress has power to direct the Interstate Commerce Commission to increase rates or lower them. The suggestion was made, it was said, that Congress would pass the pending bill to increase the membership of the Interstate Commerce Commission from seven to nine and to attach to it an amendment expressing the sense of Congress that the railroads should have an increase in freight rates if they accept an eight-hour day. Such an expression by Congress practically would amount to directing the commission to grant an increase. Whether such action would satisfy the railroads, Senator Newlands said he had no idea.

"As a matter of fact, the law now specifically states," said Senator Newlands, "that in fixing railroad rates the Interstate Commerce Commission must take into consideration all operating expenses, and an increase in wages attendant upon a shortening of the railroad work day would amount to an increase in operating expense."

AS TO THE OUTCOME.

Regardless of the outcome of President Wilson's negotiations, it was indicated tonight that few of the brotherhood leaders probably would remain here longer than Monday. The heads of the four brotherhoods and their vice-presidents, however, probably will remain indefinitely if a settlement of the dispute is not reached soon. The head of each organization met with his vice-presidents tonight and discussed tentative plans for a strike. The manner in which the Federal government has been injected into the situation would make it almost imperative, it is thought, that any strike be directed from here.

As the brotherhood men saw the situation tonight, only two steps could prevent a walk-out. These are for the railroads to withdraw their insistence upon arbitration for all of the demands of the men, or for the government to take over the railroads for operation for the duration of the strike. Little confidence was expressed that the railroad heads would recede, but the men professed to see great hopes of government operation of the lines, particularly after the President's visit to Congress. Just what these hopes were based upon was not apparent.

If a strike should come, it was learned tonight, it probably will not become operative for about a week. The brotherhood men, while they have the right to declare a strike from here, probably would not do so until the representatives leaving today and tomorrow had talked the situation over with their local committees.

THE AMERICAN RAILROAD CRISIS.

[EDITORIAL.]

THE railroad strike problem had not been solved at a late hour last night. The telegraph wires are full of the thrill of an impending crisis. Owing to the obstinate refusal of the railway unions to consent to arbitration, the prospects for averting a general strike and the tie-up of the railroads seemed bleak as the Sunday Times went to press.

Without going bankrupt, the railroads cannot consent to an eight-hour day unless they are allowed to raise their rates. The union tyrants will listen to nothing except the eight-hour day or the government operation of the roads. The President was in conference with Congressional leaders yesterday and there is some prospect that he will go before a joint session of Congress.

Taking the most optimistic view, the situation is menacing and dangerous. The starting of such a strike is throwing a lighted match into an open window. No one can say where it will end; what terrible disasters it may involve; what other difficulties it may bring about.

The most apparent evil connected with this general offensive of the railroad unions is that they are trying to force the railroads into a line of action which is not industrially practical. An eight-hour day on a railroad is almost an impossibility; it is utterly beyond the bounds of business practicability. The operation of trains over long stretches of track do not admit of dividing the time of the men by any such iron-bound rule. You might as well attempt to have an army fight on an eight-hour day. The eight-hour day is only practical as a basis of work and pay. An hour basis would be more sensible, exact, sane and just; fairer to both sides. The workers would gain under it and would not suffer through irregularities in the length of their respective days.

Railroad operations are of a public character in the largest sense. The workers do not own the roads or the country; the running of trains is not to be dictated by them exclusively. A stoppage or serious interruption of service would be a calamity of indescribable proportions. The different parts of this country have become interdependent to such a degree that traffic stoppage would be to this nation what the stoppage of the arteries would be to the human body. The interruption of the United States mails alone would be a matter so serious in its consequence that, between nations, it would lead to war. The sudden interruption of the coming of food supplies to the congested centers of population would be an event of such tragic import that the United States would certainly stand face to face with bread riots. The stopping of milk for a million or more babies living in the large cities would cost the lives of pitiful thousands of little ones. Finally, the movement of United States troops from place to place to meet the military exigencies of the country would become impossible, in case of a general strike.

There can be no interruption in the nation's regular railroad service except through lawlessness, violence, anarchy and the rule, not of law, but of brute force exercised by the dissatisfied minority against the people and the government and against the law-abiding railroad workers—the independent non-union men who have equal rights under the law to employment and full protection by the authorities; who are more deserving because more loyal and dependable and who are not labor conspirators bent upon seizing the country by the throat.

The peril is too great to be endured—the danger too imminent and wide-reaching in its possibilities to be tolerated or to admit of the thought of a base surrender by the government, the people and the railways which are supported by them and are responsible to the government while the insurrectionary malcontents are responsible to nobody but themselves and their irresponsible, unincorporated unions and the manipulators thereof.

A concerted strike with violence is conspiracy in law. Should it be precipitated by the desperate railroad men, led by those who know better, but who are depending upon a complaisant Executive and a vote-seeking party to sit back, look on and do nothing decisive to prevent what will be in the nature of civil war, then the evils of unrestrained demogoguery—fostered, unlicensed unionism, will stare the country square in the face.

An attempt to tie up the railroad service of the country, with its passengers, mails, troops and food stopped thereby, must in the very nature of the case be resisted by the whole power of the nation. If this unthinkable attempt is made, the strike will be broken in thirty days; the power of the mad, reckless unions will be destroyed; the country will enter upon a new era industrially—an era of mutual independence in the mighty fields of labor and production; and the whole land will benefit immeasurably.

Then will the free, independent non-union railway worker have his day in court and in the broad field of labor, where he is entitled to appear with head up and heart full of courage and hope, the equal of any other American citizen, the peer of every other workman, whether "organized" or independent.

Campaign Thrillers.

DEMOCRATIC MOVIES SOON BEGIN TO GRIND.

For Your Vote Wilson Showmen will Unreel "Settlement" of the Mexican Question, England and France Being Slapped on the Wrist, and Inglorious Exit of the Lusitania Controversy.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 26.—Despite the desultory skirmishing of the last few weeks, the Presidential campaign, now getting into full swing, promises to be one of the most remarkable and spectacular contests in the political history of the nation.

Both the Republican and the Democratic forces have been organizing their armies of campaigners, filling their war chests and storing up polemic ammunition for use in the desperate conflict which it now appears certain will mark the close of the canvass.

While Mr. Hughes has been touring the West, the Republican strategists have been perfecting their battle plans, which call for a great drive on the Democratic administration, beginning in the latter part of September.

A score of investigations of the Wilson regime by experts employed by the Republican managers are in progress, the purpose being to subject the secret workings of this most secret of all administrations to the glare of that "pitiless publicity," which the President promised before his election.

DEMOCRATS TAKING BRACE.

The Democrats are bracing themselves for the coming onslaught. The President himself will strike the keynote of his campaign and defend himself against the attacks of Mr. Hughes in the speech he will deliver when he is formally notified of his nomination September 2. All the departments of the government have been transformed into agencies for disseminating campaign literature lauding the record of the administration and contradicting and explaining the charges preferred by the Republicans.

The Democrats are polishing up a variety of slogans with which the country already is beginning to resound. Chief of these is the cry, "Wilson has kept us out of war," meaning thereby, say the Republicans, the wars with Germany and Mexico, which the President "nearly got us into."

The campaign plans of the Democrats include a sort of grand finale in October, in which "the settlement of the Mexican question" will be proclaimed. It is intended that the commission now taking up the differences between the United States and Mexico shall report an agreement well before election, which will be hailed by the Democrats as an assurance of the restoration of order on the border.

Then the Pershing expedition will be withdrawn and, if no hitch occurs, the National Guard will be brought home. The Democrats believe these events will sweep the people off their feet with enthusiasm for the President and they will abide in the hope that the Mexican ghost will stay "laid" until after the election at least.

Cynical politicians are of the opinion that if Carranza prefers Wilson to Hughes in the White House he will not start any fresh trouble till after November 7 next.

OTHER BIG MOVIES.

Other Democratic campaign movies will show President Wilson belaboring Great Britain and France for censoring and confiscating American mail, disrupting American trade and blacklisting American merchants with German affiliations. The fact that Mr. Wilson never has won any concessions of import to his voluminous but mild epistolary demands upon Great Britain and France has produced so widespread a conviction of his partiality for the cause of the allies that the Democrats see the necessity of giving the lion's tail a few spectacular campaign twists.

In addition, the Jeffersonians hope to be able to present the people some time in October with a formal settlement of the Lusitania controversy with Germany, despite the fact that the Republicans say the Democrats are welcome to any glory they can get out of a money indemnity for 115 American lives sacrificed to the policy of a President "too proud to fight."

The Democrats will proclaim themselves the authors of the prosperity which is upon us, while the Republicans will quote statistics to show that the coming of the "war brides" was all that saved the country from disaster after the Underwood tariff law went into effect.

The President goes into the campaign with several anchors thrown to windward and a plentiful supply of thunder stolen from the Republicans. While still posing as an advocate of tariff for revenue only, he has sought to convince the protectionists that he is one of them, too, for he has caused Congress to create a tariff commission, pile some protection on dyestuffs and provide against the "dumping" of foreign goods on the American market.

WELCOME TO FOLD.

In regard to the dyestuffs duties, the Republicans welcome the President to the fold, but they scout the sincerity of his eleventh-hour conversion to the tariff commission plan.

The Republicans will seek to convince the people of the untrustworthiness of the administration which ridiculed preparedness until forced into line by an aroused electorate on the eve of the campaign, which floundered through the submarine controversy with Germany while 115 Americans were killed, which blunderingly promoted anarchy in Mexico and resented border outrages only when politically menaced by popular indignation, which has delivered the public service to the southern spoilsmen and allowed pork-barrel extravagance to run riot.

The severest indictment of the extravagance of the administration yet heard in the campaign was uttered on the floor of the Senate this week by Senator Penrose.

"According to the formal statement made by the ranking Republican member of the Appropriations Committee of the House at the close of the Sixty-third Congress, the total appropriations of the first Democratic Congress were $2,231,000,000, or $177,000,000 greater than the total appropriations made by the last preceding Republican Congress," he said. "Total expenditures for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, exceeded receipts by $64,000,000.

STATE WILL OPPOSE REDUCTION OF LOAF

FIGHT TO MAINTAIN 12-OUNCE STANDARD PROMISED.

In Spite of Increased Cost of Material Bakers Still Able to Make Profit of More than Thirty-eight Per Cent., According to Sealer of Weights and Measures.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 26.—In spite of the increases in the cost of baking material, bakers are still able to make an average profit of 38 1-2 per cent. on a barrel of flour, selling 12-ounce loaves for five cents, according to State Sealer of Weights and Measures Charles G. Johnson, who has completed a thorough investigation of baking methods.

Johnson finds that 357 loaves selling at the rate of five cents a loaf equals $17.85, which is a profit of $4.97 1-2, giving the 38 1-2 per cent. average profit. According to Johnson, the wholesale price of bread of the standard weight furnished to grocers and delicatessen stores by the large bakers is four cents, leaving a net profit of 15 per cent. to the wholesalers. He claims this excessive profit in the sale of bread is due to up-to-date and efficient machinery.

TO OPPOSE REDUCTION.

On the basis of these figures Johnson is preparing to oppose any plan of the master bakers to go below the standard weight of 12 ounces net weight for five-cent bread.

"The standard will be maintained," said Johnson today. "If the bakers want to combine to force up the price of bread they must do it by advancing the price of the standard loaf at established weight and not by reducing it. The bakers contend that it will be easier to bake a smaller loaf to sell for five cents than to maintain the present standard loaf and sell it for six cents.

"In all events, irrespective of what the attitude of the bakers may be, the California housewife is thoroughly efficient in the baking of bread, and she probably will take this course."

PRIEST JUMPS TO DEATH.

Brooding Over Church Affairs Believed Cause of Suicide.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Rev. Father Ignatz Tomasin, 70 years old, who resigned his pastorate of a church in Albany, Minn., a month ago, after his parishioners are alleged to have attacked and beaten him, jumped to his death from the sixth floor of a hotel here today.

Miss Martha McCluskey, sixteen years a housekeeper for the aged priest, said she believed he committed suicide while brooding over church affairs.

"Rev. Tomazin had trouble with his parishioners five years—since he took charge of the church," she said. "One night three of the parishioners came to Father Tomazin's house and beat him. That caused him to resign. It broke his heart, I think."

WANTED HORSE IN HOUSE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ALBANY (Minn.) Rev. Ignatius Tomazin was removed from the pastorate of the St. Anthony's German Catholic Church a month ago by the vicar general of the diocese. He had been acting strangely for some time, one of his former parishioners said today, insisting for a time on keepink a horse in the house with him. This parishioner denied that Rev. Tomazin ever had been attacked by any members of his congregation.

CONFESSION MAY SAVE MAN'S LIFE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The life of Elias Jazra, a Syrian, now in the death-house at Sing Sing prison, awaiting execution for the murder of Raffa Kayat, another Syrian, may be saved, it was disclosed yesterday, by a confession made to Father Cashin, the prison chaplain, by Nebeah Ghatas, a Syrian young woman, whose betrayal by Kayat led to the tragedy after he had refused to marry her.

The girl, a prisoner here, charged with being an accomplice to the murder, admitted that it was she and not Jazra, her brother-in-law, who killed Kayat.

French Trenches in Champagne Raided and Prisoners Taken.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (via London, 4:26 a.m.)—Attacks last night by the British in the Thiepval and Foureaux wood sectors on the Somme front and by the French near Maurepas were repulsed, the War Office announced today.

In the Champagne, northwest of Tahure, French trenches were raided and forty-six prisoners captured.

The statement regarding the western front says:

"To the accompaniment of continuous artillery duels north of the Somme, infantry attacks took place during the evening from Thiepval to the Foureaux wood and near Maurepas. They were repulsed.

"Northwest of Tahure (Champagne) our patrols captured forty-six prisoners in French trenches.

"In the Meuse region the enemy fire in some sectors attained great intensity.

"Two enemy aeroplanes were shot down in the region of Bapaume and another near Zonnebeke, Flanders. In aerial engagements one aeroplane was brought down east of Verdun and one north of Fresnes."

Only minor engagements along the eastern front are reported in today's army headquarters announcement.

SERBIANS HEAVILY DEFEATED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

SOFIA, Aug. 26, (via London.)—After severe fighting on the Bulgarian right wing on the Macedonian front the Serbians have been defeated with very heavy losses and compelled to retire, the War Office announced today. Eighteen consecutive attacks were made by the Serbians.

The statement says:

"Our offensive on our right wing continues. In the region of Moglenica mountain considerable Serbian forces, supported by neighboring troops from the night of August 21 until the afternoon of August 23 attempted eighteen consecutive attacks. All their attacks were repulsed, whereupon the Serbians retired to their former positions. Their losses were immense.

"Our left wing, advancing upon the Aegean coast, met a weak British cavalry detachment which took flight in the direction of Goge and Orfano, pursued by our troops.

MANY PLACES CAPTURED.

August 24, we captured Kreta, Parnardagh, the village of Dzravik, Hill 750, ten kilometers north of Orfano, Bigla mountain, the village of Dranova, the territory to the heights north of Kayala and the whole Sarishaban plain.

"The assertion of the French General Staff that French troops have occupied the village of Palmisch is incorrect. This village, in Greek territory, was from the beginning in possession of the French."

REACH GREEK COAST.

SOFIA, Aug. 26.—On the eastern end of the front, the Bulgarian forces have reached the Greek Aegean coast and put British cavalry detachments to flight. Several villages have been occupied by the Bulgarians.

The Sofia announcement discloses a wide extension of the Bulgarian occupation of Greek territory. The area now taken overskirts the Aegean for about 150 miles. Apparently, the Bulgarians have reached all northeastern Greece from the Bulgarian border to Orfano, where the old front ended. They are thus established over a large section of the eastern flank of the Entente allies.

Coming to the Dutch press, one or two of the leading journals do not hide their pro-allied or pro-German sympathies. In their role of judge of all the belligerents, Dutch editorial writers occasionally evoke an ironical smile. The nature of the comments on the position and prospects on the theaters of war has undoubtedly changed since earlier days, when the might of the German legions dazzled the eyes of Dutch military correspondents and the idea of Britain ever forming new armies in time to constitute a serious factor was often scouted as impracticable.

MASS FOR THE ALLIES.

If pro-German sympathies are entertained among a section of the higher classes, the great mass of the people is still strong in its support of the allies. On the one hand, there is a leading newspaper delighting on every possible occasion in denouncing the "unscrupulous scoundrels of Central Europe;" and on the other, it would be difficult to find more bitter anti-British and anti-ally sentiments than those breathed by the Dutch editors of the pro-German Toekomst (The Future.) As a people the French certainly seem more popular than the British. The South African war still rankles in a good many minds. The most pro-German element in the political world is found among the church parties of the right, the veteran ex-Premier, Dr. Abraham Kuyper, a great Calvinist stalwart, leading the van.

Outwardly Holland has not changed much, save for the numerous military element everywhere in evidence. The principal seaside resort, Scheveningen, is daily crowded with pleasure-seekers, including many Germans and Belgians. Places of amusement are well attended. Cricket and other sports are proceeding as usual. The sprinkling of Belgians in centers like The Hague has somewhat smartened up the dress of the fairer sex. Beneath the surface, however, the war is putting a great strain on people generally. The monopoly of so much labor by the army means far more work for large sections of the nation, while the food eaten is not of such good quality and is dearer. With large masses of the people it is a bitter struggle to make both ends meet. Some of the smaller conveniences of life, that used to come from Germany, especially rubber articles, are unobtainable. Some articles previously imported are, however, being now supplied by native industry.

Practically everywhere there is a shortage of housing accommodation, and particularly in those places where either Dutch workmen have returned from Germany or where they no longer cross the frontier to work. There is such a scarcity of houses in the northeastern province of Twente and in the fen regions that comparatively well-to-do families are often obliged to live in miserable hovels and often even in temporary huts. The rise in the prices of building materials, particularly timber, has practically stopped the private building of workmen's dwellings. In the large cities people are crying out against the raising of rents.

ECONOMIC REALM.

In the economic realm the ramification of the Netherlands Oversea Trust have extended very far. Its headquarters at The Hague now comprise thirty different departments, housed in some twenty-five buildings in all parts of the city. It will be recalled that the trust is allowed by the allies to import goods from oversea under guarantees that these shall be for home use only. It seems impossible, however, to put down the smuggling traffic on the frontiers, which has lately revived and is demoralizing big sections of the border population, despite the government's system of controlling goods in the frontier zone and the appointment of several thousand soldiers as paid customs officers. The fishing industry, which has been sending hundreds of thousands of tons of fish to Germany and Austria and making enormous profits, has now had the hand of the allies laid heavily upon it.

As regards shipping, the arrivals at Rotterdam, Holland's chief port, have so far this year totaled only some 1700 vessels of a tonnage of nearly 1,800,000, as compared with 6000 vesels of 7,600,000 tons in the corresponding months of 1914. On the other hand, Holland's own merchant fleet is extremely active and prosperous in view of the shortage of cargo space, earning big dividends. The shipbuilding yards, too, are overcrowded with orders, and the clank of the hammers sounds for mile on mile along the Dutch waterways.

STOCK EXCHANGE.

On the Stock Exchange there has been a remarkable revival of business since its reopening in February, 1915, and big rises in important classes of shares. Gold is still steadily streaming into the country, and the stocks of the yellow metal in the vaults of the Netherlands Bank now amount to $232,000,000, which is two or three times their normal size. The farmers and market gardeners of Holland have probably never experienced such prosperity as now, owing to the heights to which prices have soared, particularly across the eastern frontier; but the bulb industry is suffering from the import prohibitions issued by certain belligerents. Save in such exceptional cases as stevedores, there is very little unemployment, and the mobilization has led to women replacing men to some extent, as for instance in offices, brickworks, textile and other factories. Over a thousand more women and girls are now employed in the ready-made clothes factories of Amsterdam as a result of the big army orders for uniforms.

ALWAYS RECOMMEND IT.

Prof. John H. Austin of Chicago Makes a Very Remarkable Discovery

—For thirty-seven years Prof. Austin, bacteriologist, hair and scalp specialist, of Chicago, who is now at Hamburger's, has been experimenting and searching the depths of science for a preparation that would restore the natural color of the hair. At last he has succeeded in compounding a perfect hair color restorer; this he has named—

Co-Lo Hair Restorer

—It is a scientific achievement. In this remedy Prof. Austin has discovered a process for developing the natural color of the hair in a similar manner to that of developing the photographic negative. It is positively the only satisfactory and lasting treatment for restoring color to the hair in a mild, healthful manner.

—Co-Lo Hair Restorer is absolutely harmless and will not injure either the hair or scalp; is not a dye; contains no lead or sulphur, has no sediment; and is as clear as water—a pleasing and simple remedy to apply.

—You yourself may tell which shade you need—it has been proven that when judging the color of hair every man and woman is his or her own best judge. Co-Lo Hair Restorer comes in—

—A6—for Black and all Dark Shades of Brown.

—A7—Extra Strong for Jet Black Hair only.

—A8—for all Medium Brown Shades.

—A9—for all Very Light Brown, Drab and Auburn Shades.

—During the past five months Hamburger's has sold hundreds of bottles of Prof. Austin's Co-Lo Hair Restorer at the Drug Department on the Main Floor. It has given universal satisfaction.

—Co-Lo Hair Restorer on sale at Hamburger's, main and Second Floors.

—Mail orders promptly filled.

MAY ADOPT BRITISH PLAN AT WASHINGTON.

Adjt.-Gen. McCain Inaugurates Policy Showing How Men Who Have Quit the Army may Take Advantage of Lucrative Offers to Support Themselves in Civil Life.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A policy of caring for Federal soldiers upon retirement upon civil life, patterned after that of the British government, which secures employment for enlisted men retiring from the army, has just been inaugurated by the United States, it is announced in a pamphlet issued today by Adj.-Gen. McCain, explaining how the soldier may take advantage of lucrative offers provided he had demonstrated his ability for civil employment during enlistment.

Recruiting offices are named in twenty-three States through which applications may be made for State or municipal employment. The pamphlet emphasizes the fact that the army offers exceptional advantages to those who desire to fit themselves for almost any line of vocational work. It also contains a long list of positions scattered throughout the United States in the filling of which former soldiers will be given preference. Many of these are State or municipal employment at salaries ranging up to $1800 a year.

The list shows the city, the position, and the necessary qualifications as reported by recruiting officers who gathered the data. The purpose of the pamphlet is three-fold: To attract the best class of recruits, to disabuse the public mind of the impression that the army is a refuge for those unfitted for other employment, and to explain to the soldiers how they may take full advantage of the vocational training in the army provided in the reorganization bill recently enacted.

The booklet is being supplied to all soldiers and widely distributed throughout the country to induce recruiting.

WOMAN SLAYER TALKS.

Mrs. Adams Asserts Capt. Spratling Paid Her Attentions.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MACON (Ga.) Aug. 26.—Accompanied by a military escort, the body of Capt. Edgar J. Spratling, Co. F, Fifth Regiment, National Guard of Georgia, who was shot and killed at the State mobilization camp here yesterday by Mrs. H. C. Adams of Atlanta, was taken today to the Spratling home in Atlanta.

Mrs. Adams, formerly a patient of Capt. Spratling, who in civil life was a physician, last night was held by a Coroner's jury for the killing. In the Bibb county jail here she asserted she shot Capt. Spratling because of attentions paid her while she was in his office in Atlanta.

After several hours in jail Mrs. Adams became hysterical, but frequently declared that when she goes to trial her course will be shown to have been justified. Her husband is a laundry wagon driver.

Officers at the camp indicated a belief that illness due to nervous disorders caused Mrs. Adams to think Capt. Spratling had acted improperly toward her.

READY TO GREET ARMY VETERANS.

HEADQUARTERS ARE OPENED AT KANSAS CITY HOTELS.

Auxiliaries are All Prepared and Thousands are Arriving for Convention Which Opens Tomorrow — Information Booths Tell Visitors Where to Go.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—First move of a formal nature in connection with the fiftieth annual encampment of the G. A. R., which opens here next week, was made today with the opening of the national headquarters in one of the downtown hotels. Information booths were opened at the same time in the leading hostelries for the guidance of the visiting veterans.

Headquarters of the many auxiliaries of the G. A. R., also have been opened and by Monday morning the units of the blue-clad army will have been marshaled and ready at the command of the Commander-in-Chief, Elias R. Monfort.

Wednesday, the day of the veterans' parade, has been declared a holiday in both Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kans.

Incoming veterans today will be welcomed in wigwag from the top of a high building by James M. Whittlesey of St. Louis, chief signal officer of the Commander-in-chief and commander of the survivors of Ram fleet. Four white doves will be liberated at the same time bearing ribbons, upon which will be printed a welcome and a wish for a speedy accomplishment of universal peace.

"Remember the boys at the front with an extra flag in your G. A. R. decorations," is the direction adopted yesterday by the soldiers' committee for the league.

GIRL ACCUSES PREACHER.

Charges Array Modesto Into Hostile Camps—Parents Involved.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

MODESTO, Aug. 26.—Modesto was arrayed in two hostile camps today, the issue being the truth of charges made yesterday in Justice Court by Lee Whitney, 17 years old, that the Rev. A. A. Holmes had made love to her, finally promising to divorce his wife and marry her. This charge was made while the girl was on the stand making charges against George F. Whitney, her foster father, and his wife.

The girl said that the minister talked with her and obtained her admission that her home life with Whitney was not what it should have been. Then she said she asked him what he thought of her. The Rev. Holmes, she said, replied ardently that he thought more than ever of her, and began to ply her with attentions.

Holmes, who is married but has no children, denied last night that he had ever talked with the girl. She told her story to the local probation committee before launching her charges in court, the committee members stating that they believed them true.

Mrs. Whitney has been at liberty on $2500 bond while awaiting a hearing on the charges of contributing to the girl's delinquency; her husband has been held in jail.

The Whitneys adopted the girl six years ago from a Los Angeles orphans' asylum.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26.—William Leary, a shrimp fisherman, is in a hospital here today suffering from wounds inflicted Thursday by a shark which attacked him while drawing in a net in Grand Lake. Most of the flesh was torn from the lower part of his left leg. Attending physicians say the wounds may prove fatal, as infection has set in.

Grand Lake is located in the marshlands of the southeast coast of Louisiana and is fed by water from the gulf.

RUMANIA INCREASES CREDIT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 26 (via London, 1:22 p.m.)—By decree of the Rumanian Council of Ministers, published in the Monitor, the extraordinary credit for the army is increased by 200,000,000 francs to 600,000,000 francs, according to telegrams from Bucharest today.

The Universal announces that Gen. Paraskivesco has been appointed director of munitions, adds the dispatch, and that Gen. Popovica, commander of cavalry, has been appointed to the command of the Second Division, in succession of Gen. Avesco.

TURKS WIN NEAR CANAL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 26 (via London, 2:25 p.m.)—British and Turkish reconnoitering parties have clashed at a point less than twenty miles east of the Suez Canal in the coast region, the British detachments being forced to flee, according to today's announcement by the War Office. The official statement says:

"Caucasus front: We repulsed attacks against our advanced positions on the right wing. At one point the enemy, despite a threefold superiority, was forced to retreat before the resistance of our troops.

"A hostile monitor unsuccessfully bombarded the coast near Fotcha.

"After an engagement between hostile reconnoitering parties with our detachments, twenty-five kilometers (about sixteen miles) east of Suez, the enemy fled."

FIVE DOLLARS NOW CALHOUN'S FORTUNE

FORMER RAILWAY MAGNATE IN RECEIVERSHIP ACTION.

Man Who Few Years Ago was Prominent in Life of San Francisco Testifies His Fortune of Fourteen Million Dollars is Gone. Sued for Office Rent.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Patrick Calhoun, grandson of the famous statesman and prominently identified with the San Francisco street car system until a few years ago, testified in a receivership proceeding here that $5 was the only tangible asset remaining of a fortune of $14,000,000 possessed by him five years ago. The proceedings became known today.

Financial reverses following the earthquake and fire in San Francisco were responsible for his losses, he asserted. Receivership proceedings were brought against Calhoun in a suit for office rent.

SAN FRANCISCO CAREER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—Patrick Calhoun was once a prominent figure in the life of San Francisco. While he was president of the United Railroads, a corporation capitalized at millions of dollars, Calhoun was indicted on charges of bribery in the 1906-07 graft prosecutions which sent Abraham Ruef, a political boss, to San Quentin prison. The jury disagreed. In 1914, a year after he resigned as president of the traction company, the State Railroad Commission publicly accused him of illegally withdrawing $1,096,000 from the United Railroads treasury. Testimony was offered that the money was hauled to Calhoun's bank in wagons.

Calhoun went east in 1913 and never returned to the State. The commission discovered that part of the $1,096,000 went into a vast real estate scheme known as the Solano Irrigated Farms, which failed. The Railroad Commission ordered the money restored to the railroads' treasury.

Several times since the former traction head left here it has been reported that he was penniless.

LUMBERMEN OPPOSE THE WILSON PLAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) Aug. 26.—Retail lumbermen of ten western States for two days have been sending President Wilson telegrams protesting against the President's plan for settling the threatened railroad strike, according to A. L. Porter, secretary of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association today.

The messages, according to Mr. Porter, urge President Wilson before bringing pressure to bear upon railroad officials to accept the brotherhoods' eight-hour day, to seriously consider the effect that this increase in pay will mean to the shipper and the ultimate consumer.

Fleet Sunk.

"red" battle fleet also had come up, and, steaming parallel to the transports and between them and the "blue" fleet, interposed itself, to cut off Admiral Helm's attack.

The flets engaged promptly, but the "blue" position was hopeless. To cut off the rush of the transports for the coast it had to swing sharply to the west.

As the "blue" ships came to the turn they filed in one at a time and caught the concentrated fire of Admiral Mayo's guns.

While the battle still was in progress Admiral Helm played his last card. The seventeen submarines mobilized at Block Island the preceding night were following the movements of the "red" transports, but keeping well inshore as a last line of defense. Daylight found them within an hour or two of the chosen landing point of the invaders. Admiral Helm ordered them forward in a desperate effort to destroy the troop ships, but they were not equal to the task and the transports and their shielding fighting ships steamed by victorious.

POURS HOT SHOT INTO EARL CAMP.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY FLAYS WOULD-BE BOSS.

Declares this Man has Tried to Cripple Administration of Justice Because Orders Would not be Taken from Him, Characterized as Political Charlatan.

In a speech last night by Dist.-Atty. Woolwine before a meeting held in Burbank Hall under the auspices of the Teamsters' Benevolent Association of city street and park employees, he set forth the methods of E. T. Earl in trying to cripple the administration of law in the office of the District Attorney, because Mr. Woolwine had refused to take orders from him.

In this address Mr. Woolwine said that attempts had been made to suppress prosecutions where friends of Earl were involved, how attempts had been made to secure secrets of the District Attorney's office that involved persons whom Earl favored, and how constant attacks upon the District Attorney have been backed by Earl.

"I feel I owe a duty to the public to denounce this millionaire newspaper proprietor as a political charlatan who seeks in every possible way to discredit any faithful public official who will not take his orders," said Mr. Woolwine.

In this address Mr. Woolwine gave direct answers to questions that have been asked by the Earl newspapers. He declared that the District Attorney has no power to close Baron Long's place at Vernon, as it is running under a Vernon license; that the State law allows four-round bouts in boxing exhibitions, and the District Attorney is powerless to stop this practice without violating the law itself; that in regard to the Los Angeles Investment Company affairs, he co-operated with the officers of the United States courts, furnishing them with all the evidence he had gathered, and this trial of former officers resulted in the conviction of three of the offenders, but that it would have been useless, after the power of the Federal government had been expended in the prosecution, for him to have taken up a second trial.

In this connection Mr. Woolwine produced a letter from Frank P. Flint, commending the administration of the District Attorney's office, and saying:

"Any stockholder of the Los Angeles Investment Company who criticises the official conduct of Thomas Lee Woolwine with reference to the former officials of that company is doing him a grave injustice."

In summarizing the attacks of E. T. Earl, and refuting them, Mr. Woolwine said:

"He has closed down his hands on the conscience of more than one public official, but so long as I am District Attorney I prefer, as I have stated, to retain my American manhood. I have never been and do not propose to be controlled or dictated to by any newspaper or newspaper owner, or any other person on the face of the earth."

WARNING IN TIME.

Workers, Not Idlers, are Wanted in the Imperial Valley.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Aug. 26.—There will be plenty of work for cotton pickers in Imperial Valley this season, but there will be no room for hobos or others not inclined to work, according to an announcement by Sheriff C. M. Applestill today. The "move on" method of keeping hobos away from the valley is to be used.

"Imperial Valley cotton growers will require plenty of help," declared Sheriff Applestill, "but they don't want to be bothered with idlers. It will be useless for hobos to make Imperial Valley their Mecca this year. This is a country for workers only and those who are willing to labor can make good wages picking cotton."

The statement followed the receipt of reports from Arizona and Southern California points that numerous tramps are headed in this direction in the hope of obtaining an easy living by hovering around the camps of cotton pickers.

UNDERWOOD IS DEBATE TARGET

Revenue Bill Amendment is Signal for Attack.

Alabaman in Bitter Reply to Other Senators.

Proposal to Lower the Tax Exemption Defeated.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A proposal to lower the present income tax exemption, written into the administration revenue bill by the Senate Finance Committee and then stricken out when House leaders indicated they would not accept it, was voted down, 31 to 19, by the Senate tonight, when Senator Underwood offered it as an amendment.

Discussion of the amendment was marked by a bitter exchange between Democratic Senators in charge of the bill, and Senator Underwood, author of the present tariff law, and who, as Democratic leader of the House, had a prominent part for several years in framing revenue legislation. Chairman Simmons of the Finance Committee reminded the Alabama Senator that it was a long standing Senate practice for Senators to stand by the decisions of their party caucus, and Senator Stone, also a member of the committee, declared Senator Underwood deserved severe censure for his attitude toward the bill.

"Is the Senate degenerated to a point where the individual Senators must take orders from those who serve on committees because their constituents have kept them in the Senate for many years?" declared Senator Underwood.

"I do not recognize the right of any member to dictate to me. If that be treason, make the most of it. No man can question my loyalty to the Democratic party in victory or defeat."

The amendment, which would have lowered the exemption by $1000, making the normal income tax apply to incomes of $3000 for married persons and $2000 for unmarried persons, received the support of only five Democratic Senators. They were Senators Bankhead, Hardwick, Lane, O'Gorman and Underwood.

"HEROICS," CHARGES STONE.

In his denunciation of Senator Underwood, Senator Stone coupled the exemption amendment with the Alabama Senator's declaration that the proposed dyestuffs tariff is undemocratic. The Senator's attitude toward the bill, he said, savored of "heroics." Senator Underwood replied to that by saying if his conduct in the matter was to be accepted as a proper basis of party criticism of him, he was willing hereafter to stand alone.

"You dare to lecture me," said the former House leader, "because I dare to repudiate a part of your bill that is a stench in the nostrils of the Democratic party. I approve of the Finance Committee's legislation on this bill in the main, but I know no reason why the Finance Committee should see fit to arrogate to itself the right to dictate to others."

Mr. Underwood said it was conceded that no binding resolution had been adopted by the caucus on the bill and that if there had been one and he had agreed to it, he would stand by it and "bow his neck." He had bowed unwillingly recently, he said, to a binding caucus on the immigration bill. The revenue bill, he declared, had been "concocted by certain gentlemen in the Senate trying to dictate to this side of the House what it shall do."

Senator Williams, in charge of the income tax section of the bill, opposed the Underwood amendment and Senators Oliver, O'Gorman and Thomas spoke in favor of it.

When the Senator resumed discussion of the revenue bill, Senator Gronna, Republican, ridiculed the Democratic National Convention declaration for economy, charging that the party had piled up appropriations for the last fiscal year greater than any other in the country's history, except during the Civil War.

OTHERS MATTERS.

Senator Owen made another futile effort in the Senate today to get consideration of the corrupt practices bill. Senator Smoot, Republican, objected, but Senator Borah declared the Republican leaders could bind him to no legislative programme and said he desired to vote on both the corrupt practices and immigration bills before adjournment.

Senators Reed and Saulsbury, Democrats, declared they would aid Senator Owen in an effort to get the corrupt practices bill before the Senate and that precipitated a flutter over the Democratic programme for adjournment next week.

The conference report on amendments to the Federal Reserve Act permitting national banking associations to establish foreign agencies, liberalizing discount regulations and permitting member banks in small towns to handle insurance was agreed to by the Senate today. The House is expected to accept it within a few days.

GAIN IN FRUIT SHIPMENTS.

In Addition, Values This Year Have Been Much Higher.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 26.—Shipments of California fruit for the present season are 9444¾ cars, against a total of 7124¼ on the like date last season, which set a record of fruit shipments for the year of 16,000. An increase in the shipments of pears, totaling already 3285 cars, is responsible in part for the gain, as is the earlier season.

Values this year have been exceedingly high, the cars averaging, it is said, around $1500, against a normal of $1200.

MILKED OF MONEY THROUGH LETTERS

WRITTEN EVIDENCE TO BE INTRODUCED IN COURT.

Testimony Before Judge Landis Shows How Millionaire Morrison was Preyed Upon by Tricksters and Blackmailers Through Aid of Crooks in Underworld.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Sixty letters found in the receivers' search of the old Morrison home will be introduced in the bankruptcy proceedings against Edward W. Morrison, the eccentric and aged millionaire whose case is being heard before Judge E. M. Landis, in the Federal Court. According to officers about the Federal Building today the letters will show how detectives have preyed on the old man's credulity and through the aid of crooks and characters of the underworld have milked him of his money.

During the hearing in court, James R. Ward, until recently Morrison's attorney, drew the anger of the court when he intimated that he might fight to retain the $2,000,000 worth of real estate given to him by the eccentric millionaire last April.

When the two Burnstein girls, adopted recently by Morrison, refused to accept service of subpoenas, Judge Landis ordered his deputies to break down the doors of the Morrison home and bring them into court.

Explorer Reiterates Confidence in the Existence of Crockerland.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Rear-Admiral Robert E. Peary reiterates his confidence in the existence of Crockerland and believes that he saw it in July, 1906. The admiral's statement, telegraphed to the Tribune from his summer place in Maine, was called forth by the fact that Ensign Fitzhugh Green, the naval officer assigned to the MacMillan Crockerland Arctic expedition, made no report of whether the expedition found Crockerland in announcing to the Navy Department his safe arrival at Copenhagen, August 19.

After quoting from his original narrative of his expedition, the story of his first view of what he believed to be Crockerland, Admiral Peary said:

"It may be that MacMillan and I were misled by the nearly permanent clouds of condensation over persisting lanes of water. Or unusual refraction, which occurs in the Arctic regions, may have lifted into view land that was in reality well below the horizon, and my estimate of the distance of Crockerland may have been too moderate.

"It will be well to await the completion of Stefansson's discoveries before dismissing Crockerland."

DEFEAT SCHOOL BONDS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, Aug. 26.—The Fullerton Union High School district Friday defeated the proposed $35,000 bond issue, $25,000 of which was to be used for building an addition to the manual training building and $10,000 for a swimming pool. The Fullerton Chamber of Commerce indorsed the bond issue, but this city gave a big majority vote against the proposition, while Olinda, Brea and Yorba Linda voted in favor of the bonds. The total vote of the district was 143 for the bonds and 417 against.

Commencing September 1 a special maid service will be installed at the Kendis apartments, 1710 W. Sixth st., one of many exceptional conveniences provided for the occupants of this popular house.—[Advertisement.

WIT AND HUMOR ON THE BORDER.

Amusing Incidents Seen in the Soldiers' Camps.

Musical Soldier is Sentenced for Forgetting Place.

Was Caught Playing a Piano for Captain's Wife.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Aug. 18.—Here are a few of the amusing incidents which take place on the Texas border daily. Incidents which members of all guards participate in creating:

A great many guardsmen—particularly the volunteers — have some difficulty in memorizing military regulations. A recruit who was walking guard duty the other night was approached by a sergeant and a new guard squad. It was the recruit's duty to halt the squad within fifty feet of his station. He failed to do it and the sergeant questioned him.

"Why didn't you halt us?" demanded the sergeant.

"Halt you? What in —ll did I want to halt you for you're twenty-five minutes late already!"

IMPATIENT FOR PAY.

The State pay of part of the Massachusetts contingent had been held up for several days. Men in the signal corps became impatient because their camp is a long walk, seven miles or more from El Paso. A bugler made a mistake one day and it almost resulted in mutiny. He stepped out in front of the headquarters tent and began to blow the pay-day call.

An ex-regular, who was familiar with all the bugle calls was washing his breeches at the farther end of the camp. He swung the wet garment over his head and yelled, "Hurrah! It's pay day." This announcement brought a rush of half-clothed men from all the tents within hearing. Just as they were well started on their way to headquarters, some one informed the bugler of his mistake and he changed to school call. The Spanish instructor was waiting for his class!

CLASS DISTINCTION.

One of the hardships of military class distinction was painfully demonstrated in Marfa, Tex., recently. The Sixth United States Cavalry and part of the Texas militia are on border duty there. Lawrence Bolton, a private in the Texas guard and well known throughout the State and nation as a composer, was sitting in the parlor of the St. George Hotel playing the piano when Mrs. F. H. Wynne, wife of Capt. Wynne, entered the room. Mrs. Wynne is also a musician of note and had often appeared in musicales in which Mr. Bolton had taken part.

Quite unconscious of military regulations they drifted into a musical talkfest and Mr. Bolton played several of Mrs. Wynne's favorites. In the meantime a member of the regular army stopped in the door long enough to see the private chatting with the captain's wife with all the assurance of a social equal. The incident was reported to the commandant and Mr. Bolton was tried for being out of place and sentenced to ten days kitchen police.

AMUSING SITUATION.

Many of the guardsmen have come to the border with their imagination distorted and eager for immediate combat. This condition has caused a number of amusing situations.

A truck train, which had left Marfa, Tex., for Presidio, Tex., ninety-two miles away, was driven by several new chauffeurs recently arrived from northern cities.

The trip is a hard one and in times past has been fraught with danger from possible attacks by wandering bands of outlaw Mexicans.

One of the drivers who had heard of the dangers surrounding the trip wandered away from camp the first night en route. Upon his return just before dawn he was halted by a guard. Believing the man to be a Mexican—and fearing he had stumbled into a Mexican camp—he turned and ran. The guard, mistaking him also for a Mexican, fired. The driver dropped down behind a cactus bush and the little camp was suddenly turned into a pitched battle. Barricaded behind trucks the firing continued until the driver recovered his befuddled senses enough to identify his surroundings.

The skirmish resulted in a report in Marfa to the effect that the truck train had been captured by Mexicans, the guards disarmed and imprisoned in an adobe hut and the trucks and supplies confiscated.

EXCITEMENT IN EL PASO.

There was wild excitement in El Paso a short time ago when Gen. Bell was notified that 150 Mexican cavalrymen had crossed the border forty miles east of here, in what is known as the Big Bend country.

A battalion of soldiers was ordered out immediately; loaded into motor trucks and rapidly carried to the place. Incidentally fifteen newspaper representatives from different sections of the United States brought up the rear. Everyone anticipated action.

It was a long, hard ride in the middle of the night and when they arrived at the top of the last hill the sight that greeted their eyes was a peaceful, grazing herd of Texas cattle. Rolled up in sleeping bags near by were three sunburned, sleepy Americans. They were also profane. They had brought their cattle out of Mexico to save them from hungry bandits and a youthful militiaman from the north had visualized the group as mounted soldiers.

The restraint under which the American army has patrolled the border for the past two years had become sort of second-nature with the regulars. The order not to fire under any but the most dangerous circumstances has given rise to many a joke.

Several regular army men and a couple of citizens were traveling by truck train from Columbus, N. M., shortly after the Villa raid. They stopped within a few feet of the international line to rest. All were heavily armed. One of the regulars said, "What could we do if a bunch of Mexicans threw rotten eggs or bad tomatoes at us?"

The civilian from Indiana jumped up and said, "I could shoot—I'm not in the army."

Visitors from the north come to El Paso impressed with many vivid tales of the dangers that lurk in Juarez for Americans. A traveling man who was making his first visit to Texas confidentially whispered to the hotel clerk that he was going to take a chance and look Juarez over and in case he didn't come back would the clerk be kind enough to see that his family got this package? Several hours later he returned, looking a trifle sheepish and in an apologetic tone asked for the package, at the same time announcing that Juarez was as safe as Kokomo on a Sunday morning. He tore open the envelope and hastily destroyed the paper. He had made his will!

Back in Amarillo, Tex., the barbering business was getting prosaic so E. H. Rowe suggested to his wife one morning that shaves and hair cuts should be in demand in El Paso with 50,000 soldiers stationed there. They arrived in the border city Friday morning and Rowe decided to go to Juarez that afternoon and see the bull fight. It was eight days later before he recrossed the international bridge. Rowe had been disappointed in the bull fight and while seeking consolation at a Mexican bar had inadvertently referred to the fighting proclivities of his nation. The remark irritated a Mexican bystander and when Rowe awakened the next morning he was told by Mayor Prieta that he had decided to lessen the pugnacious urge of at least one American by a process of grave digging. They needed graves anyway, he said, because twenty of his countrymen had been false to the present de facto government.

So Rowe, who came down to shave and trim the varicolored locks of the brave soldiers of the United States Army, remained to dig graves for Mexican traitors!

FATE OF A TROOPER.

One night when Capt. James McDade was returning to his camp from El Paso he noticed a uniformed man stretched out in a drunken stupor near the dividing line of the Massachusetts and Michigan camps. He approached the Michigan outpost and pointed out the soldier. "Why don't you arrest that man?" he asked.

"He's not in my territory—he's on the Massachusetts side."

Capt. McDade stepped over to the Massachusetts guard and put the same question up to him.

"He's in Michigan territory," was the reply.

"Well, I can't help whose territory he's in," said the captain, "he can't lie out here all night. I'm a Massachusetts officer and we'll have to put him under arrest."

Together they aroused the man from his drunken slumber.

"What guard do you belong to?"

"Sh'Massachusetts—besh blankety-blank guard in the whole blankety-blank Union."

"What regiment?"

"Sh'Eighth—besh blankety-blank regshiment in the whole blankety-blank guard."

"Oh, yes," murmured the captain. "What's your company?"

"Sh'Company C—besh company in the whole blankety-blank brigade."

"Do you know your captain's name?"

"Y'bet I do—Jimmie McDade—besh blankety-blank captain in whole d——Sh'National Guard!"

"I'm sorry, my man, after such a glowing tribute, but I'm afraid you'll get fined ten days' pay for this little spree."

He did.

HOPE OF FOREIGNERS IS IN INTERVENTION.

Carranza's Latest Edict but One Among a Number Intended to Heap Burdens on Those Who Have Developed the Resources of Mexico and Given Employment to Thousands of its People.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONTEREY (Mex.) Aug. 15.—It is practically the unanimous opinion of the financial and business element of Mexico, irrespective of nationality or domestic political affiliation, that the only hope for foreign investments in this country is American intervention. Just now, it seems to be a far-removed eventuality, but that the solution of the distressing problems by that time is bound to come in time is generally regarded by the intelligent and thinking class of Mexico as about as certain as anything that has not already transpired could be. The de facto government is surviving longer than many people predicted, but its power and influence is merely nominal.

Gen. Venustiano Carranza and the small coterie of inexperienced men whom he has gathered around him as leaders have made no progress in establishing a stable government. No matter what denials may be made outside of Mexico, it is an easily-proved fact that the government authorities in the City of Mexico and in the different States where Carranza is in control are feeding the people on anti-American sop to a degree that forbodes no good for the future welfare of the people from across the Rio Grande when they may seek to return to this country to look after their abandoned property interests. The ignorant classes are being told that from now on foreigners are to be debarred from the country; that "Mexico is for the Mexicans." This doctrine is not only being preached in the newspapers of the different cities, but it is the general talk wherever one travels.

TO HURT INVESTMENTS.

No well-informed man in Mexico doubts for a moment that Carranza will go as far as he can towards driving foreign investments out of Mexico, and that he will put up the bars against such outside ownership of mines, oil lands and other property in this country, to the greatest possible degree. There is a group of ambitious Mexicans who have risen to power from poverty and oblivion during the last few years as a result of the revolutionary upheavals, and certain members of this coterie have made no secret of the fact that they plan to obtain control of some of the large properties in the republic that are now owned by American and British interests. It is stated that when Carranza gets through issuing his more or less confiscatory decrees and has finished heaping burdensome taxes upon these foreign holdings their present owners will be ready enough to sell out at a sacrifice and quit the country.

The covetous eyes of the Carranze government and of Mexicans of more or less wealth who are in accord with the de facto regime are just now cast upon the rich oil wells and producing fields of the Tampico region. It was the policy of the large foreign interests operating in that coastal territory to hold aloof from the various revolutionary uprisings and political changes that the country has experienced during the five years. Notwithstanding this attitude of neutrality on the part of these outside investors and developers, they are to be driven out of the country if Carranza has his way about it. The recent decree which was issued by the de facto government, providing that all stockholders of companies operating in Mexico, must be citizens of this country, is not retroactive, and it was authoritatively stated that it could therefore not affect the existing investment interests here. In practical effect, however, it is just as drastic as though it applied directly to these interests as they now stand. It means that there can be no sale or transfer of stock in existing corporations doing business in Mexico except to citizens of this country. Most of the larger American and British oil companies that are operating in the Tampico region are constantly selling and transferring stock. Hereafter, all purchasers must be Mexicans.

FOREIGN BAITING.

Foreign-baiting has become a real sport with Carranza. His de facto government seems to obtain real enjoyment in harassing American and other foreign investors in every possible way. Printed copies of a recent decree issued by the de facto government have been distributed here. It provides that all foreigners who are employed in exploring or exploiting the natural resources of the country, such as oil lands, timber tracts, mineral and agricultural lands, shall renounce their right to protection by their respective foreign governments and to this extent they shall be citizens of Mexico. It is officially stated that this decree is retroactive, and that it applies to all American and other foreign companies and individuals operating in the oil fields, mines and other industries. The provision of the decree means, in effect, that every foreigner in Mexico shall become a citizen of the country in order to retain his property holdings in this country.

The Carranza government is playing no favorite, as between the United States and Great Britan, when it comes to dealing with the investment interests of citizens of those countries in Mexico. It is learned that the Lord Cowdray syndicate has made a direct protest to the British government against the burdensome and confiscatory policy which the authorities are exercising over its oil and other large holdings in Mexico. The de facto government has served notice upon Lord Cowdray and associates that it plans to nullify the fifty-one-year contract, which they hold for operating the National Tehuantepec Railroad. This line spans the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, connecting the port of Salina Cruz, on the Pacific, with the port of Puerto Mexico, formerly called Coatzacoalcos, on the Atlantic.

CANADIAN SYNDICATE.

The Canadian syndicate, which expended upwards of $100,000,000 gold in the construction of a great hydro-electric plant at Necaxa, the construction of an extensive system of electric power transmission lines, the purchase and modernizing of tramway system and electric light plant in the City of Mexico and Puebla, all operated under the names of the Mexico Light and Power Company, the Mexico Tramways Company, Ltd., and other subsidiaries, is being made to feel the effects of the anti-foreign sentiment of the de facto government. According to a recent report received here the Carranza government used some excuse for taking over part of these extensive British holdings.

It is the expressed opinion of Britishers, who are still in Mexico, that their own country will enter upon the job of house-cleaning in Mexico as soon as the great war, in which it is now engaged is over. At the time of the beginning of the revolutionary period here British investments in Mexico aggregated approximately $600,000,000 gold. It was estimated that the investments of German citizens amounted to about $200,000,000 gold, but the latter were chiefly in mercantile interests. The machinery and hardware trade of the country, both wholesale and retail, has been almost exclusively in the hands of the Germans for many years. American and British investments are largely confined to oil, mines, smelters, manufacturing and farms and ranches.

COMPANY ORDERED TO DROP "CILK."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The Federal Trade Commission today issued an order directing the Circle Cilk Company of Philadelphia to discontinue using the word "cilk" in reference to any of its products other than in real silk in connection with sales, trade marks and advertising matters. The commission held that the use of the word "cilk" for products of mercerized sea island cotton thread was deceptive. The decision is looked upon as a precedent.

Mr. Bacon Fried.

who had been on the stump advocating the election of Gov. Hughes, subscribing to the same platform and pledging his support if elected to the Senate, was not invited to participate in any of the meetings of Gov. Hughes, or asked to contribute his influence to his election. Now that Gov. Hughes has left the State, it is the duty of this committee to declare itself and define its position and make it appear once for all to all the voters in California that the support of Gov. Hughes by all Progressives as well as all other independent voters is desired and expected and that this committee disclaims any participation in any seeming discrimination against Progressives and that it assures the people that Gov. Hughes was absolutely free of any intention to make any discrimination between people of different factions."

When Bacon finished speaking, former Judge A. F. St. Sure of Alameda offered the resolution which the committee finally adopted. Bacon put Frank Caughey of Ukiah in the chair and offered his two substitutes.

MIXON'S STATEMENT.

Vice-Chairman Mixon of the Campaign Committee issued a statement after the meeting saying that Bacon's rejected resolution "was not based on fact," and was out of order.

"The Campaign Committee very frankly and earnestly indorses the last portion of the resolution," said Mr. Mixon's statement, "wherein it states that 'Gov. Hughes welcomes the support of all persons in California,' and it may be further stated that every committee, including the State Central Committee and the Campaign Committee, welcomes the support of the entire electorate of California. . . . Every effort of the committee has been to further the election of known Republican candidates of whom we count Gov. Hughes the most important. With the same energy we have also pledged ourselves, as servants of the Republican party, to give Gov. Hughes supporters who will be true to the party we represent."

CAP SHEAF ADDED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 26.—Adding the cap sheaf to the Republican indorsements of the candidacy of Willis H. Booth for the United States Senate, the Executive Committee of the State Central Committee met this morning, and, by a vote of 29 to 1, passed resolutions condemning the attempt of Gov. Johnson, a registered Progressive, to secure the Republican nomination to the Senate through trick and device.

Strong resolutions were also passed indorsing the part taken by the Campaign Committee of the State Central Committee in seeking to secure the nomination of a genuine Republican for the Senate in order that the integrity of the Republican party in the State may be observed. The only dissenting vote came from a San Francisco member of the committee who has succumbed to local pressure brought to bear by the Finn-Daroux ring.

Genuine Republican sentiment has reached a higher mark here than at any other time during the campaign. Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan issued a statement this afternoon in which he predicted that Booth will carry Northern California by 35,000.

BELIEF OF CROCKER.

William H. Crocker, Republican National Committeeman, expressed the opinion that the result of the primary will show that the Republican party is reunited, north and south. He said that he felt certain that all but a few professional politicians among the Progressives have returned to the ranks and that they will lend a powerful support to the election of Gov. Hughes for President, Mr. Booth for Senator and a solid delegation of eleven members to the National House of Representatives.

Francis V. Keesling, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, said that he is assured by Representatives from the northern and central parts of the State that the north will do more than what might be deemed its share to nominate a genuine Republican for the Senate and a Congressional and legislative ticket which will truly represent the stalwart Republican spirit of California.

W. F. Mixon, vice-chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee, summed up the situation by saying: "Booth by 40,000 and six genuine Republicans from the northern Congressional districts. I desire to predict that next Tuesday will be a hard day for bogus Republicans. If the south meets us half-way it will be a real triumph."

The Women's Republican State Central Committee held its second meeting yesterday afternoon at the Hotel St. Francis. The meeting was a triumph. Over 400 women attended and wildly cheered for Willis H. Booth, when the chairman of the organization, Helen K. Williams, announced that Mr. Booth was among the list of candidates indorsed by the Executive Committee.

A brilliant address by National Committeeman William H. Crocker was made the feature of the afternoon. The Republican national committeeman recited once more the story of how he got into politics.

Crocker said, in part: "When Justice Hughes came to California he became convinced that it would not be proper to permit the G.O.P. Presidential candidate to be annoyed by having Gov. Johnson preside at the San Francisco meeting. A request, almost a demand, was made of me that this be done, but I was obliged to say to Chester N. Rowell that I hoped he would not embarrass me in the eyes of the Republican party by insisting upon a recognition of the Governor. I told him that I would agree to the elimination of all candidates. The whole thing has blown over now. Friction has disappeared, everybody is happy and no ill-feeling remains."

The following officers were nominated and elected at the meeting Friday.

Helen K. Williams (chairman,) Mrs. Rodney W. Richardson, Mrs. Abbie E. Krebbs, Mrs. I. Lowenberg, Mrs. William T. Sesnon, Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, Mrs. I. L. Rosenthal, Mrs. Ella M. Sexton, Mrs. Harvey Dale, Mrs. George D. Shadburne, Jr., Mrs. Alexander McBean, vice-chairman; Miss Mollie Connors, secretary; Mrs. Henry Gleeson, treasurer; Mrs. Florence Richmond, chairman County Campaign Committee; Miss Virginia V. Deal, chairman Reception Committee; Mrs. James King Steele, State organizer; Mrs. Bradley V. Sargent, secretary Campaign Committee.

Over 200 names were added to the Campaign Committee at yesterday's meeting. It is the intention of the officers to organize each county of the State and to follow along the lines of the Men's Republican State Central Committee. Departments of political science, parliamentary law and lobbying will be added.

FREDERICKS EXPOSES JOHNSON.

The following letter sent to Walter R. Bacon by Capt. John D. Fredericks of Los Angeles exposes the rudeness of Gov. Johnson to Mr. Hughes while he was in California:

August 25, 1916.

"Mr. W. R. Bacon,
Chairman Executive Committee,
California Republican State Central Committee, Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Cal.

"Dear Mr. Bacon: I have read the copy of resolutions which you are asking the executive committee to pass concerning the failure of Gov. Johnson and Presidential Candidate Hughes to meet while Mr. Hughes was in California.

"As I was largely responsible for the selection of the State Executive Committee, including yourself as chairman, I hope you will not take it amiss if I suggest to you that I believe such action on the part of the Republican committee would be a very serious blunder.

"Mr. Hughes was nominated by the Republican Convention. He is making his canvass by reason of that nomination. He was not nominated by the Progressive Convention, although they had an opportunity to make that nomination. They refused to do so. Afterwards, the Progressive committee indorsed the Republican nominee, and as Republicans we all rejoiced in that fact.

"When the question of Mr. Hughes's campaign in California came up, it was necessary for some one to handle that campaign. Who would naturally handle the campaign in California of a Republican candidate? Certainly the Republican State Committee, together with the Republican National Committeemen.

"When the Progressives indorsed Mr. Hughes, they indorsed a Republican. The Republican Committee, together with the Republican National Committeemen, accepted their responsibility, not in a spirit of arrogance, but in the realization of duty and took charge of the arrangements for his entertainment and speaking tour generally. This was right and proper, and could not have been otherwise.

"We recognized the indorsement of the Progressives, placed them on committees, but the right and the duty of leadership was ours, and we assumed it, and it is a matter of universal belief that a Republican candidate for President was never more splendidly handled than was Mr. Hughes in his trip throughout the State. His reception was enthusiastic, and all of the details were handled most magnificently. Throughout it all there has been no word spoken by any of the Republican organization which would indicate that we were endeavoring to eliminate Progressives, but, on the contrary, have sought for their cooperation and affiliation.

"The fact that Gov. Johnson did not meet Mr. Hughes when he was here in California was one which our committee regrets by reason of the lack of courtesy which the Governor of our great State exhibited towards a man occupying the exalted position which Mr. Hughes occupies, especially in view of the fact that Mr. Hughes's candidacy was approved and indorsed by Gov. Johnson's own party.

"Mr. Hughes came to the Viriginia Hotel, where Gov. Johnson was stopping while he was there. He was our visitor, the guest of the State of California. The courtesies were all with us. The man who assumes to represent California as its Governor should have the bigness and broadness, under those circumstances, to have extended the common courtesies which a man extends to a guest in his own house, for California is the house and home of the Governor of the State.

"As a matter of politics and for the purpose of securing the votes of extreme Progressives, it might be wished that Gov. Johnson had been more courteous, but we as Republicans and our splendid State and National Committee, which had charge of his entertainment, have nothing to apologize for. The actions of those in charge of Mr. Hughes's entertainment were proper, dignified and courteous. There were in those action no spirit of resentment nor exclusion. They could not control Gov. Johnson's actions in refusing to extend the hand of California in greeting to the guest within its doors. So I think you would make a great mistake in presenting such a resolution. I am sure it would not be approved by the members of the committee, and I believe has been suggested to you by those who are unfriendly to the interests of the Republican party in the State of California. It has an appearance of an endeavor to permit Gov. Johnson to extricate himself from the very humiliating position in which his discourteous conduct has placed himself, and no Republican who has the interests of his party at heart can be interested in Gov. Johnson or his ambitions.

Yours very truly,
J. D. FREDERICKS."

CULBERSON LEADING IN TEXAS PRIMARY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DALLAS (Tex.) Aug. 26.—Senator Charles A. Culberson, known as the Wilson candidate, was leading former Gov. O. B. Colquitt by almost two to one in returns from 133 counties of the State early tonight from the run-off primary for the Democratic United States Senatorial nomination. With approximately half the vote counted at that hour, and with returns from the larger counties in, the standing was: Culberson, 89,079; Colquitt, 44,268.

A notable fact, from the returns received, is that Senator Culberson carried practically every German county in the State. It was in these sections he received such a vote as to enable him to catch up on the apparently overwhelming majority given his opponent by the larger counties and cities.

While one-half the State's vote was outstanding at 10 o'clock tonight, it was thought returns from the remaining counties could not materially change Senator Culberson's lead. This statement was based on the knowledge of the political standing of those sections yet to be heard from.

RAILROAD CONCESSION NULLIFIED BY CARRANZA.

Official Publication has Just been Made of Action of De Facto Government Which Affects a Syndicate of Americans — War Department to Repair Several Lines into Interior.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONTEREY (Mex.) Aug. 25.—Official publication has just been made of the nullification by the de facto government of a concession which was granted a syndicate of Americans during the latter period of the Diaz administration and which was renewed by the Huerta provisional government for the construction of a railroad from Salina Cruz, the Pacific terminus of the National Tehuantepec Railroad, to the port of Acapulco, a distance of about 200 miles. The fact that this concession carried a liberal subsidy to be paid by the government is given as the principal reason for its forfeiture.

Another concession for the construction of a railroad that was to run from San Geronimo, on the National Tehuantepec Railroad, to the city of Oaxaca, a distance of about 100 miles, has been cancelled by the de facto government. The holders of this concession were J. L. Grandison and Francisco Ramirez. It was granted to them during the Huerta regime.

The de facto government has taken no action in the matter of cancelling the concession which the Southern Pacific Company holds for extending its Pacific Coast line from Tepic to Guadalajara, thence to the City of Mexico. Under the original provisions of this concession the road should have been finished some time ago, but revolutionary conditions have made it impossible to carry out the contract.

Several other concessions for the construction of lines of railway in Mexico are held by American and British syndicates and it is expected that they will be materially modified if not nullified altogether by the Carranza government.

REPAIRS GOING ON.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EAGLE PASS (Tex.) Aug. 25.—Notwithstanding the apparently remote possibility of armed intervention in Mexico on the part of the United States, the War Department is going ahead with its plans for repairing the several lines of railway leading from border points and gulf ports to the interior portions of the republic and has adopted extensive plans for the quick assembling of the necessary equipment to move the troops in case a general invasion is ordered. Orders for railroad materials aggregating approximately $1,000,000 have been placed by the United States War Department, and these ties, bridge timbers and other things necessary in making repairs to the National Railways of Mexico are now being assembled at the different border points, particularly at Eagle Pass, Laredo, Brownsville and El Paso.

The War Department recently formed and is maintaining a complete organization at these border towns for taking charge of the Mexican lines should intervention be ordered. S. M. Felton, president of the Chicago Great Western, who was for several years prominently connected with the National Railways of Mexico, and J. N. Galbraith, also a former official of that system in Mexico, and who is now general manager of the Pierce Oil Corporation in Mexico, are giving the War Department their assistance in the work of arranging for taking over the National Railways of Mexico and the repair of these lines should future developments make a military invasion of that country necessary.

Bartlett is Appreciated.

Alfred L. Bartlett, the Republican candidate for re-election to the State Senate from the Sixty-third District, who made an excellent record in the Legislature, received a highly complimentary letter from A. J. Hill, County Counsel, following adjournment of the State body a year ago. In the letter Mr. Hill said:

"I take this opportunity of expressing to you, in behalf of this office, our sincerest thanks for your untiring and energetic efforts in all legislation looking to the benefit of Los Angeles county and Southern California. I know of no member of the lower house who was of greater assistance in all local matters for Southern California than you, and deem it my duty as well as my pleasure to thank you most heartily for what you did for the south. Inasmuch as the Legislature has now adjourned, I hope that our gratitude will not be measured by the definition of 'a keen sense of appreciation of favors yet to come.'"

Lostutter's Fine Record.

L. L. Lostutter, Republican candidate for Congress in the Ninth District, is bringing his campaign to a close. He has covered the entire territory, much of it being a house-to-house canvass. Mr. Lostutter and his friends are pointing to his excellent record as a Republican and the things he has accomplished for the party. He has been a delegate to three national conventions and served creditably in the California Legislature.

Many Fine Indorsements.

At the close of his campaign as a Republican candidate for Congress from the Tenth District, Capt. H. Z. Osborne last night said he is confident of receiving the nomination.

From every quarter encouraging returns are claimed by the Osborne-for-Congress Campaign Committee. Active on his committee and strongly indorsing him for Congress are such recognized men of affairs as George F. Bovard, president of the University of Southern California; Stoddard Jess, president of the First National Bank; four former presidents of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, more than half the directors of the Chamber of Commerce and representatives of twenty of the leading manufacturing concerns of the city and county. Capt. Osborne has been indorsed by the Sailors' and Soldiers' Republican League, by the Bolo Club (composed of Spanish War Veterans,) by organizations composed of members of all the patriotic organizations, the Apartment-house Association and a number of local improvement associations.

Before an audience that comfortably filled Trinity Auditorium, but that lacked the enthusiasm in evidence at meetings which Johnson addressed in the days in which he was making promises which he has failed to fulfill, Gov. Johnson last night delivered one of his characteristic speeches, in which he undertook to justify his action in seeking the nomination for United States Senator from the State of California on the regular Republican ticket.

The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Russ Avery, who then introduced former Lieut.-Gov. A. J. Wallace, who in turn introduced former Congressman and present Lieut.-Gov. W. D. Stephens. After which he introduced Gov. Johnson, who, after a carefully-prepared introduction, proceeded to tell his audience how in the last six years the State of California, through his administration of affairs, has been the wonder and the admiration of the world.

The speech, as a whole, consisted of a series of vociferous and glittering generalities, in which all the political and personal purity, economic and administrative wisdom and efficiency were ascribed to the conduct of affairs at Sacramento by the men who, as his personal appointees, have carried out his orders.

CLOSING SPEECHES IN BOOTH CANVASS.

CANDIDATE IS HEARD IN FOUR SOUTHERN CITIES.

In the Afternoon He Addresses Gathering at Santa Barbara Barbecue—In the Evening Talks in Hollywood, Pasadena and Alhambra—Arraigns Johnson.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Aug. 26.—Willis H. Booth, the only Republican candidate for United States Senator, wound up his primary campaign in Southern California tonight at Alhambra, Pasadena and Hollywood by an open attack upon Hiram Johnson, the usurper.

In the afternoon Mr. Booth addressed a mammoth gathering of Republicans of Santa Barbara and Ventura counties at Santa Barbara, where a barbecue was given. A hard drive to Los Angeles brought him in touch with the three meetings that marked the close of the southern campaign.

"Hiram Johnson, registered as a Progressive, has no right in a Republican primary," said Mr. Booth. "He is recognized nowhere as a Republican. He says he is not a Republican and is proud of it. If he were elected to the United States Senate he would rattle around for six years like a lost soul because he would be identified with neither the Republican nor the Democratic party and would be hopelessly marooned, braying in the wilderness to unresponsive ears.

"My opponent, who, registered as a Progressive, seeks the Republican nomination, is ready and willing to go to either party that offers him the most for his presence. He belongs to the Johnson party and to no other.

"At the outset of this campaign I told the people of California I would not resort to personal abuse, and I am not now hitting at individuals. I am standing for a principle and for California. It is my desire to see the people of this State elect that man United States Senator who will be able to do something for California at Washington and in so doing accomplish something for the nation, for what is done for California is done also for the country at large, because our interests are so delicately attuned to the sensitiveness of national impulse.

"Southern California, by tradition, by every right under the sun, is entitled to elect the next United States Senator.

"Gov. Johnson has charged me with having voted the Democratic ticket in 1910. It is a baseless charge. I never voted anything but the Republican ticket in my life and I never will.

"My conscience is clear as the close of the campaign is at hand. I have done nothing or said nothing in this canvass for which I need apologize. Self-respect and the respect of my neighbors are worth more to me than the nomination to be decided next Tuesday."

He declared he pledges the people of California that he has done nothing and will do nothing in politics that any self-respecting business man could not or would not do in the ordinary conduct of his business.

Political Brevities.

A rapid wind-up of the Wickliffe Matthews campaign for Assemblyman in the Sixty-first District has just been finished. Over 800 miles has been covered throughout the San Fernando Valley, with house-to-house visits by precinct workers, automobile parades and meetings.

Porter S. McNutt, a lawyer, who is a candidate for the Assembly in the Sixty-first District, declares that after a complete canvass of the district he feels his chance of nomination is excellent. He has always been a straight Republican.

R. G. Lamar, campaign manager for Thomas Lee Woolwine among the colored voters, said yesterday the candidate for District Attorney will receive 75 per cent. of the votes of the colored folks. He has made a canvass of the entire county and says Mr. Woolwine will unquestionably be elected at the primaries.

Milton Bryan spoke last night at the largest meeting yet held in Democratic county headquarters, No. 736 South Spring street. His talk was on national questions, with no mention of local politics. Yesterday afternoon the Old-timers' Club held its weekly meeting, James A. Craig, president, presiding.

George S. Patton, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, who is not opposed in the primaries, will open his campaign this week, after a conference in Sacramento. He will make a tour of the upper Sacramento Valley to the north boundary of the State and, returning, will tour the San Joaquin Valley.

William Greenwood, Republican candidate for the Assembly in the Seventy-fourth District, was unanimously indorsed Friday evening by the Executive Committee of the Seventy-fourth Assembly Republican Club.

Keeping Yourself Well

THE DAY OF WEAKNESS

After you have had a trying experience, or worn yourself out with an unusually hard day's work, your body is not in shape to resist disease. Its vitality is lowered, and the forces that resist infection are lacking in power.

Certain infections are always present. One of the worst of these is that of influenza. If your strength is lowered, it is likely to effect a lodgment, and no man can ever foretell what this will lead to.

For such periods of weakness you need a good tonic. Your heart should be strengthened, your circulation made more vigorous, your digestion toned up. The tonic that many thousands have found most satisfactory is Peruna. It has been used as often to ward off illnesses as to overcome them.

In the tablet form you may carry it with you, using it whenever you realize you are not up to full physical power. It's better to prevent than to be ill, and for such conditions Peruna is heartily recommended by thousands.

Manalin is the ideal laxative. It cleans the waste from the system, tones up the liver and helps you overcome the constipation habit. Safe, pleasant and effective. Liquid or candy tablets.

OFFICIAL NEWS OF THE BATTLES

Italians Advance in Fassa Alps and Travignolo.

Austrians are Repulsed in the Posina Valley.

British Airmen Drop Bombs at Kula Topolca.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Aug. 26 (via London.)—Advances were made in the Fassa Alps and in the Travignolo, Travanenzes and Rienz valleys today. No activity is reported in the Gorizia sector. The statement follows:

"In the Posina Valley we repulsed an attack against our positions on Monte Seluggio. The enemy suffered heavy losses and lost some prisoners. In the Fassa Alps our Alpine troops progressed toward the ridge of Monte Cauriol.

"Our vigorous pressure in the Travignolo Valley continues and a counter-attack against the northern slopes of Col Bricon was repulsed. In the Travanenzes Valley and the upper Boite we advanced along the slopes of Tofano III. On Monte Piano, at the head of the Rienz Valley, our troops carried a strong enemy trench beyond Forcella des Castrail, taking about thirty prisoners, including one officer. A counter-attack was checked promptly. On the remainder of the front there was some artillery activity.

"One of our air squadrons bombarded the railway stations at San Cristoforo, north of Lake Caldonazzo, causing heavy damage. All the machines returned except one. Above Gorizia, after lively air fighting, one of our aviators forced a hostile aeroplane to land in the neighborhood of Aisovizzo."

LONDON REPORT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A War Office statement tonight concerning operations around Saloniki says:

"There was only artillery activity on the Struma and Doiran fronts.

"Our aeroplanes bombed enemy camps at Kula Topolca and Prosenik, about six miles south of Demir-Hissar."

BRITISH STATEMENT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The British official statement says:

"The enemy bombarded our first line trenches along the greater portion of our front south of the Ancre at various times from 7 o'clock last night until early this morning.

"Covered by his artillery fire, he attacked our positions west of Guillemont between the quarries and the Montauban-Guillemont road. He did not reach our lines at any point and was repulsed with loss.

"Near Mouquetfarm we made further progress both on the east side of the farmstead and also southwest, where we have taken another 400 yards of the enemy trenches along the Courcelette-Thiepval road.

"The importance attributed by the enemy to the Thiepval sector of his line is shown by the great efforts he is making to recover his lost ground in the Leipsic salient. Recently he has been affecting a great concentration of guns on this area to oppose our progress and support his attacks.

"Last night he delivered an attack in considerable force on our new trenches south of Thiepval village. This attack was made by troops of the Prussian Guard and was preceded by a very heavy bombardment which was everywhere repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy and we maintained all our positions.

"The success of our defense is due largely to the steadiness and determined gallantry of the Wiltshires and of the Worcestershire men, who, in spite of being subjected to very heavy bombardment, steadily maintained their positions and repulsed the determined assaults of the enemy."

GREEKS PROTEST BULGAR AGGRESSION.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

SALONIKI, Aug. 26. (via Paris.)—A large popular meeting was held here last night to protest against the occupation of Greek territory by Bulgarians. It was followed by a demonstration for Venizelos and the singing of the national hymn. The crowd then marched to the headquarters of Gen. Sarrail, the Entente commander, and sang the "Marseillaise." A formal protest against the Bulgarian occupation was drawn up and left with the prefect of police.

Dispatches from Athens say the government is much concerned about the Liberal party manifestation which is being organized for Sunday and threatens to hold counter-demonstrations of supporters of the King.

SMUGGLE GERMAN MAIL, CHARGE IN NEW YORK.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Charged with smuggling into the country jewels valued at $25,000, Fred Uffelman, baggage agent of the Norwegian-American Steamship line, and Hans Edward Thompson, an employee of the company, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Houghton here yesterday. Department of Justice agents are investigating an additional charge that the men have been the principals in an "underground" system of mail communication between this country and Germany. In court no mention was made of the second charge.

The hearing, at the request of the prisoners' counsel, was postponed two weeks. The men were committed to the Tombs in default of $7500 bail each.

According to testimony at the hearing before Special Deputy Surveyor of the Port Smyth, large quantities of mail were safely dispatched through "the underground" route from the local branch of the Deutsche Bank of Berlin to Copenhagen and thence to Germany. Mail from Germany was received in the same way.

Existence of the contraband mail system was confirmed at the hearing by Hugo Schmidt, representative of the Deutsche Bank here. He admitted that Uffelman had acted as special messenger and that he had paid him $100 for his services.

The alleged conspirators are said to number a dozen. The arrests of six others, one a woman, is expected soon. Government agents declare that besides breaking the customs and mail laws, the band violated neutrality regulations by obtaining false passports.

RURAL GERMANY MUST SHARE FOOD WITH CITY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 26, 3:50 p.m.—Adolph von Batocki, president of the German Food Regulation Board, has issued an appeal to the women of rural Germany to divide their food with the women and children of the towns and cities, says a Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam today.

Herr von Batocki in his appeal says the harvest this year is, in general, abundant and that the cattle have recovered from the effects of the fodder scarcity of last winter, caused by the failure of crops.

"But with the maintenance of production," he adds, "all is not done. The produce must be rightly distributed to those who require it.

"Millions of soldiers are engaged in the hardest of warfare. They must be well and abundantly fed. Hundreds of thousands lie wounded in the hospitals and need abundant good food. Other millions of men and women in big towns and mines also are working loyally for victory. They wish, like you, to have enough to eat in order to be able to work.

"Both for the soldiers and for those who fight in workmen's clothes we must provide nourishment. People on the land must give for that purpose all they can dispense with in their own households.

"Restrictions everywhere are necessary and all the more necessary the longer the war lasts. These restrictions must be increased for rural households.

"Anyone living on the land who consumes even half a litre of milk or a quarter of a pound more of butter or even an egg more than is absolutely necessary sins against the Fatherland."

WOMAN NATIONAL LEADER GUEST OF EXPOSITION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 26.—Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles of Los Angeles, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs of America, was the guest of honor today at the Panama-California International Exposition. Hundreds of San Diego club women, Los Angeles club women who accompanied Mrs. Cowles here, and tourist women who were in the city, honored their leader at the luncheon given for her at the Cristobal cafe and at the pretty garden party given in the afternoon in the Leap Year Court by the women's board of the exposition.

Mrs. Cowles and her party went sightseeing through the exposition at 1 o'clock. She was the guest of honor at a luncheon in the Cristobal, where 200 club women, representing the twelve clubs of San Diego and vicinity, and club women of Los Angeles, were guests. Mrs. Ernest Cleverdon was toastmistress, and in her introductory remarks spoke of the get-together spirit of the women of the twentieth century which had prompted the formation of women's clubs.

Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, who is an honorary vice-president of the women's board of the exposition from Los Angeles, extolled the exposition and its builders.

Mrs. C. C. Stanton of Los Angeles responded to a toast as "a neighbor of San Diego," and referred to the bonds that unite San Diego and Los Angeles.

Mrs. Matthew Robertson of Los Angeles spoke of the exposition and paid a pretty tribute to Mrs. Davidson. She referred to the loss of the Los Angeles club women of Mrs. Davidson, who formerly was an officer of Ebell, and said their loss was San Diego's gain.

BRITISH AUXILIARY LOST IN NORTH SEA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The torpedoing in the North Sea of a British naval auxiliary, with the loss of twenty-three men, was announced officially today.

Eighty-seven men were saved. The torpedoed vessel was the armed boarding steamer Duke of Albany. The announcement follows:

"The British armed boarding steamer Duke of Albany was torpedoed and sunk in the North Sea on Thursday by an enemy submarine. The commander and twenty-two men were lost. Eleven officers and twenty-six men of other ratings were saved."

RUSSIANS PRESSING TURKS IN ASIA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, Aug. 26 (via London.)—The Russians are pressing the advantage recently gained over the Turks in Southern Turkish Armenia, according to today's official statement, which says:

"On the line extending from the town of Kygi to Lake Van stubborn fighting continues. Our troops, after having occupied the town of Mush, advanced to the ridge of Kurst Dagu, where we captured a number of prisoners.

"In the direction of Mosul we continue to pursue the remnants of the Fourth Turkish Division."

MAN WHO SUNK THE LUSITANIA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Stifts Tidente of Ribe, Denmark, is quoted in a Reuter dispatch from Copenhagen as saying the commander of the submarine which sank the Lusitania was Capt. Max Valentine, son of the dean of Sondersburg Cathedral. Capt. Valentine, this newspaper says, has been decorated with a number of orders since the sinking of the liner, including the Iron Cross of the first class and the Hohenzollern House order with swords, a special distinction which is the personal gift of the German Emperor.

DASH OVER BELGIUM BY BRITISH AIRMEN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Aug. 26.—British aeroplanes have made another dash over Belgium, on this occasion penetrating to the vicinity of Namur, forty-six miles southeast of Brussels, and bombarding German airship sheds. One aeroplane is missing. An official account of these missions says:

"Early Friday morning an attack was carried out by naval aeroplanes upon enemy airship sheds near Namur. The sheds were successfully bombarded, two of them were hit, but due to low-lying clouds, it was not possible to observe the damage done. One of our machines failed to return."

SPANISH APPROVE PORTUGAL'S ENTRY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The national convention of the Spanish Reformist party says a Havas dispatch from Oviedo, has decided to send a commission headed by Melquiades Alvarez, the reformist leader, to Lisbon to express the party's approval of Portugal's intervention in the war. The commission, the dispatch adds, will then proceed to Paris to give the Entente allies assurance of Spanish sympathies. The convention decided also to begin a campaign in favor of closer relations between Spain and the Entente powers.

MAJ. MORAHT IS STILL OPTIMISTIC.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Aug. 26 (via Sayville.)—Notwithstanding the number of German positions which have been captured by the French and British, the corps of the Somme front, Maj. Moraht, military critic of the Tageblatt, says the Entente allies are no nearer to breaking through the German line than when the offensive was inaugurated. "If the French aviators will take accurate observations, he writes, "they will discover the same number of fresh German positions as have been taken by the Anglo-French troops."

BUSINESS FRONTAGE
At Residence Property Prices

Business property, properly located and conservatively priced, offers one of the best and safest avenues for profitable investment. This is proven by past history everywhere.

Mr. Chas. I. D. Looff, one of America's foremost amusement experts, is building the finest and largest Amusement Pier in this country at Santa Monica.

Other developments in process here promise to make this the most popular beach resort in Southern California. Directly across from this great Amusement Pier you can today buy the choicest business property at residence property prices—and present prices are bound to soar as development progresses.

Let us send an illustrated Booklet Free.

The opportunity for profitable investment is absolutely unique. Every element for profit production is already established or in process; and the location of the property is most strategic. From many standpoints it is impossible of duplication.

Only comparatively few people are going to be able to take advantage of this unusual investment situation, because the most desirable of this property is necessarily limited. The opportunity certainly warrants your immediate investigation.

Still Needs Daily Fish Diet.

Big Ben,
Avalon's pet seal, favorite of tourists and photographers, who was again reported dead but who continues to lord it over his Seal Rock colony.

Exaggerated.

OFTEN "DEAD AND BURIED," BIG BEN'S MUCH ALIVE.

Citizens of Avalon and hundreds of tourists stopping there are surprised at the publication of the false report of the death of Big Ben, Avalon's pet seal.

Despite his many newspaper burials, however, the big pet of Avalon still lives and of late has even abandoned his old habit of returning to Seal Rocks each night to the colony of which he is the leader in order to accept the many attentions showered upon him by summer tourists.

Ben appeared as usual yesterday for his breakfast of flying fish, a dainty which he enjoys more than any other sea food. His entire diet consists of fish, nothing in the way of land products tempting him in the least.

Since flying fish are in great demand at present for bait, Ben is limited to three a morning, which is hardly a mouthful for the huge bull, who finishes his meal on albacore or whatever other fresh fish might be on hand. He will not touch fish that has been dead more than fifteen hours. He eats out of a person's hand, using as much care in taking the meat as a well-trained dog. He does not hesitate to flop up on the pier at any time of day before a big crowd to show off and be petted, and especially likes to be photographed. He will pose in any position and has been used successfully in many moving-picture productions.

Ever since Catalina has been inhabited Ben has paid at least two daily visits, one in the morning and one in the evening, to Avalon to feed. Although he remains at Avalon permanently at the present time, it was formerly his custom to swim up from Seal Rocks, five miles distant, where the seal colony of the island holds forth. The only time he absents himself is during the breeding season, when he even cancels his two daily visits.

Ben is blind in one eye, and has been so ever since the oldest inhabitant can remember. Fishermen estimate his age at somewhere between 75 and 80 years.

According to a local resident who saw the seal found dead at Long Beach yesterday which was reported to be the Avalon pet, there was no comparison between the two.

Ben is a bull, and leader of all seals inhabiting Catalina. The Long Beach seal was a female, was not blind and was only about half as big as Ben.

CROP OF SPEED FINES STOPPED.

Suburban Officers Poach on City Property, Warns Police Chief.

The speed harvest of suburban constables and justices of the peace is to be stopped. Chief Snively has issued a warning to these officers that they are poaching on city property.

It is alleged the constables of the various towns watch along the highways, capture a speeder and take him into the town before the local justice of the peace, who imposes an astonishingly high fine, varying from $50 to $150.

The commerce became so profitable that dozens of motorists made complaints of the procedure. They said it was dangerous to go even twenty miles an hour along the highways in the vicinity of these towns, because, they reported, some of the constables had extremely hasty watches that reputed to show the car went from forty to sixty miles an hour, and the faster the speed, the higher the fine.

It was shown in a majority of cases the speeders were outside the jurisdiction of the town authorities and the fine was in direct violation of the law.

THE SINS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Sipping the Ambrosia of the Heathen Gods—Impropriety Seems to be a Matter of Viewpoint—A Bright Woman's Piquant Observations.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—"San Francisco knows how!" exclaimed former President Taft at the close of the gala day that commemorated the ground-breaking for our peerless exposition. "San Francisco knows how," rejoined Lillian Russell later while attending with her seventh husband an exposition banquet.—"knows how to be naughty as well as to be great."

What a lure attaches to that romantic designation, "the Golden Gate!" for San Francisco is a city founded by soldiers of fortune drawn from the ends of the world, nineteenth century buccaneers who feared the moulten sun, the winds of flame and the dead sands of the desert less than the ennui of conventionalism.

In their beginnings Plymouth Rock was the foyer of free worship, and the Golden Gate of free love.

Through all the years that have passed San Francisco has clung to that strain of unconventionalism; from a maiden that sinned of her own free will she has grown to a matron that becomes restive under restraint. She has her standards of morality and her own ideals of virtue, "and the greatest of these is charity."

There are those of the Puritan breed, I am told, who still cling to the belief that our scourge of earthquake and fire was a divine sentence imposed on us for our sins. That was preached in a thousand pulpits after the fire. If you think society is duly penitent, get your escort to accompany you some night after the theater here to Coffee Dan's and from there to the Pal's Club.

But your escort must be one of our own, San Francisco bred, or you will never get back of the footlights of either place. If you are fortunate enough to have one of the opposite sex who has the entree to our exclusive life, and your own heart is not too corroded by Puritan conventions, you may view for a night the visions of the unbeliever's paradise and sip the ambrosia of the heathen gods.

That scourge of flame went well in the East, but we who peered beneath the curtain of smoke saw some things that robbed us of all our awe. When spires and crosses crumbled but the big whisky warehouses along the water front remained intact, all our old skepticism returned. Here was the answer of our Bohemia:

"If, as some say, God burned the town
For being over frisky,
Why did he strike the churches down
And leave Hotaling's whisky?"

From morning's sun to morning's sun, San Francisco probably runs the gamut of human wickedness; there are the light airy trills of the treble and the sullen, sobbing chords of the bass. For after all, sin is only a matter of convention: its style changes with the passing year, like those of dress. How often the sins of one age become the virtues of the next! Sin is also a question of latitude, morality and geographically, and of altitude.

In Los Angeles, to illustrate, a judge grants a decree of divorce because a woman prefers the bright lights and the cabaret life to her home; in San Francisco this week a judge granted to Mrs. E. D. Willis a decree of divorce because her husband objected to her spending her evenings with her friends at the down-town cabarets and at the road houses along the Great White Way.

"I met two men on the king's highway,
And each was bewailing his lot:
The one, because he had buried his wife,
The other because he had not."

I am extreme, say you of the City of the Angels? I write by the card:

"Mrs. E. D. Willis was granted an interlocutory decree in Department Four of the Superior Court today on grounds of incompatibility of temper. The complaint was rather unusual. Mrs. Willis is a member of our Bohemian set who frequents the foyer of the Columbia and the Green Room of the St. Francis. Her husband is a member of the Academy of Sciences (almost a modern instance of June and December.)

"The complaint alleges that Mr. Willis is serious and somewhat morose of nature, and that he prefers sitting at home and reading in his apartment in the evening to a visit to the cabarets. What was worse, he was wont to insist that Mrs. Willis give up her society and her friends and stay at home, too.

"Recently the complainant gave a little party for some of her set; it included a dinner at a well-known cabaret and a visit to the beach resorts along the Great White Way. The husband was not among those invited. On the evening of the party he secured a taxi and followed his wife and her friends to a cabaret where there was dancing. He took a seat at a table near that occupied by the complainant and her escort and his long sighs and occasional sobs soon began to attract attention, causing said complainant much mental anguish.

"He followed the party to a cafe along the ocean front and again subjected the complainant to his morose regards. Some members of the party became nervous. The complainant rose and walked outside, knowing that her husband would follow her. Outside he began to reproach her for what he termed unseemly conduct. Her escort came out to protect his hostess, and the husband of said complainant did there and then assault him and lacerate his face with brutal blows until it was necessary to summon medical attendance. The pleasure of the evening was spoiled, adding to the mental anguish of the complainant.

"Judge Brennan granted the interlocutory decree as prayed for on the ground of extreme cruelty and incompatibility of temperament."

A friend from Los Angeles called my attention to this report of the divorce. He had cut the clipping out to preserve as an awful example of San Francisco life. He even intimated that, in a Los Angeles court, the husband and not the wife would have received the decree. It is hard to make one in San Francisco believe that such extreme Puritanism could exist within 500 miles of us. How could one expect a thoroughbred like Mrs. Willis to go through life harnessed to a Clydesdale? Some of my feminine friends here are of the opinion that a "Scotch" marriage, in which husband and wife take each other for a year on trial, would be preferable.

It is a distinct relief to our Bohemian set that the leading cafes and hotels have raised the ban on feminine cigarette smoking. It was becoming utterly intolerable to find the ladies' restrooms so befogged with cigarette smoke that one could not even see the tip of one's nose in the mirror.

There are two new brands of French-Egyptian cigarettes—I can't give their names for fear of bringing down on my blonde head the brunette wrath of the advertising manager—that find a place in every well-ordered vanity purse. They are now served in the green rooms along with Bronx cocktails to the ladies; just as a cherry is served with a Manhattan to the men. Some of my girl friends order these by the thousand and they come with monogram engraved on each wrapper.

Here is a question that embarrassed some of the members of the California Club in the exposition receptions and at the annual meeting of women's clubs: "How much irrigation is necessary to cultivate properly a country delegate?"

"Wine is a mocker," says a biblical text, and until you have been behind the curtains of the St. Francis Green Room, or a popular cabaret, you will never know how much luster it adds to the mocking beauty of a woman's eyes. I have heard the assertion made here repeatedly that more liquor is sold nightly in Tait's than in any two saloons in San Francisco.

"Love of gold," says another ancient text, "is the root of all evil." It was the love of gold that first put San Francisco on the world's map and it is, perhaps, the worst of our sins today. Just as there are only two classes in San Francisco since the jitneys came to Market street—the quick and the dead—so there are only two classes in our exclusive society, those who are rich and those who are on the way to be. There is no aristocracy of birth possible in a society composed so largely of sons and daughters of buccaneers, and an aristocracy of intelligence is not negotiable until that intelligence has shown itself practical enough to force its way into the millionaire class.

For the have-beens, for those who continue to live on after their wealth has departed, they are as dead to our exclusive set as though the grass were already drooping in the fog and rain upon their tombs. In this San Francisco is heartless and cold, as cold as the waves that lave her beaches and the fogs that rush through the Golden Gate.

While musing over this article I picked up an old scrap book and turned to a clipping of a function which I attended to celebrate the reopening of the Fairmont Hotel after the fire. In the first lines appeared frequently the names Sloss, De Sabla, Hanford, Tevis, Calhoun, Martin, Folger, "Borax" Smith, Havens and others who were the dukes and lords of our monetary aristocracy.

From this I turned to a list of the week-end functions at the springs and at Del Monte; the old names had almost wholly disappeared, not through loss of life, but through that infinitely greater crime in the eyes of San Francisco society, loss of money.

It is hardly ten years ago that the Sloss millions were as fabulous as the tales brought back from the Klondyke by the scouts of the Alaska Commercial Company, which they controlled. Then the Slosses were reputed to be railway magnates; they were the backers of the Northern Electric. At that time their garage housed seven private cars. Even the last of these has now been seized by the Sheriff and Leon Sloss has taken "poor debtor's oath." San Francisco society regretted their passing. I have seen tears in the eyes of beautiful women who mourned their loss. But the moving finger has written and society will not challenge its decree.

Among the names of forgotten families is written that of the De Sablas, who were once the most sought after of our exclusive set; the wheels of the juggernaut of finance passed over them and even the name was crushed.

Then there were the millionaires of the Natomas Consolidated, the Solano Irrigated Farms and the Key Route. These included the Calhouns, the John Martins, the Havens and the Hanfords. The financial crashes that followed the refusal of eastern capitalists to finance California properties further caught all these, just as it caught the Folgers and the Harveys in the collapse of the Ocean Shore Railway.

I know not whether the laws of finance be right, "or whether laws be wrong," but I do know that there came a financial collapse about 1912 that robbed San Francisco society of a score of its millionaires. We women know little of the causes of these things; we are kept as blind to business as the women of the harems to society and to the world at large. We meet our friends in their gilded limousines and we love them for themselves; the wheel of fortune turns and the limousines appear with new initials on the door; our friends have passed from our lives as completely as though the tomb had yawned and closed about them. I sometimes think there is no grief that the world can give more poignant than that of a living death.

I have observed that men and women from the interior of the State and from the Middle West seem to be appalled at the society flirtations of the San Francisco women. I am of the opinion myself that every native-born San Francisco girl is a native-born coquette. They leap into the whirlpool of love as lithely and as unconsciously as the girls of the Sandwich Islands dare the waves of their coral beaches. And they know equally well how to paddle the water to frighten away the sharks.

But here is a warning that I heard come from the lips of a society matron to a niece from Minneapolis:

"I observed you trying to flirt at the ball last night, my dear, following the lead of our cousin Gertrude. Remember you know nothing of that game and she is a widow. A girl from the interior who throws herself into San Francisco society and tries to play the coquette is in as much danger as a bather who plunges into a stream beyond his depth without having first learned to swim."

This is the philosophy which the San Francisco mothers pass along from generation to generation. In the whirlpool of society and love there are many casualties, but they are limited to those who dared the breakers before learning to swim.

Advice.

WOULD PUT OFFICE IN WESTLAKE PARK.

LOCATION SUGGESTED FOR FIRE ALARM HEADQUARTERS.

City Electrician Recommends it as Admirable Site for Building, Which Can be so Designed as to be Unobjectionable—Submits His Annual Report.

Among the recommendations made by City Electrician Manahan in his annual report filed with the Council yesterday is one that the central office for fire-alarm apparatus be installed in either Westlake or Sunset Park. He says the building can be so located and designed as to be entirely unobjectionable.

The city electrician adds that, owing to lack of funds, no progress has been made in the increase of fire alarm and police telegraph protection in districts badly in need of it.

Permits issued by the department during the fiscal year ended June 30 last totaled 12,463, as compared with 13,920 the previous year. The cost of city street lighting was $371,848.97; ornamental street lighting cost the city $123,919.37, and private owners, $109,885.37 — the total cost to the city was $495,768.34. The total receipts of the department were $27,245.76 and expenses $65,464.33.

The electrician recommends a more liberal policy by the city as regards the proportion of costs it assumes for current and maintenance of ornamental lighting systems. He says the result would be to encourage the installation of more such systems.

Another recommendation is that all electrical contractors be required to obtain registration certificates from the electrical department before permits for the installation of any apparatus are issued them.

City Electrician Manahan also suggests a change in the ordinance governing the use of armored cables. He says the use of such cables has developed numerous cases of trouble and that its use be limited to cases where other types of construction would not be practical.

Will Modify Awards.

The Board of Public Works, in accordance with instructions from the Council, will correct and modify the awards of damages for the improvement of Oregon street from Ezra street to Euclid avenue. The Council, after a public hearing, came to the conclusion that the damages as awarded by the board were in most instances excessive and unjust to the property owners.

CITY HALL BRANCH.

Council May Put Up a Building at Van Nuys by Force Account. Request for Authority to Call for Bids is Forwarded.

The City Council may build the new branch City Hall at Van Nuys by force account. The Council yesterday referred to the Finance Committee the request of the Board of Public Works for authorization to call for bids for a building according to the plans and specifications submitted by Building Inspector Backus.

The building inspector estimates the hall and a storage building will cost $32,000. Councilmen said they particularly impressed on the inspector that the cost should be limited to $22,000, and Councilman Wheeler criticised the inspector for exceeding the limit.

Councilman Topham said the city had done a good job in building fire houses and he thought it could put up the branch City Hall.

UGH! CALOMEL IS HORRIBLE! IT SHOCKS YOUR LIVER, IF BILIOUS

Calomel sickens! Don't lose a day's work! Clean your Liver and Bowels with "Dodson's Liver Tone."

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless, doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

CLOSE STORE AND FROLIC AT BEACH.

BARKER BROS. EMPLOYEES ARE GIVEN A HOLIDAY.

Special "Cabaret" Show in the Open and Black-face Comedy Vie with Joyous Pleasures of the Strand and with Lure of Athletic Sports.

The hum of industry was transferred from Barker Bros.' big store to the ocean end of Hermosa Beach, yesterday, when the doors of the business establishment were closed and the employees, as guests of their employers, picnicked and frolicked on the strand.

The beach concessions were turned over to the happy visitors. Athletic sports brought out keen rivalries, much interest and valuable prizes for each event. A "cabaret" show at the Pier-avenue band stand and a black-face comedy helped demolish dull care, and a basket lunch was enjoyed at the pier pavilion. Baseball between warehouse and store teams, with fountain pens as prizes, dancing in the pavilion, which was engaged for the exclusive use of the store people and their friends, and other merry events filled every minute with pleasure.

Four special trains carried the 1000 picnickers from Los Angeles, and a parade of forty automobiles marked the start from the store, shortly before 9 o'clock a.m.

The picnic was one of a series of similar annual events arranged by the store's management.

WIFE WANTS ARMY MAN PROSECUTED.

SAYS SERGEANT HAS VIOLATED HIS PROBATION.

By Failing to Support Her and Their Baby, After Deserting from Service, Stealing Automobile and Getting Leniency by Return to Military Duties.

Mrs. Alta Lawrence, wife of Sergt. Raymond Lawrence, U.S.A., yesterday asked the Sheriff's office to secure extradition papers for her husband and bring him here from Arizona to answer a charge of failing to provide either for herself or their baby son Donald.

She informed the Sheriff that her husband was in the army at the time she married him, that he deserted and was later arrested at Placerville on a charge of having stolen an automobile. After trial and conviction he was given probation on the promise that he would return to the army service and also that he would provide for his family.

This he did only for a short time, according to Mrs. Lawrence. She was forced to work in order to secure a livelihood for herself and the 20-months-old child. Having learned several days ago that her husband is now at Nogales, she asked that he be brought here and charged with violation of his probation.

In an affair of this character the county authorities would have the right to remove a soldier from service. Sheriff Cline got into communication with Sergt. Lawrence last evening and will learn his side of the story tomorrow.

FIRE IN CHINATOWN.

Large Part of the District Threatened for a Time.

The entire population of Chinatown turned out last night to witness a spectacular fire that blazed in the heart of the district and for a time threatened demolition of a large section. Quick action by the fire department confined the flames to a small area.

The blaze originated in the corral of Lum Sum, a peddler, at the east end of Apablasa street. Crossed wires were blamed. A quantity of hay and feed was consumed, but friends of the peddler saved the four horses kept there. The flames licked their way to neighboring stables owned by the Industrial Land Company. The damage was estimated at $1000.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COLTON, Aug. 2. — Back of the romance which had for its principles a young cattleman of Francis Creek, Ariz., and a society belle in the younger set of Kingman, daughter of a wealthy mine owner of that city, which culminated Wednesday at Long Beach, where the bride's family is summering, lies an interesting incident of years ago, when the two mothers of the pair were childhood playmates and in play planned that "my little girl will marry your little boy," not dreaming that such would really be the case.

The young groom, Lenward Hart, is a son of Mrs. Edith Hart of this city and has been in the cattle business in Arizona for the past two years, while his bride, who is a beautiful girl of 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Williams of Kingman. Their wedding was more or less of a surprise to relatives and friends.

OLD FIRM CHANGES.

Announcement was made yesterday that the William R. Staats Company, one of the oldest bond houses in the city, having offices also in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago, had sold its real estate and insurance business to a corporation, recently organized under the name of the Staats-Macy Company. The parent company now will devote itself exclusively to the bond and stock business. The William R. Staats Company was organized in 1887 and survived the trying period which followed the real estate "boom" of that year, and was incorporated in 1894 with a capital of $50,000. The growth of the firm twice necessitated an increase of capital, the last time in March, 1912, when an issue of $600,000 of stock was authorized. Among some of the well-known corporations which the Staats company assisted in financing were the Edison Electric Company, now the Southern California Edison Company, and the Union Oil Company.

Having been encamped at Calexico for the period of time required by statute, the soldiers are said to have registered with the impression that they would be given full right to vote. Those opposed to this method of obtaining additional voters for the precinct insist that a man must intend to establish his residence at the time he moves to a new locality in order to be entitled to vote, declaring that a soldier cannot have this intention since he is subject to arbitrary orders to be transferred to other points. The question is expected to be tried on its merits later before Superior Judge Franklin J. Cole.

Huntington and his business associates, was consummated today in the Council chamber, when Mayor J. N. Wilson handed to J. N. Coolman, the president of the Covina City Water Company, a check for $70,000, being the price paid by the city for the plant which has provided domestic water to the residents of Covina for the last twenty-five years. The plant was appraised three years ago at $147,000.

Early during the present year bonds were voted in the amount of $105,000, to construct or purchase a municipal water system. Since this time negotiations have been in progress for the purchase of the old plant. Steps will at once be taken to reinforce this system by the laying of larger mains, so that fire protection will be up to the standard of the highest class municipality. Bids have already been received for the new pipe and the contract will be awarded next week.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 26.—Carelessness on the part of farmers and tourists causes serious embarrassment and occasional losses to property owners, particularly in the mountain districts. While these things are the bane of the forest ranger's existence, the greatest sufferer in this section is the Tejon ranch.

Last night J. J. Lopez, superintendent of the Tejon ranch, and a crew of his men made a hurried twenty-five-mile trip to a distant portion of the ranch to a threatened fire which had started in the Walker Basin country. Before they reached their destination they were cut off by a swollen stream caused by heavy rain higher up in the mountains on the upper confines of the ranch. But from where they stopped they could see that the fire was not a menace to their own or other property and they returned home, after being out all night.

A frequent cause of incipient fires on this ranch is lack of proper precaution by automobile campers who stop overnight. The State Highway traverses the Tejon rancho and the ideal camping places cause travelers to turn aside for a few hours or for overnight, and a fire frequently develops after they are many miles on their way.

Much valuable grazing has been destroyed by such fires this season, with the result that there is less range and the cattle of the company are not in as good condition as last year, when the road was incomplete and there were few campers.

Cattle shipping has progressed from the ranch since May 1, shipments being made every ten days or so. This season it will close by October 1. About 2000 head have been sold and the total for the year will be between 3000 and 4000. There are ample cattle on the ranch to ship many hundred more in good average condition, but they are not being cleaned up close and everything that goes out is in prime condition.

Plucking the ostriches is proving a pleasant task to the ranch hands now. These magnificent birds are the pride of all the men on the ranch. They seem to like this climate more than that of Arizona, whence they were brought. There are more than 100 of the mature birds, and twenty chicks hatched last spring are growing fast.

Union Linemen or Their Sympathizers Believed Responsible for Attempt to Destroy Property of Southern Sierras Power Company.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 26.—Indignation is expressed here, where the Southern Sierras Power Company maintains its general offices, over a discovered attempt to put out of commission the company's 240-mile transmission line extending from Bishop to San Bernardino. The work is attributed to the striking linemen or to their sympathizers.

A patrolman yesterday discovered that the guy wires supporting one of the sixty-foot steel towers had been sawed in two and several bolts loosened on the framework. A strong wind would have toppled the tower over and caused a serious interruption of service, to say nothing of the damage to property.

Since the strike of the union men in the field the company has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any one tampering with its lines.

FLOCK EXPECTS NEW PASTOR.

Conference may Send Young Man to First Methodist.

Proposes Ordinance to Hold Jitneys in Check.

Condition in Railway Service Must Improve.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 26.—Dr. Henry Irving Rasmus, pastor of the First Methodist Church, the dean of the Methodist ministry in Long Beach, will not be returned to this city when the conference convenes at Santa Ana, September 20, according to C. J. Walker and other members of the church. In his place the conference will appoint to the Long Beach pulpit a "California preacher with an especial appeal to the younger element of the congregation," it was announced. Dr. Rasmus is 58 years of age, and has a strong hold on the hearts of the people of the entire city.

His removal from Long Beach was forecast by Dr. Rasmus himself when he was returned to the local pulpit last year. He has been here six years, and desires a chance. One of the churches in Pasadena has been endeavoring to secure him for that city. He will make no announcement as to his future plans.

Dr. Rasmus has a large date ranch in Coachella Valley, and he may decide to give up preaching altogether and devote himself to the raising of Deglet Noors or Tafilalets. During the last season's floods in Coachella Dr. Rasmus's ranch was badly damaged, but he speedily repaired the injury caused by the wild waters, and now has one of the most attractive ranches in the valley, probably worth $30,000. He has other property.

REGULATING JITNEYS.

A complete readjustment of the passenger transportation situation in this city is forecast by James R. Williams, Commissioner of Public Safety. He has prepared an ordinance which will bar the jitneys from streets served by the Pacific Electric, and will necessitate the 5-cent autos observing a regular schedule on the other streets.

Commissioner Williams will, early next week, hold a conference with Pacific Electric heads, and will insist, in return for the passage of the ordinance regulating jitneys, that the electric railroad give more frequent service over some of the lines. Commissioner Williams wants ten-minute service over the principal city lines until 10 p.m.

Two electric car lines have been killed here by the jitneys, and more will be abandoned, say the Pacific Electric men, if the nickel-chasers continue to operate. A heavy loss in operating has been sustained by the Pacific Electric, and in view of the fact that the railroad practically has made Long Beach, the plea for regulation should be heard, the City Commissioners say.

HARVESTING BEANS.

Crop in Some Parts of Ventura County Better Than Last Year's —Two Locals Join California Lima Bean Growers' Association.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

OXNARD, Aug. 26.—Ranchers in the Somis and Camarillo sections are cutting beans, and if good drying weather holds, the threshers will soon begin work. Indications are that the crop will be average, and in some fields, especially on low ground which held moisture well, the yield will be above that of last year.

Two more local associations have affiliated with the California Lima Bean Growers' Association, and in order that their representatives may be in the directorate of the general association, the directorate will be increased from nine to eleven members. The incoming locals are those at Goleta in Santa Barbara county and at Smeltzer in Orange county. The Goleta local will be represented in the association directorate by Edgar W. Stowe. It controls a probable total of 28,000 bags of limas. The Smeltzer local will be represented by George W. Moore.

Small beans, blackeyes and others, are being threshed in the eastern part of the county, particularly in the Janss ranch section.

D. Felsenthal of Piru has been appointed sales manager for the Ventura County Cured Fruit Association. He will have control of over 300 tons of Ventura county apricots, both bright and dark, and representing a large per cent. of the output of the county.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Aug. 26.—One of the largest deals in business property made here in some time was completed today when A. Gregory purchased from K. C. Wells the property just north of the Santa Fe tracks in Orange street, paying $23,100, at the rate of $150 per front foot. Mr. Gregory is planning to make several improvements.

FINDS APPLE CROP IN GOOD CONDITION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

YUCAIPA, Aug. 26.—George P. Weldon, chief deputy commissioner of the Horticulture Commission of the State, has just completed an inspection of the apple and fruit ranches in the Yucaipa Valley, accompanied by J. P. Coy, the county commissioner, and A. S. Taylor, who is in charge of the work in the Bryn Mawr section.

Mr. Weldon was much pleased with the showing made in the valley, and says that the trees have made a wonderful growth since his last visit. He complimented the work of the tree expert of the valley and he believes that the six year old trees will average better than three boxes of apples to the tree this year.

Mr. Weldon advised the growers who use cover crops, which he commends, to keep them several feet from the trees.

Attorney Reports Property Owners on Exposition Boulevard Have Carried Out Their Share of Improvements, but the City Has Not.

The City Attorney reported to the Council yesterday that although the property owners on Exposition boulevard, between Vermont avenue and Figueroa street, have carried out their contract for the improvement of the north twenty-seven feet, of the thoroughfare, the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric companies have not taken any steps to perform their part of the agreement.

The city agreed to secure from the Southern Pacific a deed conveying sufficient land to make the boulevard twenty-seven feet wide, the land to be along its northerly side from McClintock avenue to Figueroa street. It also agreed to get the Southern Pacific to improve certain parts of the boulevard and remove certain fences.

The City Attorney states that as long as loading and unloading complained of is done in the vicinity it will necessarily result in blockading traffic unless the city carries out its part of the agreement.

In addition, the attorney says, the Southern Pacific has advised him that it has prepared the necessary deed whereby the company will transfer land for public street purposes if the city agrees to vacate a portion of Exposition boulevard. The City Attorney is ready to prepare the final ordinance.

City Restates Its Case in Its Reply Brief to Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation Filed with State Railroad Commission.

City Attorney Stephens filed with the State Railroad Commission yesterday the city's reply to the argument contained in the opening brief of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation for authority to increase its rates on natural and artificial gas.

The two principal issues in the case are stated by the corporation as: First, the adequacy or reasonableness of the present rate of 68 cents per 1000 cubic feet of 800 B.T.U. gas; second, the sufficiency of the supply of natural gas available to the corporation to meet all the demands of its consumers. The City Attorney believes that every principal issue of the case will have been met when the commission decides upon the rate to be paid for the best available gas.

The city opposes the idea that the corporation should have a return on the actual money invested in the business plus $1,000,000 for going concern. It adheres to the theory that the base of return is the fair value of the property put to public use. "The gas consumers patronizing the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation owe no duty to furnish a fair return on anything but the value of the company's property used and useful as it is today," the city reiterates.

The reply was prepared by City Attorney Stephens, Deputy Houghton, President Fulton Lane and Chief Engineer Howell of the Board of Public Utilities.

Picnic of the State Society has a Programme of Stirring Addresses and Athletic Events, with Pie-eating Contest Source of Much Fun—Kansas Outing.

The unusual record of eating three blackberries per second and an amount of pastry similar in weight to the berries was established yesterday afternoon by F. C. Mead, of No. 3231 East Third street, when he won first place in the pie-eating contest which was conducted at the semi-annual picnic of the Wisconsin Association of Southern California. The picnic was held in Sycamore Grove.

Mr. Mead battled with Raymond I. Thompson of No. 2700 Montecito street for first place in the contest and won by two seconds. Mr. Mead's time for eating the two and one-half pounds of pie crust and preserved blackberries was fifty seconds even. There were twenty pies for the contest, but only seven of them were used.

The picnic yesterday was one of the most successful in the history of the association. Addresses were delivered by Dr. William Wenzlick, president of the Wisconsin Society of Los Angeles; Col. Frank H. True, president of the Federation of State Societies; Theodore D. Kanouse, former superintendent of schools of Wisconsin, and Charles Milwaukee Sivyer, the first white child born in Milwaukee.

Among the athletic contests were a fat men's race, ladies' free-for-all and a race for children under 5 years of age. The winner of this race was Marjorie Jenkins, aged 5 years. The youngest contestant was George L. Madison, 3½ years of age. T. L. O'Brien was in charge of the contests.

The prizes for the races were donated by the Broadway Department Store, Eagleson & Co., Walter L. Smith, Pantages Theater and Tuft-Lyons Company.

The semi-annual picnic of the Kansas Society of Los Angeles was held yesterday at South Park and was largely attended. The afternoon was passed with a programme of addresses and athletic contests. Only those who were natives of Kansas were allowed to speak. A large crowd was in attendance.

PRAISE FOR GOOD SERVICE.

In a circular letter to the officers and employees of the Southern Railway Company, Fairfax Harrison, president of the company, praises and expresses thanks for the heroic services rendered during the recent floods in the Southeast, the territory of the railway. Mr. Harrison refrains from signaling individuals, but speaks to all, for their courage during the trying times. Great injury was done the property of the road, he says, but this he thinks will be made up in a year, through the efficiency of the organization of which all are a part.

MERICAN INSISTENCE ON OPEN DOOR FOR CHINA MEANS WAR WITH JAPAN.

ppon has No Choice, Because Her Seizure of Control Over Her Wonderfully Rich Neighbor Spells Life Itself—Situation Desperate for Mikado's People Until the European Struggle Began.

BY HARRY CARR.

S THERE any real danger of war between the United States and Japan; or are we seeing things at night? President Wilson has thrown out strong hints of trouble in our foreign relations that make intensive preparedness essential and ...ry. Military attaches of foreign powers regard such a war as being on the programme.

At the same time, a careful survey of the relations of the two countries seems to indicate that war is not inevitable. It ...however, a looming possibility.

In this article, the intention is to make a sympathetic examination of the Japanese point of view; and to show why, if ... things come to pass, Japan is prepared bravely to throw down the gauntlet to Uncle Sam.

The Japanese attitude can be summarized in a paragraph:

For years, the Mikado has been run over and bullied by the great western powers. Japan fought costly and bloody wars ... to have the other powers rush in and gobble up the fruitage of those battles. In the Orient, where Japan felt she had ...ght to be supreme, she has been ruthlessly pushed aside. We have talked about the "yellow peril;" but for Japan, the ...e peril" was an actuality.

By the events of the European war, all the powers which have been jostling Japan were suddenly called away from the ...East. Japan has taken advantage of their absence to get a foothold in China, the continuance of which means life or death ...the Japanese nation. Finally in possession of this long-sought jewel and with a glorious future opening before her, one ...k shadow rises before Japan. This is the open-door policy of the United States.

If this policy is insisted upon, it means war. Japan has no choice. To overcome the open-door policy is her one chance ...survive as a nation; her one chance to overcome the black troubles that threaten to crush her very existence. We may say ...t war in the Pacific depends upon the opening and shutting of a door.

They took a har... and a province there, cal... the fact that their victim was not dead. They not only seized territory, but they took concessions for mines, for railroads, commercial privileges and spheres of influence.

All that saved China from being literally torn into pieces by the greedy buccaneers of Western Europe was the announcement by the United States of the "open-door policy." At that time the open-door policy must have been regarded by Japan with satisfaction and relief.

The promulgation of this policy by John Hay, then Secretary of State, was one of the most adroit strokes of modern diplomacy.

Having declined to participate in this shameless looting of the oldest empire, the United States addressed to St. Petersburg, London and Berlin a communication asking that all the great powers join in respecting the existing Chinese treaty ports and vested interests; to allow Chinese tariffs to be maintained and to be collected in the respective spheres of influence and not to discriminate against other foreigners in port and railroad rates.

Grumbling, but ashamed to object, one by one the powers consented, though with bad grace. As one writer puts it, it was as though Mr. Hay had addressed a meeting and asked all those who believed in telling the truth to stand up; the liars would not have remained in their seats.

STILL MORE LOOTING.

The outbreak of the Boxer rebellion, however, gave the powers an opportunity to grab what they already had their eyes on when they consented to the open-door policy. Under the plea that they were avenging the murder of their missionaries, every big power except the United States rushed into China and grabbed what it wanted. Japan was not strong enough to get loot away from the other hogs.

I mention these details because Japan feels especially bitter to find the open-door policy interfering with her land grabs when it did not interfere very much with the land grabs of other powers.

Finding that she had nothing to hope for as a matter of justice and fairness from the world powers, Japan tried to get her share by force. This was the motive behind the Russo-Japanese War. Japan wanted to compel Russia to give back some of the plums that were stolen from Japan after the Chinese-Japanese War.

Probably no chapter of modern history is so thoroughly misunderstood as the Russ-Jap War. For some extraordinary reason the world at large got the idea that the Japs beat the Russians to a standstill in a war of glittering military triumphs.

As a matter of fact, Japan fought herself to a standstill and it was the Mikado, not the Czar, who appealed to President Roosevelt to end the conflict. Incidentally, it was not the brilliant military triumph that has been advertised. Army men who have studied the strategy of that war say both the Japs and the Russians were almost unbelievably stupid; that, if possible, the Japs showed a poorer knowledge of military strategy than the Slavs.

Although she managed to "save her face" and come out of it with a shabby imitation of a victory, Japan realized in her heart that the war showed that she would never be able to drive any of the great powers out of the Orient.

HIDDEN DESPAIR.

At the close of this war and during the succeeding years, her position was one of hiding a secret despair behind a gorgeous bluff. Japanese conditions were very, very bad at the opening of the European war.

The finances were in a dreadful condition. George Bronson Rea, publisher of the Far Eastern Review of China, gives the following figures:

In 1883, the total national debt of Japan was 280,000,000 yen. In 1902 it was only 530,000,000 yen. But in 1906, on account of the war with Russia, it had jumped to 2,100,000,000. As no indemnity could be obtained from Russia, the whole burden of this had to be borne by the impoverished Japanese taxpayers. Up to 1911 the debt was 2,550,418,000 yen, of which 1,117,969,000 was held in Japan and 1,437,944,000 yen abroad. The national debt at that time amounted to more than 50 yen per capita, an astonishingly large sum for a poor country like Japan.

The hopelessness of the Japanese financial condition is shown by the fact that in 1912, more than one-third of the total expenditures of the Japanese nation went to pay the interest on the debts. In 1912 the total expenditure was 411,000,000 yen, of which 122,000,000 went to administration, 116,000,000 yen to the army and 171,000,000 yen to the service of the national debt.

Just before the outbreak of war in Europe, Japanese finances were at their worst. Such notable Japanese as Prof. Uyeda insisted that, if Japan were to escape the fate of Portugal, a reduction must be made in the size of the army, however dangerous it might be to Japan's future as a world power.

Japanese credit was on the toboggan. Japanese municipal bonds were practically unsalable. South Manchuria railroad loans, guaranteed by the government and issued at 98 and 97, were selling at 80½ and 91½. Bonds owned in England were coming due and there was no money to pay them. Japan would have to resort to floating new loans at home with which to pay off the foreign loans. Groaning under taxation, her people had no money with which to buy these bonds. A leading financial journal in London openly advised bond buyers to get rid of their Japanese bonds; to sell while they could. A grand crash was coming.

EYES UPON CHINA.

In this terrible position, Japan looked with longing eyes at China, from which trough she had been driven so many times. Dr. Hidomi Takahashi, a distinguished Japanese economist, estimated the wealth of China at $53,000,000,000, with her natural resources absolutely untouched. "Should China come to have a stable government and try to develop her wealth in earnest, she would be able to have an annual revenue of $750,000,000."

Field Marshal Yamagata wrote: "Granted a strong emperor, it would be more easy to change China than it was to change Japan. The Chinese could be trained to become excellent soldiers and with China's almost infinite resources of men and treasure, a strong emperor could have at his command a most powerful army and become a most serious menace to all neighboring nations."

Japan had other troubles beyond finances. Her sphere of influence in Manchuria, gained as a result of the Japanese-Russian War, had been a disappointment. The Japs could not compete successfully with Chinese business men.

The Japanese population was increasing at a rate that threatened suffocation. Japan is a small, congested country with the tremendous ratio of 357 inhabitants to the square mile. Her people are multiplying faster than the industries of the country can be created to give them employment. With all the drawbacks of plague, poverty, congestion, flood, fire and earthquake, which caused great loss of life, the population of Japan doubled in the last fifty years. Since 1909 the crop of

PLAN COAST ARTILLERY RESERVE IN THIS CITY.

A LOS ANGELES Coast Artillery Reserve, to supplement the regular personnel of the Fort MacArthur defenses, will shortly be organized if favorable action is taken on the matter by Adjt.-Gen. C. W. Thomas, Jr. A telegram was sent to his office at Sacramento yesterday by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, requesting information on the proper procedure for organizing the proposed volunteer forces.

The telegram was sent following the indorsing of a resolution recommending that the Chamber of Commerce take the initiative in securing an adequate reserve for the harbor fortifications. It is understood the proposed Coast Artillery Reserve was suggested by Maj. G. B. Pillsbury, U.S.A., local district engineer, and is in accordance with government ideas of providing additional troops who may be called upon to man the fortifications in the absence of the regular artillerymen.

It is expected a reply from the Adjutant-General will be receivedtomorrow, and, as soon as the necessary formality of obtaining a permit is complied with, it is planned to appoint a committee to supervise enlistments. The men who attended the recent training camp at Monterey are expected to respond to the first call and to form the first company.

The local fort will probably be equipped and manned by at least five Coast Artillery companies of approximately 105 men each, in about nine months, acording to members of the Chamber of Commerce who inspected the fortifications recently. It is planned to ultimately enlist as many local volunteer artillerymen as there will be regulars assigned to Fort MacArthur.

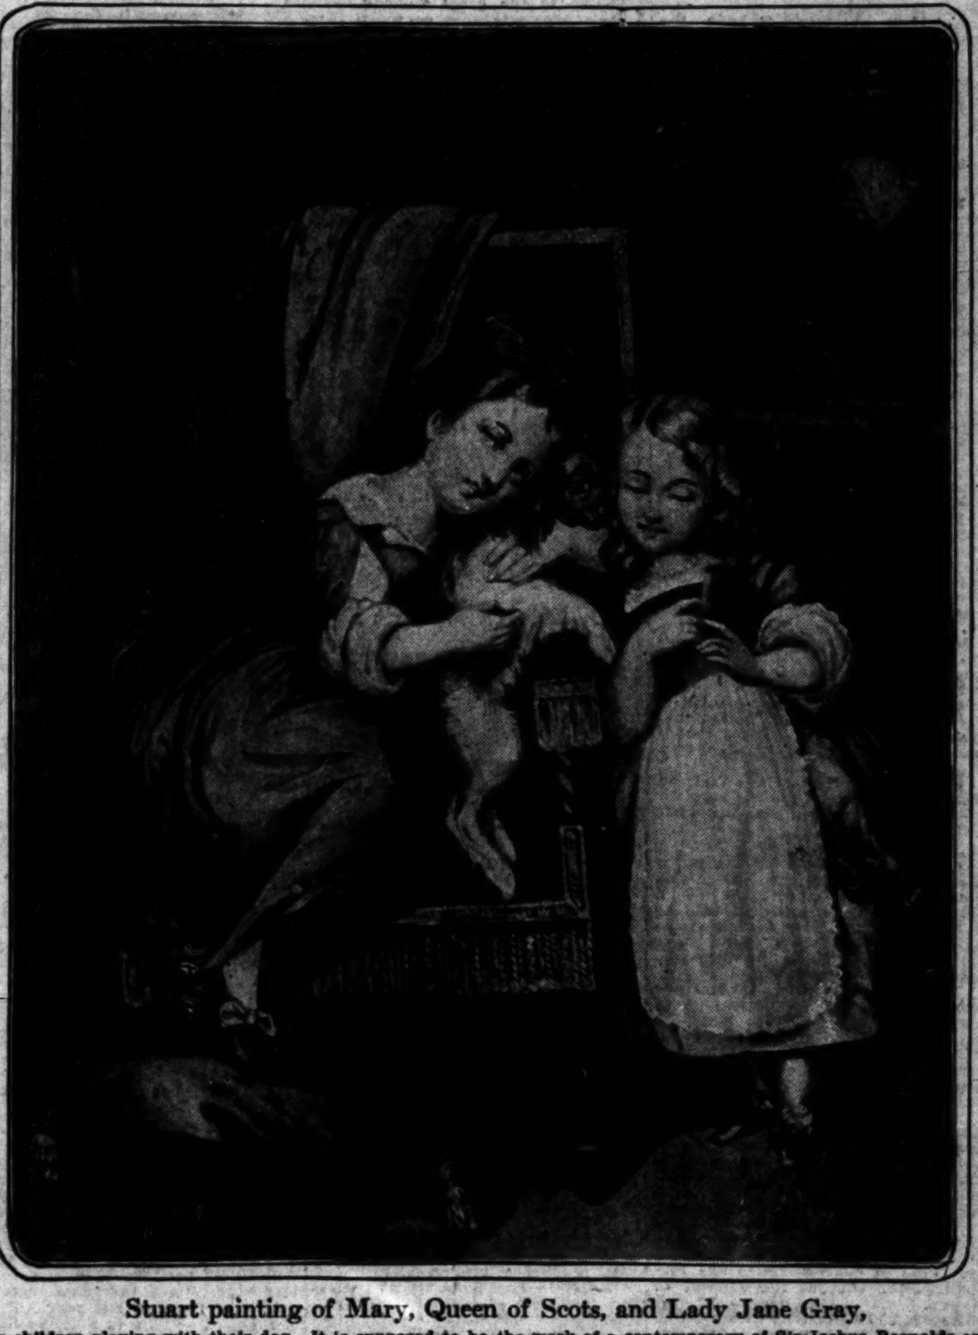
Remarkable Search at Last Rewarded in Los Angeles.



Stuart painting of Mary, Queen of Scots, and Lady Jane Gray, as children playing with their dog. It is supposed to be the work of a contemporary of Sir Joshua Reynolds and is appraised at a large sum. It was given to a Stockton man by Gen. J. E. B. Stuart during the Civil War and has just been recovered by the former's granddaughter after a forty year search.

The Facts.

WE'RE GROWING; MORE PEOPLE, MORE MONEY.

Thorough Investigation Shows Big Expansion in Business, Unprecedented Industrial Extension, Increased Bank Deposits, Building Activity and Notable Influx of New Families from the East.

THESE are some of the bedrock facts that incontrovertibly prove that Los Angeles is substantially gaining in population, wealth and volume of business with every successive month, notwithstanding the general commercial dullness of the past year elsewhere on the Coast.

Twice as many families are moving into this city as are going away, according to the records of the big storage and warehouse companies, always regarded as an infallible index.

More than $13,000,000 expended since the first of the year in new factories and equipment.

Bank deposits have increased approximately $40,000,000 in the past twelve months. Clearances have increased more than $100,000,000 and there are many thousands more depositors in savings banks.

Building permits have increased appreciably over last year both in number and value of buildings and there is exceptional activity in several branches of building.

E. G. Judah, president of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, has put his finger on the pulse of Los Angeles business and finds it strong, vigorous and gaining every day. Discarding generalities, ignoring unproved assertions, whether optimistic or pessimistic, Mr. Judah has been conducting a thorough painstaking investigation into conditions as they actually are here. He said last night that he was determined to know whether or not Los Angeles is going ahead, and how rapidly. The result of his research is far beyond his most sanguine expectations.

He has been assisted by the officials of the big fireproof storage companies. Every one of them says that many more families are moving to Los Angeles than are going away and more are coming than last year. They have written letters to Mr. Judah to this effect. This not only corroborates the conclusion of increased population drawn from the city directory canvass and by the Chamber of Commerce estimate, but shows that the increase is largely composed of men with families who have come here with the intention of becoming permanent residents.

MANY NEWCOMERS.

F. L. Allen, secretary of the Lyon Fireproof Storage Company, writes: "According to our records we find that there are a great many more shipments of household goods coming into Los Angeles and other Southern California points, especially this city, than are going out. From these records we are convinced that the population of this city is growing to a considerable extent."

F. M. Brock, secretary of the Los Angeles Warehouse Company, says: "There are several times as many people moving into Los Angeles as are moving away, as proved by our records of household goods handled in both directions."

W. H. Calderbank, assistant manager of Bekins Van and Storage Company, writes: "We are constantly receiving shipments of household goods from all parts of the country for people who locate here or at other points in Southern California. Our records show that we receive at least 50 per cent. more of such shipments than we forward out of Los Angeles. At no time during the past ten years has the reverse been the case. The present time is no exception and we have every reason to believe that these conditions will continue to prevail."

These records are further corroborated by leading furniture dealers and rental departments. The increase in rentals to families moving here from the East has been about 20 per cent. in the past two months, and there has been a 10 per cent. increase in the sales of household furnishings to new families.

PROVED BY THE FACTS.

"There isn't the shadow of a doubt that we are growing in population, expanding in every line of business and gaining in wealth," said Mr. Judah last night. We have the cold, indisputable facts to prove it, and there are convincing indications that we shall continue to grow even more rapidly.

"We have thousands more savings acounts than ever before. This year we have expended $13,000,000 for new factories and equipment. We have more warehouses and they have been built because increasing business demanded them. In eight downtown blocks last year the volume of business in dry goods alone amounted to $31,000,000, and we are beating that record this year.

"In manufacturing lines we are gaining fast. We are getting trade away from northern cities because we have superior advantages and particularly because we have and maintain industrial freedom."

Stock exchange sales for the first six months of this year were $4,501,304,06, as compared with $1,175,239.36 for the same period last year,

HUNT OF FORTY YEARS SUCCESS.

Woman Finds a Long-lost and Prized Painting.

Gift of Virginia General is Finally Reclaimed.

Three Generations of Family Prosecute Search.

After a remarkable search, lasting more than forty years, a costly picture given by Gen. J. E. B. Stuart to Elton Baker of Stockton during the Civil War and soon after lost, has been recovered by Miss Lyle Babcock of Los Angeles and Pasadena, Mr. Elton's grand-daughter. It now hangs temporarily on a wall of the home of her friend, Miss Josephine Neil of No. 3126 Pasadena avenue.

Gen. Stuart gave the picture and its companion to Mr. Baker in token of his appreciation of the latter's kindness to the Stuart family during the war. It had been in the Stuart family collection for more than 200 years, but, more than for its intrinsic worth, Mr. Baker valued it for its association.

When the panic came in the early 70's Mr. Baker was pressed for money and let the picture, which represented Mary Queen of Scots and Lady Jane Grey as children, with their dog, go as security for a loan. A contract was made whereby Mr. Baker or his heirs were to get the picture back upon payment of the note.

A few years went by and the man, a Mr. Black, who then had the picture, moved away. Soon Mr. Baker had the money with which to pay off the note. But he could not find Mr. Black. He searched the State and at other places where Mr. Black from time to time had moved, but without avail. When he died he had spent thirty years in his search for the painting.

HUNT A HERITAGE.

He gave the note and contract to his daughter, Mrs. A. M. Babcock, and told her to keep up the hunt for the prized picture until she had found it, and if she failed to see that the search should go on down the line until the art treasure had been restored to the Baker family. Mrs. Babcock sought for ten years to recover it and died. Then her daughter, alive with an inbred love of art and adventure, started out in a new way to recover her inheritance.

With the name of the much-sought people and their former residence in mind, she never met any one of the name of Black, but that she made inquiries.

One day recently, after she had

Following Audit.

INVESTIGATION TO BE PUBLIC.

"Julius Caesar" Conference to be Held at Once.

Committee Declares it has Nothing to Conceal.

Production Cost More than it Would Again.

The meeting to investigate the affairs and transactions of the Julius Caesar production in Hollywood last May will be held a few days after the audit requested by the local committee representing the Actors' Fund of America is completed—early this week probably. The Hollywood committee insists that the meeting be open, with members of the press admitted. Plans for nevt year's festival are now under way and it is stated by members of the Hollywood association that a second production can be staged much more economically because they have the benefit of last May's experience.

"The Hollywood Carnival Association has nothing to conceal in connection with the expenditures for the mammoth production of Julius Caesar last May. It was the most wonderful outdoor production of its kind ever put on, and, of course, the expenses were tremendous. It is probable that the putting on of a second performance of this kind could be accomplished for from $5000 to $6000 less than this one cost; but we were inexperienced, the greatness of the project grew, and we were determined to give Southern California a magnificent spectacle, regardless of the cost. That we did this thing, and with credit, is conceded by all.

"If there was a surplus, it was to go to the actors' fund, but no definite promise was made that any certain amount would be donated to that purpose. As a matter of fact, the actors' fund will get a benefit of close to $4000 because of this great spectacle having been put on, as in addition to what may be turned over from its own proceeds, there was $1700 realized from the entertain-at the Majestic, where our costumes and scenery were used, and this could not have been presented had it not been for our affair."

This was the statement made yesterday by a member of the board of directors of the Hollywood Carnival Association, in discussing the situation wherein the Actors' Fund Committee has been having an audit made of the accounts of the Julius Caesar production.

"There was absolutely no graft in the handling of this huge production," said C. C. Craig, one of the directors, yesterday. Mr. Craig was the originator of the idea of producing the great outdoor spectacle, and worked strenuously throughout the six weeks of preparatory labor.

TO BE OPEN MEETING.

"So far as I am concerned," said Mr. Craig, "when the meeting of the directors and the representatives of the actors' fund occurs, which I presume will be within a few days, I shall insist that it be a public session and that representatives of the press be admitted, or I shall not participate, and I believe that that is the sentiment of our board.

"Our original idea was to give an entertainment for the purpose of raising funds for financing a street carnival in Hollywood. Then the idea was expanded into the production of a great outdoor spectacle, and we determined to carry this through on the proper scale. As the idea grew, the expenses increased, but we were determined not to fail, and were ready to go down into our own pockets to finance the matter, had it been necessary. Doubtless had there been two or three nights' performances, the actors' fund would have secured a great benefit, but those who were donating their services as stars were unwilling to sacrifice so much of their time. As it is, the fund will receive a substantial benefit, and Hollywood, Los Angeles and Southern California have received a great amount of efficient advertising, while the public has had the benefit of a most remarkable presentation of a standard play and has properly honored the tercentenary of Shakespeare.

MEN BEHIND THE PLAY.

"It's really remarkable, when you consider it, that under the direction of a banker, a real estate man, a laundryman, an automobile man and a cement dealer, the most notable performance of a Shakespearean play ever produced was carried through."

Various Hollywood citizens who are familiar with the enormous amount of labor required to carry through the presentation of this play, the large quantities of material used and vast number of people employed, state that even a slight analysis shows how the costs of production could not help mounting into high figures.

They cite the facts that the rental of costumes alone amounted to close to $3000; that $5000 worth of lumber was used, with but small salvage possible; that grading of site, making of roads, building of scenery, etc., all required large amounts of labor for a long period, and that having once gotten into the thing, the directors were justified in going ahead on the plans as they evolved on larger scale, so as to present a spectacle that would redound to the credit of Southern California and spread its fame far abroad.

NEXT YEAR'S FESTIVAL.

As to the future, members of the Hollywood Carnival Association stated yesterday that it is the intention of Hollywood citizens to perpetuate a great yearly outdoor festival, on the sames lines as the "Julius Caesar" production, and that the second one will be given early next summer on fully as extensive, if not greater, lines as the one which attracted attention all over the United States.

Already the plans for the second festival are taking shape. There is under consideration the presentation of "Mary Magdalen." An option has been secured on the services of seven of the great stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company for the production of "Ouida," and some other large vehicles for monster outdoor productions are being considered.

War With Japan?

babies has amounted to more than 1,125,000 a year. The only remedy for the Japanese was emigration. This emigration could not be to the China coast. The Japs were perfectly frank in saying that Jap labor could not compete on equal terms with Chinese.

The obvious alternative was to emigrate to North and South America or to Australia.

Australia absolutely forbade the entrance of Japanese labor in spite of the alliance between England and Japan. Emigration to the United States was forbidden under the "gentlemen's agreement" binding the two nations. Emigration to South America was made difficult, owing to the American Monroe doctrine.

STARVATION PROBLEMS.

Here then was the position of Japan at the outbreak of the European war:

Her people were facing starvation because of the congested conditions at home.

The only remedy was emigration.

Emigration could be accomplished satisfactorily only as long as Japan had an enormous army and navy to enforce the right of her people to emigrate to other lands.

It was clearly become impossible to continue the maintenance of such an army and navy, for financial reasons.

Japan had to get a fist into the enormously rich coffers of China or miserably perish; that was the long and short of it.

The European war unexpectedly gave Japan the chance for which she had been longing. As the ally of England, she offered to capture the German province, Kiao-Chow. England was unwilling that she should do this, well realizing the real purpose and intention of Japan. The Japanese were so insistent, however, that England had to countenance the attack upon the German fortress at Tsing-tau. England insisted, however, upon sending a force of British troops to participate in the attack so that the Japanese could not claim the place as a trophy of war.

By the fall of this one fortress, Japan had at last the chance for which she had been striving since 1895.

DEMANDS ON CHINA.

Once in possession of Tsing-tau, Japan threw off her mask and pounced down upon China like a hungry dog which has been let into a butcher shop. Her famous twenty-one demands upon China have never been equalled in the history of nations for voracious greed.

In fact, Japan went so far in these demands that the Japanese government instructed China to keep the terms of the demands secret, with dire threats of punishment if they should become known. Meantime, she presented for public consumption a milder set of demands.

Among other things, Japan asked the right to build a railroad invading England's sphere of influence in the Yangtse Valley. It was demanded that the Chinese central government should employ influential Japanese as advisers in political, financial and military affairs. Under these demands, China can have practically no relations with or give any kind of concessions to any foreign power without the consent of Japan.

Japan, of course, anticipated trouble as the result of these demands. After the European war, she expects a vigorous protest from England; even a war, perhaps, for Japan has practically smothered England's position in the Orient. She depends upon her new alliance with Russia to keep England quiet. With Russia down into Persia at the foot of the Khyber Pass on one side of India and Japan on the other side of India, Japan feels she can silence Great Britain. Germany is out of the Orient and does not wish to return.

Japan has struck her blow. Her ambition is plain. She intends to rule and exploit China as her own. Once cock of the walk, she intends to put into operation a Japanese Monroe doctrine for the Orient—the Orient for orientals.

Only two eventualities can arise to deprive her of the predominance she seeks. One is the military regeneration of China; the other of the United States.

WHEN SHE'LL STRIKE.

Japan's danger is twofold: that the United States will build a big navy and insist upon the open door policy, whereby the wealth of China will be open to American trade; that America will lend China the money to organize her vast population into armies. If either of these two dangers becomes threatening, Japan will strike. In the opinion of many diplomats, Japan will never allow the United States to assume a strong lead over her in navy matters; her attitude toward our navy building in the Pacific will be the attitude of England toward Germany when it became apparent that the Kaiser meant to dispute with Great Britain the sovereignty of the seas.

One further condition should not be ignored as affecting the relations of Japan and the United States. Since the beginning of the European war, Japan has suddenly expanded into an empire. She has grabbed China. She has taken unto herself most of the oriental island possessions of Germany.

Empires are governed not so much by force as by prestige. The prestige of Japan cannot endure to have any more slights and snubs put upon her by the United States, as in the past. Japan, as a practical matter of business, must insist upon being treated as an equal.

Throughout the Japanese empire the expectation is general that they must eventually fight a war with America before they can secure their position as the England of the Orient. Recent utterances of Japanese notables point toward this.

The Japanese Year Book for 1914 is quoted by George Bronson Rea as follows: "The object of national armament is primarily to guard our interest in Manchuria and China and next, to be prepared against a possible emergency with the U.S.A."

Princes Asaka and Higashi Kuni, students in the Japanese military academy, on being taken to visit the battle fields of Manchuria made a speech in which they said, "Truly it is the duty of the subjects of the empire to expand beyond the seas. Nay, we have the right to put an end to the thousand indignities of the half-beast Yankees."

In 1914 there was published in Japan a book called the "War to Come" by an anonymous author but generally admitted to have been written by a Japanese naval officer of high rank. In it, he said,

"Is war between Japan and America inevitable? That is the great question for the world to solve in the first half of the twentieth century. For Japan it is a question of the utmost significance. I am not a whit behind others in the ardent desire for peace but if the arrogance of Americans toward the Japanese continues as in the near past, how can we expect the waves of the Pacific to remain calm and tranquil?"

During the hearings before the Committee on Military Affairs of the House of Representatives, Congressman Julius Kahn of California put into the record a copy of an article from the Continental Times, published in Berlin. This article was a translation of part of a book called "The War Between Japan and America;" it purported to be issued by an organization called "The National Defense League of Japan."

GROUNDS FOR TROUBLE.

Following are extracts from the hearings in which Congress published this document:

"Why should we go to war with the United States?

"There are two reasons:

"First—Because of the absolute inhumanity of the United States toward Japan in practically prohibiting Japanese immigration.

"Second—The palpable and glaring injustice of such legislation against the Japanese. The United States differentiates deliberately between us and the Chinese, who are of much lower standing and education.

"The problem of California is so much in the minds of the Japanese at present and also in view of the fact we intend to colonize it shortly that we give its description. (Here follows a glowing description of California.)

"The Americans boast of their Panama Canal, but is only too ridiculously simple for us to dynamite it effectively at the cost of an old steamship full of powder. Nominally, of course, the ship would be merely a cargo vessel, but at a given signal the few of the crew that it carried for this noble deed would go ashore and disappear. Then comes the explosion and the canal is wrecked for many months, at least. Before the United States warships can come around South America we will have seized the islands. These lie much nearer our shores than they do to the United States coast and it will be a difficult matter to oust us, as our navy is much stronger than the American, better equipped and better officered.

"Our cry, 'On to California, on to Hawaii, on to the Philippines," is becoming only secondary in our country to our national anthem.

"The Hawaiian Islands are only distant from San Francisco a few hours by our fast warships and cruisers and in the islands at present are 80,000 Japanese.. All of them have received army instruction and they know their duty."

It is only fair to add that the Japanese claim that this document was a fake written by a Japanese yellow reporter. Many journalists in the Orient claim the document in genuine. It was considered of enough importance to be embodied in the archives of the United States government.

Jefferson Jones, a well-known journalist who witnessed the fall of Tsingtau and who lived in Japan for some time previous thereto, expresses the belief that war will be avoided. George Bronson Rea, already quoted several times, says war can be avoided if we tear up the Monroe doctrine and issue a new doctrine declaring, "The place of America is at home."

Says Mr. Rea. "To satisfy the vaulting ambition of the Japanese imperialist we must say to our manufacturers, our merchants and our missionaries:

"'In the future you must not go into China to sell or teach or preach except upon such terms as Japan in her greatness and wisdom may dictate. The mission of Japan is to interpret and to decide these matters. We cannot interfere because such interference would offend Japan.'

"To satisfy the vaulting ambition of the Japanese imperialists we can say to the Latin American republics:

"'If Japanese immigrants settle within your borders in such numbers and act in such a manner which you may deem hostile to your best economic and political interests, if then you enact legislation to curb such immigration and economic and political dangers and if Japan, resenting such legislation, declares war upon you and seizes your territory, you must look to yourselves and not to us.'"

That between such a doctrine and war the United States will avoid war, the Japanese are inclined to believe.

"The United States," said Kazan Kayahara in the "Third Empire," "is a nation anxious for peace at any price. She is a woman's country and women love peace."

a gain of $3,325,964.70, or approximately 300 per cent.

On July 1 last the total bank deposits of Los Angeles aggregated $214,246,456.31, a gain of $39,738,355.32 over the corresponding date last year. Bank clearings from January 1 to August 1 of this year were $710,882,164.24, an increase of $112,742,316.27 over the corresponding period last year.

MORE SAVINGS DEPOSITS.

Every savings bank in Los Angeles has greater deposits and more depositors than last year. One savings bank alone has 10,000 more depositors than it ever had before, and other big savings institutions have increased the number of their depositors from 2000 to 7000 or 8000 each.

Building permits, both in number and value, have increased appreciably over those of last year. There is renewed activity in building high-class apartment-houses, the number of these buildings now going up being greater than for three years. There is the greatest activity in the history of the city in the construction of flats. Those built this year are larger and more expensive than those heretofore erected.

The industrial bureau of the Chamber of Commerce reports that the list of new factory buildings constructed and under construction for the first half of this year was greater than for the entire year of 1915. Seventy-nine new industries have located here since last January. Large sums are also being expended in additions and improvements to motion-picture plants.

The bureau's figures show that factory buildings erected and contracted for, and their equipment, represent so far this year an expenditure of more than $13,000,000, three times as much as has been spent by any other city in California.

ROMANCE AND JAIL.

Orange County Ranchman Insists on Keeping With a Manicurist a Theater Engagement that She Refuses; Spends Night in Bastile.

It cost G. T. Packard, prosperous Orange county ranchman, a night in jail to try to keep a theater engagement with a manicurist. He arrived here Thursday and shortly afterwards invited himself to a manicure in a downtown hotel. The young woman who decorated his nails is Miss Lydia Nickel.

While Mr. Packard's nails were receiving a splendor of polish he suggested to Miss Nickel that she attend the theater with him. But when Mr. Packard appeared at the barber shop along about theater time Miss Nickel did not accept his engagement.

Early Friday morning he appeared at the barber shop again. He had another polish put on his nails. Miss Nickel made a joke about a farmer from Orange county liking to have the orange stick used on his nails, and he again invited her to the theater. Again she refused.

Last night when she left the shop, she alleges, Packard was outside waiting for her and when she started homeward, he followed. So she walked to the Police Station and asked the police to arrest him. They did and Packard spent the night facing a charge of disturbing the peace. Yesterday Miss Nickel failed to appear to prosecute him, so he was released.

LAW'S ARM LONG.

Man Arrested for Alleged Postal Fraud of Years Ago.

Uncle Sam is never asleep at the switch. Yesterday information was received of the arrest at San Diego of Herbert L. Jackson, on the charge of stealing a money order in Kansas City in 1911. The order called for $15, which Jackson secured, it is alleged.

Jackson was arrested in Detroit in 1912 and after furnishing bond left the country. Recently the chase was taken up by Postoffice Inspector Frank Sharon of Denver, who located Jackson in San Diego.

Hunt Forty Years.

carried on the quest for three years and while she was on her way to San Francisco, she met a woman whose small son, she discovered, was named Black. Immediately she was interested and found he was the grandson of the man she was looking for. But unluckily, the mother of the boy was the divorced wife of the old man's son, and she, too, had lost track of the family, but, through information furnished by her, Miss Babcock was at last able to locate the Mr. Black she sought.

He is an old man, and when he sent the picture to Miss Babcock, he said it was like giving up a treasured keepsake of some member of the family. But, as an old man, he had kept his word, made almost half a century ago. The note was paid off, but he said no amount could have induced him to part with the picture under other conditions.

WORTH A LARGE SUM.

Although the painting is small, eight inches high and twelve in length, it is said to be very valuable. Mrs. H. A. Rengstorff of Mountain View, Mr. Baker's other daughter, who was given the companion to this painting, a pastoral scene, is said to have refused $30,000 for it. A remarkable thing about the recovery of the lost gift is that it was finally discovered within five miles from the former home of Mr. Baker, almost within a stone's throw of where the transfer of the picture and the money loan was made nearly half a century before.

Both pictures are done in oils on silver and originally reposed in fine old Florentine frames. The value of the picture that was lost was unknown to Mr. Black, so the old frame was removed for a more "up-to-date" one. Miss Babcock intends to send the old painting to a New York art critic to learn more of its history. It is supposed to have been painted by a contemporary of Sir Joshua Reynolds, and some of the actual work was possibly done by him, but little else is known of it by Miss Babcock, except that for more than 200 years it hung in the galleries of the Stuart family before descending to the Virginia general.

SLAVERY CASE BEGUN.

Alleged Army Deserter Arraigned on a Sordid Charge.

Cuban R. Roberts, an alleged deserter from the army, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hammack yesterday on the charge of violating the Mann white slave act. The hearing was set for Wednesday and the bond fixed at $2500. In default Roberts was returned to the County Jail.

Yesterday morning Roberts's wife had an interview with Assistant United States District Attorney Moody, and expressed the hope that the case against her husband would be speedily disposed of, as she is desirous of returning to Jerome, Ariz., where she said she was managing a disreputable house.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION.

Homer L. Baker, a salesman of this city, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court, yesterday. His liabilities, incurred as the owner of 248 shares of the Pittsburgh Aluminum Company, amount to $8,141.61. The assets are given at $11,782.21, of which $5280 is claimed to be exempt from execution by law.

The Biggest Wash Goods Opportunity of the Season

We hesitate to call a sale at the Ville "sensational," because we really do not like that word, but when Wash Goods—and such tremendous quantities of them, are so drastically reduced and marked 10c, "sensational" seems to be the only word that applies.

We've taken all the odds and ends and unsold bolts of finest fabrics for Summer and marked them at a price lower in every instance than the merchandise cost.

Every yard of it is fresh and clean and some of the bolts have never been taken from their stock room.

No sale of wash goods, this year, has offered such hundreds of chances to women to save material sums on the purchase of exquisite, cotton fabrics.

The following list is only suggestive of materials that will be marked 10c tomorrow.

All popular sport stripes, 10c yard.

Plain color, staple striped, printed and plaid voiles, 10c yard.

Ripplette, 10c yard.

Serpentine Crepe, 10c yd.

Figured and plain semi-silk crepe de chine, 10c yd.

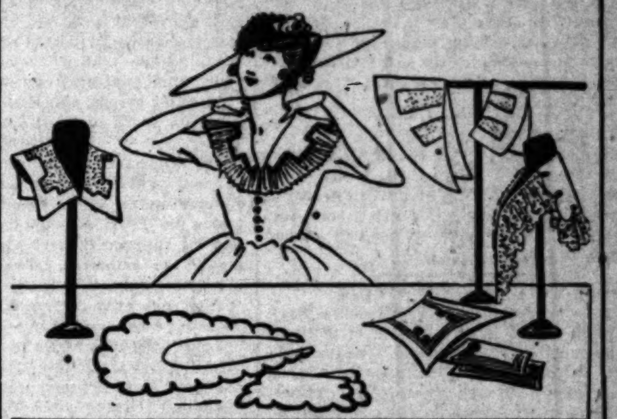
Neckwear Now Is Made of Broadcloth



The maker of neckwear in his search for the new and unusual found that his travels took him into dress goods fields this fall. There he found that broadcloth is the accepted of fashion.

So thought he, "why not broadcloth for collars?"

—And indeed why not?

So now we have broadcloth collars in the most charming of shapes. Beautiful styles of broadcloth and Georgette crepe combined, equally bewitching collars of broadcloth and lace, while still others of broadcloth alone are effectively trimmed with black buttons and edging.

Prices ranging, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50 each for collars and sets. Cuffs to match some at $1 pair.

Chronicle of the Basement's Saving Opportunities

Continuance of the Sale of Women's Dainty Wash Frocks

Out of Friday's sale a few dresses remain of the original 600. Dainty beach and sports dresses of linen; informal afternoon frocks of striped, figured and colored voile and organdie and catchy little evening styles.

The prices: $1.95 and $3.45. We almost forgot them because they were so small. In fact, they're smaller considerably than what these same dresses should have been marked originally.

Two Low Prices—Wash Skirts Priced Too Low

95c and 79c—just because the skirts were collected from broken lines, incomplete size ranges and odd skirts that have accumulated from the season's selling. There are a few more—not many, so please hurry if you want one.

Velvet Shapes--Fall Styles in the Low Priced Section

Blue, brown, purple and black velvet hats in sailor, turban and medium sized shapes. They're good hats—very good hats—hats that should sell for more money, but we marked them special at $1.49.

Plaid is the Fall Color for Waists—Taffeta the Silk —and $2.39 is The Ville Basement's price for a special lot less than a week old.

Fancy stripes and plaids. Dark grounds with fancy high-colored patterns. Convertible collars.

THEY GOT HIM.

Dispatches from New York state that Pat Calhoun, once the trolley millionaire, has become bankrupt. He testified that he had only $5 left. The wolves got him at last. It was a savage hunt.

DELUDED WOMEN.

King Hiram's women office-holders delude themselves if they think they are fooling the rank and file of the clubwomen. Of course, these pay-roll patriots are for King Hiram. They have no need to advertise it.

EXPENSIVE DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Since the passing of the daylight saving act in Great Britain the electric light and power corporations report a heavy falling off in receipts. A meeting has been held at which it was agreed that prices must be raised to the consumer at least 20 per cent.

This must be peculiarly aggravating. Fancy getting up an hour earlier in the morning only to pay the light corporations for the privilege. The Briton has no weakness for early rising, and one can imagine him sighing with heartfelt sorrow as he reflects upon the cruel exigencies of war.

FRANKNESS WITH JAPAN.

On another page of The Times appears an article giving for the first time a sympathetic consideration of the Japanese side of the issues in the threatened conflict between the United States and Japan.

It may safely be assumed that Japan does not want war if there is any less expensive way around the situation. And the United States does not want war.

Yet in the Pacific, the interests of the two countries are coming into collision. We avoid discussion of these issues and begin to arm ourselves. Japan avoids a discussion of them and adds four or five divisions to the army and a large number of ships to her navy.

Although prospects of friction are seen between the two countries over the question of immigration and over the proposal of Japan to drive all western powers out of Oriental spheres of influence, there is nothing between the two countries that sensible men cannot adjust.

United States Senator Albert Fall of New Mexico last winter suggested that a joint commission from the two countries be called, frankly to discuss the causes of probable friction. This seems to be a suggestion at least worth considering.

A SPOTLESS CHAMPION.

Charles Evans Hughes has been in public life for fifteen years. He has represented the people as an investigating attorney, whose business it was to expose any corporate corruption. He has represented the people as Governor of the State of New York. He has represented the people, by the choice of a President than whom none ever has held more highly the ability and purity of the United States Supreme Court, as a justice sitting on that bench. Not a person can point out an act of Mr. Hughes, in all those trying offices in which the glare of publicity has been upon him that has been anything but clear of alloy. His motives have been recognized as above suspicion, and his action is not only strong in its texture but also pure in its spirit.

This is the man whom the Republican party has selected for its champion in the national campaign, and for the people's representative who will discharge his duties in the highest office of all with the wholeness of heart and mind that he has always shown. His character invites and demands attention. What he says is emphasized by the man who says it. But it is safe to say that in loftiness of appeal, completeness of knowledge and wisdom of deduction the tour of Mr. Hughes is an inspiring lesson to this nation. From the equivocal acts of the Democratic party as represented at Washington—a party which in its very candidate this year is violating its own promise not to present him to the people again—it is a relief to turn to a man who has always kept his promises to the people and has made them keep their promises to themselves.

Charles Evans Hughes is the master of completeness and lucidity of expression and says one thousand words is enough to use in any speech. But he is not the first example of an ability to boil down important statements. It will be recalled that the story of the crucifixion was told in four hundred words.

Chinese students visiting on the Pacific Coast have this college yell: "Chi, hi, yi shai ki, chung wung, we cum, hip long hi." Don't know but that it is an improvement on the American college yell. It is easier translated.

The way to make it Booth all the way is not only to vote in that direction, but see to it that your neighbor does. No candidate ever landed a success by having his friends stand around and talk about it.

A man's wife is referred to as his better half. But suppose he is twice married? Is there anything of him left?

In order to get the cherries it is necessary to climb the tree. If you wait too long the birds will get 'em.

DOUBLE-CROSSING THE RAILROADS.

Now that they have enlisted the President as an ally, the railroad employees evidently think they need not be deterred from striking by the fear that any very vigorous and conclusive Federal measures will be used to keep the railroad service of the country running. Mr. Wilson yesterday repeated with an air of finality his caveat that the employees were right in their demands for the increase of $100,000,000 annually in wages, and he warned the employers that they should yield.

The ordinary business man who yields to blackmail is thought an un-American and cowardly citizen. He knows that, once he has handed over his purse, he will never again be master of it or have peace. A strike is nothing more or less than blackmail: it is a threat to damage property unless mercenary demands are met.

The railroad employers would be not only weak-backed citizens but poor business men if they timidly gave in at the eleventh hour to the gigantic blackmail; they would be poor business men because they haven't $100,000,000 a year to pay as increased wages and they cannot themselves make provisions for getting it. They cannot increase their revenues without the permission of the Federal Railroad Commission. Mr. Wilson said yesterday that he would use his influence to get the rates increased if the employers would yield, and if they then could convince him that they needed the money.

In other words, the President as much as gives his word to do all he can to make the public pay—if the railroad employers can prove to his satisfaction that they can't meet the increase. The public has a right to have its say as to any triangular collusion between its President, its railroad employers and its railroad owners—for in the last analysis the railroads belong to the public. They are common carriers. Our commercial system, our very civilization, has been built up around the railroads. They have aptly been called the arteries of the nation.

In the first place, the Railroad Commission has fixed what it presumably believes is the maximum charge that may equitably be placed on the railroad schedule. Any increase in that charge must be scrutinized carefully, and a heavy increase would become utterly preposterous when made for the purpose of paying larger wages to the highest paid class of workmen in the world; for such are the railroad employees.

The railroad employers would be incompetent business men if they increased their expenditures $100,000,000 a year on the same basis of income which they claim to have found inadequate for years past; a basis of income which has necessitated severe and marked retrenchments in every department excepting that of wages to their employees. These wages have increased on an average of 30 to 42 per cent. from 1903 to 1914, and wages of western engineers were further increased in 1915.

The railroad employers stand for arbitration. They ask that the situation be thoroughly investigated by a competent commission, and they express themselves as willing to abide by its decision. The employees reject all proposals of arbitration, and in this Mr. Wilson upholds them.

However, yesterday he promised the railroad employers the enactment by January, 1917, of a compulsory investigation law, similar in general lines to the Canadian industrial dispute act.

In other words, President Wilson repudiates at the present time any stand requiring a compulsory investigation of the employees' and employers' claims with a view toward determining which side is right; but he promises the employers a law which will keep them from extortion in the remote future. Indeed, Mr. Wilson is willing to lock the barn after the horse is stolen. He is willing to give his support to an equitable law after he has won to himself the votes of the half-million railroad employees whose spokesman he has become—most significantly on the eve of an election in which he seeks a second term.

The employers urge a compulsory investigation now. They present the attitude of men confident they are right and willing to be judged by any honest investigating commission. The employees on the other hand stubbornly refuse to listen to arbitration or to an investigation. "Yield or we strike" is their ultimatum.

If every employer yielded to the menacing threat of unionism, a fine nation we would have in a few months! If the railroad employers are intimidated now, they can expect to be intimidated next year and the year after, and the years after that. Mr. Wilson's promise of preventive legislation is not to be taken any more seriously than similar promises he has made when confronted by a political exigency. If a compulsory investigation will be equitable for both employers and employees in 1917, it is equitable now; and it were better that the strike come than that a grievous injustice be perpetrated. The strike would not last long because it would be insufferable. In thirty days at the most the public would be exasperated into demanding and getting some equitable solution of the difficulty. The employees at the present time are the only ones who refuse to accept an investigation by a competent commission and equitable arbitration. If there is a civil war in this country, the guilt be on their heads!

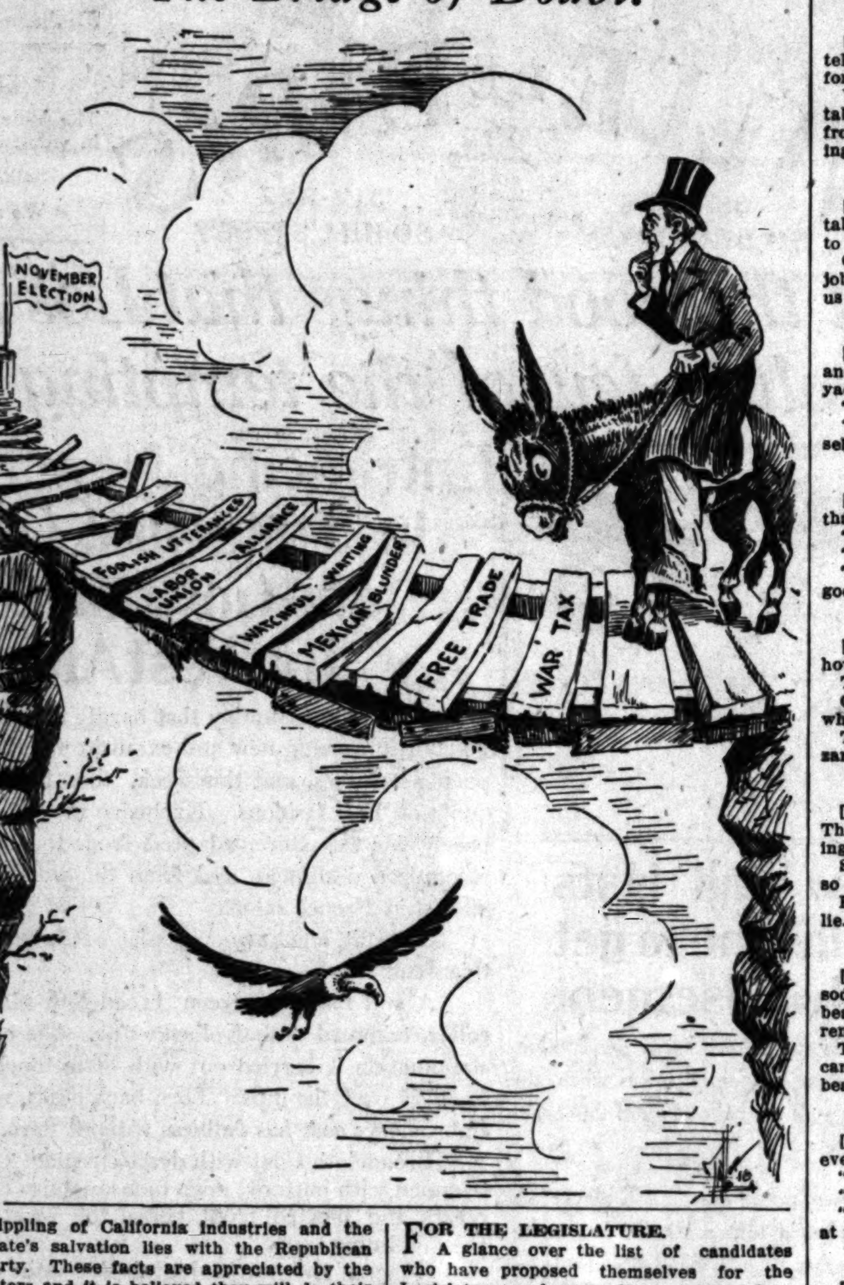
THE PRIMARY.

With approximately 100,000 voters in the city and county of Los Angeles—or one-third of the total registration—expected to cast their ballots at the primary election next Tuesday, you can see that much depends upon the decisions of a minority. Whether California shall remain in the clutches of the Johnson machine is the paramount question, and all signs point to its defeat. There never has been a more crucial election in California, never a time when careful discernment of the myriad candidates and their principles was more important. Three times in the past year the voters have repudiated King Hiram. Despite his urgent personal appeals and the demands made upon the public by his hired henchmen and the subsidized, reactionary press, the electors have exercised their good judgment and taken steps to rebuild the political tissue and fiber of California to the point that it again is securing national recognition as a power in the counsels of the Grand Old Party.

The death of the Progressive party, which succumbed when Theodore Roosevelt bolted it in Chicago two months ago, has left no middle ground. The line is sharply drawn between the Republican and Democratic parties. The latter in power means the crippling of California industries and the State's salvation lies with the Republican party. These facts are appreciated by the voters and it is believed they will do their honest duty next Tuesday by taking a decisive stand against the destructive and deceptive elements in our political realm and by nominating the candidates who represent the policies and principles that mean prosperity and progress for California. The voters are facing a complex situation in that they are compelled to choose between regular Republicans and false-hearted Progressive renegades whose names appear on the ballot as Republicans. The inexperienced, unsuspecting voter may easily be deceived, which the Progressive bosses well know; and the confusion is the result of malicious premeditation. The Republican party predominates throughout California and the Progressive bosses have taken advantage of our rotten primary law, which permits a man to become a candidate of any party, regardless of his personal party affiliation by advertising themselves as Republican candidates. In nearly every district fight the voters are confronted with this decidedly unfair and deluding condition.

The Times has taken the trouble of making a thorough investigation of the numerous aspirants and publishes on another page of this issue a summary and classification for the benefit of the voters who may not know the candidates and their affiliations. Comments on the candidates are accurate. Peruse them closely and you need make no mistake in determining their political status. Who they are, what they stand for and whom they represent is given without prejudice and in a spirit of fairness to the electors. Under the old convention system it was impossible for voters to be deceived as to the politics of a candidate; and were it in operation today this confusion would be eliminated; Republicans would not be facing the possibility of giving their support to a hypocrite or a candidate who cannot even vote the Republican ticket. Fortunately for the party, there is a silver lining to the cloud; brighter days ahead, because Republicanism is rapidly coming into its own in California and when the Johnson gang is driven from Sacramento, the vicious primary laws will be erased and the people again will know when they vote the Republican ticket they have voted for Republicans. There will be no opportunity for a Johnson, a Benedict, a Brown, a Mouser or other pronounced Progressives to go before the people in the guise of Republicans. May the Giver of all good things hasten the day when we emerge from the yoke of the unscrupulous, selfish ring that has brought shame and disgrace to our State during the past six years. Mr. Voter, the power is yours. Read carefully The Times' symposium. Spot the renegades and give them the treatment they deserve. Support only known, tried and true Republicans and the victory next Tuesday will be yours.

The Bridge of Doubt.



PART OF A BAD RECORD.

The Democratic party in Congress, by the record, shows the largest expenditure in the country's history, outside of preparedness expense.

The Democrats lack knowledge of how to run the country.

They legislate and industries are stifled and annihilated.

They kill business and give no return to the masses of the people.

They increase prices to the consumer and destroy, or at least lessen, his chance of making a living.

They annul $60,000,000 or more annual revenue on sugar and at the same time increase its price to the consumer, and allow the sugar interests to buy ahead and make larger profits—and then afterward reverse their action.

Vera Cruz fizzles, Lusitania unavenged massacres, Mexico muddles and frenzied statesmanship cry to heaven.

A Republican victory next November in the White House and in Congress will be the salvation of these United States.

FOR THE LEGISLATURE.

A glance over the list of candidates who have proposed themselves for the Legislature, under our direct primary law, reveals that an unusually large number of second and third rate men are seeking what should be first rate positions. To use a rural simile, there are entirely too many small potatoes in the bottom of the legislative barrel.

New lines of industry are placed under the supervision of our State government at every session of the Legislature; yet not one lawmaker in ten who votes to regulate these industries is capable of holding more than a subordinate post in the industry he regulates.

Neither is there anything encouraging to the lover of good government in the campaign methods of the legislative candidates. The law is so framed that there is no opportunity for a voter to know what a candidate stands for, to what party he belongs or upon what he bases his claim for political recognition. The party platform is abolished; the name in a party column means nothing as there are instances in the present primary in which the name of the same candidate will appear on the ticket of every party. Self-exploitation is at a premium; the candidate who can get his name on the most tickets, his homely mug on the most billboards and his banners carried by the most jitney brass bands is the favorite in the election pools.

In the present legislative campaign some of the administration papers have set forth the specious claim that the administration is aiding in the election of a high-class Legislature by lending its support to first-class men in every Assembly and Senatorial district. But a perusal of a list of candidates proposed for office shows that in at least one-third of the Assembly districts of the State, the voter's choice reduces itself to choosing from three or four incompetents; and in at least half the cases the administration support is thrown to the worst candidate.

Take the San Francisco legislative delegation that Gov. Johnson has personally indorsed. It contains the names of three keepers of dives on the water front or Barbary Coast, who were warned last week by the Law and Order Committee of San Francisco that they must reform their places or they will be prosecuted under the red light abatement law. The list contains the name of the president of the Barkeepers' Union of San Francisco; there are two ex-prizefighters and a saloon roustabout. A pleasant prospect indeed for good government.

Never was there a more disreputable delegation indorsed from San Francisco, and never was there more need for a Legislature composed of clean, honest, intelligent men. We have all suffered severely during the last four years by reason of our listlessness in regard to the quality of the candidates whom we support for the Legislature. Government reports prove beyond cavil that the State government of California is the most costly per capita in the United States, and that a similar condition prevails in our county governments. This would not be the case if we did not send men to Sacramento who can be bribed by salaried State jobs to vote for the greatest extravagances the country has ever known.

These things will continue until we formulate some other method than self-nomination by the "direct primary," for naming candidates for the Legislature, and offer some inducement to get fearless and competent men to stand for office. We can do something this year by supporting the candidates for re-election who voted against the extravagant administration bills two years ago, and in voting for new men in preference to those who helped two and four years ago to make our tax bills so high. It might even be possible to secure a Legislature of a high enough moral caliber to undo much of the wrong that has been done.

Young ladies ought to know that facial beauty can be enhanced by thinking. It is a severe test, but it will pay.

STREAKS OF WIT.

"Well, I wouldn't say that. He gives it all to me."

RIPPLING RHYMES.

SUMMER FIGHTING.

The Germans and French, in the field and trench, still brandish their red snickersees; they slash at their foes, though the mercury shows it's up above 90 degrees. If I had to scrap all over the map, I'd surely be frightfully bored; I'd hate to be shot when the weather is hot, I'd hate to be sliced with a sword. I've nothing to do but to simmer and stew, and punish the pink lemonade; and yet I complain of the torture and strain, while loafing around in the shade. I sit in the swing and I mutter, "By jing, this heat is a punishment dire; and I'll wager my purse that I wouldn't feel worse if I sat with my feet in a fire." But what would I say if there ambled my way a warrior bold, with a gun? And what would I think if he filled me with zinc, and old rusty nails by the ton? All melting my grease, but I'm melting in peace, and ought to be cheerful and gay; I'd hate to be shot when the weather is hot, I'd hate to be scrapping all day.

WALT MASON.

ITALIAN IMPORTERS FOR WILSON.

Frank O. Lowden, Republican candidate for Governor of Illinois, has unearthed something which ought to influence every citrus grower in the State of California to vote for Charles Evans Hughes at the November election.

In a recent campaign address Mr. Lowden held up a photograph and said:

"This photograph is of the wrapping of a lemon that came from Palermo, Italy, and every lemon in the shipment had a similar wrapping. Notice what is printed on the wrapper and then consider what it means:

"'L'Union co-operative — forward the Democracy—Woodrow Wilson (here is an alleged picture of President Wilson)—ne plus ultra—Carrini Lemons—Italy.'"

In other words, the lemon shippers of Italy, who compete with our own growers of California, are advocating the re-election of President Wilson. They have turned their lemon wrappers into campaign documents and every buyer is urged to "forward the Democrat, Woodrow Wilson."

This incident well illustrates the political situation. Europe has profited by the Democratic tariff law, which denies protection to American manufacturers and growers.—[Pacific Fruit World.

FLIRTISMS.

[By Anna Carroll in the Day Book.]

Married men are the most willing flirts. Men with marriageable daughters will flirt.

Ninety-nine and a half per cent. of flirts are men.

If a woman flirts, it is generally because she is lonely.

Society's only chance is to inform itself regarding the flirt's methods and take proper action for protection.

The automobile flirt is the most irresistible of them all.

Let there be the slightest suspicion in a woman's glance and the man begins to dust his coat and arrange his tie.

Con Cuchillo.

CHILE CON CARNAGE.

BEING THE PARTICULAR PEPPER IN SOME PERSONAL OPINIONS

Of Don yo de Chiltepin.

Whatever our war sympathies, whatever we love or hate the country, yet the ship and her captain are Ours. Koenig and his "Deutschland" belong not to Germany but to Humanity—the gallantest fairy-story in the history of man. To get here was the most astounding thing in all the annals of daring and of efficiency. To get home again, through and between the very teeth of the roused Bulldog of the Seas, was ten times more marvelous yet. There is nothing done by man before with which to compare it. Ever go down into the gizzard of one of our own innocuous submarines at a peaceful wharf? Ever wonder how you'd stand it if she closed up and went down a few moments? Remember our righteous indignation when a President actually went down in a submarine? Ever hear of persons afraid they might be buried alive?

All the charges, all the trenches, all the sieges in the history of War do not compare with the deadly heroism of that little crew that braved unseen foes for two months in the stinking gloom of a skurrying tomb from Bremen to Baltimore and back. It means an end to the Bully of the Seas—which concerns us a good deal, commercially. But it means far more—to American, Briton, Frenchman, Teuton and all the world. It means that man has never yet done so great a thing that man cannot do a greater. And little Paul Koenig has the record to date. And every generous heart in all the world, friend or foe, will drink the toast in any other language or in his own—"Koenig ueber alles, unter alles und alles was rund ist!"

God bless him—and give the world more of his kind!

I "finish to receive" (as we Spanish say) a portentous envelope marked "personal"—thus generously including me among the 300,000 other voters to whom this self-same missive is addressed as "personal;" at somebody's expense of $3000 for postage, $25,000 for printing, and something like $5000 for clerical assistance. That makes a solemn hole in a gubernatorial rake-down of only $40,000 a year. Pure Patriotism comes high! But doubtless a Seat in the Senate is worth all it costs.

The upper corner of this compelling envelope bears the legend—in stud-horse type, and underlined at that:

"HERE IS A MAN"

And when I untucked the flap—what do you think? Why, Hire-'em (I thanked thee, Times, for teaching me that word) Hire-'em is the MAN!

Now, Politics and I are no relation. It makes no strange bedfellows for me. I don't even wait for bedtime to say: "There goes your hat out of the window. If you make a good run, mebbe you can catch up with it on the street."

But in youth I used to collect Bugs; so even now I cannot help a mild interest in the Bonnet Buzz-Bee. So I perused this Pussonal Appeal to my Puerility.

From the portrait illustrations I observe that Hereisaman Hire-'em wears visible trousers, a red right hand and a damned disinheriting countenance. I feel sure he is No Lady.

But as I read the modest letterpress which accompanies the dehorned portrait of the Bull in our China Shop, I wonder what was the use of writing the Bible anyhow; or even the misguided histories of our poor little country.

Hirie assures us—and he ought to know, if anyone does—that he is "a real statesman," "already a national figure," "a giant in debate"—A-N-D "such a champion as the U. S. Senate has not seen since Webster."

Help! Why mention Webster? And of course nobody is supposed to remember that California has herself had in the Senate one Stephen M. White, with more brains in his toe nails, more heart in his hair and more "Giant debate" in his index finger than Hiram W. Johnson has, ever did have or could ever grow to have in all his gross and egotistic anatomy.

Fancy "Steve" White (as we loved to call this greatest of Californians)—fancy Senator Bard—fancy Senator Flint—fancy any decent man outside the asylum, advertising himself as the second Daniel Webster! Haven't we of California had enough already, without this slap in the face of the intelligence of the world?

And then to learn (from this same modest document at Somebody's expense) that this same Hiram is "The People's Candidate for U. S. Senator!" WHICH "People?" Must be in Louis XIV style—"the People? That's Me."

Truly, the ordinary sane American must revolt at the asininity of this incomparable egotism. Please take your blocks and spell it out, letter by letter! "H-i-r-a-m W. J-o-h-n-s-o-n—the Only Other D-a-n-i-e-l W-e-b-s-t-er!"

Shame on that shrinking envelope and its incompetent "Here is a Man!" Why isn't Hiram candid with us, even now? Why doesn't he say what he means? "Here is Goddlemighty with a Trailer"—the trailer being one Charles Evans Hughes, whoever he may be.

We get the government we deserve. We deserved Johnson for Governor. If we make him Senator—that will serve us right again. But I know one old Californian who would sooner vote Lydia Pinkham into the Senate than for this noisiest False Alarm that ever profaned the sanctuary of self-respect. Let those discuss who will his executive manias as Governor. That's (luckily) getting past. But any sober person needs no more evidence than the present incomparable Impudence of the Only Man that Ever Lived—so far as he knows.

I would like to be a railroad president (without salary) for exactly seven days, just at the present juncture. To help hand over the United States on a silver salver to strikers? (Linotyper, please put an extra ?)

Being good-natured, I will give you another guess!

Proven Beet Lands
$350 to $400 per acre with water
Proven Lemon Lands
$400 to $550 per acre with water

You know the value of dependable, frostless lemon and Valencia orange land and proven sugar beet acreage.

You know the high prices at which land that will grow these products successfully is held throughout the state.

You know that $400 an acre is an absurdly low price for choice lemon and Valencia orange land.

You know that $350 an acre is an almost unbelievably low figure for No. 1, proven sugar beet land.

Yet these surprisingly low prices obtain today at San Fernando Mission Lands—for deep, rich, responsive land under the great $30,000,000 Los Angeles gravity water system.

Wonderful results have been obtained this year—results that will open the eyes of any man who will take the time to investigate.

The sugar beet crops have astonished old, seasoned growers. Citrus experts have been amazed at the achievements in lemon culture.

If every beet and lemon grower in the State could be transported in a body to this property this week for a close personal investigation—every unsold acre would probably be closed out within ten days.

The great water distributing system is now being constructed, and selling activity has begun in real earnest. Over $1,000,000 worth of this land has already been sold to the most conservative ranchers in the State.

Prices are absurdly low—but may be sharply advanced without notice at any time. The terms are 1-5 cash, balance 1, 2, 3 and 4 years, with interest at 6%.

HERE ARE THE CANDIDATES FROM WHOM VOTERS MAY CHOOSE AT THE PRIMARY.

Who's Real Timber and Who's Mere Timbre in the Formidable Lists of Office-seekers who are Up for Nomination—A Careful Review of the Men and What They Have Done, Good and Otherwise.

VOTERS in the city and county of Los Angeles will have important duties to perform at the primary next Tuesday. As a result of our mischievous primary law there are 300 or 400 candidates seeking nomination for a few offices, and it is no easy task for the electors to decide upon the worthy ones. Unfortunately in many of the contests the voter is confronted with most complex situations when he finds that several good Republicans are in the field. The voter wants to be certain that the best candidate is nominated, but when there are two or three "bests" it will require some careful study and discernment.

When the convention system was in vogue the present day trouble was unknown. Republicans knew if they voted the Republican ticket they could not go far wrong. Now in addition to being compelled to select one Republican from a list of many they must take the risk of casting their ballot for any sort of renegade masquerading under the G.O.P. cloak. In nearly all of the Assembly District contests and several others, pronounced Progressives are running as Republicans. They had enough money to secure the signatures necessary to get their names on the ballot and the burden of responsibility rests upon the electors. Consequently The Times herewith presents a symposium of the various candidates, those running for members of the County Central Committee being eliminated. It is designed to assist the voters in making their selections from the long list of aspirants. Read it carefully and vote in accordance with your best judgment.

United States Senator.

There are three candidates for the United States Senate, Willis H. Booth, the only Republican; George S. Patton, a Democrat, and Hiram W. Johnson, a Progressive, who is also seeking Republican votes, at the same time vehemently denying that he is a Republican and denouncing the party in foul language.

The race is between Booth and Johnson. If the State were not cursed with a vicious primary law Johnson could only be the candidate of the Progressive party. He is thoroughly discredited in the ranks of the Republican party, however, having done his best for six years to tear it to pieces and not being entitled even to vote the Republican ticket. As a result it is expected Mr. Booth will receive practically the solid support of the predominating party.

Facts About Mr. Booth.

Willis H. Booth is the only real Republican running for United States Senator. He has been indorsed by the Republican State-wide conference and by the entire Republican party organization throughout California. He has received more indorsements from trade, economic and other non-political organizations than any man who ever ran for United States Senator.

Mr. Booth is a self-made man. He earned his own education by working in a machine shop as a boy; with his own efforts paid his way at the University of California, where he studied commercial law.

With his father and brothers he went into the machinery business practically without capital. He founded and developed an electrical manufacturing concern now the largest of its kind in the world, and became the first man in California to develop an international manufacturing business.

In 1910 he was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce; in 1911, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast. Later he was selected as one of three members from the Pacific Coast of the Foreign Trade Council. He was chairman of a commission that studied commercial conditions in China and the Orient. He made a thorough study of economic conditions in South America; also in Europe.

For a considerable period he represented civic bodies of California at Washington in the interest of the development of the State. It was due largely to his efforts that the harbor at Los Angeles achieved success as a public utility. He assisted in getting government aid for Imperial Valley, and later helped to finance the growers of that valley through their time of stress. He represented San Francisco commercial bodies in the Panama Canal tolls. He fought for California citrus interests before Congress.

He has been a lifelong Republican. He is a firm believer in the fundamental doctrines of Republicanism and a staunch supporter of a protective tariff in the interest of American industries and American labor. He is a thorough-going champion of preparedness along military, naval, spiritual, moral, industrial and economic lines.

In his life, in his public experience, he has made a serious effort toward the preparation for the foreign trade competition that this country must enter at the close of the European war.

Who is Hiram Johnson?

Hiram Johnson broke away from the Republican party in 1910 and chased a rainbow at the end of which was a pot of mush known as the Progressive nomination for Vice-President of the United States. Having deserted the Republican party, he endeavored to destroy it by turning his engine of destruction (the State machine maintained by the taxpayers) against all parties; and, by manipulating the Legislature, he forced through a bill destroying all party lines in California. An outraged populace revolted at this brazen assault upon free institutions, invoked the referendum and prevented the proposed annihilation of parties. Again the people revolted when Hiram tried to get them to elect his set of delegates to the national convention; instead they elected a ticket of straight Republicans. This third attempt to wreck the Republican party is being followed by a fourth. Registered as a Progressive and an avowed enemy of the Republican party, Gov. Johnson, who has insulted Republicans in this State and almost every State in the Union, now cheekily asks Republicans for their support in order that he may once more double-cross the party.

Congress—the Ninth District.

There are four candidates for Congress in the Ninth District. Three of them are Republicans and the other one says he is. He is Charles H. Randall, the incumbent, who also declares he is a Progressive, a Democrat and a Prohibitionist. That he is a Prohibitionist none will deny, and it is known that he is favorably received in Progressive camps; but it was an insult to the Republican party when his name was printed on a Republican ballot. Democrats feel the same about him. Mr. Randall seeks re-election upon his record in Congress. That alone is sufficient reason to repudiate him at the polls. His record has been a dismal failure. Instead of looking after the interests of his constituents, who want protection for their industries more than anything else, he has devoted practically all of his time playing to the white-ribbon galleries.

L. L. Lostutter of Pomona, who has been a staunch supporter of the Republican party all his life, and who made an enviable reputation in the California Legislature as an Assemblyman, is generally conceded to be the most formidable candidate. He has a strong following throughout the district and the indorsement of all Republican organizations in Pomona, Long Beach and environs. The people in that section of the district are a bit jealous of Pasadena, which furnished the Congressman for fourteen years, and say it is about time there was a change. Lostutter is for Booth, Hughes and all good Republicans, and he is a true stalwart.

Edwin F. Hahn of Pasadena has always been looked upon as a Republican and enjoys the respect of a great many people in the district. That Mr. Hahn has trained his eye toward the Progressive voters is taken to mean only that he would appreciate their support, but would not tie up to them. He is a good lawyer and an astute politician.

William H. Jennings is a Republican and is a good man, but he has not figured seriously in the race.

Tenth Congress District.

In the Tenth Congress District two straight Republicans, George W. Prince and H. Z. Osborne, are in a three-cornered fight, owing to the fact that Stanley Benedict, the rankest sort of Progressive, got on the ballot as a Republican. Benedict was turned down by his own party and also the Democrats when he asked them to sign his nomination petitions. Then he dug up enough money to lure unsuspecting Republicans into attaching their signatures to his document, and he came out as a full-fledged Republican candidate. He is the same kind of a Republican as Hiram Johnson and in Washington, where there is no middle ground, would have as much standing as Randall, who had none.

Messrs. Prince and Osborne are on an equal basis from the standpoint of Republicanism. Their principles have not been attacked from any quarter. Mr. Prince's prestige, which has grown rapidly during the past two weeks, is based largely upon his enviable record in Congress. He served eighteen years in the lower house from Illinois and knows the leaders intimately. He served on several of the most important committees, including the Ways and Means, and his friends believe he could do more for Southern California than a man who has never had any experience in Washington. As a member of the Military Committee of the House, Mr. Prince won distinct commendation from such distinguished soldiers as Maj.-Gen. Franklin Bell, former Chief of Staff of the United States Army. Capt. Osborne is well known in Los Angeles, having held a number of positions of importance and having been connected prominently with the Chamber of Commerce and the G.A.R.

James H. Ryckman, Socialist; Arnold Halston, Socialist, and Rufus V. Bowden, Democrat, are running, presumably because they like to see their names in print. They have no chance of election.

Superior Court Judges.

There has been little opposition developed against the re-election of Superior Court Judges Gavin W. Craig, Frank G. Finlayson and John Perry Wood. They are competent, fearless and just. As a rule it is poor policy to remove a seasoned judge for one of inexperience, and the trio of incumbents deserve re-election.

Those seeking to displace the incumbents are Walter W. Middlecoff, who was elected two years ago to fill a short term as presiding judge of the District Court of Appeal; Robert W. McDonald, a justice of the peace in Pasadena for years; Curtis C. Legerton, who gained notoriety by election to a short term as Superior Judge, for which he got no money; William H. Fuller, a good lawyer, and Hollen M. Barstow, a well-known attorney.

District Attorney.

The office of District Attorney is nonpartisan, and as a result people of all parties are behind Thomas Lee Woolwine, who seeks re-election. He was elected two years ago for a short term and by the rules of the game is entitled to a second. That he has made good as a public servant cannot be questioned. He has handled many most trying situations in a commendable manner. He knows no fear and is conscientious in everything he does.

W. T. Helms, who resigned as a deputy District Attorney to run against Mr. Woolwine is looked upon as a "tonguey" fellow, with no small ability when in the right place, but as lacking in judgment politically. He thought he had a chance while E. T. Earl was for him, but now E. Toopious is boosting Ralph Graham and neither of the candidates has a show. Of course, Harry Ellis Dean is a joke, and Frank Baker (being Dick Norton's man Friday) is out of the question.

COUNTY SUPERVISORS.

SECOND DISTRICT.

In the Second Supervisor District the people are happy over the opportunity of removing Richard H. Norton, more familiarly known as Snorton. His record has been a blot on the Second District. He is noisy but inefficient, and his policies, without exception, have been destructive. The only champions he has are men like Frank Mouser and Frank Baker, who are stamped with the Johnson-Lissner brand.

Running against Snorton are two good men. They are Mark G. Jones and Frederick C. Langdon. Mr. Jones was formerly County Treasurer and Mr. Langdon is at present member of the City Council. Either would be good timber in the supervisor body, and it will be hard for the voters to decide which is the better.

Fourth District.

With ten candidates for Supervisor in the Fourth District it should not be difficult to nominate two good men. Eliminating two or three of the bunch, a serious mistake would be impossible, because the majority of the candidates would be acceptable public servants. William E. Hinshaw, the incumbent, has made an excellent record, and everyone concedes him a place on the ticket. His popularity has increased considerably since he made public the statement that E. T. Earl had endeavored to control him and failed. The "Do it, Hinshaw" phrase has become a real joke. Reuben F. McClellan, a banker of Sawtelle, has made a signal success of his own business. He operated extensively in Alaska in mining gold, and of late years has been devoting his time to his interests in Southern California. Charles L. Heartwell is a well-known citizen and good Republican of Long Beach. He is making an active campaign. Charles M. Thaxter, knows the district pretty well, having been a road foreman therein for some time. Peter H. Updike of Long Beach has been more or less identified with the banking business all his life. He has been successful and has a good business head. Herman C. Litchtenberger has friends throughout the county. He is well known to all classes and especially so among the Native Sons, of whose organization he is a Past Grand Commander. D. F. McLaughlin has been in the public eye more than once, having held several offices. Theodore Summerland is an old-time politician and has a large number of friends, together with recognized vested rights. Edward J. Delorey, a Johnson appointee, having served on the Agricultural Board, is better known as a former blacksmith. Dick Snorton is very anxious that Ed should win, but no one else is. He would be subservient to the invisible government and would probably do it if he received the order, "Do it, Delorey." John B. Reeves is a master plumber with no following.

Fifth District.

The one outstanding figure in the Fifth Supervisor race is John T. Wilson, the big, powerful and warm-hearted citizen of San Fernando. He knows every inch of the district, having worked over it for years, and would make an ideal Supervisor. He has had large experience and is pre-eminently qualified for the position. Stephen O. Packer of Glendale is a fine fellow and a good business man. He is popular in lodge circles and elsewhere. Jonathan C. Dodge, Mayor of South Pasadena, banker and owner of the ostrich farm, is an excellent business man and has many qualifications for a Supervisor. Little is known of Ernest H. Owen of Glendale, who seems to have no chance. W. A. Roberts is a Councilman. He lives in Highland Park. No more vital mistake could be made than to elect him. He has been a failure in the Council, always jumping when certain selfish interests cracked the whip. He is a goo-goo and a dandy programmer for Lissner and his ilk.

FOR STATE SENATOR.

TWENTY-NINTH DISTRICT.

Henry H. Lyon, incumbent, is unopposed for re-election in the Twenty-ninth Senatorial District. He is a Progressive and a tool of Johnson.

Thirty-first District.

Harry A. Chamberlin is the only real Republican running in the Thirty-first District. He made a good record in the Assembly, standing at all times against the reckless programme of the Governor.

Arthur G. Kuck is running both as a Republican and Democrat. He is neither. He is backed by Lissner and his crowd. Two years ago he ran against Chamberlin for the Assembly and was defeated by 5000 votes. Being registered as a Republican he cannot be on the November ticket if Chamberlin beats him for the Republican nomination, which is about the surest thing you know. Irene Smith, a Socialist, is making no campaign.

Thirty-third District.

Joseph A. Rominger is the Republican candidate in the Thirty-third District. He made good in the lower house and his friends believe he will make a record for himself in the Senate. Prescott Cogswell, his opponent, appears as the candidate of four parties, Republican, Progressive, Democratic and Prohibition. The truth is he is a Progressive, Johnson's programmer. He voted twice for the nonpartisan measures, notwithstanding that the people voted against them. Levi D. Johnson, Prohibitionist and alleged Republican, doesn't count.

Thirty-fifth District.

There are three candidates in the Thirty-fifth District, and all are Republicans. Egbert Gates is a worthy candidate and there is no doubt as to his Republicanism. I. Harvey Hazel is a chiropractic physician and former minister. His Republicanism has never been questioned. Dudley Robinson is the leading candidate. He has always been active in Republican politics, and many of the big organizations are strong for him. He is looked upon as the winner.

Thirty-seventh District.

There is an unusual situation in the Thirty-seventh District. Andrew W. Francisco has the indorsement of many of the leading Republicans and Republican clubs, and would make a capable Senator. There are at least four others who are asking support of Republicans. Among them is Henry M. Hurd, former State Senator, who stood loyally by the Republican party and has always been opposed to Johnson and his gang. John D. Dawson is working hard as a Republican, and so is Newton M. Allen, who ran once for the Assembly. Charles A. Kleinman is a young attorney who is campaigning upon the slogan, "Fewer laws and lower taxes." With so many in the field leaders have decided upon Francisco as the most likely to win and are working hard for him. He is the son of the veteran "Andy" Francisco (now gone before,) who was once a capable and useful member of the Board of Supervisors. The other and last candidate is W. E. Brown, a Johnson programmer. He was, in fact, Johnson's office boy, and can always be depended upon to support any freak legislation the Governor wants. He is hunting the votes of four existing parties, and would seek more if there were more parties.

FOR THE ASSEMBLY.

SIXTY-FIRST DISTRICT.

In the Sixty-first Assembly District there are six candidates, four running as Republicans, one as a Prohibitionist and one as a Democrat. Norman B. Worley and P. S. McNutt are recommended by Republican organizations as good party men. Wickliffe Matthews also is a stuanch Republican. Harry A. Wishard, considered a clown in the Legislature, who voted every chance he had for nonpartisan measures and responded on all occasions to the demands of Johnson, has the nerve to be running as a Republican. He is the fellow who had enough pull with the Governor to get his wife a job at $6 per day as file clerk in the Assembly. William B. Kelly, the Democrat, has an excellent record in his party, and if he were a Republican would be a good man to get behind. E. A. Holtwick, Prohibitionist, is only a figurehead.

Sixty-second District.

Charles W. Lyon is the only real Republican candidate in the Sixty-second District. He is the incumbent, and his record is absolutely clean. J. Wellington Deyoe is running as a Republican, but expects to get his support from Progressives. Lissner and a few others like him would be tickled to death if Deyoe should get over. They won't die just yet, though, because they cannot beat Charles W. Lyon. Thomas W. Aisbitt wanted to be a Progressive candidate, but did not get on their ticket. Now he is looking to Democrats and Prohibitionists. The latter crowd will be with F. H. Wales, their regular candidate.

"Mother Boyle" of Honolulu.

Mrs. E. A. Langton-Boyle,

Publisher of two Honolulu magazines and known as the best friend of stranded Americans in the East. With her husband she is visiting Southern California.

"Mother Boyle."

FRIEND OF HONOLULU'S WAIFS A VISITOR HERE.

"MOTHER BOYLE," editor, publisher, seasoned campaigner of a score or more battles for American interests in Hawaii, and known as the "friend of the down-and-outers of Honolulu," was at the Angelus yesterday from New York, en route to Honolulu. She will pass a few days hereabouts, where she has many acquaintances, and, with her husband, who follows her, will motor to San Diego. They will leave for Honolulu in about two weeks.

Although her name is Mrs. E. A. Langton-Boyle, she has been "mother" to countless stranded Americans for almost twenty years. Her generosity, coupled with her activity in boosting for Hawaii through the medium of her magazines, Paradise of the Pacific and The Service, the latter a weekly publication devoted to the army and navy in Hawaii, has made her a noted figure in the islands.

Mrs. Langton-Boyle, formerly a California newspaper woman, went to Honolulu at the close of the Spanish War, and with her husband, the late William Langton, bought out the old subsidized Journal of the Monarchy, the official publicity organ of the old Hawaiian government. Upon the death of Mr. Langton several years ago she assumed complete control of the business and carried on a fight against two competitors, with the result that she is at present the only independent publisher in Hawaii.

About two years ago she married J. E. Boyle, who has since assumed responsibility for the business end of both publications. During the years 1903-4-5, when the pineapple growers of Hawaii carried on a strenuous fight for existence, the Paradise of the Pacific was devoted almost exclusively to the campaign that eventually resulted in obtaining recognition for the Hawaiian pineapple growers in the markets of the world.

Mrs. Langton-Boyle says prohibition threatens Hawaii at the coming election and that the wet-dry issue is perhaps the paramount question of the day on the islands. She is frankly against prohibition, as she believes it would result disastrously for the islanders, who are doing record business in the tourist trade as well as in sugar and pineapples.

TO HEAR AGED CASE.

Five-year-old Smuggling Trial Set for September.

The opening day of the fall term of the United States District Court, September 5, in Judge Oscar A. Trippet's department, the case against Ed Hall and Egbert W. Tracey, alleged smugglers, will be taken up. If the men do not plead guilty the case will be set for trial, and that will mean the date will not even be fixed until January, next, as the criminal calendar for the July term is already full and the dates allowed for trials determined.

It is a matter of indifference to Capt. Connell, immigration agent in charge, as he has about twenty witnesses within call and a mass of documentary evidence ready to offer. It is one of the peculiar features of this case that although about five years have elapsed since the overt act, every witness in behalf of the government can be reached in a few days. It is usually the case that after so long a time half the witnesses disappear for one reason and another.

TWELVE YEARS HIS SENTENCE.

Court Shows no Leniency to Skylight Burglar.

Speediest Pace of Justice in Local Annals.

Fears Authorities Mistrust His Penitence.

Probably the speediest pace of justice in the history of an important criminal case in Los Angeles county was that of the sentencing of John E. Morgan, confessed "skylight" burgler, who was given twelve years in San Quentin yesterday morning by Judge Nicol, who is sitting for Judge Craig.

Morgan was arraigned in the justice court Saturday, the 19th inst., had a preliminary hearing last Monday, was arraigned in the Superior Court on Thursday, given a continuation of one day to prepare his plea, and on Friday admitted his guilt. Judgment was passed yesterday, and he will arrive in San Quentin next Wednesday, having been granted a three days' stay of execution in order to arrange some of his affairs and also to hear the outcome of the preliminary trial of his brother, to be held tomorrow morning.

FOURTH CONVICTION.

In summing up the case of Morgan, Deputy District Attorney Selph explained that the man had been in prison on three different occasions for similar offenses; that he had admitted to eight of the recent downtown burglaries and also to his attempts to get out of prison and away from officers. "I consider Mr. Morgan a danger to society at large, which must be protected from men of his stamp," said the prosecutor.

Morgan spoke for a few moments, declaring that in the past he had never asked for leniency or for consideration for the reason that he had no thought of trying to do better. "This time my mind is made up to make good as soon as I am released from custody," he stated.

THANKS COURT.

When Judge Nicol had finished reading the charge and pronounced the sentence, Morgan never wavered. "Thank you," he said.

While being led out, he remarked to Deputy Selph that the sentence had been a trifle heavier than he had expected. "I guess you people in authority don't believe me sincere in my statement that I am going straight in the future," he added.

HIS "JOBS."

Morgan confessed to the police he had committed the following burglaries:

July 12, store of Walton & Co., No. 348 So. Broadway, loot valued at $3500; July 16, store of Herman Spitzel, No. 436 South Spring street, $300; July 18, Howland & Dewey store, No. 510 South Broadway, $300; July 28, Westmoreland Pharmacy, No. 2300 West Pico street, phone box; July 28, W. O. Makepiece store, No. 1153 West Washington street, and the B. & B. Drug store, No. 1301 South Figueroa street, $5; July 31, store of J. Korn, No. 510 West Ninth street, $5; July 31, S. B. Bailey Jewelry Company, No. 837 South Broadway, $4000; August 2, Yosemite Wine Company, No. 103 1-2 North Spring, $200.

Morgan made the confession in the presence of Chief Snively and Detective Charles Jones.

WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLU

BY DOROTHY B. JOHNSTON.

IT IS expected that Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles will be present when the women's building at Sacramento will be taken over next Saturday and representatives of all the women's organizations of the State will participate in the ceremonials.

While the details of the plan of equipment have not yet been arranged, it will be comprehensive, representing every kind of feminine interest. Clubwomen will find no difficulty in managing a woman's building, as was proved during the exposition.

John M. Perry, president of the California State Board of Agriculture, will give the building over, and Mrs. Edward Dexter Knight, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, will receive it in the name of the clubwomen of the State. Her address of acceptance and response will be followed by Mrs. Cowles, who, as president-general of the National Federation, will express the appreciation of the women of California for the honor thus conferred upon them. A programme of music, arranged by Mrs. Walter J. Longbotham, chairman of music for the federation, is to be given.

The presentation ceremony, to be held at 8 o'clock in the evening on the lawn in front of the "gift house," will close with a reception in the Woman's Building, to which the public will be invited.

In the receiving line will be Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles, Mrs. Edward Dexter Knight, Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, Mrs. Bradford Woodbridge, president of the northern district of the State Federation; Mrs. Sarah J. Dorr, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union; Mrs. John F. Lynch, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Carrie Holmes, representing the State Grange; Mrs. Lillian D. Clark, former chairman of the department of country life of the State Federation; Dr. Aurelia Reinhardt, president of Mills College; Miss Lucy Stebbins, dean of women of the University of California; and the Woman's Council of Sacramento, represented by Mrs. John J. Green, Mrs. James R. Harbaugh, Mrs. Charles H. Adams and Mrs. Harry Adams.

Mrs. Cowles will go east almost immediately after the meeting north, to preside over the General Federation Board, which is called for September 15 in Chicago.

That the clubwomen everywhere are interested in better, cleaner motion pictures and in subjects suitable for children as a part of their child welfare movement, the General Federation passed the following resolutions at their recent assembly:

"Be it resolved, that the General Federation of Women's Clubs undertake a country-wide survey of motion-picture entertainments, and that it ask clubwomen to favor local censorship among themselves, in the interest of motion-picture entertainments; and, be it

"Resolved, that the board of the General Federation of Women's Clubs appoint a committee to co-operate with the manufacturers of films to secure a higher moral standing of general productions and a larger supply of proper and appropriate films for children."

One pertinent point was that the federation believed "too much emphasis had been placed upon the evil side of the films," and that there was need for a constructive policy that would emphasize the evil.

Some of the other conclusions arrived at by the federation were:

If programmes do not have plenty of action, children will continue to patronize the "perils" and "mysteries" series.

Children who do not attend motion-picture shows absorb an amazing amount from those who do.

The success of a children's programme in such places as Providence, R. I., is due to the fact that it was not started as a philanthropic uplift for the poor children, but introduced in the best house in the city. Children's programme "became the style," as it were. Result was that balcony children — who usually frequented cheaper theaters —put on their best behavior and refused to eat peanuts.

Theater managers beg help in beginning special programmes for children because they claim it brings a higher class of patronage.

Italian and Portuguese children in milling districts of one city prefer wild-west shows, and they got them —the best there are.

The Cleveland clubwomen wanted family programmes, having as their standard of selection pictures which entertained but laid no over-emphasis on bad manners and bad morals.

Miss Kathleen O'Brennan,

A bright Irish girl who is to give a course of lectures on the the Renaissance in the gardens of various clubwomen month.

Survey made in Cleveland disclosed that many schoolboys and girls attended motion-picture shows three, four and even five times a week.

State censorship does not protect sufficiently, according to report of delegates from States where legal censorship now operates.

People in small towns are "shocked" differently from people in cities. For this reason, the same pictures cannot be selected for all communities.

Films must be correlated with study courses in schools before the motion picture can be effective as a visual aid in instruction.

The effect of the motion picture on the adolescent mind is startling. The boy and girl live in a world built by adults for adults. Up to 10 or 12 years of age, they pay little attention to adults, considering them merely as a necessary evil. At this age they begin to notice the adult world, but they have not learned to look at things in the cause and effect relation. They work up the connection slowly—between their mental pictures of the facts of life. Works of art, literature, the drama, assist in establishing these connections, putting things in their true relationship. But in reading books the child has to dig for these relationships. It is a slow process, giving plenty of time for absorption.

Now comes the motion picture, which visualizes the relationship and sequences with startling vividness, so rapidly the child is apt to have mental indigestion. Here is where the wise parent can help so much in straightening out the twisted impressions.

Lectures on Ireland.

A number of people interested in the young Irish movements, literary and artistic, have opened their gardens to Miss Kathleen O'Brennan, and invited her to give a series of lectures on the many phases of the renaissance in Ireland. REDUCES COST OF CHARITIES.

Superintendent Martin Makes Salient Comparisons.

Budget Demands of Year Tell Story of Efficiency.

Demands on Facilities of All Institutions Growing.

Showing that this branch of the county's activities is being managed in such a way as to show substantial reductions in the actual cost of operation, an analysis of the budget requirements of the department of charities, for the fiscal year 1916-1917, was made public yesterday by Superintendent of Charities Martin.

The figures which Mr. Martin placed before the Budget Committee, in asking for the appropriation for his department for the 1916-1917 period, are as follows: Salaries, $269,611; expenses, $468,463.50; equipment, $15,840.58; improvements, $211,577, or a grand total of $1,045,472.08, as against appropriation for the fiscal year 1915-1916 of $1,050,052. This is a decrease of $4579.92.

The increase of $21,526 in the item of salaries Mr. Martin attributes to the operation of the alien and eight-hour laws, which restricts the hours the nurses may work and prohibits the hiring of aliens. Heretofore, the principal source of nurse students was Canada.

REVENUES INCREASE.

Mr. Martin further shows that the revenues arising from the activities of departmental operations, as the County Farm, the hospital, cemetery and Workman's Inn, show an increase of $19,904.52, which, added to the $4579.92, makes a total of $24,484.44 saved to the taxpayers of the county. In addition to this, $100,000, which has been expended for hospital buildings, will not be included in the tax levy until next year, showing a grand total decrease in the budget requirements of this institution of $124,484.44.

In spite of the fact that the daily average population of the County Farm has increased 25.7 per cent. for the past five years, and in the face of the increased cost of staple food stuffs, the cost per capita of keeping the inmates has steadily decreased. This decrease was notable in 1916. The cost of 1915 was 58.9 cents per head, while this year it has been held down to 42 cents.

The average yearly increase in the number of patients applying at the County Hospital for treatment has been 17.3 per cent. The average number of patients for the past year was 1041. If the same ratio of increase holds good for the coming year the hospital authorities will have to provide for the caring of at least 185 more persons each day.

CUT HOSPITAL COSTS.

The per capita cost of patients at the hospital is $1.10 per day, and should the ratio of increase equal former years, it is stated, this will entail an additional expenditure of at least $40,000 for the year. But, in the face of this, and as a sample of the economy that is being practiced, the budget requirements of the hospital are $10,000 less than last year.

Mr. Martin lays special emphasis on the fact that the county is now supplying the hospital with all the milk it uses. This bill used to amount to $1100 per month, in addition to the milk furnished by the farm. The total saving on this item alone amounts to $50 per day at present.

While economy and strictest observance of the best-known rules of efficiency have been introduced into the conduct of the department, assurance is given the taxpayers that the unfortunates who present themselves for surgical or medical treatment or institutional care, are given every comfort and a measure of attendance that their case requires.

DISTANCE NO BARRIER.

Hostile Armies Could be Landed on United States Shores.

[Duluth News and Tribune:] No hostile army, we are told, could be landed on the shores of the United States. This country is absolutely safe from attack. The ocean is its insurmountable defense. This people can live secure and twiddle their fingers at Europe. Its thousands of miles of coast line are other thousands of miles from any possible foe.

Yet 250,000 Canadian troops have crossed the Atlantic in large contingents and have landed in England. Australia has sent its troops still farther. India sent 100,000 to France. Russia has 30,000 or more men in France.

At Saloniki are gathered at least 300,000 of the allied armies. It is recognized that Japan could send an army to any fighting front; it is not any obstacle of the oceans or of distance which prevents. In this war armies have gone from every part of the world to every other part.

At the Dardenelles they did not land at any port or city, but on an exposed beach. It was costly, but they landed. That beach was protected. Batteries raked them from the hills. There are a thousand landings on our coasts not so protected.

GIRLS IN SPORTS.

Their Early Training Handicaps Them in Comparison with Boys.

[All Outdoors:] One of the chief reasons why men are more skillful as a whole at games or at play of any sort is that from childhood they have been taught to play games while girls even in their play have been taught to work—to dress dolls and take care of them and sew for them, play house, etc.

Miss Marie Wagner, the popular American tennis champion, owes her skill in tennis to the fact that she played with the boys in the park near where she lived.

Mrs. Gorlay Dunn-Webb, a golf authority says:

"A thing learned in childhood is very seldom forgotten. This applies to all sports. Children who learn to ride horseback while young never forget it. The same applies to skating. Everyone knows how easily a child learns to skate. There are many grownups who have tried it for the first time and found it very difficult.

"It is much more difficult to learn any sport late in life. There is lack of confidence, and the imagination makes things appear difficult when really they are not so. A child does not stop to think."

POINTED REPLY FOR GOVERNOR.

Woman Editor Shows Falsity of Campaign Speech.

Declares Hiram Takes Credit for Others' Deeds.

And has Changed Front After Fighting Suffragists.

In the current issue of her magazine, the New American Woman, Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz publishes an open letter she addresses to Gov. Johnson, and in which she says in part:

Hon. Hiram W. Johnson.

Dear Governor:

I listened to your recent address to women at Blanchard Hall. You were honored by the presence of many Republican women who were there to hear your reasons for thrusting yourself forward unbidden as a Republican candidate for the United States Senate. You were surrounded upon the platform by many of the leading best women of the State of California, and the audience was composed of the wives and mothers of the rank and file of loyal Republicans of Los Angeles.

In very truth, you were the idol of many of them. It was laughable to hear you as you stood facing that intelligent audience of women, shaking your forefinger close beside your ear as you specifically set forth your "six years of suffering and misrepresentation, while Governor of California," and your "ultimate victories over the allied powers of a malicious, despicable newspaper gang," whom you affected to cordially despise. You related at length, by title and subject matter, certain wise laws which you declared were the product of your administration—laws that were placed upon the statute books and in the Constitution of the State of California while you were known only as a second rate criminal lawyer practicing in the lower courts of San Francisco.

The Constitution of the State was amended in 1879, providing that "no citizen on account of sex shall be disqualified from entering upon or following any lawful business vocation or profession."

Prior to that the Hastings College case was decided by our Supreme Court, opening the doors of all branches of our State University to women. Then followed the women's notary bill, and that other excellent provision of law which enables a married woman to act as executrix or administratrix of estates in probate.

These and many other provisions were enacted into law, proposed generally by Republicans, but voted for by good men of all parties, as witness the so-called "woman lawyer's bill," introduced by Hon. Barney Murphy, Democratic Senator from Santa Clara during the session of 1879, and signed by Gov. Irwin, a Democrat of the old school.

HIRAM ANTEDATED.

The primary law was the product of the mind and act of the Republican party years before you were heard of. The election laws, the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Juvenile Court law—each and all of these measures were either already enacted or in course of discussion among the wise and thoughtful men and women of this State while you were yet in college or busily trying your unfledged powers upon the accused poor and unfortunate.

And how, please, can you stand before an audience of women—informed women, and claim any credit for the amendment granting suffrage to women in California? You know that you were opposed to the principle; you know that you never spoke one word in its behalf, though you were frequently importuned to do so. You know that you positively refused to even mention the subject in your first inaugural address, and you also know that you tried in every possible way to defeat the amendment. You are not the author of a single measure of progressive legislation worthy of any consideration which was not in the course of evolution when you came upon the scene.

And you have not forgotten that while you were campaigning for the Vice-Presidency you were implored by the National Suffrage Association to include in your speeches throughout the State of Michigan, then voting upon suffrage, your approval and support of the measure, but you ignored the request and positively refused to indorse this great humane movement.

And finally, Governor, you are not a Republican. You should not do violence to truth in claiming allegiance to a party you have pronounced dead, dead as you believed by your own unlawful act—dead by the treachery of its most trusted friends.

Your ambition has o'erleaped itself; you are befogged in the murky atmosphere of your unjustified political aspirations. And more, you are not in the moral position of an honest candidate for the United States Senate, even though the amendment to the Constitution you caused to be submitted, legally opens the way.

Prior to this amendment the Constitution read as follows: "The Governor shall not during his term of office be elected a Senator to the Senate of the United States." That was a wise provision, but it was a rock in your path. And you lost no time nor spared any effort to remove it. And though you now disclaim any ambition for the Senate, save and except that you are the one man in the whole State who can pull California out of obscurity and place her upon the political map of the country, and further that your great talents demand a wider scope—you know and you should be honest enough to admit that every act of yours has been with a view of reaching the United States Senate over the heads of your superiors. And you have used the high office of Governor of California to promote your ambition. You are now exercising the vast influence connected with your office to defeat the logical candidate for United States Senator, Hon. Willis H. Booth.

Respectfully submitted.
[Signed]

Remarkable Road And Race Track Records

JUNE, July and August have recorded a series of remarkable racing records achieved with the aid of Goodyear Cord Tires.

These victories are valuable because they offer corroborative evidence of the very qualities for which Goodyear Cord Tires are famous.

The terrific speed of the shorter contests, and the sustained speed of the longer ones, are added proof of that stoutness, liveliness and speediness which every Goodyear owner experiences in every-day use, and which led to the adoption of Goodyear Cord Tires as standard equipment on the Franklin, the Packard Twin-Six, the Locomobile, the Peerless, the White, the Haynes Twelve, and the Stutz.

World's record for one mile on one-mile track, Des Moines, Ia., June 25, 1916, De Palma driving Mercedes car. Speed at the rate of 103 miles per hour.

World's record for 5 miles on one-mile track, Des Moines, Ia., Lewis driving Crawford car, 3 minutes, 2 seconds. 98 miles per hour.

First place, 50-mile race, on one-mile track, Des Moines, Ia., June 26, 1916, Lewis driving Crawford car. 89 miles per hour.

Second place, 10-mile race, Des Moines, Ia., June 26, 1916, Lewis driving Crawford car. 90 miles per hour.

I CURE PILES

FISTULA and all other Rectal Diseases WITHOUT OPERATION

I cure without surgery. My patients are not confined in bed and they do not lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure," or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

WELL-KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal affiment of 15 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising, and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily recommending the man and his methods.

Lure of the Winking Camera Irresistible to Men and Women Alike.

Line of men outside the Municipal Free Employment Bureau waiting for dollar-a-day jobs as "movie" extras.

These same men repeatedly turned down chances to get work that paid three times as much—but was real work. This is one of the curious phases of the big city-State employment bureau's work.

Free.

PUBLIC BUREAUS FIND PLACES FOR THOUSANDS.

Work of All Kinds for Jobless Secured by City and State—Acting for Movies is Greatly Favored by Unemployed—Los Angeles System of Helping the Deserving is Patterned in East and Government may Co-operate.

MORE than 67,000 positions, paying from $3 a week to $250 a month and expenses, were filled during the fiscal year through the public employment bureaus of Los Angeles district, as shown by the annual report which will be ready for distribution within a few days. This is approximately 50 per cent. more than the number filled through any other employment bureau in the United States, according to Harry C. Donoho, superintendent of the bureaus of the district, which includes the whole of Southern California. Based upon the cost per position through private employment agencies, it is estimated that approximately $137,000 in fees has been saved to the workingmen and women of this part of the State through the operation of the system of public employment exchanges.

The Los Angeles system of labor exchanges has gained national recognition, owing to its having been the pioneer in establishing the modern standards for constructive work in this line of welfare endeavor. Its unparalleled success in gaining the confidence of employers and employees is attributed largely to the policy which precludes the possibility of any applicant for work being sent to a prospective employer until such applicant shall have convinced the employment experts in the bureaus of his ability to fill the position to the satisfaction of the employer. Coupled with the fact that the bureaus are absolutely divorced from charity, the efficiency standard maintained is conceded to have been responsible for the confidence engendered.

MOST ARE NATIVE-BORN.

All kinds and classes of positions were filled during the past year through the various divisions, from scrub woman to office manager and from janitor to executive head of large business concerns.

Many interesting facts and figures are disclosed by the records as set forth in this report. During the fiscal year, which ended June 30, work was found for 38,104 men and for 9155 women. This shows a daily average of 91.3 positions with no fee either directly or indirectly to employers or employees. It is interesting to note that of the persons applying for work at these bureaus 14,522 out of 19,819 men were born in the United States and 6336 women out of 7803 registered were likewise native-born. The bureau records refute the thought in the minds of many that "floaters" and "job tramps" exclusively benefit by the service of the bureaus. Of the men registered during the past year 13,473 had lived in this city more than one year prior to the date of registration and of the women 5406 claimed residence in the city of more than one year. Of the men for whom work was secured nearly one-half had no one dependent upon them for support and very few had as many as five. The percentage of women with no one dependent upon them is practically the same as that of men.

HIGH-GRADE JOBS.

The wage-rate tables in the statistical division of the report show that the bureaus have handled the best grade of positions, but not entirely so. The majority of the low-wage-rate orders appear in the records of the household division, and many of these appear among the orders cancelled. Work in this division was so plentiful that the applicants, especially if they were competent houseworkers, waited for the better positions. This condition did not obtain in the men's industrial division, where virtually all positions were filled unless there were reasons other than the wage offered.

One of the peculiarities incident to the activities of the bureaus is disclosed in connection with the "movie" industry. So strongly developed is the histrionic trait in many of the applicants that laboring jobs listed on the blackboard as paying from $2 to $2.50 a day go begging while hundreds of idle men crowd and jostle getting into line for a possible opportunity for one or two days' work as "extra" in the "movies" at $1 a day, car fare and luncheon. Not one "movie" job was cancelled during the year because of low wages or scarcity of men. Upon observing that appromixately 150 men patronizing the bureaus disdained ordinary work and evinced a decided penchant for the "movies," Supt. Donoho secured a vacant lot on New High street, not far from the Franklin-street office of the bureaus, and here are handled all the "stars." While the bureaus seek to discourage the practice of able-bodied men rejecting legitimate labor jobs for the sake of this class of employment, it is recognized that the moving-picture industry has proved a veritable godsend to many a man who might otherwise have gone hungry during the winter months.

NEED INDUSTRIAL TRAINING.

Unemployment among women under 50 years of age apparently is due to choice of work rather than to lack of opportunity. One instance is cited of an excellent cook who on several occasions was offered positions paying $50 and up. The applicant was past 45 years of age, but had gone to a business college during the winter and studied shorthand and was determined to accept nothing other than a position as stenographer, despite the fact that she could scarcely speak English sufficiently well to make herself understood. The need of better industrial training is evidenced in every line of the report.

Cost tables show a decided reduction in every division of the bureaus in proportion to the business done, despite the increased working force made necessary by constantly-increasing business. The bureaus are maintained jointly by the State and the municipality and are the largest in the country. Established two and a half years ago with a working force of four, the bureaus now employ seven women and nine men to carry on the work.

Several of the successful eastern public employment bureaus have been patterned after those in operation in Southern California. It is considered probable that the Federal government will actively cooperate with the Los Angeles system during the coming year, the superintendent of the local bureaus being one of three members of the Executive Committee of the advisory board to the United States Department of Labor.

Alkali Makes Soap Bad for Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

How to Beautify a Summer Soiled Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, winds or dirt. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The wornout skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving no evidence of the treatment. The younger, healthier under-skin forming the new complexion, is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of mercolized wax, to be had at any drugstore, is enough to remove any tanned, reddened, pimpled, freckled or blotchy skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off mornings.

Many skins wrinkle easily with every wind that blows, with heat, worry, etc. An excellent wrinkle remover, because it tightens the skin and strengthens relaxed muscles, is a wash lotion made as follows: Powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. This gives immediate results.

Expects Fortune.

HEIR OF HETTY GREEN RESIDENT OF TROPICO.

TROPICO claims the distinction of having among its residents an heiress who will receive a legacy upon distribution of the estate of the late Hetty Green, in the person of Mrs. T. B. Curtis who resides at No. 300 Boynton avenue, Tropico. Mrs. Curtis is the great granddaughter of Gideon Howland, who founded the estate in New Bedford, Mass.

The story reads like one from an old story book. Miss Sylvia Ann Howland, daughter of Gideon Howland, inherited a fortune from her father. Miss Howland was a most benevolent person and gave away and spent most freely nearly $1,000,000 during her lifetime. To her physician she willed $50,000. Miss Howland, who was a spinster, by the terms of her will specified that the income from her estate was to be paid to her favorite neice, Miss Hetty Robinson, who subsequently married Mr. Green. The will provided that upon the death of Hetty Robinson the estate should be divided equally among the heirs of Gideon Howland, who was the great grandfather of Mrs. Curtis, and the grandfather of Hetty Green.

There are eight heirs who are the brothers or sisters of Mrs. Curtis, and many more heirs distributed over the United States. Mrs. Curtis does not know the exact number.

It is known that the estate in New Bedford, where the original fortune was accumulated and where Hetty Green grew to womanhood, is valued at $1,635,557. It is probable that the trustees hold other valuable property belonging to the Howland estate.

THRILLS STOLEN.

Burglars Ignore Cash but Take Exciting "Movie" Films.

Film thrills are the latest loot for burglars. Several thousand feet of them were stolen from the storeroom of the International Film Service, No. 912 South Olive street, according to a report to the police yesterday.

The thieves were judges of their plunder, as they took only films that carried thrilling scenes. They ignored a drawer containing several hundred dollars in currency.

DIES IN BAKERSFIELD.

Alfred Moore, bailiff in Judge Bledsoe's department of the United States District Court, received a telegram yesterday announcing the death at Bakersfield, that morning, of Mrs. Sadie Moore, wife of his son, Charles Moore, after but a short illness. Mr. Moore and his family left immediately for Bakersfield.

Practical Demonstration.

ENGINEERING PROBLEMS ARE MET BY AEROPLANE.

THE value of the flying machine for the purpose of making engineering reconnaissance has just been demonstrated by Frank H. Olmstead of the firm of Olmstead & Gillelan, sanitary engineers of this city. Mr. Olmstead recently took from a hydroplane several pictures of the beach at Santa Barbara, for use in his preliminary studies of the sewage-disposal problem of that city. The firm has been retained by the Santa Barbara city authorities to work out a plan for the disposal of the city's sewage that will be in harmony with plans for the beautification of its beach from Castle Rock to Montecito.

This novel method of taking pictures from the air, as an aid in determining the best course for working out the elaborate scheme of beautifying Santa Barbara, was suggested by one of the attaches at the Loughhead hydroplane station, which is located near the Potter Hotel. Mr. Olmstead at once saw the value of the suggestion and, accompanied by City Engineer A. B. Cook, he arranged for the trip, which was made the 19th inst.

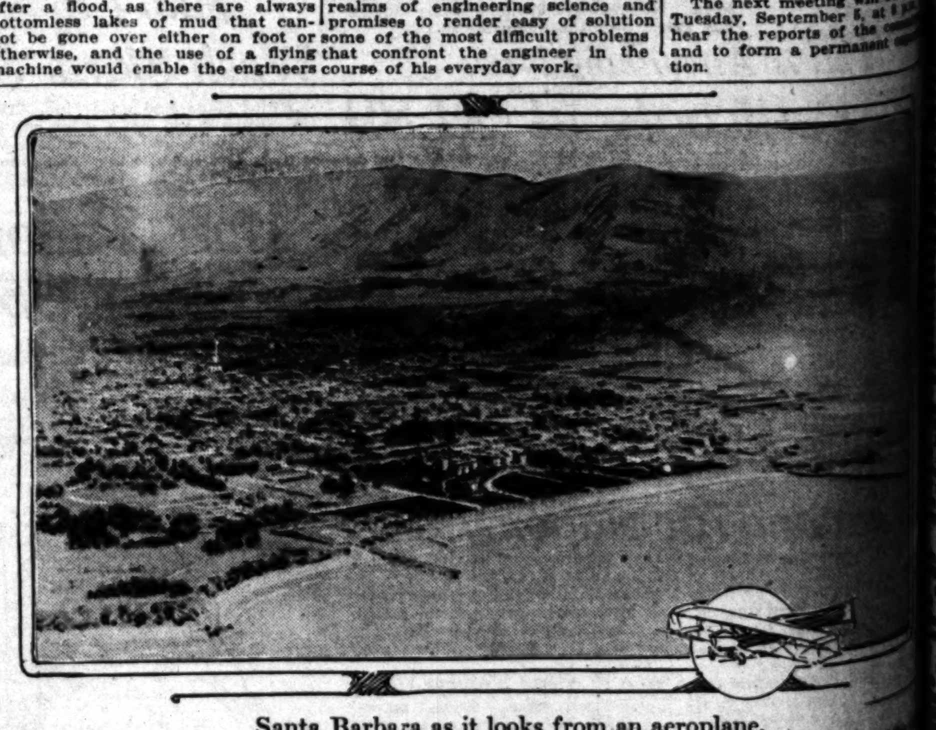
In discussing the trip and the possibilities it opens up Mr. Olmstead said: "There are innumerable uses to which the flying machine may be put by engineers. For instance, C. M. Perry of the Mexican Imperial Company at Imperial tells me that after every flood season the channels in the neighborhood of Volcano Lake are radically changed from those of the preceding season. It is a very difficult country to survey at any time, but particularly so after a flood, as there are always bottomless lakes of mud that cannot be gone over either on foot or otherwise, and the use of a flying machine would enable the engineers to get photographs that would give the desired information quickly and make prompt repairs feasible.

"In this connection I will say I have just learned that Ford Carpenter of the local Weather Bureau has used an aeroplane for the last six months in making meteorological reconnaissance, and I am not sure but that there will be many occasions, should conditions settle in Mexico, when use of the flying machine will result in a great saving of time, many dangerous risks obviated and better results secured in solving the many engineering problems incident to the development of that country by the use of the flying machine.

"Col. Epes Randolph, hydrographic engineer for the Southern Pacific, has stated to me that he has thought many times of the possibility of using the aeroplane in the making of reconnaissance and that he has hopes of seeing this accomplished in the near future.

"Our own work is largely underground work, particularly sewers, and, while there is little opportunity for the use of the flying machine directly, I can see where in cases such as the Santa Barbara problem it will be of great use to us."

The rapid development of the aeroplane, it is declared, suggests the unlimited possibilities and innumerable uses to which it may be put in time. In the European war it has been turned into an engine of destruction; it has been suggested as a method of rescuing passengers and sailors from ships wrecked on rocky and inaccessible coasts; as a vehicle for the carrying of the mails to communities located in districts where roads are bad and grades steep, and now it has invaded the realms of engineering science and promises to render easy of solution some of the most difficult problems that confront the engineer in the course of his everyday work.



Santa Barbara as it looks from an aeroplane.

SPIRIT OF ROYAL FOREFATHER WINS ANGELENO PROUD TITLE.

Newspaper Girl, Charmer of Noble Suitors, and Now Earl's Bride, Draws Life Inspiration from Memory of Irish Prince—Realized Dream of Romance.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

KNOWLEDGE that she is descended from an Irish prince, imparted by her father when [illegible] 7 years old, so inspired [illegible] Burke, the Los Angeles [illegible] girl, whose brilliant marriage to the Earl of Cottenham was [illegible] the 16th inst., in St. [illegible] Church, London, Eng., that [illegible] time she was 22 years of age, [illegible] dukes, earls and baronets [illegible] friends and suitors.

[illegible] Patricia's father, John [illegible] Burke, employed in the [illegible] Collector's office here, used [illegible] his two little girls, Patricia [illegible], on his knee and for hours [illegible] them fairy tales. Her father and close friends felt always that Patricia Burke would never be satisfied with the ordinary things of life. They knew she was ambitious, though she spoke little of it. But every move she made was to better herself. She kept a dictionary at her side constantly, ever trying to increase and improve her vocabulary. In spare times she studied Spanish, French and Italian until now she speaks each fluently.

Mr. Burke was a poor man, but with the knowledge of who were her ancestors indelibly impressed on her mind, Patricia Burke always held her head as high as the highest in the land. And there were many times when a dollar would have seemed like a fortune.

In later years, when she was carving the way for the life she was destined to live among English nobility and when the struggle seemed almost too hard to bear, Patricia Burke would shed a few tears and then start out with renewed determination to win or die in trying. It was this self-knowledge that made her brave; that made her feel that even though she had not a dollar in the world, she was the equal of the mightiest in the land.

KNOWN AS A BEAUTY.

As a newspaper girl she became very popular. She is bright and has a keen sense of humor and a striking personality. It was this latter trait more than anything else perhaps that invariably attracted the passer-by. Her beauty, however, became known up and down the coast, and when a San Francisco newspaper held a beauty contest some years ago, a friend sent her picture. She was one of five who won prizes.

One of Miss Burke's dearest friends was Florence Barker, the Los Angeles actress, who when 18 years old was a leading lady. At the time Miss Burke was about to realize her greatest success in journalism here, Florence Barker decided to go to England. She asked her friend to go with her. The chance to do so came to the newspaper girl as nothing more than one of the adventures she was anticipating. She went to England, and through the friendship of distinguished friends, who seemed always to be drawn to her, it was not long till she was living a life more romantic and more thrilling than her most lofty flights of fancy had ever painted.

When she left Los Angeles she told friends she was going to Europe to seek local color for a series of fiction stories she planned, to write of European court life, with titled persons as her characters. Soon rumors of an engagement between her and Prince Ferdinand de Bourbon floated to America. Then one after another, engagements to members of royal families were reported and later said to be broken, until friends here were of the opinion that this was the way Patricia Burke was getting her "local color;" that she was playing with royal hearts, so that her stories would ring true.

Her royal lovers were many. Among some of them were, besides Prince Ferdinand de Bourbon, Juan de Ropez de Allaya, Marquis de Fuensanta and a cousin of the king of Spain, Prince Ludovico Pignatelli d'Aragon, all of whom failed to win her heart and hand. Marquis de Fuensanta is said to have attempted to commit suicide when the beautiful American lass told him she did not love him; that their temperaments were so entirely opposite that they could never be happy and she would never marry any man without love.

WAR ROMANCE.

It was only a few weeks after one of her titled suitors had been killed on the western battle front that Miss Burke enlisted in Red Cross work in the western war zone, where she was engaged in relief work when her engagement to Kenelm Charles Edward Pepys, Fourth Earl of Cottenham, was announced.

She had told her family here very little about this romance in letters she wrote them, and although they read between the lines, it was not until the news was cabled to American papers from the other side that they were aware who the man was. The cablegram sent her sister, Mrs. Bowen, was intended to come to the family as a surprise, but the newspapers got hold of the story first, so the cable brought no news to the family.

It was while serving in the temporary hospital into which the Earl of Cottenham had turned his residence, that Miss Burke met the man who was destined to be more fortunate than the other princes and nobles who had been captivated by her charms. The Earl is 42 years old. [illegible]is bride is 27. His estate includes about 6000 acres at Elevendon Priory, Goring, Oxford, and his lineage is said to be of the most distinguished in the British Isles. He was first married in 1899 to Lady Rose Nevill, daughter of the First Marquis of Abergavenny. She died in 1913, leaving three sons.

"I PREFER AMERICANS."

During the career of this beautiful California girl abroad she spent some time as a nurse in France, but later went back to London. She came to America in February, 1915, and when interviewed upon her landing in New York, declared she preferred American men to foreigners, whether titled or not, but that she had no intention of marrying anyone at that time.

For a time she was happy with her family here, but the lure of the old world life which she had shaped for herself among the grandees of Europe was too strong and she returned to London, where soon after her arrival was announced her engagement to an English baronet, who was later killed fighting with the British troops. Letters home revealed a terrible heartache, which her service to the Red Cross and her subsequent engagement to the Earl of Cottenham helped her to forget.

The present wife of the Earl of Cottenham is tall and willowy. She has Irish blue eyes and a skin almost olive. She has been described as the beauty whose features don't match.

One of the idiosyncracies of Lady Patricia is her love for dolls, which did not die with her childhood. When she went to Europe one of her most cherished keepsakes was a French bisque doll, which was given to her when she was a little girl having all those fairy dreams. She has it yet and at each change of season makes it a complete wardrobe.

SAYS HUSBAND IS A WASTER.

ASKS SEPARATE MAINTENANCE "WHILE THERE'S TIME."

Plaintiff in Superior Court Suit Alleges that She has had Nothing Except Clothing and that Money is Being Squandered for Drinks and Riotous Living.

Alleging that her husband, Malcolm R. McLachlen, except for a brief period, has been idle and profligate, that he has not sought steady employment, and that he has squandered $12,000, Mrs. Eloise Ruth McLachlen filed suit for separate maintenance through Attorneys W. H. Dehm and James S. Roche yesterday.

Mrs. McLachlen alleges, except for her clothing, she has nothing and asks for alimony and an order restraining Mr. McLachlen from disposing of his property, as she says he threatens to do. She says he owns property in El Paso valued at $10,000, that he has cash in Los Angeles banks, and owns an automobile.

He is charged with habitual intemperance, which has caused his wife mental anguish. The McLachlens were married in Los Angeles January 22, 1906. Mrs. McLachlen charges that her husband has spent his money in riotous living and that he threatens to dispose of the remainder of his property and dissipate it.

Mr. McLachlen could not be reached. It is understood that he will enter a general denial of the charges.

IN AND OUT ABOUT THE COURTS.

VAN CASTER WILL. In a will of a dozen words Herbert Van Caster bequeathed his estate of $10,000 to his wife, Augusta Hedwig Van Caster. The will was filed for probate by the widow yesterday. Mr. Van Caster died last Sunday. His estate consisted of cash in bank and other securities.

RETURNS HOME. Judge H. D. Gregory of Butte county, who has been sitting in extra sessions court, left for his home yesterday afternoon. He tried the famous Slaughter case in his home county, and handled the Sawtelle disincorporation suit here. He will take the papers in this case home with him and send down his decision. The case turns on the unique point of whether signers' names may be stricken from a petition after it has been filed and before the Board of Trustees has acted on it.

INCORPORATIONS. The Bevis Brothers Company, incorporators D. A. Bevis, H. R. Bevis, Dessie Bevis, Frank J. Green and Charles A. Bevis, capital stock $20,000, subscribed $5; the Co-operative Association of Gasoline Engineers of the United States of America, incorporators Charles I. Bolles, Frank I. Wetherbee, C. A. Van Valer, Charles Straube and W. A. Jenkins.

HEARING DELAYED.

Charities Ordinance Waits Solution of Workers' Difficulties.

A solution of differences between charity workers being possible within thirty days, the Public Welfare Committee of the City Council has postponed until the first week in October the public hearing on the proposed new charities ordinance.

Chairman Lindsey of the committee said yesterday that if by that time the persons interested do not present a satisfactory ordinance she will recommend that the Council proceed immediately to provide one without further delay.

The hearing in regard to whether or not the Police Commission shall issue licenses for places of amusement also has been deferred until the same week. Mrs. Lindsey believes the present ordinance can be amended so as to give the city ample power to do away with objectionable shows of the class operating on Main street, of which complaint has been made by the Morals Efficiency Committee.

ASK FOR VOTE ON SLAUGHTER-HOUSE.

CURIOUS SITUATION FOUND DUE TO ANNEXATION.

Initiative Ordinance Limiting Area is Said to Work Hardship on Enterprise Established in San Fernando Valley for Past Twenty Years.

The people will be asked to vote on the proposition to extend the area in which slaughter houses may be established and carried on. This is due to a situation caused by the annexation of San Fernando Valley. A slaughter house has been operating in the foothills for twenty years. Now that the valley is a part of the city the owners find themselves up against an ordinance limiting the slaughter-house district to a small portion of the city along the river bed where the big packing establishments are located.

This ordinance is an initiative ordinance adopted in 1904 and Assistant City Attorney Robertson advised the Council yesterday that there will have to be an initiative to allow the slaughter house to remain in San Fernando Valley. He was instructed to prepare an amendment, which may be submitted to the people at the time the charter amendments, dancing initiative ordinance and other matters are put up to the vote of the electors.

City Hall Notes.

The Harbor Commission yesterday notified the Standard Oil Company and the Regan Tool Company that the land they have leased at the harbor is ready for occupancy. This is the seven acres on which the Standard Oil Company is building tanks and the factory site on which the Regan Tool Company is to manufacture oil tools.

Another blast, and the biggest, at the municipal quarry at the Isthmus, Catalina Island, will be set off Wednesday. It was to have been fired today, but the arrival of a carload of powder was delayed. Moving-picture concerns have notified President Woodman of the Harbor Commission that they want to be on hand to secure news pictures.

VINEYARD BRIDGE PLANS.

Suggesting changes in the plans for the Sherman-drive bridge over the Pacific Electric Railway tracks at Vineyard, City Engineer Hamlin advised the Council yesterday of a way to reduce the approach grade from 7 per cent. to 5.4 per cent. or less and cut down the distance which the fills for approaches encroach on adjoining lots. The Public Works Committee will consider it.

The Wheat Yield

Tells the Story

of Western Canada's Rapid Progress

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The heavy crops in Western Canada have caused new records to be made in the handling of grains by railroads. For while the movement of these heavy shipments has been wonderfully rapid, the resources of the different roads, despite enlarged equipments and increased facilities, have been strained as never before, and previous records have thus been broken in all directions. The largest Canadian wheat shipments through New York ever known are reported for the period up to October 15th, upwards of four and a quarter million bushels being exported in less than six weeks, and this was but the overflow of shipments to Montreal, through which point shipments were much larger than to New York.

Yields as high as 60 bushels of wheat per acre are reported from all parts of the country; while yields of 45 bushels per acre are common. Thousands of American farmers have taken part in this wonderful production. Land prices are still low and free homestead lands are easily secured in good localities, convenient to churches, schools, markets, railways, etc. There is no war tax on land and no conscription. Write for illustrated pamphlet, reduced railway rates and other information to Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or apply to Gilbert Roche, Canadian Government Agent, Canadian Bldg., Exposition Grounds, San Diego, Cal.

MEANS FINER EFFORTS.

LARGE ADDITION TO BE MADE TO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

There is to be an addition of ten players to the string section of the Symphony Orchestra this season, which will bring the organization much nearer the proportions of the large eastern bands. It is contended that this will mean more than a mere increase in the volume of the tone, that has to an extent been lacking, but will give a balance of quality not heretofore attainable.

Heretofore the Symphony Orchestra has had but twelve first violins, with the other string divisions proportionately large. It is considered that the ideal number is sixteen first violins.

The orchestra's first concerts will occur the middle of November, with an exceedingly brilliant opening programme in prospect. There will be ten pairs of concerts this year. There is some difficulty in procuring the works desired from abroad, but wherever these cannot be obtained excellent substitute selections are being held in reserve.

A novelty that will hold wide interest for local lovers of music is Charles Wakefield Cadman's "Indian Suite." This work will be given its first hearing in Los Angeles, in accordance with the special desire of Mr. Cadman, who has taken up his residence here.

An eastern orchestra was anxious to secure the right to produce the suite first, but Mr. Cadman decided in favor of the Los Angeles organization. In a letter to Director Tandler, written from his summer home in Colorado, where he is spending a few weeks, he said: "I have told the eastern director that I wanted the Los Angeles orchestra to give it first, as I call that my home now." A Russian director who has played some of Mr. Cadman's compositions has also been anxious to secure the "Indian Suite" for first presentation.

Because of Mr. Cadman's studies of Indian musical lore and the success he has had in idealizing Indian themes, much is expected of this new work, which is an arrangement of part of the music he has written as incidental to the Indian play called "The Thunderbird." Those who have heard the piano score say it is most interesting and striking.

It is very likely that other new works by American composers will be presented during the coming season, especially if it be impossible to get the requisite number of novelties from abroad. An all-American programme would prove a strongly-attractive feature of the season, and may be arranged.

A King of Song.

It is some eight to ten years ago since Max Heinrich was last heard in this city, but to those who listened to his interpretations of power and authority at that time his death, recently cannot but have brought a touch of sadness. His was a type of art that blazed a pathway in the development of appreciation of lieder singing in this country. And the debt that this form owes to him cannot be reckoned in mild terms.

It is fortunate that Max Heinrich has left some of a heritage for the singer in several very valuable books on the art, and also has several notable compositions to his credit, among them a setting of Poe's "Raven" in melodrama form. He frequently gave this himself, as well as Richard Strauss's famous "Enoch Arden."

It was in his interpretation of Schubert, Schumann and Brahms songs and oratorio work that Max Heinrich won his surest triumphs. And his name is engraved securely in the tablet of fame, because of this. His fine observance of the spirit of each song, as related to its period, summed up in the word tradition, gave a beautiful authority to his art.

Born in Chemnitz, Saxony, in 1853, he came to this country when twenty years of age, after having studied at the Dresden Conservatory, the home of many great things in the world of music. His last appearance in public was at a recital at the Princess Theater in New York. Although the beauties of his voice had faded at this time, his art was as ever fully expressive. He resided in California for several years, and is widely known to musical and artistic persons who were here ten years ago.

His daughter, Julia Heinrich, has gained a prominent position in musical New York. She had been fortunate in having Max Heinrich as an accompanist for her recital during her career, an art in which he excelled. He was among the first artists to accompany himself, a not easy feat in the case of such songs as he was in the habit of presenting.

To Whistle in East.

Miss Madge Becker, favorite whistling artist of this city, will leave Tuesday for Chicago, where she will appear on the programme of the International Lyceum Association Convention, September 18.

Matinee Musical Plans.

A novel feature of the first meeting of the Matinee Musical Club to be held the first Thursday in October will be a programme by the gifted Japanese pianist, Shunzo Mitani. An exceedingly interesting series of meetings will be held during the coming season, with many artists outside of the club members to present some of the programmes. Among those who are tentatively engaged are Carlos Troyer, Vernon Spencer, Ernest Douglas and Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith.

The first board meeting of the organization will be held September 7. At the first meeting of the chairmen of committees Mr. James Henry Ballagh complimented those appointed, upon the work they had done in preparing to make the coming season the largest the club has ever enjoyed.

Exposition Band Concert.

Operatic selections, religious, patriotic and popular numbers are combined into a very pleasing programme to be given by the Los Angeles County Band, under the direction of W. F. Arend, this afternoon at Exposition Park. Following are the selections: "Rock of Ages" National Emblem March, (Bagley;) waltz, "Tout Paris" (Waldteufel;) overture, "Stradella" (Flotow;) (a) song to the "Evening Star" from "Tannhaeuser," (b) "Pilgrim Chorus" from "Tannhaeuser" (Wagner;) humoreske, "Who's Next" (Bellstedt;) "A Night in Ven-

TORNADO RAISES HAVOC.

Hits "Prop" Hotel of Selig at Newhall Location.

A tornado, something which California knows little about, sprang up the other evening in Newhall, where structures to be used in "The Light of Western Stars," written by Zane Gray for the Selig Company, are being erected.

The tornado struck a newly-erected "prop" hotel—one of those motion picture houses which haven't any insides to them—and smashed it to smithereens.

UNDERSTANDING'S GATEWAY.

A Study of the Seeking of Happiness, Suggested by the Spirit of William Vaughn Moody's Play, "The Faith Healer," which may have Production Here.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK.

OUR regular mail man did not come Tuesday. My dog and I both noticed the difference in the whistle. Wednesday we heard the stranger's whistle again, and I went to the gate. One of those pathetic little tragedies which make a part of life, as we know it, had entered our carrier's home. For a long time he and his wife had been living in their sunny little cottage with a bright hope. They had waited a long time for this wonder and miracle. Now, in that inner chamber of the heart where we shut the door and drawn the blinds the memory of this sweet girl and the babe that was to be is all that is left of our friend's dear dream. They live in his heart, and also they are somewhere together in that great mystery that men call life and death and love and God. Somehow my friend's grief fixed my mind upon William Vaughn Moody's exquisite play called "The Faith Healer."

We have a great need of such plays as this, because no life is either so sordid or satisfied, so practical or so complete, that we are not all awaiting some miracle within ourselves that will roll back the horizon of our limited vision a little further to show us more of the flowers in the fields and the light on the hills.

To hear the average man tell it, he has had a hard row to hoe. The story of his life would give an author something to write about, he can tell you. To him the happy man is only in the paradise of fools, and all gold is fools' gold, except the sort delved from the earth and spent for bread to be eaten with that wine of sorrows that men call tears.

Nevertheless, life has only one tragedy—the blind effort of humanity to grasp its happiness. The world's very nearness to heaven, through such a faith as that of which William Vaughn Moody has written, keeps it in terrifying suspense.

One reason such plays as "The Faith Healer" are not more frequently written and produced is that their truth is discerned only by youth which cannot afford theaters and by old age which seldom cares to go. Midstream we are too close to the realities for a proper spiritual perspective.

Happiness has only one approach—the gateway of understanding. The tragedy of seeking happiness lies not in the effort, but in our common blindness, and the offense of great plays is their frank discernment of a people in the dark.

Most people prefer to have a play reflect a little part of life as they have seen it, rather than have it suggest anything new. Such mental crimes as this and other prejudices send us all moping into whole penitentiaries of books called libraries,

Comedy.

SUMMERY PROGRAMME.

GAY SHOWS REIGN ALONG THE RIALTO THIS WEEK.

With musical comedy, as represented by Cohan's "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," once more in evidence on Theater Row, the playgoer may well consider his cup of joy replenished anew. To be sure, there's nothing serious on the Rialto, the heart throbs being all relegated to motion pictures, but as to every other form of entertainment, there is plenty, including "A Pair of Sixes," the drawing power of which seems inexhaustible, and some excellent vaudeville attractions. Among the latter are Grace Dunbar Nile in "Petticoats;" Violet Romer in a dance production of much originality, it is said; Grace de Winters, lady ventriloquist; dramatic tabloid, entitled "Which One Shall I Marry?" and that long-promised dramatic reproduction of the Barbary Coast.

Burbank.

George M. Cohan's famous musical comedy success, "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," will be the offering at the Burbank, commencing tomorrow night. The piece is noted for its brilliant comedy lines, its catchy music and its amusing plot. There is to be a big chorus of the prettiest dancing girls possible to be secured, the costumes are to be made by Mme. Keeler, and the production in every particular promises to be one of the most beautiful and snappy which the Burbank has ever staged.

Edith Lyle has a sympathetic role in Mary. Warner Baxter is to play Kid Burns, the character that keeps the play moving with lightning speed. Frank Darien will be Jim Blake. Dora Howe, Neil Burns, Vera Lewis, John Burton, James Corrigan, Mennette Barrett, Bobby Roberts and others will have leading roles.

Orpheum.

Two women, Grace Dunbar Nile and Violet Romer, will headline the Orpheum bill opening tomorrow. These young women are of widely divergent types, but both equally charming, and their offerings are of equally varied character. Miss Dunbar will present the sketch, "Petticoats," cut and tailored for her by John B. Hymer, to fit her own particular style of talent. Violet Romer has originated a number of beautiful interpretative dances on Shakespearean subjects, which she will give in sumptuous settings.

Others on the bill will be Chester Spencer and Lola Williams in "Putting It Over;" Leo Zarrell and company, billed simply as "entertainers," and the holdovers, including Anna Wheaton and Harry Carroll, Mrs. Leah Herz and Company, in "I Wish I Knew;" Lou Holtz, singer and dancer, and Mary Melville, in her clever monologue.

Morosco.

"A Pair of Sixes" is proving a tremendous winner at the Morosco. So much so, indeed, that the farce will open its third week today. The story is founded on the outcome of a game of poker between two partners, and an understanding by the terms of which the loser is to be the other's butler for a year. Mary Servoss, Douglas MacLean, Wyndham Standing, Rodney Hildebrand, Gertrude Maitland, Lola May, Mary Baker, Howard Scott and others have leading roles, and give a quick-moving and excellent performance.

Hippodrome.

The Hippodrome promises the biggest show of the season, opening tomorrow.

"Which One Shall I Marry?" by Ralph T. Kettering, deals with the question of the consideration which should be given to the choosing of a life mate, and promises to be of sensational interest.

Others will be Henry and Lizell, singers and dancers; George Stanley and Company, unique southern entertainers; Harry Lancaster, with a budget of songs and stories of the canny Scot; Kremka Brothers, comedy acrobats; the Temple Quartette, and Mosher, Hayes and Mosher, cyclists.

Republic.

The headline attraction at the Republic, starting with the matinee tomorrow, will be "The Passing of the Barbary Coast," a dramatic playlet adapted from San Francisco's underworld. This act is said to interpret the midnight festivities in one of the notorious dance halls. The cast will include twenty persons.

"Love's Lariat," starring Harry D. Carey, the well-known western actor, will be the photoplay headliner, while other features on the vaudeville programme will include The Gilfain Trio, Irish and Scotch entertainers extraordinary; Loudry and Lavine, who bring with them a novelty act; Ruth Miller, harpiste and dancer; Davis and McCoy in a comedy singing and talking oddity, "A Bit of Boobology," and Ede Mae, "the girl with the mirror hat," who promises surprises.

Pantages.

Three years were spent in the training of "Andy," the cockatoo star of Mlle. Naynon's Tropical Birds, which will be one of the features of the new bill at Pantages. Over thirty other of the feathered actors in the act are similarly educated. Miss Naynon has one of the most wonderful collections of birds ever gathered together.

Another production will be the "Earl and the Girls," a snappy musical comedy tabloid, in which a chorus of six beautiful and shapely misses sing and dance in support of a cast of four clever principals. Grace de Winters presents a ventriloquial dummy; the Amaros Sisters have an act which combines singing, dancing and novel acrobatics. Dale and Archer will arrive with a medley of vaudeville bits, and McCould and Carp draw harmony from a banjo and a violin.

Billie Burke will be seen in the fourteenth chapter of the film serial, "Gloria's Romance," to round out the bill.

Fingering Finery.

AMONG THE STORES AND AMID THE SHOPPERS.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

Now is the time to buy:

The one more cool frock for the warm days which always come late in our summer season. In the clearance sales which are about rounding to completion there are wonderful values at amazingly low prices.

The one or two pairs of pumps which help to tide over in comparative comfort the poor feet which suffer so in high boots during the end-of-the-summer warm wave. In the shoe sales of that big Broadway store you will find high-priced pumps at prices scarcely as much as are usually asked for inferior qualities.

Fresh figs, which are plentiful in the market and of superior quality, are very cheap. For pickling and making jams now is the opportune time.

Practical Suggestion.

When you tire of fighting ants with pastes and powders, try oil of cedar, dropped along their favorite haunts. This is not liked by the little pests and the odor is quite agreeable, hinting as it does of cool forest retreats.

Chin Posies.

I had been wondering who would be first to add to those chin elastics, pretty flowers to nestle charmingly there and now I know. Of course, it would be Dorothy! The elastics in themselves are quite becoming, as well as useful, especially when motoring or at the beach and when just in front of one ear is posed a posy of one's favorite tint, the effect is irresistible. Sort of chin garters are these summer-popular elastics, of an apotheosized race, of course.

An Advance Hat.

Possibly the milliner will not forgive me for telling you about it, but I really did not promise to keep her secret. Had I done so—well you know that we never violate a confidence or tell a secret. We leave that to the men! But anyhow, this hat, the very first to be sent on by that milliner, the selections of whose exquisite taste we always await with bated breath, this hat is charming to a degree. Of the new chestnut color which it is declared will supplant tete de negre and all the other just away from black shades, is this high-crowned, piquant affair, severely plant as the most effective hats are sure to be, but different—oh, so different! It is simply trimmed with very narrow bands of fur and the veil, which is an integral part of the hat, is also trimmed in bands of fur to match and they are set at precisely similar intervals upon the hat and veil, the lower one edging the latter. The veil—well, if I were to tell you all, you would know without seeing it, just how that extremely novel piece of millinery looked and—would that be exactly fair to the milliner, who, possibly, does not wish me to tell her secrets?

Playful.

Toys for grown ups! That is what they are—those joyful quacks. No, no! Not medical quacks; but goose quacks. Hace you not noticed them? A whole procession of them, all looking so jolly, so funny and with their adjustable heads and feet, capable of becoming more funny—more playful. Of course, they are not real flesh, blood and feathers, natural though they seem. They are of wood and are painted goosily, and under the manipulation of human hands, they look as goosey as they are painted. Oh, certainly, they bring good luck—or least good pluck. A sort of poultry "Gods of things as they ought to be" are they believed to be. Even if you pride yourself upon not being superstititious, you ought to like to play. We do not play half enough, nor laugh enough.

Multiplying Your Book Money.

Yes and multiplying it by high numbers. That is what will happen to you if you visit the Book Nook during the final days of that sale which has been dubbed by someone, "the greatest of all." Many books for the price of one will be your reward for a visit there. Not cheap books, not tawdry books; but real books, permanent books—not temporary books; library books, not those which occupy the fleeting vision and then wo hence, whither, no one knows. There are, for example, such books as that great one on modern customs in Bible Lands; volumes metaphysical; books for those speculatively inclined; of heroes of American history, and an encyclopaedia in a single volume which everyone will wish to have for convenience, since it deals with almost every popular subject—deals briefly, but authentically and thus gives to one in convenient form a most valuable reference book, and one right up to now, since it is published in 1916. Among the books for children is one of exceptional charm, regarding the runaway equator, which is certain to impress upon the growing mind, many facts. The Book Nook is, in fact, surpassing all former accomplishment in its offerings for the last of the great sale in that popular store where you discover that seven is a lucky number, even though you happen to be on Broadway.

Wh-h-ew!

Yes, I know you feel that way now. Feel as though you would never, never again need to wear a coat. But just a slight veering of the weather vane and—"Where's my coat?" you will exclaim, and then—pshaw! the moths have eaten it, or it looks "mussy" and you will be saying to yourself, "Why did I not take advantage of the so-early sale and buy one of those given-away coats?" We are not, as a rule, ready to decide upon the best-of-all coat so early in the season, and that is why the wise ones alway hail the last-of-the-season sales to tide them over to the "when" that they shall know exactly what they want for goods. Why, of course, I am trying to tell you about coats in that big sale.

Silk Hose Cut in Two.

Not making half-hose of them, either, but making half-price for them. Real silk are they, and some of them ALL silk from toe to top and inclusive. Good silk, too. Really, they are cheaper than cotton and they are pretty and wearable. But a trifle over a fraction of a dollar in price, but several fractions over that in value. If you look you will find them, I am sure, and it will be a lucky find.

Not Carpentry.

A novel assistant for the nails has nothing to do with carpentry, although it is a labor-saver. Possibly, by and by, we shall have no work at all to do, and even they may keep ourselves and our homes in perfect trim. This new nail invention does away with all the bother of polishing one's nails. Just a look at the bottle and your finger nails take on a brilliant luster. Well, no, of course, I do not mean that literally, but the liquid polish is applied with a tiny brush and instantly that it is applied your nails are bright as after the manicurist has expended much time and a lot of patience upon them. Nail lacquer, I think I would call this novel addition to the dressing table.

Cheaper than Washing.

An offering of cedar mops for such a few cents that it really would not pay you to wash your old one is what you may obtain by shopping in the household department of that big store on Broadway which is giving just four days more to its annual sale.

Novel Sweetness.

The perfume ball is the very latest. It is not, as one might suppose from the name, an affair dansant. No. It is one more way of adding daintiness to the effects of milady. The perfume ball is suspended around the neck upon a ribbon of whatever color one may fancy, and it there distills its aroma, which adds one more note to the symphony of sweetness which is exhaled by the woman who cares.

Upon Fashion's Calendar.

Newer than white as the softening influence at the neck is the palest rose shade in tulle, organdy or Georgette crepe.

Slip-over-the-head Russian blouses in smoky-gray taffeta are sometimes trimmed with steel-gray taffeta.

A gray linen frock of handkerchief linens has broad collar, cuffs and a band around the bottom of the skirt of purple.

The ends of sashes are trimmed with cross-stitch embroidery.

Costumes of vivid red jersey are very becoming to young girls.

"When in doubt add pockets," is the designer's motto this year.

The bouffant silhouette is reserved almost entirely for evening.

Skirts will remain ample, but the fullness will be softly disposed.

The costume that accompanies a sailor hat should be rather trim.

Lingerie is sometimes made of black and white striped material.

A charming fashion for small children of the smock-wearing age is a flower necklet to match the smock.

Sprays of flowers are appliqued on the silk skirts of young girls' evening frocks—the silk being veiled with tulle.

EDUCATORS.

Roscoe Pound, upon whom the Universty of Chicago has just conferred the honorary degree of LL.D., is a comparatively young jurist with an international reputation. A native of Nebraska, a teacher of law in the University of Nebraska, then in Northwestern University, and then in the University of Chicago, he went in 1910 to the Harvard law school, Cambridge, to be Story professor of law. Three years later he was made Carter professor of jurisprudence. Within a year he has been elected dean of the school and now is its dominating individual factor. He is a man with a variety of encyclopedic knowledge not often equaled.

Robert Frost, this year's Phi Beta Kappa poet as Harvard University, is chiefly known by his poem, "North of Boston." Since his return to the United States and his settlement at Franconia, N. H., where he lives "the simple life" on a hillside farm, he has been taken up by home critics and authors' societies and been given quite a vogue. Earlier in life he was a teacher. His youth was spent on a farm in Derry, N. H. A book preceding "North of Boston," called "A Boy's Will," was the first of his collected output to attract the attention of English reviewers and men of letters like Wilfrid Gibson, Ezra Pound and the Meynells.

Sir George Adam Smith, the new moderator-elect of the United Free Church of Scotland, is the first university principal to occupy the chair. He is principal and vice-chancellor of Aberdeen University. At one time he was regarded as something of a heretic on account of his vigorously-expressed views on subjects like higher criticism. Author of many important works on Old Testament subjects, he has traveled widely in Egypt, Syria and elsewhere, and in 1914 he published an atlas of the historical geography of the Holy Land. At different times he has held important lectureships in the universities in this country, including Yale. In 1892 he became professor of Old Testament language, literature and theology at the United Free Church Training College, Glasgow.

Francis Hartman Markoe, who will direct the great Yale pageant at New Haven on October 21, in commemoration of the two hundredth anniversary of the removal of Yale College from Saybrooke, Ct., to its present site, is a young man who brings a wide experience to bear upon his task. He produced the great pageant of South Africa at Cape Town in 1910, and helped to put on the coronation pageant given at the Crystal Palace in London a few years ago. While still at Oxford, where he took a course after graduating from Yale in 1906, he helped write and present the Oxford historical pageant, and wrote the masque for the 44,000 school children in London at the time of the coronation. In the Yale pageant 8000 actors will participate.

BILL'S BACHELOR LETTER.

Dear Judge:

My crude ideas of law you scornfully deride
And ask how much a layman knows about life's seamy side;
Your long experience at the bar has proved beyond a doubt
It's no use wasting sentiment on one who's down and out.
That's what you say, and every day this hopeless type you meet—
Well, hold your horses while I tell the tale of "Spindrift Pete."
'Twas in San Pedro Harbor on a sultry summer day,
Beside a wharf with lumber piled a big oil freighter lay;
When from some cause beyond the laws that skillful jurists frame
A tank of oil exploded and threw out a tongue of flame.
It wrapped that seasoned lumber in a ravenous embrace;
No stern injunction of the court could hold the fiend in place;
Useless to file demurrers or appeal to judgments higher,
Nothing but force could stay the course of that relentless fire.
The harsh bell clanged, the whistle screamed, Los Angeles replied,
And hosts of willing, helpful hands poured in from every side.
The hose was laid, each fire brigade worked to its fullest strength—
And in a little skiff hard by, stretched out at lazy length,
Moored in the shade the big wharf made, a breezy cool retreat,
In happy half-oblivion snoozed vagrant Spindrift Pete.
A high-sea vagabond was he, a prince of idle dreamers,
Whose one ambition was to ship in slovenly tramp steamers;
He'd never paid society a single debt he owed—
He had no call on earth at all, according to your code.
Just then somewhere a steam pipe burst and boiling water sprayed
The gallant crew who held the line where the main hose was laid;
Back, back, reluctantly they fell—yet if that main line broke
A million-dollar property would soon go up in smoke.
Then as a redder sheet of flame above the steam cloud rose,
The fire chief yelled for volunteers to go and save that hose.
Now men were there who knew no fear, of full heroic size,
The type of men society is glad to recognize,
Of proven worth, the best on earth, deserving highest praise
For work well done—but not a one would dare that hellish blaze.
From the cool depths beneath the wharf, into the crackling heat,
At last appeared the frowsy head of worthless Spindrift Pete;
He blinked his eyes as nearer yet the flaming curtain drew,
And mumbled, "Seems as how that hose will soon be burnt in two."
He tied a ragged shirt tail round his head, drew one long breath,
And like a salamander plunged into that fiery death.
Fresh flame and smoke in fury broke, it seemed a hopeless tussle
To pit against that heavy hose a man of such poor muscle.
But inch by inch he dragged it back, a hundred risks he braved,
Till there went out a mighty cheer, "He wins! The hose is saved!"
Judge, 'twas no solid citizen of fixed industrious ways
Who risked his ten-cent life to stop that million-dollar blaze;
He was no splendid hero such as palaces adorn,
But just a sorry scarecrow that a dicky bird would scorn.
For God may choose strange instruments to work His wondrous will,
A judge discreet, a Spindrift Pete, or you,

Or even—

Seeking Happiness.

put glasses on our noses before their time, and make us read instead of act. The result is that we fall into an asylum of literature wherein we can hide from life.

The words of a journalist or of an every-day reporter get closest to action—sometimes they are so good as to be paid with compliments—but they are only the escaped muma (the active essence of physical life departing from the no longer animate,) while history comes next to this office of journalism by stirring up the dust of mummies. One shows you action in a mirror, while the other reflects only a dim shadow of the actual.

People are likely to shy at a play bearing such a title as Moody's pure masterpiece. Therefore, I want to use a paragraph or two in order to touch upon the feeling that is back of such prejudices. Every prejudice is instinctive, but unreasoning. A prejudice is an unformed dislike, a conclusion reached by feeling and not by analysis. It is something we have not yet taken the time to understand, or that strains our present caliber. And, for these reasons, a prejudice reflects one of our own limitations.

A definition is required where the comprehension of a principal is fragmentary or where the particulars of a principal are hazy or unusual. Insensibility on the one hand and clear knowledge on the other never ask for further explanations. When a man has no question to ask he is either very wise or a great fool. Where understanding is absolute it cannot appear to mortal vision, and the world perhaps receives its scriptures and highest inspirations from those who make the sacrifice of voluntary birth out of such a state.

If this seems to go too far, let us remember that when a statement goes beyond our own experience or natural inquiry, its terms appear as difficult as though put forth in a foreign language.

Only the diversity of human experience makes different languages appear needful and they are then chiefly necessary in theaters and madhouses—in theaters where we play at life, and in madhouses where men have lost track of it.

We do not need pearls of thought, clothed in the velvet of verbiage half so much as we need vials of vitriol. There is no hope for those who cannot be aroused. That is why I am so partial to a play like "The Faith Healer." Our thinking ought to be something besides a process to avoid the truth.

It is probably unorthodox to say so, but I often think that only faith healers should be allowed to practice medicine and that they should practice nothing else. Only a man with spiritual perceptions can have any proper conception of materiality and surely the materialist is the only true spiritual believer, since he must recognize the essence out of which forms proceed.

Well, no matter. Perhaps I am only saying that a man of catholic experience might spend an entirely comfortable day with two or three ladies so long as he refrained from the casual remark that he had, at some time or other, had the good taste to marry each of them.

We juggle with our beliefs in just about the same fashion. Then, one day, we face a staggering conviction.

Sudden revelations of truth always come with a shock. Do you remember the tremendous silent force between the girl and the man in Ibsen's "Master Builder?" They experience a blinding recognition in a light that swallows them both.

Naked truth is always ruthless and daring and this seeing something clearly for the first time and undertaking to live with that truth forever afterward is the consciousness that is in Moody's "Faith Healer."

The story is simple enough, but it marks the spiritual graduation of its writer from the class in which he moved among men. Moody's hero in this play sees the truth and understands the mote that is still in his eyes. He knows that at least one other great moral struggle must be met with victory before the realization of truth clothes him with the authority of truth. Then, when he has met the enemy that is within imself and has overcome his enemy with kindness, the woman who had relapsed from his healing gets well again and the child that was dying is restored. The fineness of Moody's genius is tested by the task he sets for his faith healer before that man comes into mastery. What he must learn is the forgiveness of ignorance.

This is a good place to say that the tragedy of crucifixion is never with the sacrifice, but always with the mob. The last cry we hear from Calvary is "Forgive them, for they know not what they do." Sacrifice is a privilege and a joy. Understanding may know suffering, but ignorance is miserable. The cross is brought about through the necessary compromise of the spiritual to manifest in the physical.

It is not easy to write about this play, yet it is one you will enjoy reading for yourself, and you will read into it every step that your own soul has taken. Some time before Mr. Moody's death, "The Faith Healer" had had a very fine eastern performance and I think we are ready for a production in the West.

Sir Herbert Tree has written a remarkable tragedy which he has put in short-story form and which ought to be made into a play. He calls it "Nothing Matters" and he ends it with this remarkable sentence: "Nothing matters? The pity of it—everything matters!"

Two or three years ago California lost one of its truly great actors in the sudden death of George Osborne. John S. McGroarty is exceedingly fortunate in having for Osborne's successor as Father Junipero, the fine actor that we all know Wilfrid Rodgers to be. Mr. Rodgers is a man of large understanding and his speaking voice is beautiful. Mr. McGroarty gives Los Angeles a week of the "Mission Play" at the Mason Operahouse, beginning September 4, before taking it East, and I understand that he is rewriting the third act. Personally, I have always believed that this act should be a brief prologue and that the play should be divided in only two parts, closing with its unusual second act.

The war pictures at Cune's Auditorium were almost too good to carry any of the sensation that belongs to the stage. They were like a lesson in efficiency and I am sure they must have suggested to many the thought that this is perhaps a war of machinery—that men had developed machinery to a point where it had to break out in a terrific expression, where it had a profound significance that amounted to a mendacious will of its own.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Herbert Parsons, succeeding William Barnes as New York's member on the Republican National Committee, is a Yale graduate and a Harvard law school man. He has been an Alderman in New York City and a member of three Congresses. Philanthropic work demands and gets a considerable amount of his attention and of his means. He has been a consistent opponent of the elements in the Republican party typified by Mr. Barnes ever since entering public life.

Among the recent promotions in the army was that of Maj. Charles Young, Tenth United States Cavalry, to the grade of lieutenant-colonel. Special interest attaches to this case for the reason that, although Col. Young is not the only colored man to have been graduated from the United States Military Academy, he is the only man of his race to have reached the rank of lieutenant-colonel, the second highest in regimental organization. He was graduated in 1889, and most of his service has been in the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry, in which he rose gradually to his present rank. For nearly a year, while holding the rank of first lieutenant, he was attached to the Seventh Cavalry, a white regiment. During the Spanish War he served as major of the Ninth Ohio Colored Infantry, a regiment he helped to organize. For several months past he has been serving with his regiment in the punitive expedition to Mexico under Gen. Pershing.

Musical Evening.

Mrs. J. O. Roe of the Melrose Hotel, gave a musical evening recently in honor of Miss Mary Gowans, a well-known vocalist of New York City. Miss Gowans sang a number of songs, which showed her contralto voice to good advantage. The Rev. James Mythen gave a group of Irish songs, some of his own composition. The accompanist for the evening was Miss Bertha Barkileu. Miss Beulah Wright, dean of the College of Oratory, University of Southern California, gave a group of readings from contemporary American writers. About 200 persons were present at the reception. Miss Gowans has been visiting for some weeks in Southern California. She will return shortly to New York, where she is prominent in musical circles

Child Study Pieces.

A set of seven "Characteristic Pieces for the Earlier Grade" by Miss C. Adelaide Trowbridge of the College of Music, U.S.C., have just been published by R. W. Heffelfinger. These pieces have already been used in manuscript by a number of local teachers with success. Miss Trowbridge has also completed an exhaustive course in "Child Study," which will prove a new feature of the normal course.

Maria Louisa is dressed sumptuously and elegantly in the flamboyant manner of her day and wears a tall headdress with plumes on an already toppling coiffure. Notes of red in chair and crown give animation.

Murillo, who never left Spain, was both prolific and original, an excellent colorist, rather naturalistic in his interpretation. His madonnas are very beautiful and at the same time very human, and his little attending angels are romping cupids. "St. Dominic Receiving Rosary from the Virgin" is one of the most charming of the pictures in the present collection, the note of modernity being so positive that the picture somehow reminds one of the mural work of Blashfield. Murillo and Blashfield model in very much the same way and their feeling is not unlike. In the St. Dominic the drawing and color are superb and the arrangement has a fine amplitude. To quote the catalogue: "The expression on the face of the virgin who bestows the mystic rosary and that of the kneeling saint who receives it is most lifelike."

The Infanta Margarita has always been associated with Velasquez in art, but Carreno also painted her. A suave and tender colorist, a pupil and disciple of Velasquez and Van Dyck, Carreno did not miss his opportunity in the delightful small portrait of the Infanta shown in this exhibition, though it bears more evidence of the influence of Velasquez than Van Dyck. The grays are the beautiful silvery grays of the Spanish master, yet the complexion of the attractive young princess is rosier than Velasquez would have made it. Carreno's "Assumption," painted in tones of gray-gold, shows the consummate landscape painter no less than the painter of the human figure. The gray clouds behind the madonna, whose feet rest on the heads of cherubim, are true to nature and full of movement, and the stretch of land and sea far below her show trees that are modeled with simple perfection.

Others of the old Spanish masters and their paintings at the Mission Inn will be considered next week. Perhaps I have already convinced the skeptical that they are not passe, but more than worth while to every lover of art and beauty.

With the Magazines.

An illustrated account of the first annual exhibition of paintings by Americans recently held in Los Angeles appears in the Fine Arts Journal for August. The illustrations are from pictures by Arthur Davies, Jack Gage Stark, Edgar Keller and Richard Miller, with a photograph of the charming "Boy Fountain" by Elizabeth Edmonds and two views of Exposition Park Museum. Other interesting articles are: "Painting of the Nineteenth Century in England, Scotland and America," by Frank E. Frederick, with twenty-two illustrations; Mahlstick's correspondence from London, with six illustrations, and a profusely illustrated paper, "The Art Institute of Chicago: a World Influence in Art Education," by the editor of the magazine.

Arts and Decoration always appears with interesting covers. That of the August issue contains a black and white reproduction of a portrait by Zuloaga, while the frontispiece is from one of George de Forest Brush's rather classically-treated Indian subjects, "In the Dark Forest." A. D. Defries writes of "Rodin's Gift to South Kensington," with two reproductions; George Senseney of "The Artist Colony of Provincetown," with four illustrations; C. M. Price of "The Opportunity of the Poster," with fifteen illustrations from notable posters, French, German, English and American. Karl Freund makes a plea for internationizing decoration, and H. D. Eberlein writes of "Color in Decoration," while Edith Powell contributes an article on "Your Home and Its Decoration." All these papers are illustrated.

A striking feature of the International studio are the nine recent etchings by Zorn, reproduced with great fidelity, and including the remarkable portrait of Taft made in 1911. Zorn began to etch thirty years ago. The eight illustrations from the line drawings of Charles E. Brock, some of them now published for the first time, are also extremely interesting, and this is equally true of the eight-figure studies by Herbert Draper. The August number, indeed, is rich in illustrations, those in color, from canvases and water colors by George Henry and Charles Shannon, being very attractive. Christian Brinton describes Philadelphia's New Art Museum, Maxwell Armfield writes of "Realism and Romance," Raymond Wyer of "Common Pictures for Common People," Annie Nathan Meyer of "The Woman's Room at the World's Fair."

Understood at Last!

From an artist of Los Angeles:

"You don't care if I congratulate you on some of your editorials on the present exhibition at Exposition Park? Maybe I didn't always agree with your idea, but I liked the just, human way you told it—not as if pictures were some sort of classics that had always to have the same hackneyed phrases said about them."

Thank you! Come again!

Prospectus of Exhibitions.

The prospectus of the autumn exhibitions of the California Art Club has just been issued. It is a handsomely-printed folder containing much interesting information.

The seventh annual exhibition of the club will be open to the public at Exposition Park from October 6 to October 31. The jury of selection for this exhibition is composed of five painters—William Wendt, Hanson Puthuff, William V. Cahill, Benjamin Brown and Jack W. Smith.

Arrangements are being made by Mr. Frank S. Daggett, director of the museum, for a rotary exhibition of pictures chosen from this annual show, the rotary to travel to various eastern and northwestern cities during the winter season. The jury of the seventh annual will decide what pictures are to be sent. Works will be transported and returned to the museum without expense to the members of the California Art Club.

The traveling exhibition, to be shown under the auspices of clubs, libraries and associations that apply for it, will remain under the direction of Miss Alma May Cook, who will deliver a series of lectures on the pictures and their makers. It is promised that the standard of the traveling show will this year be equally as high as that of the annual exhibition, though the size of the canvases will be limited to 30x30 inches.

News and Notes.

Katherine Jones Hunley, formerly instructor of art in the public schools of Redlands, is sketching this summer at Tucson and Nogales. Some of her Arizona landscapes were recently exhibited in Redlands. It is also her intention to spend a few weeks in the Grand Canyon—"to paint the impossible."

The new book of the School for Illustration and Painting, under the direction of William V. Cahill and John H. Rich, has just been published—a handsome brochure with numerous beautiful drawings by pupils of the school. This school, one of our most successful in Los Angeles, has materially reduced the price of tuition for the coming year.

Hernando Villa will take charge of a number of the classes in drawing and painting in the School of Art and Design, near Westlake Park, to succeed Hamilton Wolf, who has resigned in favor of an important post at art instruction in the university at Seattle. Mr. Villa is a graduate of the school, and is considered one of the ablest men it has turned out.

Nell Brooker Mayhew, a maker of strikingly effective etchings in color, is holding an exhibition of them in the gallery of the Long Beach public library. The exhibition will continue to September 15.

An exhibition of posters commemorating the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Newark, N. J., opened on Thursday in Exposition Park, to continue for several weeks. Some remarkably good work is shown.

Among the painters now at work along the rocky shore at Laguna Beach is J. Duncan Gleason, who declares that he is "using up some expensive cadmiums." Never mind, J. D., the results will justify the expense.

RABINDRANATH TAGORE, REFORMER-SAGE OF INDIA.

Scion of a Distinguished Lineage—Poet, Dramatist, Philosopher, Singer, Composer, Musician—Establishes Model Homes for the Poor—About to Visit California.

BY WILLIAM H. KNIGHT.

ONE of the most striking and interesting figures in the world's literature today, is Rabindranath Tagore, the poet, dramatist, essayist, educator, musician and composer, and exponent of the philosophy of India today. Born in Bengal fifty-seven years ago, he is in the prime of a vigorous manhood with intellectual powers undimmed.

He came of a distinguished ancestry, noted for their wealth, and political and social prominence since the tenth century. The illustrious family name was Thakur, which has been Anglicized into Tagore. Among his ancestors were Koomar Tagore, author, orator, and founder of the British India Association; Baja Sourindra Tagore, founder of the Bengal Academy of Music and author of works on music; Abemindranath Tagore, distinguished painter and leader of the Hindu art revival; Maharaja Ramonath Tagore, political leader and writer; and Dwarakanath Tagore, grandfather of the poet, philanthropist and social reformer.

Young Tagore was carefully trained and educated by a spiritually-minded father—Devendranath Tagore. He was intended for the legal profession and was sent to England at the age of 17 to perfect his education and to acquire the English and other modern tongues. But his mind could not brook the restraints of law and when he returned to India he began writing poetry. To divert him from that nonsense his father took him to a retreat in the Himalaya Mountains.

There he revelled in the beautiful and majestic scenery and his soul blossomed out more richly in poetic thoughts and measures. There he came close to nature and found congenial company in the rocks and springs and trees, and in the clear skies and stars which seemed so near and friendly. The father ceased to feel anxiety on his account, engaged the best teachers for his son, and gave full play to the development of his faculties.

For some years he was intrusted with the management of his father's great estate and he thus came into direct contact with the lowly and uncultured workman, and instead of being repelled invested him with a sort of halo. He got a deeper insight into that consciousness which perceives the presence of the infinite in the basic realities of life.

He married a lovely wife, who, after a few years of unalloyed happiness, passed away. The shock was severe and even further embittered by the loss of two young children, touchingly referred to in some of his poems.

Among his versatile accomplishments was that of music, of which he was master both as composer and performer. He not only sang his own compositions but some of his songs set to music by himself are still sung by the common people in Bengal, and his devotional hymns are sung in the Bengali churches. For twenty years he has been the idol of young India and the acknowledged interpreter of all that is refining and ennobling in the religious and spiritual cults of India.

In his songs there is always the double music of the words and of the accompaniment. He handles the rare forms of Hindu poetry with a matchless grace. There is a touch of divinity in Tagore and in his poems.

In the last few years this remarkable man, not yet occupying a place in the encyclopedias, has been studied for his unique personality and his inspiring writings by the cultured people of the occidental world. Ernest Rhys says that "his message to the western world amounts almost to a spiritual revelation." Another remarks that he gives utterance to "an expression too subtile, too profound, and too personal to be readily translated into language. The word and the tone strains combine, the two musics being present, and each contributes to the enchantment."

But Joyce Kilmer, poet and critic, while not denying the actual gifts of Tagore, thinks his cult has become a sort of "Tagore craze." He characterizes it as exoticism—a penchant for strange and foreign ideas. While not the greatest living poet, he is yet the most versatile writer living, and writes in English as skilfully as in his native tongue. There is, he says, an exotic aroma about his poems—like sandalwood.

Tagore visited America three years ago and delivered a series of lectures at Harvard University. These were published under the title of "Sadhana, the Realization of Life," and have since been extensively quoted and commented upon in newspapers and reviews. His portrait, highly spiritualized, had a touch of divinity, and he was thus described: "His flowing hair, broad, unfurrowed forehead; bright, black, magnetic eyes, firm chin, engaging smile, gentle voice, keen sense of humor, innate refinement, make him a man of rare personality."

In 1914 Tagore received the Nobel prize of $40,000 for the high character of his literary work and he has devoted the entire sum with considerable additions to the establishment of pleasant homes for the poor. It is reported that he will visit America again in a few months, landing on our Pacific shore, and that he will tarry briefly in California, giving a few lectures at our universities. He will undoubtedly be received with hearty and appreciative welcome.

One of Rabindranath Tagore's songs:

"Leave this chanting and singing and telling of beads. Whom dost thou worship in this lonely dark corner of a temple with doors all shut? Open thine eyes and see thy God is not before thee.

"He is where the tiller is tilling the hard ground, and where the pathmaker is making roads. He is with them in sun and in shower, and his garment is covered with dust. Put off thy holy mantle and even like him come down on the dusty road. Our master has joyfully taken upon him the bonds of creation; he is bound with us all forever.

"And because I love this life, I know I shall love death as well."

A characteristic excerpt:

"Logically speaking, the distance between two points, however near, may be said to be infinite, because it is infinitely divisible. But we cross the infinite at every step and meet the eternal every second. Therefore, some philosophers say, there is no such thing as finitude; it is but an illusion. The real is the infinite; it is only the unreality which causes the appearance of the finite.

"It fills me with great joy and a high hope for the future of humanity when I realize that there was a time when our poet-prophets stood under the lavish sunshine of an Indian sky and greeted the world with the glad recognition of kindred. It meant crossing the limiting barriers of the individual, to become more than man, to become one with the all."

Another Tagore song:

"When I go hence let this be my parting word, that what I have seen is unsurpassable. I have tasted the hidden honey of the lotus that expands in the ocean of light, and thus am I blessed—let this be my parting word.

"In this playhouse of infinite forms I have had my play, and here have I caught sight of him that is formless.

"My whole body and my limbs have thrilled with his touch, and if the end comes here—let it come."

THE UNCHLOROFORMED.

Miss Joanna Marshall of Baltimore observed her 94th birthday anniversary last week. Miss Marshall is known locally as a poet, dealing chiefly with nature subjects.

James W. Corcoran, 62 years old, a manufacturer of Toronto, Can., and Miss Mary McLaughlin of Columbus, O., aged 24, were married a few days ago. Corcoran picked out his wife in her childhood, his wooing keeping pace with her development.

David Jones Taff celebrated his 95th birthday anniversary at his home, No. 68 Morton street, Brooklyn, last Saturday. Outside of a limited circle, who knows of David Jones Taff? Yet he has had much to do with the American merchant marine and with American banks. He is the oldest as well as the most famous of spar makers in the United States. A thousand ships that sailed the seas had their masts and arms fashioned by him. He it was who made the spars for the yacht America, which won the International Cup Race in 1850. Forty-nine years ago Mr. Taff and some other gentlemen founded the Dry Dock Savings Institution. For forty years he was vice-president.

Capt. William D. MacDougall, on duty at the Naval Observatory in Washington, has been ordered to proceed to London, Eng., for duty as naval attache at the United States Embassy. He will relieve Commander Powers Symington, who has been ordered to this country on waiting orders.

WAR CRAFT OF THE AIR.

What Aeroplanes are Doing Over Europe's Battlefields and How Powerful Aerial Destroyers Have Been Evolved—Flying Cruisers and Dreadnoughts May be Products of Present Development.

BY CLAUDE GRAHAME-WHITE.

ALMOST every day now, as the war by air, in common with that by land, grows on all fronts in its organized intensity, there stands revealed the value of the armed aeroplane—the craft that is built for its own task; the fighting machine pure and simple.

Not that the main concern of an air service is fighting. Its chief tasks, on the contrary, are, in the order of their importance: 1, scouting; 2, artillery control; and 3, the dropping of bombs.

But the point is that you cannot undertake these tasks, nowadays, working regularly and successfully over an enemy's line, unless you have the co-operation of fighting craft.

Your vital need is for news. You must know what movements, what concentrations are in progress at those points within enemy territory that can be reached and observed only by air.

You must have aeroplanes above the enemy's lines, also, to direct the fire of your artillery, and, when an opportunity offers, or strategy demands it, bombs must be dropped on his railway junctions and supply depots, causing such damage, if possible, as will delay the movement to his trenches of troops and munitions.

The fighting aeroplane carries out none of these tasks itself; but what it does is to render each of them possible. It wins, by actual fighting, a passage through the air for the scouts, the bomb-droppers or the artillery control machines.

DEFENDING OBSERVERS.

When scouts are sent out over the enemy, on an important reconnaissance, they must be guarded by a certain number of fighting machines. If this is not done they will be attacked and harassed, and quite probably brought to earth, by the armed patrols of the enemy.

Artillery control machines, also, carrying, say, occupants and a wireless equipment and needing, perhaps, to fly for hours over some given area, correcting the aim of the gunners with whom they are co-operating and watching the fall of shells, may be attacked suddenly by swifter craft and beaten down or driven away, if they are not defended by an escort of fighting machines. Again, should craft laden with bombs be sent into the enemy's territory—craft which must sacrifice speed to weight-lifting—it is essential that they should be shielded during their journey from the onslaught of enemy patrols.

In the early days of the war, for lack of anything better, airmen took ordinary scouting craft—preferably fast, single-seated machines—and ascended in them to fight, having as weapons nothing more deadly than a revolver or an automatic pistol. And their object, as a rule, in such preliminary combats, was to attack the aeroplanes the enemy was sending in over their lines to mark positions for his artillery. Land fire proved ineffective against these enemy observers; so there was nothing to do but attack them by the air.

It was not surprising, though, in view of the weapons used and of the conditions that prevail in the air, that many of these first duels should have been inconclusive. But what it was shown could be accomplished, none the less, by skilled pilots in fast aeroplanes, was that they might chase and harass enemy craft, and even if they could not cripple them with a lucky shot, force them at least to abandon their artillery direction or reconnaissance and make for the shelter of their own lines.

ARMAMENT PROBLEM.

Besides automatic pistols or revolvers, repeating rifles were used also in the air; but these were not suitable for single-seated machines, unless they could be fixed so that the pilot might operate them with one hand, and have the other free for his controls. This difficulty was overcome, in some cases by fixing rifles along the sides of the hull of a machine so that they could be aimed and fired with one hand.

From this crude stage was evolved a craft, either a high-speed monoplane or biplane, which was equipped with a machine gun firing straight ahead, and which could be handled in action by an airman who flew alone in the machine and was gunner as well as pilot.

Carrying as they did only one occupant, and being engined powerfully, such machines would fly fast and climb, dive or maneuver quickly; and this rendered them a menace to enemy scouts; while the advantage of machine guns, as compared, say, with rifles or pistols, was that a stream of bullets could be turned upon an antagonist during the critical moments of an encounter with so much the better chance of a crippling hit.

CRAFT OF TODAY.

With the development of this machine it became practicable, besides harassing the enemy in his artillery control, to send up machines to patrol certain specified areas, and to interfere with and drive away, or if possible destroy, any hostile scouts such as might venture into these areas on a reconnaissance. And in this way the haphazard and purely guerrilla warfare which characterized the beginning of the campaign by air has yielded to considered schemes of offense and defense.

This stage has been hastened by the advent of craft that are rendered effective as fighting units, and their speed maintained in flight in spite of the loads they carry, owing to the fact that they are filled with engines which—thanks to the stimulus in construction that has been exercised by the war—develop a power appreciably greater than was available in any of the early stages of the campaign.

These machines, larger and heavier than the single-seated patrols, have a fitting capacity which is sufficient, without prejudicing their speed, to carry not only a pilot, combatant gun and fuel, but also to permit of their hulls being armored lightly. Nor is this all. The craft are sufficiently powerful and have sufficient strength in construction to permit the mounting in them of light, quick-firing guns which throw small explosive shells. Thus, thanks mainly to engine power, but not forgetting skill in design and construction, we have a machine which marks a distinct step forward in the production of the purely fighting craft, a machine which not only hits harder, firing shells instead of bullets, but has its occupants and vital parts protected—at any rate, against damage from machine guns—owing to its sheath of armor.

ITS FIGHTING POWER.

War is waged by such armed craft not only among hostile scouts, but also against the enemy's patrols. The fast, single-seated machines which they may encounter have some advantage over them in the matter of speed, and this is important in maneuvering. But the single-seated patrol, with its machine gun, will not have the striking power of this other and larger craft, with its quick-firer and shells. And even if the patrol makes full use of his speed, and comes quickly at his larger antagonist from some position of advantage, his machine-gun bullets, though directed perhaps accurately, may be deflected and rendered harmless by the armoring of the latter's hull, while the bigger machine, when it returns this fire, discharges its shells against a craft which, having been stripped for speed, carries no armor and is so much the more vulnerable.

These new armed machines, with their more powerful guns, represent the most formidable craft in the air today. But they are not likely to remain so long, even admitting the difficulty of building larger machines.

Craft will be evolved, there is no doubt, which will have guns of greater caliber and range and which will have an ability to fly longer distances without alighting and at higher speeds—machines, indeed, which, if such craft as we have dealt with are regarded as "destroyers," may be described perhaps as aerial cruisers. And it is from such improved craft that we should move—granted sufficient money and experience and a reasonable time for experimental work—to a machine developing thousands of horse power and armed with aerial weapons for more deadly than those possessed today; a craft which should, in fact, justify even such a description as "the dreadnaught of the air."

CASH FOR BEST GRAPE ESSAY.

The directors of the California Grape Protective Association believe there are thousands of families in this State in the homes of which the gospel of temperance is preached, but not that of prohibition.

Acting on this belief we would like to hear what the boys and girls attending school have to say about the proposal for prohibition in California. The radical and intemperate side of the issue has been appealed to and has been heard from, and we now wish to hear from some of those who have been taught moderation and temperance in all things pertaining to living.

This association has decided to offer for the most meritorious essays, not exceeding 500 words in length, three prizes, the first $100, the second $65 and the third $35 in cash.

Those eligible to competition will be the pupils of a grammar or high school grade in any portion of the State.

From the name of our organization, the natural and correct inference is that we would save and protect the vineyards of this State, and we shall choose as the title of the essay the following words: "The Vineyards of California Must Not be Destroyed by Prohibition."

The time limit within which the competitive essays must be in possession of the office of this association is October 1, 1916. Between now and that time three judges will be selected from the prominent men and women of the State, and on their decision, after full examination of the essays, the awards will be made.

Those competing should forward their letters to Mr. H. F. Stoll, room 607, 216 Pine street, San Francisco.

BITS OF VERSE.

Sisters.

I fling my shawl to the winds o' morning,
I fling my hood to the light o' day—
Now see my breast like a flower o' the wildwood,
Now, while I tarry beside the way!

What need have I of a staff or brogans,
When I would stray like the faery moth,
Across the dark o' the cloud on the mountain,
Across the meadow of young love's troth?

This day I'm seeking my little sister,
Where I have found her so oft before,
Alone in the midst o' the good folk yonder,
Or men that drink at the tavern door.

O little sister, my hand shall beckon,
You may not tarry when I say "Come!"
Down faery paths we must stray together,
Till love at nightfall shall lead you home!

—[Anne W. Young, in New York Times.

The Thinker.

Back of the beating hammer
By which the steel is wrought,
Back of the workshop's clamor
The seeker may find the thought,
The thought that is ever master
Of iron and steam and steel,
That rises above disaster
And tramples it under heel.

The drudge may fret and tinker,
Or labor with lusty blows,
But back of him stands the thinker,
The clear-eyed man who knows;
For into each plow or saber,
Each piece and part and whole,
Must go the brains of labor,
Which gives the work a soul.

Back of the motor's humming,
Back of the bells that sing,
Back of the hammer's drumming,
Back of the cranes that swing,
There is the Eye which scans them,
Watching through stress and strain,
There is the mind which plans them—
Back of the brawn, the brain.

Might of the roaring boiler,
Force of the engine's thrust,
Strength of the sweating toiler,
Greatly in these we trust,
But back of them stands the schemer,
The thinker who drives things through,
Back of the job—the dreamer
Who's making the dream come true.

August.

She is here again, the lady with mist upon her eyes,
The magic of the harvest moon to deck her twilight skies.
She's on her moonlit stairway,
Her brown hair blown afar—
My lady of the August mist
And of the song-winged star.

She is here again, the lady with trailing vines in flower,
The sweetness of the musk of dreams in all her mystic power.
She's by her rivers straying,
And on her hills at rest—
My lady of the August flight
Of weaned birds from the nest.

She is here again, the lady with brown skin tanned o' haze,
The mystery of the ripened bloom of beauty in her days.
She's in the vale at morning,
And on the hill at night—
My lady of the August spell
Of moon-mist and delight.

Good Night, Dear Heart.

Good night, dear heart, good night,
And may there be
A magic wand, to summon from the dark,
A thought to dream of me.

Good night, dear heart, good night,
And may there creep
A breath of roses o'er your pillowed head,
To soothe you in your sleep.

Good night, dear heart, good night,
Till morning dew
Has bathed each bud and flower and then
Let sunbeams awaken you.

WRITES DRAMA FOR PRODUCTION IN EAST.

Harris Ingraham, character actor with the Crane Wilbur Company, at the Horsley plant, is devoting his spare time writing a four-act spoken drama which has been ordered by a prominent New York producer. Mr. Ingraham made the acquaintance of the theatrical man while en route to California, and a smoking-room conversation resulted in the actor telling a story which struck the producer as being one worthy of dramatization. Two weeks ago Mr. Ingraham received a lengthy night letter from the East, which requested that he put the story together for the stage, and a substantial retainer followed by registered mail, several days later. The play will be one of the underworld, based on a number of actual happenings as witnessed by Ingraham.

LOCAL MUSICIAN'S WORK.

"Daughter of Don" Score by Young Composer Here.

The music which serves as an accompaniment to "The Daughter of the Don," being shown at the Majectic, was written by Vern Elliott, a young Los Angeles musician.

Mr. Elliott is the youngest composer to write and arrange a score of this length. The prelude, love scene music and the numerous connecting passages were written and orchestrated by the composer. There are bits of eighty compositions in the score, strung together by a series of transitions.

Mr. Elliott is the composer of numerous songs, among them "Alone," "The Land of Heart's Desire" and others, and of the comic operas "The Interlopers" and "Springtime."

MATTER OF DOUBT.

Question of Eyes in Death Puzzles Picture Director.

Does a dying person close his eyes? This was the query which disturbed Raymond B. West, during the making of a scene in "The Wolf Woman," the Triangle "vampire" drama by C. Gardner Sullivan in which Charles Ray is co-starring with Louise Glaum. Ray was supposed to shoot himself, and while the actual shooting was not shown, the scenario called for a close-up view of Ray's face after he had supposedly fallen dead to the floor.

When everything was in readiness and the camera man was about to "grind," Ray suddenly looked up from the floor and asked Director West: "Oh, what shall I do with my eyes? Close them or keep them open?"

Nobody in the company knew. Finally West telephoned his physician. The physician replied to the query that there was no established rule in the matter—the dying man always took his choice. Ray thought it more artistic to close his eyes, and so the scene was taken.

OVER THE SEA.

The Earl of Crawford, recently appointed president of the board of agriculture and fisheries in the United Kingdom, had considerable parliamentary experience before he succeeded to the title in 1913. Educated at Eton and Magdalen College, Oxford, he represented the Chorley division of Lancashire in the House of Commons from 1895 to 1913. He was a junior lord of the treasury from 1903 to 1905. Lord Crawford is a trustee of the National Portrait Gallery, and has a considerable acquaintance with the history of Italian sculpture, having published a book on that subject in 1910.

The Right Honorable Sir Ronald Craufurd Munro-Ferguson, Governor of Australia since 1914, began his career as a soldier, but left the army to devote himself to politics. He became lord of the treasury in 1894. In 1886 he was returned to Parliament as Liberal representative of Leith Burghs and retained the seat until his appointment to the governorship-general of Australia. He is a keen forester, and has always given his support to afforestation schemes or schemes aiming at the protection of trees.

Lord Roseberry, who was elected a member of the Dilettanti Club, is now the senior member of the club, which has the oldest dining-room in England, founded in 1734 by Sir Francis Dashwood. Since 1784 the Dilettanti have dined together on the first Sunday of each month from February to July, inclusive, their present meeting place being the Crafton galleries.

Constantin Brun, who on behalf of his country signed the treaty transferring the Danish West Indies to this country, subject to confirmation by both governments, is a native of Copenhagen, a graduate of the university of that capital, who, after service in the army, turned to diplomacy and entered the Danish Legation at Berlin. Later came the same sort of training at Paris. In 1895 he was named Minister to the United States. After three years he was shifted to London, where he filled the same post for four years. Then he was ordered back to Washington, and since October, 1912, he has been Denmark's minister there.

Emiliano Chamorro, minister to this country from Nicaragua, has returned home to enter the coming election as a Conservative candidate for the presidency of the republic. He led, in the Bluefields revolution, the forces which overthrew Zelaya, and was then desired as a candidate, but in the interests of harmony he withdrew in favor of Adolfo Diaz. As minister at Washington he has stood for amity and a good understanding between Nicaragua and the United States, and has been ardent in his support of Pan-American plans.

Barna S. Kohlener, an Hungarian captain of cavalry, whose military usefulness was ended when he lost an arm, has devoted himself since his incapacitation to inventing a wooden-soled shoe that shall have the virtue of flexibility, and announces that he has solved this problem, the hardest that has confronted wooden-soled shoe enthusiasts.

His invention is a sole that, instead of being made of one solid piece of wood, is constructed of a number of layers joined together by heavy oils or fats that thicken and grip the pieces of wood together. After countless experiments Capt. Kohlener declares that wooden soles constructed in this manner have the elasticity of leather soles, and in addition can be made of old and worn material worked over.

Abram L. Elkus, recently appointed American Ambassador to Turkey, left on the Scandinavian-American liner Oscar II last week for Copenhagen, en route to Constantinople. He was accompanied by his wife and family. His journey will include Berlin, Vienna and Sofia. It is expected the party will arrive at Constantinople by the middle of September. The Ambassador's party took abroad 100 pounds of Turkish coffee, as the berries are very scarce in Turkey and are sold there for $4 a pound.

TO OBVIATE TIME LOSS.

Martin Beck Rearranging Orpheum Circuit Schedule.

All over the western vaudeville circuit controlled by Martin Beck, which includes the Orpheum Theater in this city, there is joy among the actors. Martin Beck is striving, with every chance of success, it is said, to accomplish the seemingly impossible, viz., a complete route over the Orpheum time, without the loss of a full week anywhere because of travel.

Seattle, Portland and Vancouver will be "bunched" into two weeks playing. The jump from Winnipeg to the Northwest will be broken by five performances at Calgary, and Salt Lake will open its new bill on Wednesdays, thus losing only three days between Los Angeles and that point. The single problem left in Mr. Beck's plan is that of bridging the time between Portland, Or., and California.

TRIBUTE TO ACTOR.

Humanity lies very close behind the mask, with player folk; and so it was that in the company of Mission Players assembled in their own playhouse at San Gabriel for the first rehearsal for the coming season, all heads were bowed for one silent minute in a tribute of affectionate memory to the late George Osborne, who played Padre Junipero Serra for so many seasons.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws its beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

A rose flung at the feet of a woman in Detroit many years ago by a little girl brought that child, now a grown woman, a $16,000 bequest when the Detroit woman died recently.

The woman who generously remembered the little girl was Mrs. Lizzie Merrill Palmer of Detroit and the recipient of her bounty is Mrs. Clarence S. Boothby of Lagrange, Ill.

It was little Bertita Brown who threw the rose and the childish act brought an acquaintanceship with Mrs. Palmer that, as the years passed by, ripened into friendship. The rose-born friendship between the two women never lagged and was further cemented by frequent visits.

Establishment of a school for teaching girls motherhood is provided for in the will of Mrs. Lizzie Merrill Palmer of Detroit.

The exact amount which will be devoted to founding and operating the schools is not designated. Probate court officials say the estate amounts to upward of $1,000,000, however, and the entire residue is left for that purpose after payment of legacies amounting to $135,000.

The will provides that girls unable or unwilling to pay the cost of their board at the school shall be educated free of charge. Girls of 10 years and upward will be admitted.

The happiest fisherman in Arkansas is Hezekiah Porter, a Helena (Ark.) negro. Six weeks ago he fished Gov. George Hayes out of the Arkansas River, saving the Governor's life, and the Governor has rewarded him with a pardon.

Porter was serving a twenty-one year sentence on the State farm for negro convicts at Cummins when he saved the Governor's life. Had he not been selected to row the Governor's boat on a fishing trip he might have served the remaining fourteen years of his sentence. Porter killed another negro at Helena in 1900.

"I believe I have found my youngest soldier," exclaimed King George during his visit to the front, when he saw a 12-year-old boy among the Northamptons. But little Joseph Lefevre was not English. He is the son of a dead Belgian soldier and was found wandering about under shell fire at Ypres, adopted by the battalion and placed on its rolls. He told his story in French to the King and said: "They will not let me go up to fight, but keep me back with the transport." "As I was going to suggest, and, being a soldier, you will have to obey orders," said the King.

The Major.

LEAVES OF JOY FROM A TRAVELER'S NOTE BOOK

BY HARRY CARR.

AFTER what we did to the major, my private opinion is that cordial relations between the United States and South America are impossible. I guess we canned the pan out of Pan-America.

The major was a Brazilian army officer on leave of absence and acting as a correspondent in Germany for a South American newspaper.

Last August, the Imperial Foreign Office invited a large party of newspaper men and women to make a tour through Southern Germany to investigate financial and commercial conditions. There were five Americans, two Norwegians, a Swede, a Rumanian, a Turk, a Chinaman, several other correspondents of assorted nationalities—and the major.

I have forgotten the major's name, but he was a man about 40 who looked like the foreign count who comes over to wed the American heiress in moving-picture dramas. His mustache bristled up at both ends like the Kaiser's. He had dark lustrous eyes which looked unutterable things at all the lovely frauleins who crossed our line of vision. The major had a wonderful wardrobe. In the mornings he wore a walking suit with knickers after the manner of the German vacationer. For some reason, no well constructed German can possibly go on a vacation in long pants. In the evening, the major appeared in elaborate and semi-military evening dress.

We could have stood for the major's sartorial outbursts if it hadn't been for his oratory.

If a speech-making Marathon contest is ever given, I will back the Brazilian major. He went through Germany loaded to the muzzle with oratory, ready to explode at the slightest excuse.

For fourteen days, the German people gave us banquets twice a day. For two weeks, we sat down, noon and night, to two banquets a day. At each banquet until we landed on him, the major insisted upon making a speech.

He was enabled to do this on account of the German custom of speech making. There is no toastmaster at a German banquet. It's like a Quaker meeting. Whenever the spirit moves, you get up and begin to spout.

When you feel a speech surging within you, you take a table knife and tinkle it against your wine glass. Everybody turns in your direction at the sound. You rise and off you go.

The major must have developed enormous strength in his right wrist from the frequency with which he tinkled his glass with his [illegible] major was the world's [illegible] tinkler.

Not only did we get very [illegible] hearing the major tinkle [illegible] jestically rise in his place, [illegible] objected to his speeches. [illegible] every speech, the major [illegible] a toast to the success of [illegible] arms. We Americans were [illegible] preserve an honest neutrality. [illegible] told the German manager of the [illegible] pedition that we did not [illegible] should be called upon to drink [illegible] to the triumph of German [illegible] Herr Direktor emphatically [illegible] heartily agreed with us. [illegible] the major that he must not [illegible] more such toasts.

The major was furious [illegible] it only increased his fervor [illegible] speech making. In his next [illegible] he stated that he would [illegible] the Americans or any one [illegible] drink to the success of [illegible] arms; but he would drink [illegible] German arms himself and [illegible] could join him who wished. [illegible] course, this only made it [illegible]

"What am I going to do [illegible] fellow?" asked the director [illegible] despair. "I can't choke him. [illegible] shall I do?"

One of the correspondents [illegible] Edward Lyell Fox, a magazine [illegible] er. Fox was a good-natured [illegible] gressive sample of young America.

"Leave this guy to me! I'll [illegible] him," said Fox, grinning.

One of the correspondents [illegible] Saadi Bey, a young Turkish [illegible] man. Saadi was a wild, young [illegible] devil and the most brilliant [illegible] versationalist with whom I [illegible] talked. He snickered with [illegible] over Fox's project.

The dinner that night [illegible] Dresden in the wonderful Rathaus. The wine was [illegible] vintage of 1911, which the [illegible] said was the finest wine [illegible] duced on the Rhine. The [illegible] bibed of 1911 and grew eloquent.

Presently, as we expected, [illegible] came a tinkle at the end of the table. The major had given the signal. Every one turned; but [illegible] the major could get to his [illegible] Turk rose solemnly in his [illegible] though it had been he [illegible] tinkled, and began to make a [illegible] in Turkish.

My education in Turkish [illegible] been somewhat neglected. I [illegible] know what he said; but from the length of it, he must have [illegible] history of the world with [illegible] editorial comment upon all [illegible] ing episodes.

The major was furious. [illegible] went red and white by turns. [illegible] knew instinctively that the [illegible] cans must have had something to do with it. During the Turk's [illegible] pansive eloquence, he glared at each in turn in a murderous [illegible]

At length the Turk's wind [illegible] out and he sat down.

"In a minute, the major [illegible] tinkle again," whispered Fox [illegible] Saadi Bey. "When he tinkles [illegible] get up again and repeat the [illegible] in French." The Turk [illegible] and nodded.

Just as we anticipated; [illegible] let the Turk resume his [illegible] adjusted his Kaiser mustache, [illegible] around at us ferociously, seized his [illegible] ver knife and the crystal [illegible] the tinkle.

Again everyone turned [illegible] again the Turk rose, before the major could get to his feet, [illegible] launched off into an address [illegible] French.

This was too much. The [illegible] indignantly pushed back his [illegible] and left the room. The next [illegible] quit the party and went [illegible] Berlin. He said he desired [illegible] er to associate with [illegible] America.

Whenever our Pan-American [illegible] lations with South America [illegible] tioned I can see in my mind [illegible] a bristling little major down [illegible] zil speaking his mind on the [illegible] erly love between South [illegible] and North America. The [illegible] loves us as he loves an [illegible] cholera. I am afraid Fox and I de-stroyed the effect of the A.B.C. conference.

Mecca.

one of the most favored jewels of the Pacific and in California's sunniest always a magnet for An- in winter or summer, and season proved more than popular with the members of set, who with regularity whirred gaily to the north in motor cars for week-end par- but now Santa Barbara and fashionable suburb, Montecito, is especially lively aspect, drawing a lion's share of this city's migratory residents, who are finding their summer's enjoyment in flying from one popular resort to another.

Chevalier and Mrs. Frederick MacMonnies of Paris, the former the noted sculptor, have made frequent visits to their friends there while staying in the Southland as guests of Mrs. MacMonnies's mother, Mrs. John Percival Jones, and other kinsfolk. Mrs. Jones is a personal friend of Mrs. Miller Graham of Bellosguardo, whose magnificent home is one of the show places of Montecito, and has gone up for several of the plays at the Country Playhouse, as has Mrs. Hancock Banning, socially and intellectually drawn to the originator of the unique little theater.

Mrs. Franklin Prince Knott and Mrs. Oliver Dwight Norton are two other matrons of the Montecito colony who are special favorites with Mrs. Banning and Mrs. Jones. In fact, it was through Mrs. Jones that Mrs. Knott became interested in the lectures of Mrs. Conway Evans, who has been pleasing Santa Barbara society mightily this summer with her talks on foreign art. And it was in Mrs. Norton's beautiful grounds that Sydney Francis Hoben of Pasadena gave, on the 10th inst., his first opera lecture, on "Thais," and a superb "set" was furnished the New Zealand musician by utilizing the gallery of the music-room, with great silver candlesticks holding burning tapers for effective lighting. Mrs. William Griffith Henshaw was in charge of the tea, served from a rare imported service in raised figures, in the marvelous garden on the south terraces. Mrs. Norton has a dressing-room right off the lower loggia, perfectly equipped and the last word in modernity—sufficient and alluring cause for milady to powder her nose or rouge a bit. And the Nortons have the name of serving the best cocktails extant! Dr. Norton is a retired army surgeon who was in the service thirty years or more.

Mrs. Norton's son, Emerson Butterworth, is rather a heart-breaker, and on the list for afternoon teas without number. This college boy—he is just out of Berkeley, though he will go back three years for a Ph.D. degree in palaeontology—was told by his poised mater to never contemplate marrying until he brought the young lady to his home, and the very next vacation two stunning college girls appeared there for their vacation! He is a nuiversity friend of Edward Rankin Brainerd, Jr., and frequently visits the latter in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Knott was given, at the Country Club recently, a series of Sunday outdoor luncheons, which stand out brilliantly on the social calendar.

Mrs. James Nelson Burnes of Oak Knoll, Pasadena, has occupied her own beautiful Montecito residence all this season, and has given no end of house parties for Angelenos and Crown City folk. Her house stands on a sightly promontory just beyond the Country Club and overlooking the "big briny" for many miles. It was here Mr. Hoben gave his second illustrated opera lecture on the 17th inst., and Mrs. William Miller Graham opened her home for another lecture last Thursday afternoon. For the last of the Hoben talks Mrs. William Griffith Henshaw will be hostess next Thursday at Monte Vista, another of the show places.

Santa Barbara is still gasping over Jack Barrymore's "scrumptious" dinner-dance and surprise at the Country Club just before he came down to Los Angeles. Jack is nothing if not thorough, and sent to San Francisco for hundreds of lotus blossoms to grow for the night in a fountain, built especially for "its one and only appearance" in the center of the patio, canopied in scintillating lights. Moonlight sent its shimmering beams through a clump of towering eucalyptus trees at one end of the clubhouse, and dinner was served to sixty, with covers laid at a U-shaped board extending down three sides of the main dining-room that was banked in flowers. Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman assisted in dispensing hospitality. The loggia and court were hung with pink amaryllis against a background of bamboo and hanging vines. Corsages, mid-Victorian, were lace-frilled, old-fashioned bouquets. Supper was served continuously at a long table beneath the arched porch to the dinner guests and three times as many others, who came in later. The "secret" came after the dinner, when the guests were led to the main ballroom, transformed into a theater, with stage ready for a de luxe presentation of Sir James Barrie's "Pantaloon." Of the cast the only amateur was Eliot Rogers (quite as much at home as were the sure-enough actors,) the others besides Mr. Barrymore being Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bennett, James Kirkwood and Mr. Hoben.

Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree and his daughter, Iris, went from Los Angeles, and so impressed with the young lady was Mr. Bennett that, notwithstanding that she has never been on the stage, he offered her a part in his new play, which is to be brought out in New York this coming season. Miss Iris is very unusual, with corn-colored hair worn in a bob and dark eyebrows.

The Country Club, by the way, is soon to be moved to another location, quite as commanding, but farther in the foothills than the present site.

Mention of Santa Barbara without reference to that celebrated bachelor, J. Waldon Gillespie, and his marvelous home would be incomplete. Mr. Gillespie has homes on the Hudson and in Cuba, but his Montecito place is his pet. This genial Beau Brummel is deluged with invitations, knows everybody, and has reached the point of contentment in so far as his acquaintanceship extends. His patio is famed for informal teas, and the surrounding grounds are quite the envy of his visitors.

There are so many people of note who have retired and become a part of the select colony—the F. W. Leadbetters, for instance, who gave a stunning dinner for Melba at El Mirasol during the diva's last trip; the Bothians, the Francis T. Underhills, Mr. and Mrs. Cary Weston, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Rives, the Joel Remington Fithians, Mr. and Mrs. Eliot Rogers and others who add brilliancy to the personnel of any social gathering.

And whenever Mrs. William Miller Graham gives one of those little theater productions, every box and loge is filled. Of course, there are divisions in the "set," sufficient to inspire healthy rivalry.

Miss Helen Diehl, a Cincinnati belle who since February has been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Henry Laws of Pasadena, made a tremendous hit in Santa Barbara, staying with the Laws for a month at one of the splendid hotels.

The Barlows, Mrs. Jones and the Macmonnies are but a few of the Los Angeles folk who are often entertained in the north.

"Somewhere at the beach" or "somewhere in the mountains"—this is about as near as one can locate his friends, these days of vacationing and motoring and picnicking and out-door life.

And Santa Barbara is just sufficiently near to have its advantages for short trips.

Two Santa Barbara leaders of the elite set.

Mrs. Oliver Dwight Norton (above) and the beautiful south terrace of her Montecito home, which is a center for fashionables from far and near. Mrs. Franklin Pierce Knott, III (below,) who has been giving a series of outdoor luncheons at the Santa Barbara County Club.

Reverting to Mrs. John Percival Jones, that grande dame is planning to winter in the Bermudas, a place holding the happiest sort of memories of former visits. The MacMonnies will be in New York City, and she will join them in the eastern metropolis for a time. The plans are more or less embryonic, however.

Roy Jones, with his pretty young daughter, Dorothy, a Radcliffe College girl, and her brother, Gregory, joined Mrs. John Percival Jones and the MacMonnies in a motor trip to San Diego the past week, Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Farquhar going with them Wednesday. The Fraquhars returned Friday but the others of the party are staying on at Hotel del Coronado until this evening. In the meantime, Mrs. Roy Jones is getting settled in Santa Monica, where the family moved a week ago for the remainder of the summer to be near their kinsfolk.

Miss Dorothy is to give some sort of an ante-nuptial affair for her friend, Miss Helen McCall, whose marriage to Newton Foster is a much-anticipated event for October.

The parental Thomas McCalls gave an informal tea to their betrothed daughter Monday, several of the younger set motoring down to Santa Monica to attend.

Particular interest is attached to the forthcoming marriage of Miss Elizabeth Helm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Helm of Ellendale place, and William Starke Rosecrans, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Rosecrans of Rosecrans rancho, Gardena, and a grandson of Gen. William Starke Rosecrans of Civil War fame, for whom the groom-elect was named.

The bride-to-be, a Wellesley girl of many accomplishments and retiring personality, is keeping the plans of her wedding very quiet, though it is to be solemnized Wednesday evening at twilight, in the garden.

The prominence of both families and popularity of the young folks makes this one of the most important of the summer's happenings.

In Farewell.

Dr. and Mrs. Braden Kyle, who have been much entertained since their arrival from the annual Bohemian Club jinks on the Russian River, to be houseguests of the Russell McDonald Taylors, will terminate their stay Tuesday and will leave for Colorado Springs en route to their home in Philadelphia.

Dr. Kyle, it will be recalled, was one of the party that made the return journey from the north in John S. Cravens's private car, the Nomad. Mrs. Kyle motored southward with the Taylors, who had been at San Francisco and Del Monte. Since their return, every hour that has not been devoted to motoring to one or another gay resort or scenic spot for pleasure has been consumed with charming social courtesies and in return Mrs. Kyle will preside over a luncheon to her hostesses at the Los Angeles Country Club tomorrow.

The Taylors gave a smart dinner for their eastern guests Thursday evening, covers being laid for twelve. And Dr. Guy Cochran complimented them with a dinner a few evenings before, at Midwick.

Pennsylvania Guest.

Mrs. Harrison Albright of Benton boulevard entertained Tuesday evening with a dinner-musicale in honor of Miss Anne Hermatta of Erie, Pa. Miss Hermatta is the house guest of Mrs. C. H. DuBois of Long Beach, and a talented musician, who not only excels at the piano and pipe organ, but also possesses a good contralto voice.

At Big Bear Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kitchen, the Misses Josephine and Beatrice Kitchen and Miss Pauline Golles have recently joined a party of their friends who are enjoying the delights at Big Bear Lake.

Off to Hawaii.

With an itinerary that includes Honolulu, Hilo and the active volcano at Kilauea, a party of Los Angeles people will leave September 4. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Beckitt, Dr. and Mrs. C. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mason, Miss Olga Renius, Miss Elizabeth Macdonald, Mrs. E. J. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald.

They expect to return to Los Angeles October 3.

For Her Mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Kirocher of Hollywood entertained with a luncheon party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Renaud, the latter Mrs. Kirocher's mother, recently married.

Soft pink floral decorations were chosen to beautify the home and dining-table, hand-painted cards and pink carnations marking each place.

Present besides the hosts and their honor guests were Mrs. Cesmat of San Diego, Mrs. James Smith, Miss Janie Pilbrook, Mrs. Luella Speed, Mrs. G. Turner, Mrs. Frazer, Mrs. J. G. Gross, Mrs. Lucy Hauerwass, Mrs. Frans Schwarz, Mrs. Half and Mrs. David Myers. Cards were played after luncheon, when Miss Pilbrook, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Gross were prize winners.

For Miss St. Clair.

Miss Marie St. Clair, who is shortly to marry Charles Collum, found herself the raison d'etre at a surprise shower party Saturday evening, when Miss Lucinda Stimpson of Magnolia avenue entertained for her. Many were the dainty offerings contributed for the "hope chest."

Games were an amusing diversion.

The guests included Mrs. Frank Anderson, Miss Bertha Anderson, Miss Edna Stockwell, Miss Edith Smart, Miss Lola Grady, Miss Zola Shirard, Miss Anna Kohler, Miss Grace Chapin, Miss Sutie Woodhull, Mrs. Margaret Weyrich, Miss Ethel Ray, Miss Viva Ray, Miss Maggie Watson, Miss Frances Peterson, Miss Lida St. Clair, Miss Nancy St. Clair, Mrs. Harry St. Clair, Miss Sola Bishop and Miss Estrella Rigg.

Birthday Surprise.

M. J. Monnette, vice-president of the Citizens' National Bank, found himself the star guest at a surprise party in honor of his own natal day, when he arrived home one day last week to find the house at No. 951 Western avenue the scene of a gay dinner.

Twelve intimate friends had been invited, including Orra E. Monnette, G. W. Walker, A. J. Waters, W. W. Woods, W. I. Hollingsworth, Arthur Morlan, C. G. Andrews, W. O. Lewis, G. H. England and Harold Janeway.

The whole affair, unselfishly "stag," had been arranged by Mrs. Monnette, even to a monster cake with twenty-one candles to adorn it.

Series of Affairs.

Mrs. Mattson Annis Morril, No. 1042 West Thirty-eighth street, has been entertaining with a series of bridge teas, enjoyable on account of their informality.

The inspiration of the first affair was her sister, Miss Mae McDermaid of Rockford, Ill., who after a pleasant sojourn in this city is to leave for her home Monday. American Beauty roses were used to adorn the rooms given over to the affair, and tea was served buffet style. Prizes were captured by Mrs. McKay, Miss Emma Waters and Mrs. Symmes. Those going were Mrs. George Watson, Mrs. B. F. Blinn, Mrs. O. G. Singer, Mrs. W. A. Wick, Mrs. Willis Mitchell, Mrs. M. M. Symmes, Mrs. Georgia McKay, Mrs. Charles McClure, Mrs. A. H. Schill, Mrs. W. E. Hutchason and Mrs. James Owenhouse.

Mrs. W. A. Wick, who with her husband is removing to Golconda, Nev., was the motif for the second tea. Terra cotta dahlias and Shasta daisies were arranged in baskets and vases throughout the home, while the tea table was dainty with crystal baskets filled with Cecil Brunner buds and maidenhair, with streamers of broad pink satin ribbon, ending in huge, fluffy bows. Following the absorbing games of auction, prizes fell to Mmes. Barber, Riggle and Rose. Included were Mrs. Morris Marin, Mrs. Elmer Riggle, Mrs. Millie Wellheimer, Mrs. Robert Camp, Mrs. Adele Lindenbaum, Mrs. Hart G. Waggonner, Mrs. H. H. Rose, Mrs. George J. Consigny, Jr., Mrs. Barker Van Zandt, Mrs. Jessie Cairns Shoebottom, Mrs. Robert S. Hardy, Mrs. H. O. Vogel, Mrs. A. H. Barbour and Miss Mae McDermaid of Rockford, Ill., Misses Rena and Emma Waters and Miss Florence Howard.

The third and last of the series honored Mrs. Daisy Crocker of Rockford, Ill., who is a much-feted guest in the city. Georgeous pink dahlias turned the home into a bower, with the same blossoms adorning the tea table. Those invited to meet the honoree included Mrs. August Pfaff, Mrs. John Vander Wyden, Mrs. George Mitchell, Mrs. E. H. Anthony, Mrs. Jessie Cairns Shoebottom, Mrs. Robert S. Hardy, Mrs. A. Boerchman of San Francisco, Mrs. B. H. Maxwell, Mrs. Gene Slaughter, Mrs. Ruth Barnum, Mrs. Lydia Gardner, Mrs. George J. McCann, Mrs. James D. Machovich, Mrs. George Skinner, Mrs. A. H. Barbour of Rockford, Ill., Mrs. O. G. Singer, Mrs. Margaret Roberts, Mrs. M. M. Symmes, Mrs. Wilford John, Mrs. Ann Geisel and Mrs. George Watson. Miss Mae McDermaid assisted the gracious hostess during the afternoon.

To Atlantic City.

Mrs. Dunn Van Geisen and her two daughters, the Misses Edith and Edna Hilderbrand, who have resided at No. 3057 West Eighth street for the past three years, have gone to Atlantic City to spend the summer and will then locate in New York City, their former home.

Athletic Club.

The closing days of August have taken an unusually large number of the socially inclined to the Los Angeles Athletic Club, with the result that the past week has been gay with dinners and luncheon-giving. By the opening week in September the fall calendar will have been prepared and a number of notable affairs planned by the club's entertainers.

Three especially interesting dinners were given at the club Thursday, those entertaining including R. H. Mann, Jr., whose party assembled twelve guests; J. A. Nickell, who was host to six friends, and Dr. H. E. Southworth. The dinner in the Blue Room Monday evening, given by the officers of the California Naval Militia in honor of the officers of the U.S.S. Oregon, was a brilliantly-successful affair. Covers were laid for twenty-six, those invited including Lieut. W. A. Smeed, U.S.N., Lieut. R. L. Irvine, U.S.N., Lieut. G. M. Hodson, U.S.N., Surgeon F. M. Harrison, U.S.N., Paymaster F. K. At Avalon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney C. Rowe of Beverly Hills have recently returned from a vacation spent at Catalina with the William Dangerfield Footes, who occupied their summer home on the island until their return to town this week.

Doubly Significant.

Miss Strong, a Dana Hall (Wellesley) girl, who is the daughter of Mrs. Pearl Strong of St. Andrews boulevard, and Frank Strong, of the firm of Strong, Dickinson & McGrath, while she was never chosen to have a formal coming out, is sought for all the affairs planned by her many friends. March 1 she was a member of the bridal party for Miss Ione Hudson and Lawrence Todd Baker.

Mr. Rivers, a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rivers, is a Stanford boy, and a prominent member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity, the University Club and a Bachelor—at present.

No date for the nuptials has yet been determined, but on account of the importance of both families and popularity of the affianced couple, the marriage will be awaited with keen anticipation.

Honoring Baron and Baroness.

Frederick Kimball Stearns entertained a group of his musically-gifted friends at a smart dinner party in his Beverly Hills home Thursday evening, the affair being in honor of the Baron and Baroness Von Kleydorf, who are shortly to leave Beverly Hills for New York, where the Baron has been engaged to sing several baritone leads for the Metropolitan during the coming season. Asked to meet the interesting guests of honor were Mrs. Gertrude Ross, who has just returned from a two months' visit with Mrs. Stearns in New York; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lombard, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dreyfus and Eugene Dike. Green and white were used in the table decorations, white asters predominating. During the evening a rare concert was given, impromptu, with Mrs. Ross at the piano, playing in part her own compositions; Mrs. Dreyfus singing in her highly delightful manner, and Baron Von Kleydorf rendering some of the arias which have made him famous as the leading baritone in the Berlin grand opera.

For Miss Del Valle.

California's own daughter, Miss Lucretia del Valle, who will leave September 10 for a two years' eastern tour as the star of the "Mission Play," is being deluged with farewell courtesies, none of which has proved merrier than the exquisitely-appointed dancing party given by Mrs. Henry Wentworth Caystile at the Zelda Hotel last evening. The ballroom, with its cream-colored daintiness, was done in green and red, carried out with a profusion of carnations, ferns and asparagus plumosus. Presiding over the punch bowl were Mrs. E. W. R. Lawrence and Miss Mary Drew, and during the evening a delightful collation was served.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. R. F. Del Valle, Mrs. Gloria Bretherton, Mrs. Frederick Ward Wood, Miss Ella Adams, Mrs. Harvey W. In the Open.

A unique and delightful out-of-doors party was given last Saturday night at the ranch home of Mr. Hoffman, Linda Vista drive, Pasadena. The hosts were Los Angeles and Pasadena members of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity. After a "barn dance" amid typical surroundings, but with modern music and dances, the guests gathered around a large bonfire, where, to the accompaniment of the weird music of a concertina, they toasted marshmallows and popped corn and sang Delta songs. An old-fashioned Virginia reel concluded the amusements. Fifty members and guests of the fraternity were present.

Thursday, September 7, the members of the local chapter of Delta Tau Delta will meet at the Sierra Madre Club for their monthly dinner.

California's own daughter, Miss Lucretia del Valle, who will leave September 10 for a two years' eastern tour as the star of the "Mission Play," is being deluged with farewell courtesies, none of which has proved merrier than the exquisitely-appointed dancing party given by Mrs. Henry Wentworth Caystile at the Zelda Hotel last evening. The ballroom, with its cream-colored daintiness, was done in green and red, carried out with a profusion of carnations, ferns and asparagus plumosus. Presiding over the punch bowl were Mrs. E. W. R. Lawrence and Miss Mary Drew, and during the evening a delightful collation was served.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. R. F. Del Valle, Mrs. Gloria Bretherton, Mrs. Frederick Ward Wood, Miss Ella Adams, Mrs. Harvey W. La Chat and Mrs. James McInerny, in dispensing gracious hospitality, and bidden were Mr. and Mrs. Reginaldo Francisco del Valle, Mr. and Mrs. Allan V. Duncan, Signor F. Constantino, Mrs. Helen Gaut, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Lummis, Mr. and Mrs. J. Vincent Hannon, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McCaskill, Mrs. J. McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Brainerd, Frank Rust, Mrs. Dorothy Johnston, Miss Mary Foy, Miss Cora Foy, Mrs. E. Frances Clanton, Dr. Martin Nelson, Miss Annette Stose, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Newport, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lawrence, Donald Lawrence, Mrs. Fletcher Howard, Mr. and Mrs.

Armstrong-Bedell Wedding.

Among the pretty home weddings of recent date was that of Miss Willa Bedell, daughter of Mrs. A. M. Frazier, and Herbert Armstrong, married at the residence of Mrs. Frazier, which was handsomely decorated with ferns and pink carnations.

Mrs. Roscoe Conklin attended the bride as matron of honor, while Albert Lees assisted as best man, and little Miss Fern Johnson, niece of the bride, was ringbearer. The "Lohengrin" Wedding March was played by Miss Katherine McGrath. Rev. Mr. Wagner of the Mayflower Congregational Church read the lines.

After a delightful wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong departed amid a shower of rice for San Diego. On their return they will be at home at No. 357 Hancock street.

Continued Outing.

Miss Beulah Wright, dean of the college of oratory, University of Southern California, has just returned from a week's visit at Coronado with her sister, Mrs. Estelle White, organiste in the Third Presbyterian Church, Los Angeles. Prior to their visit to Coronado the sisters spent a very enjoyable month "roughing it" in the mountains near Big Bear Valley.

With the intention of staying at least a fortnight, Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Prescott will arrive today from their home in Kansas City to be house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Seward E. Moses of No. 1641 Wilton place.

Belgian Relief Ball.

The Belgian relief ball at Hotel Virginia Friday night proved a happy event, and was very largely attended. Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, who supervised arrangements, had good reason to be proud of her success.

Numerous merry parties motored down from Los Angeles for the dinner preceding the ball. The Homer Laughlins had a party to celebrate the return of Gwendolin Laughlin from the East, their guests including Mr. and Mrs. Walter McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clark, Mrs. Walter Munn, Miss Lucy Clark, Gonzalez Munoz, Jack McFarland and Dr. Byron Stookey.

Mr. and Mrs. Montagu Ward entertained the Walter Brunswigs, Mrs. Tyler Henshaw, pretty little Ann Peterson of Pasadena, who looks so very piquant in her sport clothes, and Briggs Keck and L. Way.

Mrs. Fred Baker, Mrs. Charles Rivers Drake, Senator Finn of Beverly, W. J. Doran of Los Angeles and Mrs. Willoughby Rodman all entertained gay and sartorially chic parties of friends.

The ball attracted most of the people who happen to be in or passing through town.

Bachelor Entertains.

Frederick Hornby, a popular Redlands bachelor, was the host at a theater party at the Majestic Tuesday evening, with supper later at the Hotel Virginia grill. His guests were Mrs. W. H. Holliday, Mrs. Charles Rivers Drake, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pattee of polo fame, Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Smith, Miss Helen Buchanan, Mrs. Julius Kruttschnitt, William Buchanan and Webster Mabie.

Launching the Submarine.

The wife of Lieut. W. R. Munroe, U.S.N., who was Miss Katherine Barnwell Johnson, one of last year's brides, has been chosen for the signal honor of christening the first submarine to take the water from the Long Beach navy dock, the 31st inst. It is going to be a really stylish social event. In Mrs. Munroe's honor a luncheon will be given at Hotel Virginia the day of the launching.

SOCIETY.

which will be attended by the official party and about fifty invited guests.

Lieut. and Mrs. W. B. Fogarty, U.S.N., the former a naval constructor, have just returned from San Francisco. Mrs. Fogarty is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. J. S. At the Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Erasmus Wilson gave a merry little dinner at the Virginia Country Club Friday evening, when Mrs. C. A. Carlatt, Miss Ann Carlatt and Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Smith were their guests.

Long Beach Visitors.

The stage has been well represented among the visitors at Long Beach lately. Miss Edna Goodrich and her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bennett, Rolande Bottomly of London, Eng., and the De Wolf Hoppers have all been at Hotel Virginia during the past week. Miss Goodrich and her mother are making a stay of several weeks.

Among the Los Angeles people who have been enjoying Long Beach hospitality are Mrs. W. H. Holliday, Mrs. W. A. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Montgomery, Mrs. George Cochran, Mrs. S. McClung and the Alfred Sterns. The Harry Pattees of Redlands have been there all the summer, the family remaining there while Mr. Pattee trained for his country's service at Monterey and won a certificate of good conduct, of which he is inordinately proud.

At St. Cecelia's Church.

Very pretty and graceful was the wedding of Miss Alice Way and Harold Francis O'Brien at St. Cecelia's Church Friday. The bride was a dainty picture in white taffeta and Georgette crepe overskirt, her head encompassed in a soft bridal veil and her arms laden with a shower boquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. O'Brien is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Way of Halldale avenue, and a well-loved teacher in the Los Angeles schools. Mr. O'Brien is with the Westinghouse Electric Company.

Miss Edna Way, in pink taffeta and carrying pink Killarney roses, made an attractive attendant for her sister, and Paul Fidell, as best man, proved a highly-satisfactory moral support to the bridegroom.

The lines were read by the Rev. Paul Dillon, and Father Egan was in the sanctuary. The church was a bower of fernery, palms, pink carnations and roses, which floral scheme was also carried out at the bride's home when the family and a few intimate friends partook of a four-course wedding breakfast. Many friends saw the happy ceremony.

The young people have hied them for Santa Barbara and other points, but will return to settle in their own home on Hobart boulevard in two week's time.

Miss Taylor a Bride.

A pretty wedding was celebrated Saturday, the 19th inst., when Miss Helen Marr Taylor became the bride of Robert Foy Herron, the marriage service being read by Rev. W. O. Fisher at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fremont Church of No. 143 East Avenue 58, in the presence of a small company of relatives and friends.

The bridal couple entered the drawing-room, which was a bower of Enchantress carnations and ferns, to the music of the "Lohengrin" wedding chorus. The bride, charming in a gown of white net over white satin, and carrying a shower of bride's roses, was given away by her cousin, Mr. Church.

The groom is the son of the late Lutie Foy Herron of San Bernardino and is employed in the Chamber of Commerce.

After September 1 Mr. and Mrs. Herron will be at home to their friends at No. 119 North Olive street.

For Southern Girls.

Two attractive Memphis visitors, Miss Clyde Pearson and her sister Etna, who have come with the parental L. L. Pearsons to spend a winter season in Southern California, were honor guests at a dancing and card party given by Mr. and Mrs. Carl White to seventy-five guests on Thursday night. Mrs. Rose Huverstuhl and Mrs. William Ahern assisted about the rooms, which were beautified in pink and white. A buffet supper was served and the clever complimented visitors gave an impromptu programme of music and dialect readings. Mr. Pearson is an attorney of the Tennessee city and his family occupy a high position socially. They are to be much entertained here.

Miss Strong Hostess.

With Miss Mildred Strong hostess, a coterie of her friends, numbering Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Todd Baker, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Rivers, Jr., Miss Dorothy Ardner, Miss Eleanor Andrews, Miss Florence Payne, Miss Nan Rivers, Messrs. Henry E. Rivers, Mudd and Will Dickinson, enjoyed a theater party at the Orpheum on Monday night, followed by a supper and dance at her home on Andrews boulevard.

Guests of the Mitchells.

Commodore and Mrs. Alex J. Mitchell have taken a party of guests to Catalina on their yacht, the Yankee Girl, for the week-end, Miss Doratheta O'Donnell of Denver having prompted the cruise. This charming visitor has been the house guest of the Mitchells for the last month and is now with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. O'Donnell, at the Van Nuys. Since her arrival motoring trips have been arranged to Hotel del Coronado and the races at Tia Juana and many other interesting spots. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Eisen, Mr. Merrill and several young men are members of the boat party.

Their Outing Over.

Following a fortnight spent in the Big Bear Valley, Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Ballagh have returned to their home in this city. They traveled in their motor car, and every day was enjoyed to the utmost. Mrs. Ballagh is the president of the Matinee Musical Club and is one of the best-known club women of the city.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY

Pasadena.

THE little god of love has just passed through a busy week with Pasadena folk. Weddings, weddings, and more yet to come! August is vieing with June as the month of brides.

At 5 o'clock Friday afternoon Miss Gladys Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dawson of No. 763 Oakland avenue, was married to Mr. Harlan G. Stacey, a young business man of Minneapolis, the ceremony taking place in the home of the bride's parents. The wedding came as a surprise to the many friends of the young woman, who had not expected the happy event to occur for some months. Mr. Stacey came west on a vacation trip, not expecting, when he departed, to take back his bride so soon. For the wedding the home was decorated with pink and white flowers with a canopy over the improvised altar in the large living-room. Carnations, asters and ferns were used in profusion. Following the wedding, supper was served and the happy couple left immediately by the northern route for their new home in Minneapolis. The bride's gown was white satin with a veil and other attractive accessories. Mr. Stacey and his fair bride were fellow-students in the Pasadena High School. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Stacey of Minneapolis, have spent the winter season in Pasadena for a number of years and will return here for the coming winter, arriving in September. The bride has won distinction in dramatics and is a clever musician.

Strikingly Californian and ideally beautiful was the wedding of Miss Ruth Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bradley of Lamanda Park, to Mr. Guy Faris, a business man of Pasadena, the ceremony taking place on the evening of the 19th inst. under the widespreading and fragrant branches of an orange tree at the home of the bride's parents. The chosen tree, standing on the lawn, formed the background and part of the canopy for the ceremony. An improvised altar was arranged of flowers and plants with blossoming shrubs and growing vines adding a fairylike touch to the scene. Vines studded with gold and white blossoms were twined about the altar place with lanterns flashing a soft light over the scene. The bride was very beautiful in a dainty gown of white taffeta and georgette crepe, with a filmy tulle veil and a shower of bride roses for a bouquet. Her

These Are the Signs of Good Health—Has Your Baby All of Them?

Has he a good appetite—a clear pink skin—bright, wide-open eyes—alert, springy muscles—a contented little face? Does he gain each week in weight—does he sleep quietly with eyes and mouth tightly closed?

If he hasn't one and all of these things—look out. Something is wrong with him. And nine times in ten that something is his food. Your baby can't grow rosy and strong if he doesn't have the right food. Nurse your baby, if you can. If you can't, wean him on

Nestlé's Food
(A Complete Food—Not a Milk Modifier)

Don't give him raw cow's milk. Cow's milk needs a calf's four stomachs to digest it. "Cow's milk, as ordinarily marketed is unfit for human consumption," says the U. S. Government.

But there is something in cow's milk that is good for your baby, if that something is modified and purified so that it is as light, as satisfying and as pure as mother's milk itself. That is what is done for you in Nestlé's Food.

It comes to you reduced to a powder—in an air-tight can. You add only water—boil one minute—and it is ready with just the right amount of fats, proteids, and carbohydrates that will make a healthy baby.

Oxnard.

BUT few social affairs have marked the week in Oxnard, the opening of school having occupied the attention of many matrons. The club season will open within the next week or two, and preparations for this are busily going forward. A meeting of the county association executive board was held Saturday and plans for the county picnic, always an enjoyable event in local women's club circles, were formulated.

A delightful card party was that given by Mrs. Thomas Gill and Mrs. Homer P. Markwell at the home of the latter on C street Wednesday. Bridge and five hundred were played. Bouquets of golden glow and Matillija poppies formed beautiful and unusual decorations throughout the charming bungalow home. Pretty etched-glass prizes were won by Miss Etta Willis at five hundred and by Mrs. M. C. de Brell at bridge. A dainty luncheon closed the afternoon's enjoyment.

In honor of the twelfth anniversary of Thomas and Robert McInnis, twin grandsons of T. A. Rice, a bull's-head barbecue was given at the Rice country place Sunday, the guests numbering fifteen members of the Rice family and intimate friends. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. McInnis and sons Thomas and Robert of Chino, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thatcher of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hunter and children of Ventura, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. About seventy neighbors and friends participated in the affair, gathering about a quarter-mile from the Goodyear ranch and forming an auto parade to the residence. Candy making occupied the young people in the kitchen during the early part of the evening, while their elders enjoyed an informal programme of songs, readings and the singing of old-time melodies. BANE OF BRITISH ARMY.

The Professional is Superior to the Man of Brains.

[Alfred G. Gardiner in July Century:] "The very cream of the nation is in the trenches, but at the top all is as before. 'Buggins's turn,' to use Lord Fisher's phrase, still governs the army. Buggins may be a fool, may be known to be a fool, but he has grown old in the service; he is popular with the mess, he has strong social connections, it would be a scandal not to give him his turn. The story of the Dardanelles, reeked with this disease of Buggins. The story of France and Flanders is not much better. Men may be proved incompetent, but they do not disappear. They are not cashiered; they are even promoted. The railways are controlled by soldiers; the air service is largely run by men who do not fly; nowhere does the mere professional give place to the expert, or the decorated antiquity to the man of brains. It is as though a body of parish councillors have suddenly been called upon to administer an empire in the midst of an earthquake and are imperilling that empire by their insistence on their professional precedence. The question that men are asking in connections with Sir Douglas Haig is whether he is a big enough man to attack this disease and to bring to the army the service of the best brains at his command, regardless of whether they are the brains of Buggins or of Buggins's coachman. I doubt whether he is the man for that heroic work; but I am certain that his success depends upon the ruthlessness with which he uses the surgeon's knife in what is notoriously the diseased tissue of the British army.

ATLANTIS.

Scientists Believe There was Such a Continent.

Concerning the fact that the great continent of Atlantis may once have existed, Monsieur Pierre Termier of the French Academy of Sciences remarks in a Smithsonian Institution annual report:

"No affirmation is yet permissible, but it seems more and more evident that a vast region, continental or made up of great islands, has collapsed west of the Pillars of Hercules, otherwise called the Strait of Gibraltar, and that its collapse occurred in the not far distant past. In any event the question of Atlantis is placed anew before men of science."

To many minds Atlantis has been a fabled country, a part of the interesting mythology of the eastern world, and an inexhaustible subject for poets from the days of Plato on, but now M. Termier says:

"It may be, indeed, that the poets were once more right. After a long period of disdainful indifference, observe how in the last few years science is returning to the study of Atlantis. How many naturalist, geologists, zoologists, or botanists, are asking one another today whether Plato has not transmitted to us, with slight amplification, a page from actual history of mankind."

From the Smithsonian pamphlet, in which M. Termier quotes a part of Plato's dialogue, "Timaeus," or "Concerning Nature," the following facts, as stated by an old Egyptian priest, are secured:

"Athens was destroyed by a singularly powerful army which came from an island larger than Libya, and even Asia, lying in the Atlantic Ocean beyond the strait called the Pillars of Hercules. From this island one could easily pass to other islands, and from them to the entire continent which surrounds the interior sea. In the Island of Atlantis reigned kings of amazing power, having under their domain several other islands also, and some parts of the continent, as well as Libya as far east as Egypt, and Europe, as far as the Tyrrhenian Sea. All this power was once united to subjugate Athens, but the Athenians stopped the invasion and restored all the nations living on that side (east) of the Pillars of Hercules to independence. Later, with great earthquakes and inundations, in a single day and one fatal night, all who had been warriors against Athens were swallowed up, and the Island of Atlantis disappeared beneath the sea."

The author says that the above narrative has not at all the coloring of a fable, but an exactness almost scientific. It may be thought that the dimensions of the Island of Atlantis are slightly exaggerated here, but we must remember that the Egyptian priest did not know the immensity of Asia.

In another dialogue, "Concerning Atlantis," which is also from the "Timaeus," Plato describes the famous island:

"According to the Egyptian tradition a common war arose 9000 years ago between the nations on this side of the Pillars of Hercules and the nations coming from beyond. On one side it was Athens; on the other, the Kings of Atlantis. We have already said that this island was larger than Asia and Africa, but that it became submerged following an earthquake and that its place is no longer met with except as a sand bar which stops navigators and renders the sea impassable."

Plato also develops the Egyptian tradition of the fabulous origin of Atlantis, fallen to the share of Neptune and on which this god placed his ten mortal children. He describes the cradle of the Atlantic race as a fertile plain located near the sea and opening into the central part of the island. About it a circle of mountains protect the plain from the icy blasts of the north; in these superb mountains there are numerous villages, rich and populous.

In the plain there is a magnificent city, the palaces and temples of which are constructed from stones of three colors, drawn from the very bosom of the island; here and there are mines yielding all the metals useful to man, and finally the shores of the island rise perpendicularly and commanding above the tumultuous sea. We may smile in reading, but the geographic description of the island is not of the sort which one jokes about and forgets. This description tallies well with what we would imagine today of a great land submerged in the region of the Azores and enjoying the eternal springtime, which is the endowment of these islands; a land formed from a basement of ancient rocks bearing, with some fragments of whitish calcareous terranes, extinct volcanic mountains and lava flows, black or red, long since grown cold.

Such is the story of the Atlantis of Plato, a history fabulous in its origins, like the majority of histories, yet extremely exact and highly probable in its details and tragic termination. This is all that antiquity teaches us, for the accounts of Theopompus and Marcellus, much vaguer than that of Plato, are interesting only from the impression that they leave us of the wide circulation of the legend among the peoples along the Mediterranean shores. Down to very nearly our own era, there was a general belief, all about the Mediterranean, in the ancient Atlantian invasion, which was checked by the very sudden submergance of the country from which they came.

According to M. Termier, the study of the physical geography of the Atlantic Ocean tends to show us what might well have been the base of this great oceanic continent, the loftiest spires of which form the Azores. He looks forward to the day when the charts of the Atlantic will be exact and detailed, affording a closer study with this point in view. Geology also indicates the possibility of there once having been a great table land surmounted with volcanoes, in the eastern Atlantic, where now Gough Island, St. Helena, Ascension, Cape Verde Islands, the Canaries, Madeira, the Azores and a few others, all of which are either integrally or in the greater part formed of lava, and many of which bear volcanoes, appear above the surface of the sea. Volcanoes are held to be the results of convulsions or the breaking away of some portion of the earth's crust. Therefore, these islands seem indicative of a great upheaval, and the depths which surround them are the resting place of earlier mountains, volcanic lava from some of which has been dredged up. The entire eastern zone of the Atlantic bottom, continues the author, is in movement, forming an unstable zone on the planet, and in such a zone, great cataclysms have occurred and may again occur at any moment.

Not only oceanography and geology teach us the possibility, even probability, of there once having been an Atlantis, but zoology shows a certain continental origin of the present fauna, or animal life, of the Atlantic islands which still remains, as well as the strange relationship and reappearance of certain marine animals and shells found only on these islands, and indicating that they once have been closely connected. M. Termier believes that Atlantis existed, that zoology and geology prove that a cataclysm, not unlike that mentioned by Plato, occurred, and that it now remains for ethnography, anthropology and oceanography to solve the problem as to whether men lived at this time who could withstand the great reaction and transmit the memory of it. Nowadays even the most modern sciences permit our belief in Plato's legend, and lead us to look further into the great Atlantic abyss for our lost continent.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Benjamin Franklin Sprang the Idea While in Paris, as a Joke and Puts it Into a Philosophical Argument.

[Washington Star:] Now that the "daylight saving scheme" has been formally adopted by Great Britain, following the lead of Germany, France, Austria and Holland, there is more than ordinary interest about a little discovery that has just been made. It is generally supposed that the late William Willett, whose name is chiefly associated with it, was the first man to whom the idea of economizing sunlight came, but this, it seems, is a mistake. The whole thing occurred to Franklin a century and a quarter ago, and that renowned American philosopher, inventor and statesman planned out quite an elaborate little "daylight saving" scheme of his own.

It was while "Poor Richard" was living in Paris that he hit on the idea of "daylight saving." As American Minister to France, Franklin spent nine years (1776-1785) in the French capital, and during this time he was a frequent contributor to the newspapers there. He announced his discovery about daylight saving in a letter to the Paris Journal. It was reprinted in 1816 by Mrs. Barbauld, in one of her compilations, entitled "The Female Speaker," and it is this version which a reader of a London newspaper quotes:

"Dr. Franklin informs the conductors of the Journal that he has made a great discovery. Owing to his domestics having failed to close the shutters one night, he found the sun streaming into his bedroom at 6 a.m. and he had discovered that 'the sun gives light as soon as he rises.'

"Franklin was a master of the hoax, of which he composed several very successful specimens, and in that vein he proceeds to tell of a natural philosopher who assured him that he must be mistaken. The learned philosopher argued that as it was well known there could be no light abroad at that hour, the windows being left open, instead of letting in the light, had only served to let out the darkness.

"Franklin does not accept the philosopher's view, but proceeds to point out that if he had not been awakened so early that morning he would have slept six hours longer by the light of the sun, and in exchange have lived six hours the following night by candlelight; 'and the latter being a much more expensive light than the former, my love of economy induced me to muster up what little arithmetic I was master of, and to make some calculation.'

"He calculates the immense quantities of candles which were then burned in Paris, and proceeds:

"I believe all who have common sense, as soon as they have learnt from this paper that it is daylight when the sun rises will contrive to rise with him. To compel the rest, I would propose the following regulations."

It is in the regulations that follow that we realize the great difference between Mr. Willett's scheme and Dr. Franklin's. The American minister proposed to tax window shutters; to reduce the quantity of candles permitted to be sold, and every morning at sunrise to wake the sluggards by ringing church bells and the firing of cannon.

"All the difficulty will be in the first two or three days," he wrote, "after which the reformation will be as natural and easy as the present irregularity for 'ce n'est que le premier pas qui coute.' Oblige a man to rise at 4 in the morning, and it is more than probable he shall willingly go to bed at 8 in the evening, and having had eight hours' sleep, he will rise at 4 in the morning following."

Franklin, the writer points out, also invented lightning conductors, which it is recorded that George III refused to have affixed to government buildings because their inventor was a republican.

Studying Artistic Temperament.

[London Hospital:] The artistic temperament is certainly not strongly hereditary, and it may be doubted whther it is hereditary at all. It may appear sporadically in one member of a large family, the rest of whom are normal; it may appear in children in whose parents it is absent, and may be absent in children of a father who possesses it in high degree. It is more frequent in men than in women; but, whatever its origin it is a calamity to the family of its possesor, though it is not necessarily a calamity to the posessor himself. It does often bring him to irretrievable disaster, it is true, but it does not necessarily do so; and the very selfishness which is an integral and conspicuous element in it may, if combined with a moderate share of prudence, secure for its possessor that ease and comfort for which he most craves, and make his life, if not prosperous or successful, at least enjoyable. He does not always wreck his own life, but if the temperament is highly developed he will infallibly wreck the lives of others.

War Children of Paris.

[Cartoons Magazine:] How beautiful they are, the war children! How well cared for, how thriving, and how showered with love! Their prolonged siestas in the Bois or in the gardens have freshened the bloom of their cheeks. Their immaculate pink and whiteness seems to testify to the girl mother's loving care of the now sovereign baby who for two years has had no rival. The mother's entire time is devoted to His Majesty, the baby, nor is he forgotten except occasionally when her thoughts wandering to the absent one, she traces in the baby's dimpled face the sometimes fugitive, sometimes striking resemblance to his soldier-father. Sacred moments these when in the twilight the curly head and downy cheek resolve themselves into the pale or sunburnt features of one "somewhere in France!"

Most of the campaign poetry thus far submitted has sounded the praises and prospective triumphs of Charles Evans Hughes, but Bro. Wilson still has some champions left who claim a hearing.

Robert Makemson Wallace, a callow youth of sixty summers, desires membership in the club, and in proof of his eligibility has offered one of his worst off-hand poetical effusions. The canny Scotchman is Missouri born and reared, and has not recovered from the early-acquired habit of voting the Democratic ticket. After graduating from the farm and a local college he edited a Democratic paper for nearly a quarter of a century, and, though passing for a fully reformed editor, cannot avoid breaking over when his party candidates or principles are attacked. He hails from umbrageous Alhambra, where he has served as alcalde of the pueblo, raised oranges and tried to raise the price of his holdings, with only partial success. When he read the attack on Woodrow, by the sage of San Gabriel, he forthwith mounted his Pegasus, Rosinante or some of his flighty saddle horses for a joust with the perpetrator of "Adieu and Skidoo." Following is the result:

Skids Under Hughes.

Pretty soon will be coming the seventh of November,
And with it will settle a hoar frost so white
That all of the people will surely remember
The frozen chin whiskers of Evans the Knight,
Charles Evans, the Knight.

Now the mercury climbs like Charles Evans's ambition,
While under the dog-star in midsummer we write;
But, oh! 'twill be frigid as polar perdition
The seventh of November for Evans, the Knight,
And a dark, starless night.

The carrotty trimmings and facial adornings
All limp and forlorn, sorry sight to behold,
Will draggle and wither so bad the next morning
That no one will know him unless he is told,
Charles Evans, the bold.

Charles Evans, the valiant, the warrior pedantic,
With Teddy, the terrible, bullying beside,
One elephant hobbled and moose all rheumatic,
Both ride for a tumble of bluster and pride,
For their valor is snide.

Then 'ware you, Charles Evans, the ides of November
Will find you in tureen or mired in mush;
'Twill serve to convince you and make you remember
That "bird in the hand's worth two in the bush,"
Down there in the mush.

Then sadly you'll sigh for the woolsack and ermine,
While you bury the dead that you killed day by day,
With blasts of hot air, Mex, Austrian and German,
And all the opponents who got in your way,
Your bellicose way.

Alas! and alack! and also doggonit!
And other bad words like these you'll let fly,
When your platform collapses and you fall upon it,
Your hide full of splinters and with sand in your eye,
Your weatherwise eye.

No, Charles Evans, hearken, the skids are all under,
The runways are sloping, the tracks are all greased,
You're on the toboggan now going like thunder,
Since Teddy took snuff you obediently sneezed,
Cachophoniously sneezed.

No man who would plunge this country, through bluff,
Into war, without reason, be he Roosevelt or Hughes,
Will ever be big enough, wide enough, long enough,
Wise enough, good enough to fill Wilson's shoes,
Woodrow's slippers or shoes.

"That's the stuff," chirped the old resident. "Give 'em all a run for the money. I'll bet right now that Wilson carries North Carolina."

Adelia Farina Bassett, the Rowland Heights robin, perpetrated this limerick form:

"A man who bites more than he chews,
Said he'd not be counted for Hughes.
I asked him quite hot,
'Pray tell me why not?'
And he said, 'We'd the pork barrel lose.'"

Charlottessen Rubendohlia, the sunny singer of the South Side, said that the members could shorten up her name hereafter and call her "Judge." She is a judge of election in her precinct and says she is now too busy to monkey with the bards.

"That's the way of it," exclaimed Absalom St. Vitus. "Give a woman a dash of glory or something to do and she'll forget her old ties in an unholy minute."

Those members of the club who are in the cast of the great motion-picture drama, "Henrietta of the Hungry Heart," will go on location next Wednesday after recovering from the dissipations of the primary election. The rest will not have much to do for a week.

In the meantime all applications for membership, all offerings in the prize competition in verses to film favorites, or the world's best limerick, all campaign poetry or suggestions for the club button or club ode, may be addressed to Eugene Brown, Editorial Rooms, The Times.

William Jennings Bryan is to quit Nebraska. Mrs. Bryan, it is said, recently told friends that Fairview, the home of the Bryans at Lincoln, will be reopened while Mr. Bryan is participating in the campaign, and that after the campaign it will be closed, perhaps forever. Friends of the Bryans declare they purpose moving to North Carolina, where Mr. Bryan has an estate at Asheville, and that he aspires to be elected to the United States Senate from that State. Bryan owns a farm in Texas, one in Florida and one in North Carolina, as well as his home in Nebraska. Some years ago it was reported that Mr. Bryan intended to move to Texas and run for the Senate from that State.

Leigh C. Palmer, who will succeed Admiral Victor Blue as chief of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department, is a native of Missouri, a graduate of the Naval Academy of the class of 1896, and was promoted to ensign two years later. During the Spanish-American War he served on the flagship of the North Atlantic fleet, and took part in the battle of Santiago de Cuba. He became a commander in 1915. While serving in his new post he will have the relative rank of rear-admiral.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SWORDFISH.

BY HOWARD R. GARIS.

Down by the seashore sat Uncle Wiggily Longears, the nice rabbit gentleman. He was in front of the seaweed and seashell bungalow, where he and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, were spending their summer vacation. Just at the time about which I am writing Uncle Wiggily was taking a little nap after dinner and Nurse Jane was washing up the big and little clam shells that had been used for plates, cups and saucers at the table.

All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily was awakened by feeling something tickle his nose.

"My goodness!" he exclaimed, sitting up so suddenly that he almost fell out of his chair. "I hope that isn't the nose-pinching baboon who used to chase me!"

Then he happened to think that the baboon animal had turned good, together with the ear-scratching cat and the tail-pulling chimpanzee, and Uncle Wiggily felt more happy.

"But something certainly tickled me," he said. "I wonder who it was."

Just then came a little laugh and a voice said:

"It was I, Uncle Wiggily. I hope you don't mind. I want someone to play with me," and there, out from behind a pile of sand, stepped Nannie Wagtail, the little goat girl. "You're not angry are you, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nannie, shyly like.

"Angry? No, indeed!" exclaimed the bunny uncle.

"I was so sorry to awaken you," went on Nannie, politely, tying her hair ribbon in a blue knot instead of a red one, for she liked the blue color better.

"What did you want?" asked Uncle Wiggily, sort of putting his paw in his pocket, for nearly always when any of the animal boys or girls came to see him they wanted lollypops or ice cream cones or something like that.

"Oh," said Nannie, sort of hopeful like, "I was just wondering if you didn't want to come and see the sand garden I have made. It's just fine!"

"I had rather at this moment see a sand garden than anything else in the world," spoke Uncle Wiggily, politely.

He tipped himself out of the easy chair and went along behind the seashell bungalow to a smooth place on the ocean beach, where the little goat girl, who was also spending her vacation at the shore, had come to play.

"There's my garden, Uncle Wiggily," she said. "Isn't it nice?"

"Indeed it is," answered the bunny chap. For Nannie had made a nice little wall of sand all around the place. Inside were flower beds and places where seashells grew, and potatoes and apples and raspberries, to say nothing of beans and corn and flowers.

Of course, they weren't real things, but they were ever so much better than if they had been, for Nannie made potatoes out of little brown stones and apples out of red sea beans, while little bit of yellow sticks looked like carrots and green seaweed made as nice lettuce as a rag, or even a wax, doll would want to eat in a week of Sundays. Besides you did not have to wait for a garden of this sort to grow. You could make things as fast as you wanted them.

"But I would like to water my garden," said Nannie to Uncle Wiggily when he had looked at it for some time. "You have to water every garden, you know, and mine is very dry," which, indeed, it was, for the hot sun shone on the sand, making it very hard.

"Yes, it ought to be watered," said the bunny uncle. "But I haven't any sprinkling can."

"Oh, how would this do?" asked Nannie, as she saw a tin can which the waves had washed up on shore.

"Why, I should say that would be the very thing!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "I'll take the can down to the edge of the ocean for you and fill it with water. You might get your feet wet if you did it yourself."

"Thank you very kindly," said Nannie, whose mother had told her always to be polite to uncles, aunts and all her relations.

So Uncle Wiggily went for water in the can, just as Simple Simon went for some in his mother's sieve, but soon it all ran through. I don't mean the water ran out of Uncle Wiggily's can, for it didn't. He brought the can full to Nannie.

"Oh, dear!" the little goat girl cried, as she poured some of the water on her garden.

"What's the matter?" asked the bunny.

"Oh, the water comes out of the can so fast when I tip it that it washes away my garden!" cried Nannie. "It floats away the sand and the seaweed lettuce, the brown stone potatoes and everything!"

"That's too bad!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "I see what the trouble is, though. There ought to be holes in the can so the water would sprinkle out slowly like rain, just as it does from a regular watering can. I'll make one for you."

"How?" asked Nannie.

"By punching holes in the bottom of this can," answered Uncle Wiggily. "I'll do it with an old nail and stone!" He hunted along the beach until he found a rusty nail in a piece of wood. Pulling it out, he used a stone for a hammer and tried to make holes in the tin.

"Ouch!" suddenly cried Uncle Wiggily, putting his paw in his mouth.

"What's the matter?" asked Nannie.

"Oh, my stone hammer slipped and I hurt my paw," said the bunny. "But, never mind, I'll punch the holes yet and make a sprinkler out of this can for you."

He took up the stone and nail.

"Excuse me, Uncle Wiggily," said a voice from the ocean, and a big fish with a long nose thrust up his head. "Excuse me, but perhaps you had better let me punch those holes for you."

"Pray who are you?" asked the bunny, curiously.

"The swordfish," was the answer. "My friends, the eels, who held up your hammock, told me about you. It will give me much pleasure if you let me, with my long, sharp, bony nose, punch holes in Nannie's can."

"Thank you," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "It would be better than my paws, I suppose." So, while Uncle Wiggily held the can, the swordfish, who has a nose like a toothpick, punched holes in the bottom, and soon it was as good a sprinkler as Nannie could wish. And she watered her garden without washing away all the sand.

Then she thanked the swordfish, which swam away, and Uncle Wiggily went back to sleep and all was well. And if the caterpillar doesn't tickle the hoptoad and make it sneeze like a firecracker, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the bat.

IOWA WONDERLAND OF SOIL'S WEALTH.

GREAT RESOURCES AND SOCIAL SOUNDNESS EXTOLLED.

Speaker at Wesleyan College Declares Absence of Great Cities Should be Source of Pride, and Illustrates World-importance of Abounding Crops.

Following is an extract from a speech made by J. F. Deems recently at the graduation exercises of Iowa Wesleyan College, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa:

Now I hope you will not get the impression that I think Iowa stands in need of special pleading. Far from it. Iowa speaks for herself.

She speaks in profound eloquence through the recorded history of her devotion to the cause of the Union and liberty, away back in the dark days of the war of the rebellion.

She speaks in statistics showing a minimum of illiteracy and crime within her borders.

She speaks through thousands of churches dotting her broad prairies, and the schoolhouse standing in the shadow of the church.

She speaks a most potent language in the splendid men and women going forth from these churches and schoolhouses every year, to the uttermost corners of the earth, to do God's service—a citizenry reared and nurtured out in the open under God's blue sky, far from the noisome, festering slums and unwholesome contrasts of the city, for, be it known, there is not a city in the State of sufficient size to boast of real slums.

Iowa, as yet, is an agricultural State, and I hope no one within the sound of my voice will feel like apologizing for that fact.

To the student of the progress and development of the human race in its broadest sense there are abundant reasons why we should feel proud of it.

Mr. Owen Lovejoy, head of the Child Welfare Association of the United States, said in a speech at Burlington recently that of the applicants for enlistment in the army from the densely-populated portions of New York and other large cities, 90 per cent. were rejected as physically unfit, while from the country and small towns the rejections were less than 10 per cent. This, then, is one compensating feature in connection with life in Iowa.

When you are twitted, as I have been, about no large cities in the State, you might say, in the way of rebuttal: "Yes, it is true, we have no large cities," and follow the subject a little further by saying there are other things in which Iowa cannot compare with some of the States whose chief boast is of large cities, such for instance, as crime, panics, paupers and pitiless poverty, breadlines, booze and boodlers, but tell them that when it comes to Chautauquas, churches and schools, hominess, happiness, sobriety, peace and plenty, Iowa stands the peer of any State in the Union.

A few pertinent comparisons may result in their getting a better understanding and appreciation of Iowa, and in the end you will probably have a different viewpoint of some of our sister States—great commonwealths of which their own citizens are no more proud than we are.

Yes, Iowa speaks for herself. In the boundless products of her peerless soil, Iowa speaks a universal language of good cheer that is heard around the world—heard and felt and welcomed in every country on the face of this earth.

If you will bear with me I would like to present what the lawyers call a hypothetical case to show what it really means when Iowa's fertile prairies speak in that universal language heard around the world, and the case that I will present is the result of thinking over a very brief article I saw in an obscure eastern paper about a year ago.

As a convenient vehicle to carry this hypothesis we will use Iowa's corn crop for just one year.

Imagine a wagon train forming here at Mt. Pleasant to move this corn crop off to the west. We will assume a wagon and team every thirty feet and fifty bushels of corn to each wagon.

The first wagon is loaded and moves off to the west and others follow in the order of spacing and loading indicated. After a few days this first wagon reaches Omaha, 260 miles away, and they are still loading corn at Mt. Pleasant.

Later this first wagon climbs up the long slope forming the foothills of the Rockies into Denver, 800 miles away, and they are still loading corn at Mt. Pleasant.

Time goes on and the head of the train rumbles down the western slope into San Francisco, 1700 miles away, and they are still loading corn at Mt. Pleasant.

Now try in your imagination to see this wagon train moving out on the Pacific Ocean, and when the first wagon reaches Japan, over 7000 miles away, they are still loading corn at Mt. Pleasant.

It wends its way across China and the vast reaches of Asia and Europe, and on arrival at the eastern shore of the Atlantic, over 15,000 miles on the long journey, they are still loading corn at Mt. Pleasant.

It moves across the Atlantic, up through the narrows into New York Harbor, and that first wagon comes rumbling up Broadway, New York City, over 18,000 miles from the starting point, and they are still loading at Mt. Pleasant. On it goes across the eastern and middle States, and one day, after traveling 19,000 miles, that first wagon stands again at Mt. Pleasant, but there is still corn to load. A second train is started parallel to the first and by the time the last bushel of one of Iowa's splendid corn crops is loaded the head of this second wagon train will be well beyond Japan, or in other words, a wagon train spaced and loaded as indicated and of sufficient length to carry one of Iowa's corn crops would reach approximately one and one-half times around the earth, following the fortieth degree of north latitude.

And remember this is but one of the many crops in which Iowa stands in the lead, and let me mention here that the annual corn crop of Iowa is of greater value than the annual yield of either iron ore, anthracite coal, petroleum products, or the products of all the gold, silver or copper mines in the United States.

It is of greater value than the annual wheat crop of Canada or the Argentine, of which we hear so much.

Then, again, unlike the products of the mines, which can be taken from the earth but once, Iowa's soil with proper care will yield these crops, and increasing abundance each year, for the next thousand years.

Just one more item. According to a New York financial paper the farms of Iowa are worth more than the farms of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, New Mexico, Montana and Wyoming combined.

Some State, believe me, and who wants to apologize because its an agricultural State?

RARE FURS AT LOCAL HOUSE.

Story of Rush for Two Wonderful Skins—Recent Visit to Alaska.

A dash near the pole, if not for it, was made by F. Obrikat of Los Angeles during a visit to Alaska, when by quick action and the expenditure of considerable cash he secured two wonderful natural black fox skins, prizes worthy any amount of effort.

It is the custom of the Obrikats, senior and junior, to pay an annual visit to the Far North for the purpose of restocking their houses with furs, and during a recently-completed trip they learned, while at Seward, that about 500 miles distant there were two wonderfully beautiful natural black fox skins. Such skins are rare at all times and when found, before the European war depressed the market for furs, such skins would have brought from $10,000 to $12,000 quite readily. Determined to have these two famous skins, the younger Mr. Obrikat started by dog sled to cover the 500 miles and to reach the coveted prey before any of his competitors. The story of his dash for the furs is an interesting one. The fox skins were secured and he returned in triumph, having covered as great a distance to please some unknown future client as any hero of romance has compassed to gratify the whim of a fair lady. The skins, now at the local house of the F. Obrikat Company on Hill street, are marvels of beauty. Of glossy black, with an occasional white tip upon a single hair, and tipped with snowy white at the end of the tail, these furs—modestly valued at $4000 each, will make for some charming belle a lovely neckpiece and muff. Fox, as everyone knows, is the popular fur of the hour and of several hours to come. Next in value to natural black fox comes the silver fox, skins of which sell locally at from $300 to $1000. Blue fox at from $100 to $250 are also seen in this fur emporium, while ermines, minks, Hudson seals and the Siberian sables and squirrels are among the popular furs made up in sets and in superb coats and shawls. Moleskin, which has come into renewed favor, is in many cases trimmed with the richer furs, as ermine or mink, sable or Russian bear. The latter fur, long in disuse, has again returned to mode.

The styles noticed at the local house, which is noted for its styles in furs as well as for the quality of skins, are such as the latest fashion centers decree, and in many instances there are touches of originality within the mode, such as only makers of true genius are capable of. For example, a capacious coat of mole, the skirt of which measures 108 inches around, has in addition to the lining of rich brocaded satin, an underlining of plisse chiffon, upon the edge of which is set a deep band of skunk. A charming coat of gray Russian squirrel is lined throughout with gray crepe chiffon in futurist flowered effect. The muff of an ermine set is lined with white chiffon and has a chiffon-covered ring for slipping over the wrist. An Eton jacket of mink is a novelty and there are novel touches to the scarfs and shawls which are composed from every popular fur.

Lieutenant-Commander D. W. Wurtsbaugh, who for more than a year has served as naval aid to both President Wilson and Secretary Daniels, will be assigned to duty as executive officer of one of the new battleships the latter part of next week. It was at his request that he is to be given sea duty. He will be relieved of his present duties by Lieutenant-Commander Byron McCandless, who has been on duty in the office of the chief of naval operations since May, 1915.

COMEDY IN DISCARD.

SERIOUS MOOD RULES IN THE PICTURE WORLD.

Comedy is rather in the discard on motion picture row this week; thrills and serious drama are the order of the day in most of the picture houses. Helen Holmes is back after several weeks, as star of "Judith of the Cumberlands;" House Peters returns in a story of financial intrigue; "The Weakness of Strength" gives Edmund Breese a splendid opportunity; Lucille Lee Stewart, sister of Anita, promises to make us weep in "The Destroyers," while Blanche Sweet will thrill in "Public Opinion," and Bessie Barriscale, one of the best loved of picture stars, will be even more sweetly human than usual in "Home." The burden of responsibility in brightening our film fare lies with little June Caprice, the new Fox sparkler, in a picture play that is all about happiness; and of course the Keystones will provide the usual delightful travesties on melodrama.

Superba.

Lucille Lee Stewart will appear at the Superba, commencing tomorrow, in "The Destroyers," a photodrama based on the noted Curwood novel, "Peter God." The scenes ahe laid in the Canadian Northwest. "Peter God" is the name of a hermit, who fled civilization as the result of a political "frame-up" against him and disappointment in his domestic life. How he is brought back to happiness and his fellow beings is the problem the story unravels.

There are said to be some wondefully beautiful snow scenes in this picture, and its story promises unusual interest and thrill.

Tally's Broadway.

House Peters will be the star at Tally's Broadway, starting tomorrow, in "The Rail Rider." This is a love tale blended with a thrilling narrative of political intrigue. In it Peters portrays a young engineer, said to be the best role he has ever had.

The added attractions are views of the Grand Canyon, and a funny cartoon.

Symphony.

Edmund Breese, that strong and virile star of screen and stage, will appear at the Symphony this week in "The Weakness of Strength," a story dealing both with politics and with feuds arising in the lumber country.

There are said to be some thrilling situations, some beautiful settings, and the supporting cast is of the best, including Clifford Bruce, Ormi Hawley, and others.

Majestic.

"The Daughter of the Don," with its romantic, yet intensely human story, its significant and graphically depicted historic events, and the local interest induced by Southern California and Los Angeles settings, is continuing to draw big crowds to the Majestic. This picture will open its third week today, after having been viewed by 40,000 persons.

Fremont, Stockton, Kearney and Gillespie made pages of California history in 1846-7, and their battles waged for the winning of California to the United States are faithfully and vividly reproduced.

Palace.

The Palace Theater will have an all-star Triangle week starting today, with Bessie Barriscale, Charles Ray and Louise Glaum in "Home," and Roscoe Arbuckle and Al St. Johns, Mack Sennett's funniest comedians, in "The Waiters Ball."

"Home" is the story of a girl who devotes her efforts to saving her family from the evils of a too-sudden-acquired wealth, and who nearly sacrifices her own happiness in so doing. Miss Barriscale is seen as the girl who is confronted with the difficult task, and her performance is said to mark another step in her remarkable advancement as a screen star.

"The Waiters' Ball," Fatty Arbuckle's latest vehicle, is out of the range of the usual comedy, as it has more than the ordinary plot. Al St. Johns and other Keystone bloom chasers are in the support.

Clune's Auditorium.

Seventeen thousand persons have seen the wonderful "Two Years in the Trenches of Europe," in the first week's showing at Clune's Auditorium. The demand continues, and a second week of the attraction will begin tomorrow.

The pictures were taken by Capt. F. E. Kleinschmidt, an American war correspondent, who secured from Archduke Frederick, the Austrian commander-in-chief, the privilege of marching with the vanguard of the German army and procuring the films. In return he supplied the Royal Army Museum in Vienna with 15,000 feet of celluloid pictures for its archives. The best of these compose the show now being exhibited at the Auditorium.

Every phase of warfare is shown in the films, including battles in the trenches, cities aflame, fleeing refugees, aeroplane fights, and other startling events.

Garrick.

"Judith of the Cumberlands," with the popular star, Helen Holmes, will be the dramatic attraction at the Garrick, starting today. This story deals with the feuds so prominent in the South a few years ago, and the hardy mountaineers of Kentucky and Tennessee are the leading characters.

As the daughter of the hills, who is torn between duty to her clan and love for her sweetheart, Miss Holmes is said to add a striking new creation to her long list.

Miller's.

June Caprice, the charming little 17-year-old Fox beauty, is to be seen in "Little Miss Happiness," a delightful film play, at Miller's Theater, starting today. The story is said to be full of the quaint humor and spirit of the fields, showing the innocence of a little girl who has passed her days among the daisies.

Clune's Broadway.

Setting forth a great domestic drama in which the avaricious greed for gold is a dominant factor, "The Almighty Dollar," opening at Clune's Broadway today, promises to prove a strong attraction. The picture deals with modern life and conditions and in stirring and realistic manner reveals the havoc the pursuit of excessive wealth brings into a household. The story revolves about two sisters, Nan and Maizie Lorimer, portrayed by June Elvidge and Frances Nelson.

Woodley.

Blanche Sweet will appear at the Woodley Theater, beginning tomorrow, in the thrilling photodrama, "Public Opinion." She will appear as a trained nurse on trial for murder. How a sensational newspaper report prejudices the mind of the public against this young woman, who is absolutely innocent of all wrong, and how her future happiness is jeopardized by a supposed false step, is shown in a gripping manner.

Alhambra.

"Daredevil Kate," a stirring drama, starring Virginia Pearson, is to be shown for another week in this city, starting today, at the Alhambra. It is a highly dramatic story in which the strength of the West is pitted against the brains of the East with a beautiful woman holding the balance of power.

Pathos Note.

Some weeks ago John Cuyery, soldier, No. 37 Bickendike street, Leeds, Eng., wrote a letter to Mabel Normand, requesting her photograph. She sent the young soldier the picture. It arrived too late. As Others See Them.

Ada Gleason and Nanon Welch, friends for several years on the legitimate stage, enjoyed a reunion recently in this city. Of entirely different types and heights, each discovered that the other, through admiration of the girl lead in the Harold Bell Wright story, "The Eyes of the World," had a desire to play the part. But, objected Miss Gleason, five-feet-five and decidedly brunette, "the girl in the story is just my type!" "Not at all," returned Miss Welch, just five feet and decidedly not brunette, "I always felt she was just my type." Both Miss Gleason and Miss Welch are weighing screen offers—with different companies and for different types.

Camera Sees in Night.

Night photography, of a degree of excellence, it is said, rarely attained, is a feature of "The Patriot," the new Ince picture starring William S. Hart.

One of the most remarkable effects is that of the moon rising majestically over the plains of Mexico, while a sentry, in silhouette, passes to and fro, and a detachment of American cavalry rides along the international boundary line. Another impressive night scene depicts the American troops seated about their bonfires, just before "taps." Another shows the tents, just as "taps" is sounded. One by one the lights disapper.

Ta-ta, Lloyd.

Lloyd Ingraham, one of the Fine Arts staff of directors, has left for the New York Triangle studio, where he will continue producing five-reel feature pictures. Before leaving for the East he completed the screening of "The Little Liar," based on a story by Anita Loos, starring Mae Marsh and Robert Herron. In this picture Miss Marsh plays the role of a little girl whose fairy-tale imagination constantly runs away with her and gets her into trouble.

Mystery Note.

Whether it was fear of battle or a desire to keep his soldierly figure is not known, but certain it is that when George Elwell, the boy actor of the Ince forces, reached the border, after having enlisted under the United States flag to fight the Mexicans, he was three pounds shy on weight. So he was honorably discharged from service, and is now at work once again at Culver City.

But Death to Frogs.

You just can't get ahead of those Rolin players. Last Monday Director Roach's big car was hit and demolished by a truck while on its way to location, loaded with players. Bebe Daniels and Harold Lloyd were both sent to the hospital, while Fred Jefferson and James Crosby suffered minor injuries. The car was completely wrecked; but the cameraman was on the job. Leaping from under the wreckage, he saw his camera was uninjured, and at once set it up, calling meanwhile to the players, the familiar phrase: "Holt it!" He got a picture of the wreck, and it's going to be used in a comedy. Well, some cameramen do have a sense of humor!

Lily Langtry Makes Joyous Picture on Arrival.

As radiant as of yore, surprising the ship news reporters with the youthfulness and freshness of her appearance, Mrs. Lily Langtry, who in private life is Lady Hugo Gerald de Bathe, tripped lightly down the gangplank of the St. Paul when the American liner docked in New York, a week ago.

Far from being disturbed by the prospect of a road tour, Lady De Bathe confided to the newspaper men that she was eager to resume her stage engagements. While in the Southwest Mrs. Langtry plans to visit the town in Texas named after her, and to which she presented a library. The actress offered to give the town a fountain, but Roy Bean, who named the place, wrote her that the inhabitants did not drink much water, and he was afraid they might resent such a gift.

While Mrs. Langtry will open her Orpheum tour in "Ashes," she may later in the season appear in a new sketch called "The Eleventh Hour."

SHOWS IMPACT OF BIG SHELLS.

TARGET PRACTICE VIEWS ARE A FEATURE OF WEEKLY.

Daring "Times"-Universal Cameraman Gets Close-ups of Big Projectiles Hitting Bullseye in Long Island Sound—Enthusiasm Over Hughes's Campaign.

Half-ton projectiles crashing against a huge target make a picturesque and irresistibly fascinating sight, and the "Times"-Universal Animated Weekly cameraman secured some remarkable views at close range, that will hold the attention of film fans during the showing of the present issue. These were taken at the recent testing of twelve-inch guns in Long Island Sound. The placing of the targets at a distance of eight miles from the big guns, the hurling of the iron "pills" through the air, the landing of the shells twenty-five seconds after firing, all appear in a very effectual manner.

The enthusiasm over the Hughes campaign is again exemplified in the ovation given the Republican candidate for President by 15,000 persons in Minneapolis.

One of the news features of the past week has been the convention of Catholic societies in New York, and the three cardinals, America's highest Catholic church dignitaries, are shown in some striking views.

A very interesting chapter in the issue reveals J. P. Morgan's son among the citizen tars for battleship cruise. Other views of the same cruise are shown.

President Wilson's activities in connection with the railroad strike developments and other matters are flashed on the screen. The launching of a big sea craft is a feature. A novelty is the picture of the baby autos' race in San Francisco. Views of the war victims passing their time while convalescing, some other European war pictures, a flash of Harvard students studying flying, and some cartoons by Hy Mayer round out the attractive issue.

TRILOGY OF ROMANCE.

"Daughter of Don" Opens Way for Two Other Picturesque Photoplays of Early California History—Last Feature Now in Preparation.

"The Daughter of the Don," the California historical photoplay which is proving an attraction of rare interest at the Majestic these days, is but one of a trilogy of film dramas devoted to the portrayal of the romance of this State. No less striking, it is said, will be "The Argonauts," which is to be shown here in the course of a few weeks, and a new photoplay which is shortly to be produced at the Monrovia studios.

"The Daughter of the Don" is first chronologically in the series and lays the foundation for the other two photoplays from a historical standpoint. No period of greater romance could have been chosen for depiction on the screen than the events of this time and their setting was picturesque in the extreme.

"The Daughter of the Don" is primarily concerned with the telling of the happenings that surrounded the American occupation of California in 1846-47, and many notable personages of the time, like Gens. Fremont and Kearney among the Americans, and Gen. Pico among the Mexicans, are visualized by well-selected interpreters on the screen. There are some rarely thrilling episodes in "The Argonauts" and "When the Gringo Came," the new feature, which carry forward the story.

COMSTOCKIANS WOULD MUZZLE ANOTHER AMERICAN NOVELIST

Theodore Dreiser's "The Genius" Ordered Suppressed—American Authors Consistently Attacked by Prejudice Inherited from the Mayflower—"The Genius" Was Written for Intelligent and Discriminating People and What Defects It May Have are Literary and Artistic Defects and No Police Officer Has the Right to Judge It.

THE Society for the Suppresion of Vice is composed of really earnest people who most lamentably seem to think it a great moral influence to coerce men of letters into tacitly supporting some such nursery myth as that babies come from kissing and are found under cabbage leaves.

Being a society ostensibly—nay, ostentatiously, for the suppression of evil pictures and pamphlets, it assumes the right to say this or that is vicious, and to yank the author into court to be tried, likely as not, before a dunderhead judge who thinks it wicked to mention "garters" in the presence of ladies who wear 'em.

The society has done much good. It has confiscated and destroyed pornographic pamphlets and abominable pictures; it has made life miserable for certain lechers and has pertinaciously kept its bonfires leaping. It is a worthy society, bent on purifying folk willy-nilly; and, not being content with attacks on the palpably lewd, frequently makes incursions with pruning knife and injunction into the workshops of reputable authors.

Mr. Dreiser Yanked Up.

Theodore Dreiser is on the tapis for having written "The Genius."

It is pronounced "lewd" and "profane."

The book has been ordered withdrawn.

The publisher, John Lane Company, is, of course, as guilty as the author in the effort to corrupt the morals of our fair land.

Personally, we are glad the society has jumped on to Mr. Dreiser. He deserves it.

He is too independent.

He is too famous.

Too many authoritative critics believe he is the greatest living American author; and none, whether or not they like his work, can do other than admit that he is one of the commanding and one of the influential novelists in the country.

A man like that should be prosecuted. His very presence makes pigmies of too many of his contemporaries.

And we are glad the society has built a gibbet for him; his prosecution will be a blazing example to all bright, young, ambitious authors.

They will know then that it is dangerous to be honest and bold, to ignore nursery myths, to write as they feel and think—if they don't happen to feel and think like their fellows.

In America we have ready-made plots, and blue prints with all specifications set forth on how to build a story. Novels must conform or be "immoral."

In fiction, a man can desert his wife and go with another woman—but if he doesn't regret it, the book is "immoral."

A man can seduce a girl, but if he doesn't suffer the tortures of the damned or if she doesn't rise to fame as a suffrage leader and get a billionaire for a husband—why then, the book is "immoral."

Mr. Dreiser doesn't conform to the recognized standards of American fiction—but portrays American life. That is awful, indeed! The good people of the land cannot tolerate that: no more than they can admit the greatest of the country's poets into the Hall of Fame because he is supposed to have been slightly drunk when he wrote "The Raven."

Should be Sweetly Innocuous.

Mr. Dreiser has already had his troubles for not being—as so many American writers profitably are—sweetly innocuous.

At the eleventh hour a year or so ago, his publisher, like Pilate, washed his hands of "The Titan," and John Lane Company thereupon unhesitatingly stamped its imprint on the title page.

This John Lane Company is notoriously "immoral:" every month it publishes a magazine that is seldom without the picture of a nude woman in it; and there are dear, sweet ladies who no doubt believe that the International Studio should, on behalf of decency, be issued with at least a petticoat for a wrapper.

Mr. Dreiser Should Have Piety.

If Mr. Dreiser would put even a nice little moral tag on his books; or, as Owen Johnson did with "The Salamander," put in a preface pretending salaciousness was sociological (though Mr. Johnson is the kind of fellow who takes his prefaces quite seriously,) Mr. Dreiser might then be able to write something as immoral as Robert W. Chambers—who never forgets the moral tag—and not only escape the basilisk scrutiny of the Comstockians, but even get his stories into the Cosmopolitan, which publishes editorials by Herbert Kaufman on what a moral and uplifting magazine it is.

It takes but little piety to get the Ephraimites safely across the passages of the Jordan; if Mr. Dreiser would merely say "Shibboleth" instead of saying what he sees and thinks, he would not have to look for a courageous publisher to get his books into type, or a good lawyer to keep himself out of jail. But Mr. Dreiser doesn't pretend to preach. No artist does pretend—and yet the artists are the world's great preachers.

Import Intellectual Novels.

It is a significant fact, one that all suppressionists would do well to contemplate thoughtfully, that the bulk of the serious novels published in this country, the modern novels that intellectual circles study and discuss, are imported.

These books are strong and fearless and it is true that they are often woefully depressing; but they treat boldly of life as seen by Russian authors—who have only political censors, and never had a Comstock; and by French authors, who are thought very immoral in America but even by Americans are always given a high rank as men of letters; and by Italian authors who are said to be frightfully degenerate—but who become, as did d'Annunzio, their nation's idol in the hour of war's travail.

For the most part the suppressionists of vice let these books alone.

They are not written by Americans!

Also because they come attended by a great reputation from Europe—from where most of the Puritans fled some 300 years ago.

In France, in Russia, in Germany, in Italy, in Poland, men of letters may write freely of those things Christian America holds in horrific taboo.

Even in England authors may—and do—write more honest and better novels than in America.

Yet even English authors complain because they are required more or less to trim their text for fear of the teeth and claws of those people whose ancestors didn't take passage on the "Mayflower."

England is now proud of Thomas Hardy, but a lot of moral Englishers came near dying of apoplectic righteousness along in the 1890's when his "Jude" and "Tess" appeared.

Incidentally, when first published in this country, "Jude" was trimmed down and altered so that really innocent people wouldn't know just what it was all about—and therefore not be corrupted.

Are We All Immoral;

Personally, we are far from being among those who think Mr. Dreiser is the greatest living American novelist. As a craftsman he leaves something to be desired. But he is such a novelist as can be judged by only the highest and most exacting standards and he is unquestionably among the few greatest of those living. The demigods of letters may have a host of faults and still be greatly superior to lesser mortals who round their books with technical precision. After all, it is the brain-substance and flesh-emotions that make books big, and while perfections of style and structure are admirable, yet in themselves those perfections do not make great novels.

Mr. Dreiser being a man of both courage and genius, has undertaken to write as he believes. And he must suffer for not believing as the suppressionists want him to. But that intellectual circles of America do appreciate the honest, brilliant and bold craftsman is attested in the pride with which critics point to him as the one American author who is in the least comparable to contemporaries in France and Russia.

If Mr. Drieser is haled into court and if "The Genius" is found guilty of being vicious, then every man and woman in the United States who liked the book or praised it must be—on that finding—vicious minded, and should be placed under surveillance by the Society for the Suppression of Vice.

And will the judge who passes on "The Genius" be willing to meet a committee from the Authors' League of America, discuss books with that committee, and so assure the nation's leading authors that he is familiar enough with literature to be even entitled to an opinion on what is good and what is bad?

A great many people have no right to their opinions about books; some judges read no fiction but lawyers' briefs.

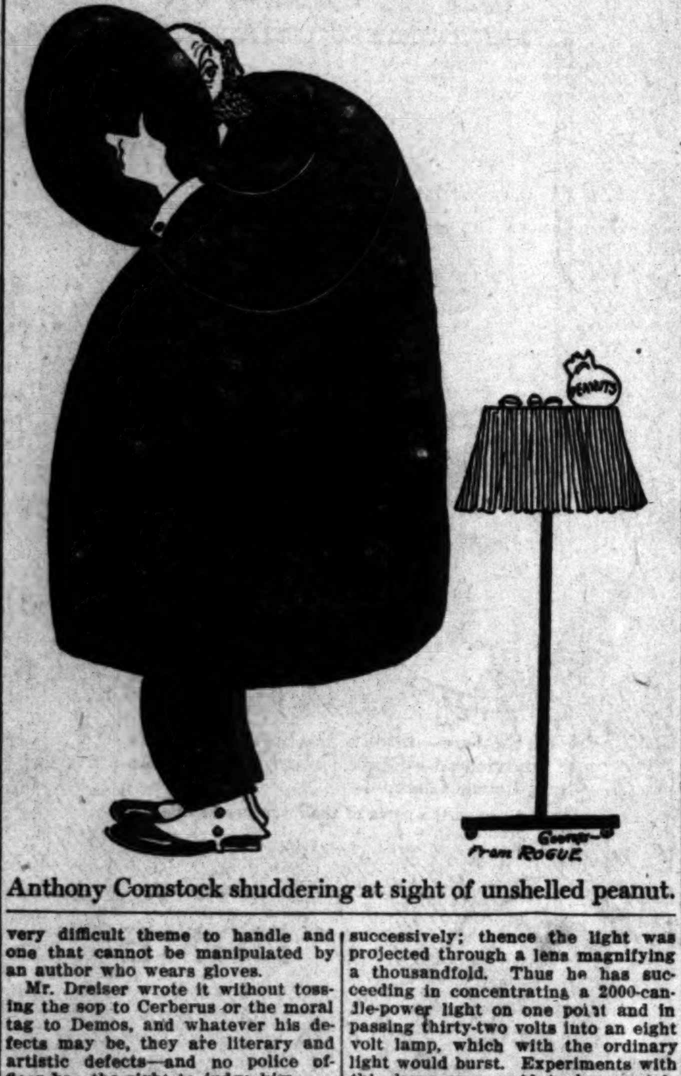
It is certain that Mr. Dreiser's attorney will have had to pass an examination in law before the judge will listen to him, so it is only equitable and common sense that the judge shall be required to qualify as an authority on literature before he presumes to speak with the voice of Solomon.

"Immoral" Artists Really Crusaders.

The most intolerable feature of these incessant, nagging, bitter, insulting attacks upon serious workmen is that the real artists, the very men who are so beset, are often actuated by passionately righteous motives.

For instance: In the last few months "Homo Sapiens" has been suppressed, yet Przybszewski wrote the book as a brilliant excoriation of the ruthlessly adulterous egotist; "Behold the Woman!" has been assailed, yet Mr. Harre wrote that wonderful book to burn into the minds of whoever read something of the debasement that has been forced upon women throughout the ages; and Mr. Dreiser in this decried book, "The Genius" has mordantly mocked the ubiquitous type of American artist who thinks because he paints a little something or writes a little something that he need keep faith with neither himself nor women. It is the story of a cad trying earnestly to be a genius; a very difficult theme to handle and one that cannot be manipulated by an author who wears gloves.

Mr. Dreiser wrote it without tossing the sop to Cerberus or the moral tag to Demos, and whatever his defects may be, they are literary and artistic defects—and no police officer has the right to judge him.



Anthony Comstock shuddering at sight of unshelled peanut.

A VETERAN PHILOSPHER.

UNDER THE APPLE TREES. By John Burroughs. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

John Burroughs is a favorite with many people, and how he could be read and be otherwise is not among those things that are easily understood. Mr. Burroughs is so much at his ease, writing directly and simply of what he has seen and of what he has thought, concentrating within a paragraph the essence of long reflection, that one does not need to wait for his death—may it be long deferred!—before acknowledging that his place is with the immortals, Thoreau, Emerson and Muir.

Many choice essays were written "Under the Apple Trees," and it is neither easy nor wise to pick this and that and say, "here is the best;" but few, if any, can read with attentive leisure "The Friendly Rocks" and not feel within them a sense of grandeur, not be stirred by the intimate friendliness which he conveys with the very stones of the field.

"How geologic time looks out from under the ledges and walls of gray rocks unmindful of us human ephemera that pass! It has seen the mountains decay and the hills grow old. The huge drift boulders rest on the margin of meadows and fields, or stand sentry to the woods, and though races and kingdoms pass, scarcely a change or a wrinkle disturbs their calm stone faces."

In a philosophical mood he has with admirable clarity analyzed his conception of the mingled influences of "free will" and "predestination" upon mankind in the chapter "'Fated to Be Free';" and points out what he calls "the fatalism of nature."

Scientific faith he finds has problems troublous in much the same way as religious faith, and shows something of the difficulties of knowing what "facts" to believe. He credits all growing things—as one must, it seems, who watches them—with a mind; and no doubt will disconcert some people by his emphasis on the manifestation which tends to force belief that the whole energy of nature is focused on the propagation of species—that every living thing seems designed for no other purpose than to reproduce itself.

But he is not so philosophical all the way through. He has a charming story to tell of his favorite chipmunk and of the chipmunk habits, and other stories of birds and their characteristics.

Cold Light.

Cold light, light without heat, has been the goal of scientists for many years. Its discovery has been reported from time to time, but never yet has it been found in practical form. The cable, Wednesday, once more credited the French engineer, Dussaud, with the invention of a method of producing "an absolutely pure light devoid of all heat." By its use, the dispatch said, the substitution of paper rolls for celluloid films in moving picture machines was made possible. The new light was described to the Academy of Science by Professor Branley, with whom Dussaud studied, and is "obtained by automatic separation of heat rays from luminous rays." Some years ago this same Professor Branley, as in this case, told the French Academy that Mr. Dussaud had discovered a means for the production of what he termed "cold light." It turned out, however, that the Dussaud "cold light" of that time was merely a method of reducing the heat of an electric lamp. Starting on the principle that rest is as essential to matter as to animal organism, he constructed an electric lamp in which the light was concentrated on a single point by filaments working successively; thence the light was projected through a lens magnifying a thousandfold. Thus he has succeeding in concentrating a 2000-candle-power light on one point and in passing thirty-two volts into an eight volt lamp, which with the ordinary light would burst. Experiments with this lamp were said to have established the fact that the new light was absolutely without danger, as no heat was given off, and it required a hundred times less current than the ordinary lamp. It was claimed that it could be worked by a tiny battery, or sufficient motive power could be obtained from a jet of water from an ordinary faucet or even a squirrel turning cage. The light, it was said, as in the present case, offered great advantages in photography, as its photogenic power was four times that of the magnesium flashlight.

Leatherless Shoes.

By an accidental discovery a close relation has been established between the manufacture of leather and the manufacture of gun powder. The Du Pont concern is selling as a by-product the gun cotton left over from the manufacture of explosives, and this by-product is going into the making of artificial leather at such a rate that it cannot be supplied fast enough for the demand. It is now produced as a direct product, and leather making is on a par with powder making by the Du Pont concern. The leather that is being produced is not recommended for vamps. It can be produced in several grades of quality and is considerably cheaper than real leather.

The manufacturers of artificial leather soles claim that they are better than leather soles in that they wear much longer, and cost less, and that the day must come when leather will not be worn for soles except by those who want to stick to custom.

At the present time Cuba is taking large quantities of soles from America that contain no leather whatever. The demands in Cuba are for a cheap shoe, and that is why the leather is left out, to the satisfaction of the Cuban customers. South American buyers are also demanding shoes of artificial leather.

"THE BRIDE OF A MOMENT."

Carolyn Wells outdoes Herod in tying knots in her mystery stories. She tightens the complications into seemingly inextricable tangles, puts practically all of her characters under suspicion, weaves apparently incomprehensible clues into the mystery—and then, presto! the solution is dramatically revealed. That probability is severely wrenched in no way nullifies the tenseness of the situation; and after all, she takes no more license than the usual votary of detectivism. All of her later detective stories are crammed with mystifying complications, and "The Bride of a Moment" (George H. Doran) will unquestionably baffle the perspicuity of the astutest reader.

Stanford Bingham and Eileen Randall advance down the aisle of the fashionable church, and stand amid relatives and friends until the wedding ceremony is completed. Then the bride sinks to the floor—shot, dead. No one has heard a sound; for a time it seems that no single clue exists. But there was a stranger peering in at the window; cipher messages, written in the manner of a music score, are discovered, and one by one, numerous bits of strange evidence are brought to light.

But it is not Fleming Stone, Miss Wells's favorite detective who is called in. (Stone was married, or fell in love, in her previous novel—and whoever heard of a married detective doing anything worth while in melodrama?) Her new detective, Ford, who is called in, is a brilliant fellow, but less theatric than Stone.

Suspicion is turned on the groom, on the bridesmaid even, and all manner of exciting situations develop. But the real villain—or maybe it's a villainess—is remarkably clever, but not clever enough to hoodwink the siren maiden who loves Bingham and wishes his name wholly cleared.

HAROLD BELL WRIGHT AND HIS ADVERTISER.

A Review of His Latest Novel and a Brief Statement Touching the Source and Principal Reason for His "Fame"—Advertising Budget Last Year Amounted to an Astounding Sum.

"When a Man's a Man" (The Book Supply House) written, illustrated and decorated by the author, Harold Bell Wright, has made its appearance.

A million and more people—if Mr. Wright's advertiser has computed correctly—are busily absorbing it.

He—Mr. Wright (though it were more convincing to credit the advertiser with it)—is credited in a front page advertisement of the present volume with an "almost clairvoyant power of reading the human soul that has made Mr. Wright's books among the most remarkable works of the present age."

That describes the advertiser to a finish. The advertiser boasted that he spent $150,000 in nine months last year booming Mr. Wright's previous book.

A statement of the expenditures for advertising "When a Man's a Man" has not as yet been furnished us, but it will no doubt be large enough to show that the advertiser still with the "almost clairvoyant power of reading the human soul" understands that green cheeses can be sold for caviar, or balderdash for literature, if it is capably advertised.

And no matter what defects Mr. Wright may have as a writer, they scarcely appear to the eyes of the "millions" who read his books upon which beat the white light of publicity.

Mr. Wright gets a lot more castigation than he deserves. He certainly writes as well as he can, and the angels are said to do no better.

But he is punished for the blatancy of his advertiser. The effort to make Harold Bell Wright out as a "great" writer may be profitable as the advertiser gleefully indicates; but when a man bruises his knuckles against the door demanding admittance into the Hall of Greatness, he must be given a rather exacting scrutiny. And a close scrutiny is fatal to the pretensions that Mr. Wright and his advertiser make.

Overlooked Emerson Hough.

"When a Man's a Man" is an ordinary western story in which Mr. Wright has studiously stuffed what he has learned at no distant date about cowpunching in Arizona. Evidently he has not made the most of Emerson Hough's writings. Mr. Wright could have got some good points, as well as an object lesson in the fine art of writing, by reading that epic, "The Story of the Cowboy."

"When a Man's a Man" is much better than "Eyes of the World" in every way. This is no doubt largely due to the fact that it couldn't be worse. The plot is a poor old drudge that in variegated trappings of one kind and another has done service since Cadmus thoughtlessly discovered the alphabet. Indeed, and before Cadmus's time—far back when the first maiden drowsily dreamed under the fig tree, from which she had selected her spring gown, the plot of the prince in disguise originated.

The American Fairy Prince.

Honorable Patches—Mr. Wright's hero—is the American equivalent to the fairy prince; that is, the young, handsome American multimillionaire who is determined to get away from the "old crowd" and see what is in him. A laudable ambition no doubt, but even if all young multimillionaires did it, there wouldn't be enough of them disguised in overalls—or "chaps" as in this case—to be characteristic of American life. That is, however, a detail. If everybody who has wondered how much writers make and has tried to find out, was jumped on for failing to have a brand new plot—there wouldn't be such a persistent epidemic of cacoethes scribendi.

Mr. Wright's character delineation is, as always, negligible. The plot is not significant. The multimillionaire, obviously with a heart-burning secret, comes into Arizona wearing clothes made "by a tailor of rank" (sic) and gets a job as a cowpuncher. He is the typical hero; cool, daring and handsome. He has loved a girl in the East who marries another man. He proposes to a girl of the West, who loves another man and she accepts him. But his former sweetheart persuades him not to marry this girl by hinting that it is terrible to be married to a man when she loves someone else. The implication being that she, Helen, continues to love him. The Honorable Patches follows her suggestion. Kitty marries the man she really loves and Patches sets him up as his partner in the cattle business.

One Nearly Original Touch.

We gladly and enthusiastically give Mr. Wright praise for not killing "off" either of Patches's rivals so the hero can marry. That is very nearly an original touch. One of the rivals, however, comes near to being "killed off." He is shot, but fortunately recovers. The shooting is a mystery, and—as usual—the hero is almost lynched as the guilty party. But he preserves the characteristic heroic calm while his neck is in jeopardy, smiling the cynical, quiet smile so becoming to multimillionaires in disguise.

Mr. Wright's Western "Stuff."

Remains then Mr. Wright's pretentious efforts to show western life, the home and manner, psychology and character of the cowpuncher and old time rancher. In that regard he has done nothing of value. The newness of his information becomes at once apparent to anyone who has been lifted from his blankets in the dark morning by the quirt of a foreman and sent limping out to bring in the "string," or to anyone familiar with the more authentic and detailed studies of cowpunching life by Wister, Hough, Knibbs, Spearman, White, Lockhart and Bower—or a score of others who seem to have at some time or other loitered hungrily in the shadow of the chuck wagon. Even all these are inclined to gloss the cowpuncher over with an attractiveness that he seldom possesses. In this habitat he is a fellow usually unspeakably coarse in the eyes of "polite" persons, and he takes a raucous delight in the filthiest of stories and songs and even gives disgusting and unprintable names to the food slapped before him. At that he is the best fellow one can usually find for a friend, but he has been romanticized into a mythic character.

Mr. Wright out-Herods the romanticists. As a study of western life it has neither accuracy nor the easy familiarity of the initiate. And if Mr. Wright, who is still strongly tinctured with his ministerial training, knew the name that Arizona cowpunchers give to gravy when "company" is not present and had heard that popular and often howled parody on "Sweet Marie," we are inclined to think he would not have sought to convey (despite the fact that he does have a villain in his story) the impression that the very ozone of Arizona makes men moral. The mere presence of such a character as Nick in the story destroys the flamboyant motif of the book as expressed in the worse than awkward opening sentence: "There is a land where a man to live, must be a man."

NORTHERN LEADERS.

UNION PORTRAITS. By Gamaliel Bradford. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

Mr. Bradford's excellent "Union Portraits" includes George McClellan, Joseph Hooker, George Gordon Meade, George Henry Thomas, William Tecumseh Sherman, Edwin McMasters Stanton, William Henry Seward, Charles Sumner and Samuel Bowles—all excepting Bowles being distinguished Federal soldiers and statesmen during the Civil War.

The author's method is unique. It disarms prejudice and convinces where the usual biographer would arouse suspicion, for Mr. Bradford arranges, condenses and presents evidence with no other purpose than that of showing all sides of the stories told by contemporaries of these men. For not even William Seward, gentle and suave and wily, was entirely without people to dislike him; while the redoubtable Stanton had few to speak well of him.

Mr. Bradford makes clear the perplexity of how Stanton, who was indubitably arrogant and even hated by his associates, could retain his office and influence—be, excepting Lincoln, the dominant figure among the civilian government officials of the period.

In handling that most difficult of Civil War biographical subjects, Gen. McClellan, Mr. Bradford has made the most felicitous display of his unusual but admirable method of presenting a composite portrait by superimposing contemporary comment and judgments and historical records until the man seems an understandable personality rather than the statuesque figure, chiseled out in heroic fashion, of the average biography.

We learn what were McClellan's virtues and faults and have an explanation for the latter; that he was really a fine general and much beloved by the soldiers, that his organization of the Army of the Potomac had much to do with the ultimate victory, but that he cautiously made over-elaborate plans, that he was restive under advice, impudent with his superiors, and too susceptible to flattery; but that he was thoroughly patriotic, and though undoubtedly he at one time considered the possibility of making himself dictator, he had the judgment to abandon readily the idea.

Partisans have done everything with "Little Mack" from making him a demigod to a blunderer; but none, though many have written at greater length, have been in the same way illuminating as Mr. Bradford. The entire series is made up of excellent studies, original in treatment, informative, authentic and—as the phrase goes—"entertaining as fiction," or better than that, entertaining as good fiction.

MRS. MASSON,
the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 SOUTH SPRING ST., by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry. WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

FACT AND COMMENT.

The late Elbert Hubbard in commenting once on the vicissitudes of business made an observation that would seem to be particularly pertinent to the real estate situation as it has existed in Los Angeles for the past three years. "Inaction," said the sage of East Aurora, "is only a gathering together of forces for the coming leap—the fallow years are just as natural, just as necessary, as the years of plenty."

The steady picking up of all lines of business and the improving tone of the realty market and the even more pronounced revival of building activity in this city, bear out Mr. Hubbard's observation and give it a local application that is somewhat striking. Pessimism and discouragement settled upon this community during many long months as the result of the depression that swept over the country in the latter part of 1913. The more gloomily inclined muttered darkly that "the bottom had dropped out of real estate" when the inevitable happened and investors began crawling into their shells. This kind of talk persisted in some quarters until recent months.

The real truth is now becoming apparent to all. Nearly everyone realizes that the slowing-down of the development and selling activity in Los Angeles in the past few years was to have been expected and that from the consideration of the general welfare, it was not such a bad thing after all. Los Angeles, it is now evident, had been going ahead under too much steam. Building especially had been overdone. Too much real money had been tied up in this one kind of development and too many individuals and corporations had strained their credit in carrying it on at the headlong pace it was going. It was inevitable that many would be caught in an uncomfortable position the moment capital became cautious and the market quit booming along.

Readjustment.

The "fallow" years have been years of readjustment. The oversupply of subdivided holdings and "built-to-sell" improvements long operated in the face of an indifferent investment demand that scorned everything but sacrifices to slash old-time prices, until, but for the recent sensational intervention of the assessors, many would have forgotten that their properties had any value. The past three years, however, have witnessed that cleaning-up of the odds and ends of real estate that was so essential to a restoration, in such times as these have been, of the proper relationship between the supply and the demand.

The present-day investors and builders in Los Angeles are faring forth with solid ground under their feet. The very conservatism that is manifest on every hand is a guarantee of the stability of the development activity now unfolding. It has taken three years under dull market conditions to clean up a surplus that would have been absorbed in a few months as things were going at the peak of the former prosperity, but the fact that the supply of lots and improvements offered at sacrifices by those who had bit off more than they could chew has at last been so largely disposed of is compensation in itself. The slate is comparatively clean again.

Readjustment.

The "fallow" years have been years of readjustment. The overplus of subdivided holdings and "built-to-sell" improvements long ignored in the face of an indifferent investment demand that scorned everything but sacrifices to slash old-time prices, until, but for the recent sensational intervention of the assessor, many would have forgotten that their properties had any value. The past three years, however, have witnessed that cleaning-up of the odds and ends of real estate that was essential to a restoration, in such times as these have been, of the proper relationship between the supply and the demand.

The present-day investors and buyers in Los Angeles are faring forth with solid ground under their feet. The very conservatism that is manifest on every hand is a guarantee of the stability of the development activity now unfolding. It has taken three years under dull market conditions to clean up a surplus that would have been absorbed in a few months as things were going at the peak of the former prosperity, and the fact that the supply of lots and improvements offered at sacrifice by those who had bit off more than they could chew has at last been so largely disposed of is a consummation in itself. The slate is comparatively clean again.

Steady Progress.

The turning point between dullness and activity has already been passed in Los Angeles. The "gathering together of forces" has been going on for some time. Industry, fortunately for the city and the nation, felt the revival first. The capital invested in industry is the capital that will count most for all time to come. Los Angeles can permanently insure itself against the bad effects of periodical national depressions only by becoming a city of producers, and the people of Los Angeles are at last awake to that fact.

Real estate itself has had a slow revival, but the progress has been none the less steady and encouraging. Sales of all classes of property are increasing in number from month to month and realty men generally are highly optimistic over the growing inquiry. The "feelers" even more than the individual sales tell the experienced broker the trend of conditions. The improvement in the building situation is becoming more pronounced right along and tells a story of its own.

Ask the average thoughtful business man, realty broker or banker when the real "leap" is coming, and his answer will be immediately forthcoming. "Next March," he will say, "when a Republican President, backed by a Republican Congress, again takes charge of the Ship of State."

FINE QUARTERS.

Shoe Manufacturing Concern has Factory of Attractive Design.

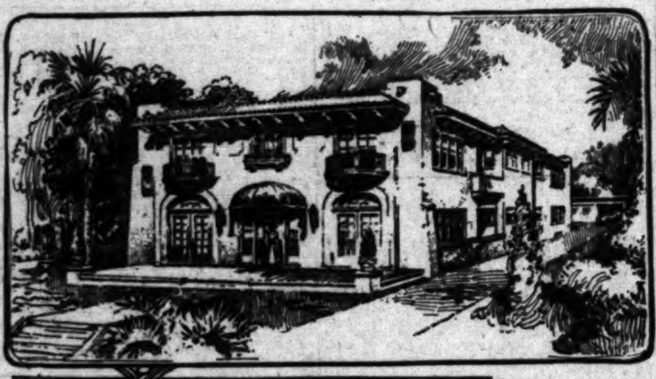
A factory building of unusual attractiveness has just been completed at Nos. 539-41 South Ceres avenue for the Just Shoe Company, of which John C. Ivory is president. The company has taken a long-term lease on the property.

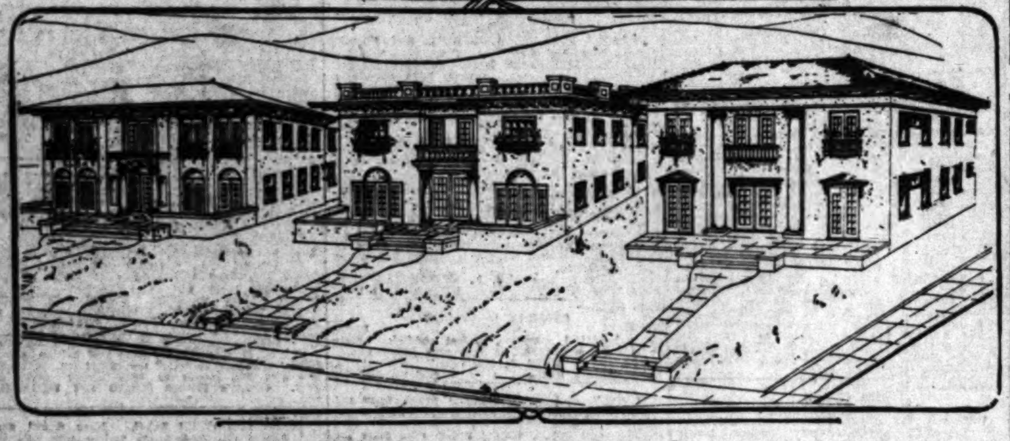
The building is faced with white-enameled brick and trimmed with black and white terra cotta. Stone coping surmounted by large stone flower pots at each corner, together with plate and leaded-glass windows, complete an artistic front.

The factory proper occupies the rear eighty feet of the building and is well lighted. The front is given over to showrooms, above which are the offices. The building, which is owned by Thomas Fonida, was erected under the supervision of the W. Ross Campbell Company.

ADDITION PROJECTED.

Announcement was made last week that the Los Angeles Creamery Company had commissioned the firm of Train & Williams to prepare plans for a four-story reinforced concrete building to be built at the site of its present plant at Eleventh street and Towne avenue. The structure will house the company's butter and ice cream departments and will be eighty feet square. The company is also planning the early erection of a large garage and stables.





Flats for northwest Los Angeles.

The three buildings in a row are units of a large group of income improvements started by the Foundation Company on Grove Place overlooking Silver Lake Parkway. The other structure is being built by G. B. Hundley at No. 215 South Vermont.

SCHOOL STARTED.

Ground Broken for Imposing New Culver City Building.

Work has been started on the modern grammar school for which bonds were recently voted in Culver City, Charles Kent & Son, the contractors, having broken ground during the past week. The new educational institution of the thriving Venice Short Line community will be one of the handsomest and best equipped in Southern California and was planned by O. P. Dennis of this city.

The school will contain eight classrooms, domestic science and manual training departments, a large auditorium, administrative offices and a library. It will follow classic lines and will be of brick and concrete construction. Standing, as it will, slightly back of Washington boulevard, the structure will be an imposing architectural landmark for the travelers on this, the most used of the city-to-sea highways.

NEW VERMONT SQUARE.

Sales are reported in New Vermont Square as follows: Art O. Miller to P. Cummings, lot between Gramercy place and Van Ness avenue on Forty-first drive, $850; P. W. Walkinshaw to Franklin Jenkins, seven-room bungalow at No. 1476 West Forty-ninth street, $4600; L. J. Kinch to John E. Jones, eight-room bungalow at No. 1856 West Forty-first drive, $4000; Paul H. Muskat to B. R. Van Loenen, seven-room bungalow, No. 2030 West Forty-first drive, $3300, through agency of Walter R. Hoff; Charles J. Englehart to Kathleen Kavanaugh, seven-room bungalow at No. 1921 West Forty-first street, $3500; Thomas Jones to Barbara and Annie Creighton, seven-room bungalow at No. 1493 West Forty-seventh street, $4500, through agency of W. A. Quinland. In the same subdivision Jacob Rouen has just begun the erection of a six-room bungalow at No. 1821 West Forty-first drive, and H. J. Dehoughne has started a six-room bungalow at No. 5024 South Budlong avenue.

LEASE TRANSFERS.

W. D. Greenough, with the Keystone Company, reports the transfers of the furnishings, furniture and leases of the following hotels and partment-buildings: For J. H. Van Velzer to Attilo Carta, Star Hotel, 127½ North Broadway; for Annie Balangue to Alice LeGrand, LeGrand rooming-house at No. 756½ South San Pedro street; for Louise J. Charey to Margaret Naden, nineteen rooms at 623 Crocker street; for Lolla Ellis to Mrs. H. E. Billeter, sixteen rooms at No. 610 Grand avenue; for Clara C. Stuart to Mary Tibbo, Mission apartments at No. 712 West Tenth street, and for Elizabeth DaMant to Lolla Ellis, Sheldon Hotel, at No. 416 West Fourth street.

WOULD OPEN STREET.

The Athens Improvement Association announces the launching of a movement for the opening and widening of Figueroa street from Manchester avenue on the north to Gardena on the south. Figueroa is now 100 feet wide and paved to Manchester, and it is proposed that the street be made a uniform width of eighty feet from Manchester to Gardena. The committee with this work in charge reports that it is receiving the support of interested property owners, who are agreeing to dedicate the necessary frontage. It is also proposed to light the thoroughfare with an ornamental lighting system.

PHONE BUILDING.

The Pomona Valley Telephone Union has closed negotiations for the erection of a two-story fireproof building at the corner of Third and Louisa streets in Pomona. No plans have yet been made, but officials of the company state that architects will be engaged in the near future. Recently bonds to the amount of $100,000 were sold by the company, $40,000 of these being taken by local buyers and the rest by the Contractors' Securities Company of Los Angeles.

VALLEY ACTIVITIES.

Sales of San Fernando Valley farm lands are reported by the Janss Investment Company to the following: Mrs. J. Olson, a recent arrival from Minneapolis, three acres, $1500; Miss Flanagan, five acres, improved with house and outbuildings, $3000; F. B. Christopher, five acres for poultry and fruit ranch, $1200; J. L. Reenes, ten acres, to be improved with peaches and apricots, $4000, and C. R. Tripper, five acres, improved, $2650.

IN SIERRA PARK.

Eugene Weston of this city, representing a number of clients, took over twelve residential lots on Farmsworth avenue, at Sierra Park, the Huntington Short Line bungalow property of the Janss Investment Company, during the past week. The sites, it is understood, will all be improved at once, construction having been started on two six-room bungalows. Each place will be of different architecture. Nearly $40,000, it is stated, will be spent in the improvements.

STREET CONTRACT LET.

The McCarthy company has let the contract to Will F. Peck for 100,000 feet of cement work in New Terrace tract, at Mott street and Stephenson avenue, Boyle Heights, and work has been started. Mott street from West Sixth street to Stephenson avenue will be the first street to be improved.

Northwest.

GREAT ACTIVITY AROUND BIMINI.

REGION OF FUTURE PARKWAY GOING AHEAD.

Dozen Modern Flats Projected in Immediate Vicinity of First and Vermont—Other Important Improvements Include Two Fine Schools for Girls.

The building progress in what has come to be known as the "Silver Lake Parkway District" of northwest Los Angeles and which comprises roughly the sections lying along and near the so-called Bimini ravine, constitutes one of the principal features of the reviving development activity in Los Angeles at this time. Interest in this sightly and close-in region was strong three or four years ago when the proceedings in the condemnation of the low wooded land around Bimini Baths and extending northward to the Silver Lake reservoir for the long-projected Silver Lake parkway were at their height, but lagged when the legal technicalities that are only now being cleared away arose to delay the parkway plans.

The recent completion of the new $150,000 Virgil intermediate school at First and Vermont appears to have been the signal for the beginning of the present activity. Numerous fine homes began to spring up to the west of Vermont avenue between First and Sixth streets early in the summer, especially in the neighborhood of Third street. Similar activity began to develop on the other side of the Bimini ravine and near its edges at about the same time, many fine flats, bungalow courts and homes having been started to the east of the future parkway in the last few months.

Then came the announcement of the removal of the Cumnock school o fexpression from its site on South Figueroa to the grounds long occupied by the Bimini Hotel at Vermont avenue. First street and Bimini place, followed by the starting of the fine buildings now under way for that institution in this new northwest location. This was followed closely by the announcement that the Westlake school for girls would immediately build a beautiful campus group on the other side of the ravine and a little to the south, at Westmoreland and Fourth. The architects' perspective of both of these handsome educational groups have been published in The Times in recent weeks.

The newest phase of the development activity in the section is to be seen in the number of high-class flats projected and now under way just west of the Bimini ravine. Two attractive improvements of this character, in addition to those already being built, were started during the past week by G. B. Hundley at Nos. 215 and 219 South Vermont, respectively. Each building will contain four five-room suites, elegantly finished and appointed, and each will have white cement plaster exterior walls and a tile roof. Harley S. Bradley is the architect.

Quite the most extensive enterprise of its character started in months in Los Angeles is the project, just announced, of the Foundation Company of this city to construct a group of eight fine flat buildings on Grove place a block east of Vermont, a like distance south of First and directly overlooking the most heavily-wooded portion of the future parkway site. Three of these structures are to be started at once, and the others are to follow as soon as plans can be completed. The improvements projected will be in addition to two flats, one of sixteen and one of twenty rooms, already finished by the same company on Grove place.

The flats will all have distinctive designs and will be of substantial construction and modern appointment. Most of them will contain five-room suites. Numerous special conveniences have been provided and a novel plan of management will be followed. A feature that is declared to be unique in Los Angeles is a plan by which units or suites in a building may be purchased outright by a tenant. The total investment is given by the projectors at $150,000. A. Godfrey Bailey is the designer, and the L. F. S. Syndicate has the contract.

The land on which the group will be built was transferred several months ago by Newton J. Skinner to the Foundation Company. During Mr. Skinner's ownership of ten years of more it was heavily restricted, but these restrictions have since expired, making possible the erection of income improvements.

PLAN LOFTS.

A three-story brick loft building will be started at once by W. A. and M. T. Glasscock at No. 811 Traction street, the contract for the structure having been awarded during the past week. The building was planned by R. D. King and will cover a ground area of 75x120 feet.

LEASES LARGE ROOM.

John A. Ewins, a young business man of Kansas City, has taken a lease of L. L. Bowen on a large storeroom in the Flower Auditorium Building at No. 1724 South Flower street. Mr. Ewins is general distributor for Southern California of the Warner automobile trailer.

BROKERS PLAN "SOME" OUTING.

The committee in charge of the Los Angeles Realty Board's annual outing, scheduled to take place at the famous Modjeska "Forest of Arden" in the Santiago Canyon district of Orange county next Saturday and Sunday, report a constantly-growing interest upon the part of the real estate men in this event. It has been deeply impressed upon the board members that this summer's outing is to be "some" outing and there is something like a rush for reservations.

Dull care is to be banished and talk of hard times taboo on these two days of festivity. A great deal of secrecy surrounds the programme that is being arranged for the sojourn of the realty men in this most delightful of resorts. The "eats" alone, it has been revealed, are well calculated to draw a crowd, including a roast pig and beefsteak dinner on Saturday evening, a bull's head breakfast Sunday morning and a chicken dinner on the same day. Some inkling is also given of a number of sports to be indulged in, baseball, golf, swimming contests, boxing and something designated as a "fireside story-telling contest" being mentioned.

The Outing Committee consists of Herman Janss (chairman,) Harry R. Callender, William H. Akin, Harry H. Culver, Victor G. Kleinberger, R. C. Mitchell and Herbert L. Cornish. In the letter announcing the outing the committee urges all those planning to attend to wear their old clothes, bring their bathing suits and come prepared to have the time of their lives. The realty men are to assemble at the Realty Board rooms at 9 o'clock sharp, Saturday Morning, departing thence by automobile for a fifty-mile automobile drive to the place of celebration. Ample and first-class sleeping accommodations for all who attend are to be provided. Reservations, it is announced, will not be made after next Thursday noon.

SALES AND EXCHANGES.

West Side Lot Transfers and Scattered Trades Reported by Dealer.

Arthur H. Keen to Henry M. Jones, lot on Wilton place, near First, 50x130 feet, $1300; R. Gregg Whitney to Lelia R. Wishon, lot on Hoover, at Fourth, 55x150 feet, consideration, $2250; F. H. Stanbery to Gertrude Sutch, lot on Wilshire boulevard, near St. Andrews place, 60x150 feet, $6000, Edwin Haynes representing the purchaser; Russell Brown to Carrie R. Loy, lot on Harvard boulevard, between Wilshire and Sixth, 95x150 feet, $9500 cash. Each of the sites is to be improved.

Recent exchanges are reported by the same company as follows: James E. Landen to Nellie M. Banzoni, four-family flat on Hill, near Thirty-ninth, in exchange for business lots in Whittier, consideration, $12,000; A. H. Schwan to C. L. Edmundson, ninety-eight feet on East Washington, west of San Pedro, improved with thirty-two-room apartment-building valued at $45,000, two bearing orange groves, totaling fifteen acres, in Uplands, valued at $24,000, being taken in part payment; R. A. Hoskins to Fred F. Dow, lot on Hill street, just north of Hill-street tunnel, 60x160 feet, valued at $30,000, in exchange for twenty-three and one-half acres in Arlington Heights, Riverside, in full-bearing Washington Navels.

BUYS FINE HOME.

Former District Attorney Acquires Mansion on West Sixth.

Capt. John D. Fredericks, former District Attorney of Los Angeles county, has purchased from W. Henry Berry, owner of the San Francisco baseball club, the beautiful twelve-room Old English residence at the northwest corner of Ardmore and West Sixth street. The lot is 75x150 feet in size and commands a fine view in every direction.

The first-floor construction of the house is of blue brick, the second and third floors being of timber and stucco. The interior finish is in mahogany, oak and old ivory. The place contains a ballroom, two tile baths and servants' quarters with bath. There is a large garage.

Capt. Fredericks acquires the property for a permanent home, and will occupy it within the next few weeks. The consideration is given at $25,000. John G. Staub, with C. C. C. Tatum, acted as agent in the deal.

INDORSES BOND ISSUE.

Municipal League Approves State Highway Issue.

A resolution expressing hearty approval of the $15,000,000 State good roads bond issue to be submitted to the voters November 4, was passed by the Executive Committee of the Municipal League, yesterday.

The league says that the work proposed to be done will be of great value for commercial and military purposes, will add to the State's assets from a tourist point of view and will assist largely in advertising California.

All civic and commercial organizations are urged to do everything in their power to bring about approval by the voters of the bond issue.

CONTRACT LET FOR STADIUM.

"Oxy" Athletes to Have Fine Sport Arena.

Seats for Ten Thousand to to Arranged.

Gridiron, Track and Diamond Provided For.

Occidental College, which since it removal from its old-time location in Highland Park to its beautiful ninety-acre campus in Eagle Rock has had no place of its own in which to stage intercollegiate sports, is soon to have one of the finest and most modern athletic arenas in the West. The contract has just been let for the erection of the stadium of the W. C. Patterson Athletic Field, involving a total expenditure of $25,000, the gift of Mrs. Patterson in memory of the well-known banker, who for so many years was one of the directors of the college.

The stadium will be composed of bleachers on the east and west sides of the field, each 325 feet long, and a third on the north end, 200 feet in length. The normal seating capacity will be in the neighborhood of 7500 persons, with flexible arrangements that will make it possible to add another 2500 to the crowd on the occasion of the major games.

Some years ago, when the land was first acquired by the college, something over $15,000 was spent in regrading the portion of the campus where the buildings of the unfolding academic group are being erected. A large part of the amount was expended in preparation for the athletic field, which occupies a natural bowl formed by a depression in the ground near the present Swan Hall. The gift of Mrs. Patterson provides for the stadium, concrete fences, gates, the laying out of a running track, football field and baseball diamond, and all the necessary accessories.

FUTURE PLANS.

Some time in the future it is planned to finish off team rooms under the west bleachers, the present team quarters being used in the meantime. Sketches have also been made by Myron Hunt, the official architect of the college, for a large gymnasium, which will eventually inclose the field on the south end.

Everything has been done in planning the stadium to make it a part of and in harmony with the buildings already built. The exterior will be of cement. The seats will be especially arranged so that the spectators in the rows behind may not disturb those below them, this being accomplished by raising the seats and leaving a sunken aisle back of each as a foot rest.

Work on the project is to be started at once, according to Mr. Hunt, the contract having been awarded several days ago to Peter Hall.

YORBA LINDA SALES.

The Janss Investment Company reports a number of sales of lots in the new townsite of Yorba Linda in the Yorba Linda citrus district. Two lots were sold for $850 to the directors of the recently-chartered National bank of the town as a building site for the new institution. Other buyers are reported as follows: J. W. Hargrave, business lot, $475; J. E. Carnes, two business lots, $800; R. Higgins, business lot, $400; P. E. Huff, two business lots, $400 each; L. Higgins, lot, $375, and J. F. Barnes, lot, $450.

HOME OR INVESTMENT.

Only 30 Minutes' Ride on Street Car from Sixth and Main.

The beauty spot of Southern California. Best soil and water conditions. Adapted to oranges, lemons and avocados. No experiment, proven territory.

This is what seven acres of Valencia oranges nearly adjoining Leffingwell Heights tracts have been doing. Here's the record, as shown by packing-house receipts, last seven years:

1909, 3302 boxes brought	$3842
1910, 1695 boxes brought	$4234
1911, 4959 boxes brought	$9841
1912, 1901 boxes brought	$4212
1913, 3079 boxes brought	$9446
1914, 4843 boxes brought	$7869
1915, 3083 boxes brought	$7126.46

And prices for Valencia oranges and lemons prevailing now would bring double that amount.

I have several small lots of 5, 7 and 10 acres. Come quick and get one of our money-makers.

Price per acre $600, with one share of California Domestic Water Company stock. Will sell on 10 equal annual payments. Did you ever hear of any such investments? This is better than bank investments, savings banks accounts, life insurance, or any other.

Seeing is believing, let us show you. Groves in East Whittier near our tract in full bearing bring from $4000 to $5000 per acre. See return of year of frost. Call on

THE CUYAMA RANCHO.
The property of the Perkins Land Company, 20,000 acres lying in the southeast corner of San Luis Obispo county, about 8000 acres, and balance in northeast corner of Santa Barbara county, all level and very rich soil, elevation about 2300 feet, and very perfect climate, soil all virgin, the place being vacated as a cattle ranch, surveyed, maps filed, and now ready to be sold in lots to suit. Water plentiful at from 50 to 100 feet, where wells have been bored. New town of Cuyama has been laid out and new boarding-house being completed and will soon be ready for the public, as also a postoffice has been applied for. A new well at the boarding-house will be started about July 1, same already arranged for. Telephone line will also be extended from Maricopa, Kern county, Cal., about 20 miles; this valley is exceptionally rich, and will be rapidly settled, reached by rail to Maricopa, thence by team or auto. We will try to fit terms to each individual need. The cities of Ventura, Santa Barbara and Santa Maria on the coast are all pushing for roads into this new territory, realizing it will soon be settled. It is not often settlers have the opportunity of buying direct from the original owner instead of the property having first passed through the hands of various exploiting promoters and agents. Until postoffice is established address PERKINS LAND COMPANY, Maricopa, Cal. F. C. Cherry, Manager.

FOR SALE—"THERE IS A REASON" WHY OUR lima bean and sugar beet land is selling when other subdivisions are at a standstill. It is this, we are producing from 10 to 18 tons of sugar beets per acre WITHOUT IRRIGATION and our sugar percentage for several years has averaged better than 20 per cent., at present price of sugar beets this means from $70 to $126 per acre. Lima beans for several years have averaged $5 per cwt. or better. We have lands suitable for both products, also alfalfa lands for which we have large FLOWING artesian wells, some of them flowing over 100 miners' inches. Last, but not least, you buy direct from THE OWNERS, which explains the fact why our prices are from 1-3 to ½ less than is being asked for similar land in other localities, as we do not have to pay some realty company from 20 to 30 per cent. for commissions, etc. Write for maps, booklet, price list, etc. THE PATTERSON RANCH COMPANY, SALES DEPARTMENT, Oxnard, Calif.

STOCKS AND BONDS—

THE MT. GAINES GOLD MINING COMPANY.

CAPITALIZATION only $150,000.

MT. GAINES, the famous old Mother Lode mine, that has already produced over $1,000,000 gold.

FIVE HUNDRED ACRES, with the ledge traceable over one mile.

THIRTEEN hundred-foot shaft with veins 3 to 18 feet wide on 900-foot level, averaging six feet.

One thousand feet of drifting on the vein on the 1300-foot level will develop this entire ore shoot, about 132,000 tons, assuming the ore body will continue as it has above.

Over six hundred assays on the 900-foot level average $10.29. Under modern methods the cost of mining and milling this ore should not be over $3 per ton.

Mine already has over $100,000 of equipment, including 20-stamp mill. Adding the Oil Flotation Process would make an additional saving of $1.45 per ton.

I am offering stock now at 15c per share—price will advance soon.

WITH THE BUILDERS.

Contract Awarded for Large Apartment-house on Coronado, near Wilshire—Plans are Being Drawn for Hollywood Improvement.

Another important improvement will be added to those now going ahead in the Westlake-Wilshire district as the result of the awarding of a contract yesterday for a four-story brick apartment-house to be erected by Miss Ruby Cortner on Coronado street between Wilshire boulevard and Sixth street. The structure, which was planned by Peoples & Cheney, will be constructed by the Atlas Building Company. It will cover a ground area of 70 by 107 feet and will contain seventy-five rooms.

Plans for what may be the first of a series of improvements covering an entire block in Hollywood have been started by the firm of Dodd & Richards. The building now being planned will contain stores and apartments, will cover a ground area of 115 by 97 feet and will stand at the corner of Santa Monica boulevard and Gower street. H. C. Hollins is the projector. In the rest of the block, which is owned in its entirety by Mr. Hollins, several brick buildings, including a picture theater and lodge hall, are in contemplation.

Two hollow tile flats are to be started within the next few weeks by Miss Cora A. Lane on De Longpre avenue, Hollywood. The buildings will each contain twenty rooms and will be similar in appointment to another structure of the same type recently completed by Miss Lane on the same street. L. C. Roe of Santa Monica has had plans drawn for a twenty-room flat to be built on Sixth avenue between Dorchester and Sixteenth. The contract was let during the past week for a sixteen-room flat to be erected by Clara Knight at No. 1849 Arlington street. R. N. Lamberth is about to start a sixteen-room flat at No. 706 West Forty-third street. Work is about to be started on a flat for L. D. Smith at Vermont avenue and Forty-second place.

PRESSURE IS EXERTED ON IMPORTANT ISSUES.

Developments in the Railroad Labor Situation Provide the Professional Short Interest with an Excuse for Renewing its Attacks Against the More Speculative Offerings—Trading Exceedingly Contracted.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Important stocks were under moderate pressure at the opening of today's brief session, over-night developments in the railroad labor situation providing the professional short interest with an excuse for renewing its attacks against the more speculative issues. Rails like Reading, Union Pacific and Norfolk and western receded a point, with reversals of as much or more in Coppers, Crucible Steel and obscure industrials.

United States Steel also fell back almost a point and Bethlehem Steel was 16 points lower at one time but rallied 13 points in the final dealings. That period witnessed a general recovery in all quarters of the list, many shares closing at actual net gains on urgent covering of bear contracts.

Trading was exceedingly contracted, United States Steel, Reading and a few old-time favorites making up fully 50 per cent. of the total turnover of 282,000 shares.

General news, while mainly favorable, exerted little influence marketwise. Trade reports referred to continued activity in various lines of industry at higher prices, shipments of drygoods and similar merchandise showed a large increase over the same period last year, and bank exchanges of the country disclosed a noteworthy gain, the increase among local institutions reflecting the revival of stock market activity.

Clearinghouse institutions showed only a slight expansion in actual loans and discounts and a nominal cash increase, but demand deposits increased by over $45,000,000, with a moderate decrease in excess reserves.

Today's bond market showed slight irregular changes in some of the active issues. Total shares, par value, $1,060,000.

United States coupon 3s declined ¼ per cent. on call during the week.

QUIET TRADING ON LOCAL EXCHANGE.

OIL STOCKS BRING STRONG QUOTATIONS.

Heavy Demand for Union—Big Jim and Tom Reed Advance in the Mining List—Carter and Ivanhoe Sell Lower—Bonds and Bank Issues Dull.

Saturday's session on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange was rather quiet. Associated Oil showed a little more strength when 20 shares changed hands at 70.00 and closing bids of 69.87½ were heard for the stock. There was a strong buying demand exhibited for Union, but holders seemed reluctant to part with their stock at present prices and the only sale recorded was the transfer of 10 shares off board at 85.00. New Pennsylvania Petroleum was fairly active at 17 and 1000 shares of Midway Northern brought 10. Among the mines, Big Jim and Tom Reed both evidenced improvement. The latter issue sold informally at 1.60 and bidding for the stock was rather livelier than usual. Big Jim opened in the morning at 91 and sold as high as 92½, closing bids for the stock being 92. Carter brought as much as 7½ at one time during the meeting, but towards the close sales were registered at 6¾. Ivanhoe was lower and 2000 shares sold for 4¾. But a meager amount of attention was bestowed on the industrial issues. The only active stock in this group was Los Angeles Investment, which sold down a half at 60½. Bonds and bank stocks were exceedingly dull, with no price changes on call.

WHEAT, FEARFUL OF STRIKE, IN SLUMP.

BIT OF EXPORT STRENGTH ON OPENING SHORT-LIVED.

Brief Price Recovery Punctuates Subsequent Decline—Lot of Corn for Sale, but Investors are Scared Out by Situation in Leading Cereal—Provisions in Demand.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Fear of a railroad strike was among the influences which sent the wheat market down for net losses of from ⅞ to 2 today. Corn declined ⅛ to 1 and oats ⅛ to ⅜. December and January lard were exceptions to the weakness in the provision pit. The wheat market at the opening displayed a bit of strength on the export situation but it was short-lived. A brief recovery punctuated the subsequent decline, but it failed to hold and prices lagged and closed at the bottom. There was a lot of long corn for sale today and the weakness of wheat deterred new investment in the coarser cereal for the time being. The selling pressure was particularly severe on December, which declined 1½ from the top and showed a net loss at the end of the session of ⅞ to 1. Oats declined with wheat and corn and closed at the bottom. Purchases of December and January lard by eastern shorts sent those deliveries up. September pork dropped 30 and December 15. September and October lard declined 7½, while near-by ribs managed to survive the day with a gain of 2½. December lard advanced 25 and January ribs 17½.

MARKET APPREHENSIVE OVER RAILWAY SITUATION.

Technical Position Weakened by Recent Advance to Such Extent that Some Sort of Equalizing Process may be Experienced Before Much Betterment is Promoted.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 26.—Cotton opened higher but later reacted as a result of scattered realizing and some apprehension with regard to the railroad wage controversy. The recent advance has weakened the technical position so that some sort of an equalizing process may be experienced before a much further betterment in prices is promoted. However final figures showed an advance of from 10 to 15 points. Crop advices from nearly all sections of the South denote deteriorating conditions, which fact later on will no doubt be felt as a price-making factor. Marginal requirements have been increased as a consequence of the sharp advance which values have experienced and this may have a tendency to restrict inquiry for a while. Many operators are of the opinion that ultimately very much higher prices will rule.

NEW YORK WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The railroad labor situation, which assumed a more disturbing aspect with the progress of the conferences at Washington, was a drawback or adverse factor in this week's active market. Dealings were on a larger, if not broader, scale than at any time in the past three months and the average of advances placed leading shares at highest levels for that period. United States Steel was the conspicuous feature, its enormous turnover as it mounted to the new record of 99¾ infusing vitality into the general list and particularly into allied shares. Steel yielded only 2¼ points of its gross gain of 8⅛, despite the extensive profit-taking that accompanied its rise. Other stocks of the same class were more responsive to pressure.

Coppers regained much of their former prominence, active issues of that group rising 1 to 2 points, with more for Inspiration on its new maximum of 56¾. Conditions in the metal industry are unusually promising, refined copper being quoted at 28 cents for delivery in the last two months of this year.

Munitions and equipments were irregular, but mainly higher, with considerable activity in Bethlehem Steel, which made an extreme gain of 22½ points on the week.

Bankers and financial institutions reported a moderate increase in investment demand in anticipation, presumably, of September interests and dividend disbursements which are estimated at almost $143,000,000, an increase of about $23,000,000 over the same period last year.

Increased activity at higher price levels was the distinguishing feature of the week, sales in the five full days, with two sessions of 1,000,000 to 1,300,000 shares, approximating 4,800,000 shares.

Of this total, United States Steel contributed almost 20 per cent. of its advance to the new record of 99¾. Steel's strength, more than any other factor, furnished the motive power for the upswing, which at times was reminiscent of last year's boom in "war brides." Buying of steel was evidently of a confident character and seemed based in part upon something more than the state of that industry.

Other industrials, as well as coppers, rose to best quotations of recent months, the movement in metals being accompanied by higher favorable trade reports and increased dividends, actual or in prospect. It is understood in metal circles that the largest producers of copper have contracted for foreign sales running into the middle of 1917.

Munitions and equipments were again responsive to speculative conditions, which indicated a further shifting to other specialties, and the automobile group was under restraint, partly in consequence of the new financing announcement by the Willys-Overland Company. Semi-war descriptions were irregular, though higher in the main.

Rails were held back by the railway labor controversy, the outcome of which, on the surface at least, seemed less promising at the close of yesterday's business.

In the broad domain of finance notable developments of the week included the consummation of another French credit and the public offering of new British note issue, with indications of a large over-subscription.

PORT ITEMS.

The Standard Oil tanker Cushing arrived today from West Coast ports in ballast, to load the first off-shore cargo of oil at the new station of the company here. She will take 65,000 barrels brought by barge from the El Segundo refinery for storage. The Cushing has been in service in European waters and came into port with her name and the American flag painted on her sides six feet high.

There was a general exodus of steam schooners today for northern ports to reload. The A. M. Simpson sailed for Coos Bay, the Vanguard and Necanicum for Eureka, Klamath for Portland. The Shasta arrived from Portland with cargo for the E. K. Wood Lumber Company.

The T.K.K. steamer Kiyo Maru sailed today for South American ports, after taking aboard about 600 tons of freight. The steamer brought no freight for this port, having declined all offering on account of the longshoremen's strike, in effect when she left Hongkong. She has a full cargo for the West Coast.

The steamer Congress arrived from San Francisco and Puget Sound today and will proceed to San Diego tomorrow. Passenger carriers sailing today were the Yale for San Diego and Rose City for Portland.

PLAIN TALK TO RAILROAD UNIONS.

By an Ex-Railroad Employee.

WALTER LENOIR CHURCH of California.

II. THE REMEDY.

In last Sunday's Times a note to "Plain Talk" suggested a remedy for railroad union troubles now in controversy. But a few preliminary basic propositions are worth consideration.

There are three parties to every contract between a railroad and its employee. The third is the government—a party by implication, whose rights must not be ignored, whose duties should not be neglected. Being a common carrier the railroad exists and operates under a special franchise from the government, which prescribes the railroad's duties, limits its privileges and specifies its rights, directly or by implication. At the same time the laws under which that franchise is granted fix the rights, privileges and duties of the government with reference to the railroad.

The railroad is bound to carry the United States mails and to give the public as cheap, safe and efficient passenger and freight service as conditions permit, receiving due and lawful compensation therefor. On the other hand, the government is obliged to protect the railroad in its rights and privileges under the law and compel the railroad to perform its duty to the public, which the government represents.

When the railroad violates such duty the government may, and should, fine the railroad to the extent of its delinquencies, and make the fine punitive, when justifiable, to the end that the railroad will rather do its duy than pay the fines. In cases of extreme and persistent failure in its duty to the public the railroad's charter and franchise may be cancelled by the government, which may also, if the interests of the people require it, actually take over and operate the railroad, in the manner and form permitted by law, and deduct from the price paid therefor a reasonable sum as damages for failure of the railroad to carry out its obligations to the government and to the people.

As this is the law of the land every citizen or denizen is presumed to know that law. Therefore, every contract, written or oral, express or implied, made with the railroad by any employee is assumed to be made with a knowledge of, and subject to, those fixed lawful inter-relations between the railroad and the government. The employee himself sustains two different and sometimes conflicting relations to the railroad:

(1.) As wage-earner he is bound to aid his employer in every reasonable way to carry out its lawful contracts with the government and other patrons, as well as to discharge the duties of his own job, which include respecting and preserving and protecting the railroad property within reasonable limits.

(2.) As part of the public represented by the government, he is bound not to do anything unlawfully injurious to the public, either in the line of his employment or otherwise; and if his obligations as an individual part of the public conflict with the orders from his employer, the railroad, then it surely becomes his duty to refuse to obey those orders—even at the risk of losing his job.

For illustration: Should his boss order him to steal, commit murder or otherwise violate the law of the land, he should refuse to obey. By the same token he should protect railroad property because of the fact, also, that the government has a vested equitable interest in such property, and conditions may arise when the equitable and the legal title to that railroad property shall be merged in the government by reason of the government taking over and operating the railroad for sufficient legal cause. Since the government's obligation to the people includes the duty of compelling the railroad to render the kind, quantity and quality of public service required by law, the citizen-employee is bound to aid the railroad, within reasonable limits, to give such service, even beyond the specified duties of his particular job. For instance, though he be only a clerk in a ticket office, if he should see a dangerous obstruction on a distant track he ought to do what he could to remove it. Or if he should be invited or urged to join other people, employees or not, in doing something that might, and with reasonable probability would, injure railroad property, or hinder or delay the fulfillment of the railroad's lawful obligations to its other employer, the government or the people, then he should refuse any such complicity. Why?

(1.) It would be in violation of his obligations to the railroad, his employer. (2.) It would be personally dangerous to himself, not only as an employee but as a citizen liable to arrest and punishment under the criminal laws against conspiracy.

Then, since conspiracy is such a dangerous thing, it were well to accurately define it, so you may not ignorantly become guilty of that offense, detestable the world over: "Conspiracy is a combination of two or more persons, by some concerted action, to accomplish some criminal or unlawful purpose or to accomplish some purpose not in itself criminal or unlawful by criminal or unlawful means."

That is not a new law. It is so old that the memory of man runneth not back to the contrary—not only in Europe, Asia and Africa, but in the islands of the sea. Furthermore, it is part of the basic law in the statutes of the United States and of every State in the Union.

There is one notable drastic application of the law against conspiracy sometimes overlooked till too late, because ignorance of civil or criminal law is no sufficient legal excuse for its violation.

The fact of the conspiracy being once established by the court, then everyone in the conspiracy may be held guilty of and responsible for all unlawful or criminal acts done by any other conspirator in furtherance of the main objects of the conspiracy. That includes murder, theft and arson, together with any and all other violations of personal and property rights, or the commission of any and all public and private wrongs.

Then, should your threatened strike be consummated, consider the resulting dangers to yourselves. Your right to strike may be unquestioned, but if you maintain that strike in any unlawful way by unlawfully preventing or trying to prevent other workmen from taking your jobs, or if in so doing persons or property be injured or destroyed, could not the strikers all be held individually liable and guilty under the law against conspiracy? Most certainly they could. Whether they would be so held depends largely upon the complaisance of prosecutors, judges and juries in different sections. That simple fact may be well worth your consideration, particularly as such a strike would surely, sooner or later, be broken and most of your sacrifice be made in vain.

But even if it could be made finally successful, why risk such terrific cost when you can win your fight along other, safer and less expensive lines, with assurance of a victory whose beneficial effects would be lasting?

In a word, combine in a lawful way for legitimate purposes and work out results to a finish without violation of any law, civil or criminal. You would have ample and approved precedent for such combination of the labor vote.

How did the Prohibitionists make so many towns, then counties, then States, "go dry?"

By what magic have the women become so formidable that their demand for land-wide suffrage is so obligingly received by Presidential candidates?

Who taught the honest farmers to dictate to their Senator, "Go!" and he goeth; "Do this" or "Do that" and behold! it is done?

Note well what was done in the wisdom of long experience by the German vote in the last Republican convention! Consider the far greater results that will flow from the concerted action in New York last Tuesday taken by the Roman Catholic Central Verein with such enthusiasm and hailed with so great plaudits throughout the land.

James F. Zipf, president of Gonzaga Union of St. Louis, Mo., made the appeal to the voters throughout the United States to unite and cast their influence at the polls, "where it will subserve the high and holy principles" for which Catholics stand. He declared that there are 3,000,000 Catholic voters in this land—almost as many as Mr. Taft's last vote. With pardonable pride he said that is "quite a force" for bringing about the proper conditions.

In the current number of the Independent (August 21) is a drastic criticism of the political situation by Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell University. Of course, his words will be considered with great respect by Cornell and other college men, just as the ringing message of Gonzaga Union's president will be respectfully heeded by millions of Catholics from Manhattan Island to Los Angeles—the New York of the Pacific.

All politics that are constructive are based on principles which are well advocated by pulpit, press and forum throughout the land. We are becoming more and more a reading and a thinking people. We demand to know why and be shown how. "The man who" and "the place where" are becoming less and less important. We want to know of "the thing done."

Men of the railroad unions, you have a hot contest before you, but with ballots only. You can win it if you play the game according to the rules and the conditions confronting you.

Note: Next Sunday's Times will tell you "why" and "how."

New Business.

TAKES SOUTHERN OIL FOR ANTOFAGASTA.

TANKER HERE HAS LARGE FLAG PAINTED ON SIDES.

Was Object of Spectacular Attack by German Aeroplane, and Three Times Bombs Were Dropped on Standard Oil Company's Vessel.

With her name and pictures of the American flag six feet high painted on her hull, the steamer Cushing of the Standard Oil Company's fleet of tankers arrived in the local port yesterday, in ballast from Iquique, Chile, to load the first cargo of oil delivered from the new export station of this company.

This is the first visit of the Cushing to this port and her second trip to the Pacific Coast. Since the war in Europe the steamer has had an eventful career. When the war began the Cushing was at Copenhagen. Shortly after she sailed from there a German aeroplane made a spectacular attack and three times succeeded in dropping bombs on the steamer.

The first bomb carried away the after railing, the second did considerable damage to the smokestack and the third splintered the mast and tore away the flag. On the next trip of the steamer the flags and six-foot lettering were painted on her sides so that there might be no excuse for a mistaken identity again.

The Cushing was built at Newcastle-on-the-Tyne in 1905, and has since been in the trans-Atlantic oil trade most of the time. Her home port is Bayonne, N. J. The Cushing will take 65,000 barrels of oil here for Antofagasta. She carries a crew of thirty-eight men.

This will be the first cargo of oil sent from the El Segundo refinery to supply trade in South America. Heretofore the South American trade has largely been supplied from the refinery at Point Richmond, near San Francisco. With the completion of the new loading station here and storage tanks, it is expected that a large part of the offshore trade will hereafter be supplied with oil from the Southern California fields. At present the oil is brought from the El Segundo refinery by barge, but a pipe line is soon to be built to the harbor, so that the oil can be handled more economically.

Mystery.

HOAX BY TELEPHONE.

Unknown Persons Call Up Hotel and Apartment-house Owners, Say They are Officers, and Tell Weird Tales of Mythical Abuses.

Numerous hotel and apartment-house operators have in the past week been harassed by persons calling by telephone and representing themselves as members of the District Attorney's staff. These persons have declared a number of the best hotels and apartments in the community, places of unimpeachable reputation, house gamblers operating games, permit immoralities and otherwise violate the law.

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine yesterday declared the department handling matters that might come under the Red-light Abatement Act never gives any kind of notification by telephone.

"Such matters are never handled that way and the individuals perpetrating such a hoax may get themselves into serious trouble for impersonating officers of the law," he said.

"Bud" Goodwin of the New York Athletic Club won the one-mile metropolitan swimming championship sixteen times. He has been active in aquatic sports twenty-three years.

STUDENT PHENOMENON.

University of California Officials Waive Minimum Age Limit to Admit Fourteen-year-old Lad with Remarkable School Record.

The youngest boy ever admitted to the University of California, as announced in the Associated Press dispatches a few mornings ago, is Theodore B. Steinmann — Lieut. Theodore B. Steinmann, if you please —who was graduated from the San Diego Army and Navy Academy last June with that rank, which was given him in recognition of the really unusual record he had made as a cadet in that institution. Young Steinmann is only 14 years old.

Three years ago he enrolled in the summer session of the academy and finished up the studies of the grammar grades. He was started in the regular preparatory classes the following September, and within three years he accomplished the work usually extending through four years; in fact, he entered the university with fifty-six units of work to his credit, when only forty-five is the university requirement.

In spite of the unusual amount of classwork he was carrying he improved wonderfully in his physical development under the military system, having grown six inches within the last year. The young cadet was interested in every phase of student activity. In the military department he was promoted through the grades of corporal and sergeant to a lieutenancy; he was a member of the debating team, secretary of the freshman class, vice-president of the sophomore class, president of the Philomatheon Literary Society and military editor of the Cadet.

When Capt. Thomas A. Davis, superintendent of the academy, wrote the university authorities of the unusual record of this cadet and recommended his being admitted to the university, the authorities immediately waived the age limit requirement of 16 years.

STATUS OF WATER SUIT SATISFIES.

RIVERSIDE PEOPLE THINK THE MAIN POINTS WON.

Two Features of Court's Finding of Facts, Preliminary to Decision in Litigation with San Bernardino, Seized on as of Deep Significance.

While attorneys on both sides of the big water suit brought by San Bernardino against Riverside and the Riverside Water Company are expressing satisfaction over the findings of facts recently announced by Judge Finlayson, Riverside's attorneys declare the defendants got all that had been asked for.

The two main points of the decision are entirely satisfactory to that community, say the attorneys. These are:

First: That there is now and always has been a surplus of water in the Antil basin, from which San Bernardino takes it supply, sufficient not only for the present needs of the two cities, but for all needs which may arise, even though both towns should double their population.

Second: That there is undoubtedly an underground channel or connection between the Santa Ana River debris cone, upon which the Riverside interests have been spreading water, and the Antil tract, which is charged with its main supply from this source.

The first point mentioned, say the attorneys, disposes of San Bernardino's claim that there is no surplus in the Antil basin and her request for an injunction restraining Riverside from taking any part of the water.

Judge Finlayson fixed the "duty of water" at 200 gallons per capita daily for domestic use in both cities. This limit will not entail a great degree of economy on the part of Riverside, which has been using an average of 220 inches, whereas San Bernardino contended during the trial that it must have a continuous flow of from 500 to 600 inches, and has been using an average of 330 gallons per capita daily.

CHECKS CAUSE ARREST.

Former Angeleno is Put in Jail at Bakersfield.

Roy E. Cochran, 40 years old, who formerly lived with his mother, Mrs. R. E. Cochran, at No. 1689 West Twenty-third street, was arrested yesterday morning in Bakersfield by Sheriff Newell, on a charge of passing worthless checks.

It is alleged Cochran cashed one check for $10 at a Bakersfield department store and another for $30 at a store at Loraine.

Cochran was formerly employed as a foreman at a mine at Piute. His mother said last night that he left this city about a year ago and has been working recently in the Kern oil fields.

REFUSED NEW TRIAL.

Attorney's Efforts on Behalf of Mexican Youth Fail and He is Sentenced to Fourteen Years Imprisonment for Slaying Woman.

Despite the desperate efforts made by his attorney to secure the liberty of his client, Hilerio Herrera, convicted of slaying Mrs. Juan Juarez, the defendant was refused a new trial yesterday by Judge Nicol, and sentenced to fourteen years in Folsom.

The arguments for a new trial brought forth no startling features and the court held that carrying a door, an exhibit in the trial, from the courtroom to the juryroom by two detectives after the jury had been charged was not sufficient ground to grant a rehearing of the case.

The verdict of the jury was murder in the second degree, giving the court the right to determine the length of sentence to be imposed, any number of years up to life imprisonment being permissable. Herrera is only 18 years of age. He shot Mrs. Juarez through the door of the house after having been refused admission.

NEW GOWNS CREATED.

By Draping Cloth on Living Models. Process Filmed.

The draping of afternoon dresses and evening gowns on living models, according to the latest dictates of fashion, was accomplished yesterday afternoon by Charles E. Pressley, head draper for the Broadway Department Store, in the display salon of Pease Bros. Furniture Company, twelfth floor of the Brack Shops on Seventh street. The use of this method of dress and gown modeling, direct from the bolt, for the purpose of displaying advance styles, is said by Mr. Pressley to have been originated by the Broadway Department Store at the fashion show.

The entire operation of creating these dresses and gowns, as well as the finished product, will be photographed by the Mutual Film Corporation, today and forwarded to New York for release next Saturday, to be shown on the screen as the last word in woman's dress for street and evening wear, thus giving to the women of Los Angeles a week's advance notice of the modes of dress that are to prevail the coming season. New creations will be displayed twice each week hereafter and forwarded to New York.

SAVED BY GAMENESS.

Lad Grabs Police Machine as It Strikes Him—Leg Broken.

William Tentinez, 19 years old, of No. 1522 St. James street, was run down by a police automobile at Leroy and Main streets yesterday and his right leg was fractured. He was riding a bicycle along Leroy street when the police machine surged down Main street on a fast call to the East Side.

The clanging of the gong and wail of the siren confused young Tentinez and he lost control of his bicycle. When he saw an accident was unavoidable he released the handlebars and as the police car struck him grabbed its front end.

His gameness probably saved his life. One of his legs was caught under the bicycle and broken. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital for treatment.

Courtesy on Toast.

[Outlook:] English nerves would seem to be on edge in these times if this incident, vouched for by a reader of The Outlook, is at all typical: "Recently in a London restaurant the waitress who brought me my coffee and toast refused to bring the remainder of my breakfast because I had not thanked her—although I had placed sixpence as a tip near my plate. The head waiter, who was one of the proprietors, then served me—with the result that a strike and walkout of all the dining-room servants then ensued." Most Americans in Great Britain in ante-bellum days have been at times embarrassed by the continual "Thanks" of the waiters and clerks. The worm must have turned completely over.

ACINTO CALVO SAVES THE DAY FOR HI WEST WITH NIFTY CIRCUS CATCH.

A Seal Victory.

HI WEST COMES BACK, ALLOWING FOUR HITS.

Wolverton Goes to Bat with Bases Full in Eighth and Mitchell Walks Tying Run Across the Plate — Ping Bodie Breaks up the Ball Game in the Tenth—Patterson Tries to do Likewise.

BY HOWARD ANGUS.

[illegible] Seals defeated the Tigers in ten breathless innings of baseball at Washington Park [illegible] afternoon. The score was [illegible] 2. The victory was a life-[illegible] for the Seals, who had already [illegible] three out of four games.

[illegible] this game of baseball was [illegible] every trick and feat known [illegible] baseball. Whole line-ups were [illegible], pinch hitters used whole-[illegible], managers rushed to the plate [illegible] crisis and circus catches made [illegible].

[illegible] credit for the Seal victory be-[illegible] to Hi West, Calvo and Ping [illegible].

[illegible] broke up the 2 to 2 tie [illegible] a double in the tenth and [illegible] saved West from disaster in [illegible] of the ninth by a brilliant [illegible].

SOME CATCH.

[illegible] had been rushed to center-[illegible] when Wolverton turned the [illegible] upside down in the eighth to [illegible] the score. Calvo was in center-[illegible] because Wolverton had nobody [illegible]. The Cuban was a cripple with [illegible] ankle.

Gleichmann was on second. Bates [illegible] a sky-liner toward the fence. [illegible] like a sky-rocket. Calvo [illegible] with the click of the bat and [illegible] toward the fence. Somehow he [illegible] around, leaped into the air [illegible] the ball. As he rolled [illegible] ground he threw it to third, [illegible] Gleichmann from scoring [illegible] catch.

[illegible] his ankle so badly making [illegible] catch that he had to be taken [illegible] the game immediately. He [illegible] to the clubhouse amid the [illegible] of the grandstand and the [illegible] of the bleachers. It was [illegible] catch for a cripple.

HI'S COME-BACK.

[illegible] more notable than a Seal victory [illegible] the extra inning or the [illegible] of the manager or Calvo's [illegible] Hi West. The former [illegible], Los Angeles and Vernon [illegible], late cast-off of the Western [illegible], came back. The derelict [illegible] brilliant baseball.

[illegible] the whole ten innings West [illegible] but four hits. Pitching in the hardest of luck at the first, he stuck grimly by the job, squirming out of holes that would have flabbergasted anybody but a veteran.

When Hi West walked out on the mound, the fans smiled sadly. They felt sorry for Hi and were just a trifle provoked at Wolverton. They had come to see a baseball game, had paid real money for the sake of being entertained.

PROVOKED.

A few cursed audibly when Mitchell stepped onto the mound for Vernon. Mitchell, the unhittable, pitted against creaky old Hi West to them spelt cheap burlesque.

In the first inning Doane trotted across the plate with a run. He scored on an error and two sacrifices, through no fault of Hi's. "Take

WONDERFUL NEW HOME OF GAME TROUT FOUND NEAR SITE OF THE NEW OAK CREEK HATCHERY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISHOP, Aug. 22.—Nestled in a deep granite basin held two miles skyward by titanic gray peaks, a gem of flawless, matchless beauty, Rae Lake graces the brow of the high Sierras west of Independence. Less than two decades ago its limpid waters, green as creme de menthe and brighter than the depths of fair Catalina, were barren of fish.

LOTS OF FISH.

Last week the California Board of Fish and Game Commissioners climbed the grand heights and made the official finding that it contains more rainbow trout than any other known sea or lake or river. They haven't been counted, but it is safe to say that the number is millions.

The commission decided on the spot that it shall be made a State preserve at the next session of the Legislature, the district to include the main lake and three of the six grouped below it. All are colored with living rainbows. The preserve will be about three miles long and half as wide, guarded by the picturesque Fin Dome, towering nearly 2000 feet above it.

NEW NAME.

And it will be Rae Lake no more. Nobody seems to know why or whence that name. It will be called the Naylor District—in honor of George W. Naylor of Independence, former Sheriff and now member of the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county.

Sixteen years ago this month Mr. Naylor, then a forest ranger, was camped at Charlotte Lake, already well stocked with rainbow trout from the Kings River, and he had an inspiration. Catching fourteen of the fish he carried them seven miles in a camp bucket through pathless mountains and over Glenn Pass to Rae Lake. One died on the way. The lucky thirteen thrived prodigiously.

BIG FELLOWS.

When Mr. Naylor returned five years later he found the lake alive with them and caught several weighing four pounds each. He had achieved a master stroke in fish missionary work and one which will mean more and more to Southern California in all the years to come. All the spawn from which this part of the State will be stocked will hereafter be taken from the Naylor District to the great, unnamed hatchery now nearing completion on Oak Creek, in the Owens Valley.

The State will immediately begin construction of a splendid twelve-mile trail and a telephone line from the hatchery up the south fork of Oak Creek to the lake.

TOUCH OF HIGH LIFE.

The California commissioners want first-hand information, and the trip just concluded at Independence was one of inspection and observation, as strenuous as it was fruitful of results. It covered a week, and reaching into the heart of the roughest and loftiest region of the Sierra Nevada meant traveling 100 miles on horseback or afoot, much of the distance over tortuous and perilous trails where a misstep would bring disaster if not death at the bottom of any of the mighty gorges.

The commissioners led a high life, yet withal simple, which isn't a paradox; the former was merely altitudinal and the latter perforce an attendant condition. The week was spent at an elevation of two to two and a half miles. In the party, which started from Independence Monday, were Commissioners M. J. Connell and Carl Westerfeld of Los Angeles and San Francisco, respectively; Robert D. Duke of the northern city, attorney for the commission; Deputy Ed H. Ober, Special Deputy Carl J. Walters, J. L. von Blon and packers and assistants bringing the number up to ten, with about twenty horses. President F. M. Newbert could not go. Mr. Ober covers Inyo and Mono counties, a large territory, and Mr. Walters has rendered the commission important service in obtaining water rights and building a highway from the hatchery to El Camino Sierra. He will lay out the new south-fork trail.

THE HATCHERY.

The Oak Creek hatchery, designed eventually to be the largest in the world, and the first unit of which will be finished in about sixty days, was the first stop. This splendid building, 200 feet long and with two-foot walls of rubble and cement throughout, harmoniously colored, and old English in style, will be unique among all structures in this country, and probably standing when others shall have crumbled. It is now ready for the tile roof.

Its massive tower will reach ninety feet above ground. It will be absolutely fireproof. It commands a magnificent view of Owens Valley and it is a magnificent view from the valley. The first unit is costing $60,000. Several are to be added as required. Beautification of the forty acres of grounds will be begun in a few days. The whole is to be made a dream in ivy.

The hatchery proper in this first unit will be 140x40 feet, with a capacity of 6,000,000 eggs a season. Naylor Lake is expected to yield fully 2,000,000 next season, and with the development of the fine spawning runs to supply the hatchery's capacity thereafter. F. A. Shebley, fish culturist, who has been over twenty years with the commission in an expert capacity, is now at Naylor Lake superintending construction of a storehouse and making arrangements for handling the eggs during the next spawning season, which will begin about June 30.

He pronounces conditions there the best he has seen anywhere. The eggs will be taken from the lake to the hatchery by pack train. An eyeing station may be built at the former place next year, but its necessity has not been determined. Fish culture is an interesting and delicate process throughout. In it man has actually improved on nature.

From the hatchery the way led by almost daily jaunts over atrocious trails up the north fork of Oak Creek to the summit, over 13,000 feet elevation, to Baxter Lake, up the south fork of Woods Creek to Rae Lake, back to Woods Lake, down over Sawmill Pass to the lake of that name, and out through awe-inspiring Sawmill Canyon, with its sheer drop of thousands of feet to the floor of the valley.

Fishing was found fine in the high Sierra creeks and lakes, which dot

JOHNSTON AND GRIFFIN MEADOW CLUB CHAMPIONS

Hard Hitting by National Title Holders Captures the Final Match from Williams and Harte, Despite the Loss of the First Set—Johnston Gets off to a Rather Poor Start.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SOUTHAMPTON (N. Y.) Aug. 26.—William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin, the California holders of the national doubles championship, won the Meadow Club tennis tournament doubles here today after four furiously contested sets filled with spectacular drives and smashing. They defeated R. Norris Williams II, and Richard Harte, the Harvard pair, 7-9, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

In the first set Johnston was off form. His short game at the net produced no results and he rarely got a ball across.

Griffin worked away gallantly, his stingers to Williams holding the tally of games even to 7-all. The smashing of Harte as he leaped into the air to pull down drives and master the opposing side finally broke through Griffin's service for the set, 9-7.

Williams was taking long chances with his injured ankle and in the second game of the second set he fell. That caused him to be more cautious especially as Johnston was finding his strokes and getting into the rallies to win points by cross-courting the ball or speeding drives to deep court. The best the Harvard pair could do was to hold the ball to three all in the second set. Then Griffin and Johnston began to drive through them.

The champions were much superior in the third and fourth sets. Williams again fell and after that he let Harte do the heavy smashing and the lively footing in the rallies. It was showy, brilliant tennis with the Californians always finding the openings, battering down Williams's backhand or tricking Harte out of position for the points until they had won.

LOOKS EASY.

The Ville de Paris baseball nine will meet the fast Arroyo Seco team today on the latter's diamond. The Ville aggregation has been winning consistently of late and expects little trouble in "copping" from the Arroyo Seco boys.

DIRECT ROUTE TO LAKE TAHOE.

Automobile Club to Sign Post Inland Roads.

"Haunts of '49ers" to be Made Available Again.

Membership Campaign to be Instituted by Club.

Linking Lake Tahoe directly to Southern California and making easily available the "haunts of the '49ers," officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California have decided to signpost a route leading through Mono and Inyo counties directly to the big lake.

NO LONGER.

Heretofore motorists have had to be content to find their way to Tahoe as best they could, and after they got there the maze of roads, both good and bad, was worse than confusing.

This condition will be remedied as the result of a recent tour north by President Fred L. Baker of the Automobile Club, who inspected the need for sign posts in the vicinity of Tahoe and found them lacking. The erection of a uniform system of guides from the Mexican border northward will be of inestimable value to Southern California.

GOOD WORK.

President Baker yesterday stated that the club's new system of signs in Tulare county has opened great stretches of scenic territory to automobilists and is a remarkable aid to eastern visitors as well as to local motorists.

As pointed out by Secretary Mitchell yesterday, the Automobile Club, in the aggregate, is spending at this time more than any twelve of America's largest motoring clubs in revising and improving the sign-posting system of the southern part of the State, which now includes Kern and Tulare counties. Before the system has been entirely revised more than $30,000 will have been used.

HURRAH!

Directors and officials of the club are contemplating the inauguration of a large membership campaign to be started in the near future, by which it is hoped to increase the size of the organization so as to make possible greater sign-posting activities next year. According to Secretary Mitchell, the rapid completion of new routes in the southern part of the State will necessitate double activity by the club.

A very small portion of the local motoring public now supports the organization's work, although the entire southern part of the State is benefiting thereby.

Some Climb.

PAIGE HITS OUT FOR THE SUMMIT.

MT. HOOD HILL IS NOT DIFFICULT ENOUGH.

So Paige 6-46 Starts Out to Reach the Extinct Crater at an Elevation of 9400 Feet—Snow and Ice Interfere with Trip but Summit is Reached.

The classic early summer mountain climb for automobiles in the northwest is to Government Camp, four miles below the timber line of Mt. Hood. This year the silver cup put up for the first car to reach the camp, as warm weather sent the snow line high up the mountain and made the roads barely possible, was won by a Paige Fairfield 6-46.

GEE WHIZ!

W. B. Doane, president of the Paige Motor Sales Company of Portland, entered the car. Writing to C. F. Smith, of Smith Brothers, Paige distributers in Los Angeles, about the event, Doane says that when the Paige reached Government Camp it had made the trip with so much reserve power that he felt he ought to do something bigger, to show what was in the car. The car was in perfect condition when it reached the camp, winner of the cup, so Doane decided to push on where no car had ever been before. The record at that time was half way between the camp and the timber line. Doane determined to go above, aiming for the extinct crater at the elevation of 9400 feet.

The rest of the climb to this point, which was actually reached by the Paige, is a story of thrilling death defying experience amid the Arctic surroundings and jagged peaks, startling grades, dizzy crevasses and canyons of the high altitude. There was neither road nor trail.

CAREFULLY CHOSEN.

The roue of the car was carefully chosen by two skilled Swiss mountaineers. The crevasses in the snow were bridged with timber. The Paige worked its way up, bucking a path through the snow. The surface was soft and the snow was twenty-five to 150 feet deep. The only footing was the packed snow beneath. As the car went higher, grades increased. It was frequently on grades running up to 35 per cent. Finally rain and fog came on, then a blizzard. Car and crew were swathed in sleet. Great icicles hung from the top.

The men were nearly exhausted but kept on with indomitable courage. They only stopped when the car was on the last 50 per cent. grade, in the midst of a blood-freezing blizzard, at 9400 feet altitude.

WONDERFUL.

"All through the strenuous trip the operation of the clutch was a marvel," says Doane. The slightest jerk or jar would have mean destruction for car and crew at a dozen places. Its smooth velvety action made the trip possible."

The car returned on its own power all the way to Portland, part of the way carrying eleven men. Not a single adjustment was made in the entire trip. The only accident was a tire blowout.

A bronze tablet is being erected on the spot the Paige reached, and the thrilling climb is being shown in motion pictures throughout the country.

Rural letter carriers of the State of Washington, in annual session, have gone on record as favoring the use of motor cars for rural carriers. The carriers also went on record as favoring roads suitable for motor use the year around.

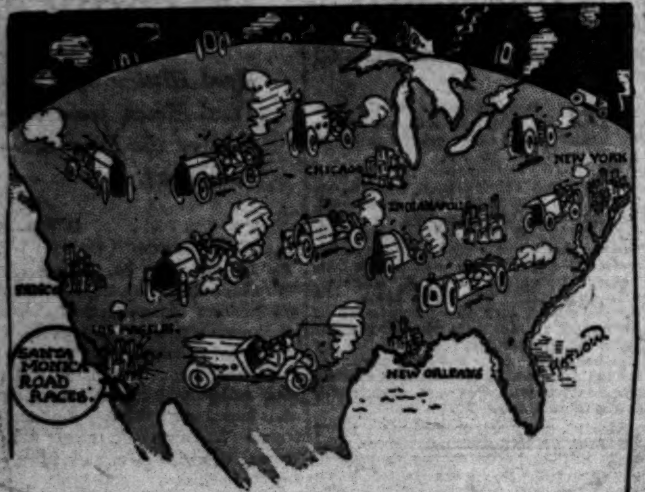
WITHIN a very short time actual, honest-to-goodness work will be started on the roads of the Santa Monica race course. Many parts of the back stretch are in poor condition, but it is thought that very little work will put this section in fine racing trim. The whole course is to be gone over—rolled, scraped and leveled off.



That practically all of the big-league race drivers will appear at Santa Monica seems to be assured. So many points are to be awarded by the A.A.A. for the two Santa Monica events and the Ascot Speedway races that all contenders for racing fame will have to be present.

Somewhere in the Jackson Hole region of Wyoming, tramping about in search of "big" game, are four of the most prominent men connected with the manufacture, sale and speed fate of Stutz automobiles. They are none other than President Harry Stutz, Robert Mapole, the Chicago dealer, Walter Brown, the Southern California distributor, and Earl P. Cooper, of racing fame. Brown and Cooper joined the other pair at Salt Lake, last week. It is their intention to remain in the wilds for a month or so seeking moose, deer, bear and anything else that may chance to get in front of their rifles. Cooper and Brown took an equipment with them that would serve as an armory for Uncle Sam. Brown declared it his intention to get a picture (camera) of Cooper showing his greatest speed in case the ex-champion sights a bear.

"What we can't figure," said Al G. Faulkner the other day, "is how Stevens ever made that record run of his across the continent. He came down to the Marmon factories, suggested the idea, and they laughed at him. They didn't know whether he could drive a car at all or not. And, in fact, he wasn't too much of an expert.

"But he insisted on pulling the stunt. He took a car right out of the factory, without even taping the springs, and sailed across in record time. And if he hadn't run into a cloudburst, he would have smashed that record all to pieces—We'll have to hand it to him—and to the car."

Yachting is the greatest sport in the world, but it doesn't agree with Don Smith, sales manager for the Earl V. Armstrong, Inc. Smith was the director-general of an exclusive newspaper men's yachting party about a week ago and he came within an inch of joining the ranks of the seasick. Smith was doing the honors in the absence of Earl Armstrong and as a host he left absolutely nothing to be desired. We hand it to him.

Mr. Armstrong's yacht, the Ituna, was the scene of this affair. It steamed out of San Pedro in the early evening bound for Catalina. And, sad to relate, Don Smith was the first one to feel the effects of the rough, boistrous ocean. The breakwater was still in plain sight when Smith lit out for a cabin. He appeared again before the trip was over, but it took a strong will power.

Everybody else in the party felt fine. They were having such a good time, in fact, that they didn't really notice whether the sea was rough or not. It was a wonderful night for a trip, the yacht was a wonder, the chef was a big leaguer, and the steward wasn't so bad, as far as that went. What more could one want?

"The one thing I didn't like," remarked Don Smith, "was the way the Chandlers rolled around on the salesroom floor for the next two or three days after we got back."

The following information and instructions were issued to all officers by the police department yesterday. There are a few points included, which are of extreme interest to automobile drivers:

TO ALL OFFICERS.

At various busy and dangerous intersections throughout the city this department has recently placed safety markers for the guidance of drivers.

These markers, where possible, have been placed approximately in the center of the intersections; but at irregular crossings, such as Washington and Hoover and Avenue Twenty-six and Pasadena avenue, they have been placed at points which would be of most advantage in preventing accidents.

Drivers should keep to the right of these signs at all times, and arrests should be made where drivers cut the corner at right angle crossings. At irregular crossings where there is a doubt as to whether a driver knew what was required of him, officers will use good judgment in making arrests, but will at all times make it plain to drivers that they must go to the right of these markers.

STUTZ BACK IN RACING GAME.

[DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 26.—The Stutz has re-entered the automobile racing field. After months of intimations, rumors and controversies between various of those supposed to be "in the know," definite information has been obtained that the big white machines will return to the scenes of their former conquests.

The first of the drivers to be secured for the mounts is one of the men who contributed much to the success gained by the Indianapolis cars in their two most successful seasons—namely Gil Anderson. Gil has abandoned the Indianapolis racing team and the result is that one of the Premiers which were built for him and Tom Rooney and Howdy Willcox, is now without a pilot.

According to Harry Stutz, Anderson will campaign the car himself as the company will not re-enter the racing field.

What! So Soon?

CLOVERLEAF CAR ALREADY SOLD.

JACKSON DISTRIBUTOR LANDS AN EARLY ORDER.

Machine not Expected for Nearly a Month but Order is Booked for First Arrival — Eight-cylinder Chassis Already Beginning to Attract Attention from Motorists.

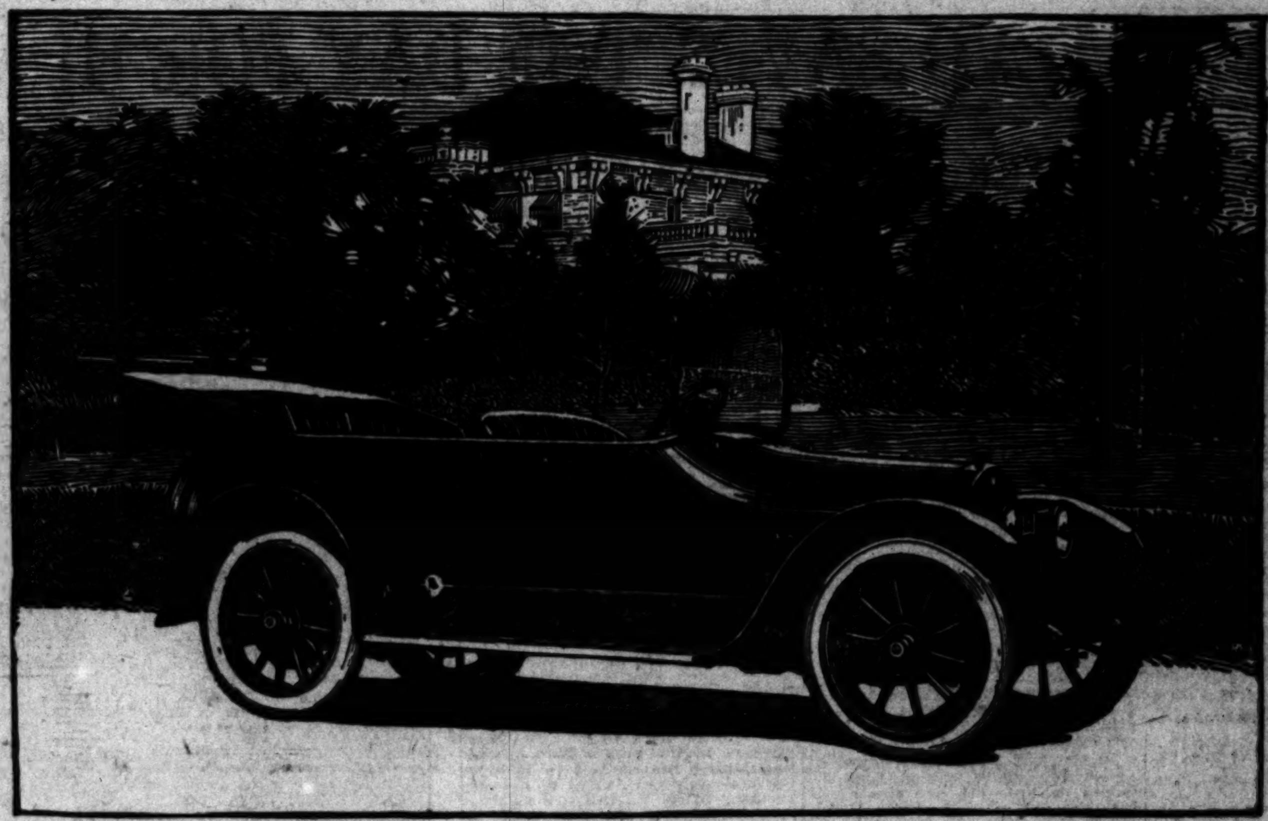
While the announcement of the Jackson eight for the coming season will not be made for nearly a month, and the first of the new models will not be received in Los Angeles until after the 15th of September, the first car already has been sold in Los Angeles. Charles H. Thompson, the Southern California and Arizona distributor for the Jackson, mentioned to R. B. Mateer of the Sierra Power Company that one of the new body styles would be a clover-leaf roadster.

"In that case I want the first cloverleaf that comes to Los Angeles on the eight-cylinder chassis," said Mr. Mateer, and he put up a deposit for the delivery of the car.

From now until the middle of September, when the first shipment of the new cars will be received on the Coast, Mr. Thompson will be busy laying plans for his winter's campaign, but will take enough time off for a trip into the High Sierras for fishing and hunting. He plans to drive from Los Angeles to Mono Lake, and will visit the trout streams of the eastern slopes of the Sierras, and Convict, Granite and other small lakes of Monon county.

Here Mr. Thompson expects to find the best trout fishing of the season, as these streams are little fished, and are at their best late in the season, when the great rush of snow waters from the peaks has subsided, and they have returned to normal volume.

He expects to be in this district during the grouse season, and will get his first grouse shoot of many seasons. A mountain quail shoot also probably will be included in the vacation.



The New Eight-Cylinder Cadillac

Type 55

THERE is one thought in connection with the coming of this new Cadillac which we would like you to grasp at once.

With the advent of this car, the Cadillac "Eight" enters upon its third successive season, with no radical change in the basic principles of its design.

This is perhaps the first time such a thing has happened in motor car development, and you will quickly see its signficance as applied to the Cadillac.

Quite properly, we believe, the World has always looked to the Cadillac Company for advanced ideas, improved practice and progressive principles.

The fact, therefore, that the Cadillac car has proven itself beyond the need of radical change, is, in itself, too impressive and too illuminating to call for comment.

It does not by any manner of means, imply that the Cadillac process of refinement has come to a conclusion.

In a multitude of ways, this is a better, finer Cadillac than any which has preceded it—the subject of unremitting research and scientific betterment in scores of details.

What the absence of radical change really means, is that the underlying principles of Cadillac V-type eight-cylinder construction have been proven fundamentally sound by the performance of 31,000 cars.

It means that the Cadillac Company, with resources at its command probably superior to those possessed by any other motor car plant in the world, has arrived at the deliberate judgment that the kind of a motor car which it is now building, represents a higher degree of efficiency than any other in existence.

It means that this is the joint judgment of every expert mind associated with this Company. It expresses the judgment of 31,000 owners who cannot conceive of any respect in which Cadillac principles could be changed to their advantage.

The new Cadillac conforms to the finest Cadillac traditions, down to the least and last of details—and it advances them still more closely toward perfection.

It is a beautiful car to look upon.

The superior riding qualities, with which you are familiar, are enhanced and intensified.

The driving ease of last year and the year before, accentuated by the longer wheelbase of the new car, is more marked than ever.

It is doubtful if motoring can give rise to a situation which can successfully challenge Cadillac powers.

The old feeling that it is folly to seek further—the old sense of security that the Cadillac represents the utmost in a motor car—will come over you more strongly than ever.

We are serenely confident of the exhilaration and enthusiasm which you will experience on the occasion of your first ride in this unusual car.

SUNDBERG & FOOT, have just returned from the East, where they made a tour of inspection of all of the larger auto factories. The latest acqui their line is the Sun light is manufactured by the Motor Car Company of Elk which company is largely of men who were former with the Haynes Auto Co.

ECONOMICAL.

been the aim of the manu to design a car that would economically, even when grade of gasoline is Both the intake manifold and air connection are cast in with the cylinder casting, in order that the full benefit may be derived from the heat of the motor.

"The valves are large in diameter, the pistons are very light, and the three-bearing crankshaft is balanced by curving the webs in such a manner as to scientifically distribute the weight. These features permit the motor to operate at exceedingly high speed without vibration.

UNUSUAL.

"An exclusive Sun design 'dual-ejector' exhaust manifold is used. It is divided into two divisions which, although connected, give the effect of two independent manifolds as the exhaust gases from the three front cylinders are handled independently of the three rear cylinders. These gases are separated by a web that is cast within the manifold outlet. A slight web is also cast at each cylinder division in the manifold, which guides the gas in the right direction, thereby preventing it from causing a back pressure on the other cylinders. Furthermore, the act of the gas rushing by the opening at high speed in the direction of the outlet causes a slight vacuum or suction. In short, the manifold construction is such as to not overcome back pressure, but really aid in perfectly scavenging the cylinders.

INSIDE.

"The valves-operating mechanism is located within the crankcase, where it is constantly subjected to a spray of oil, which prevents wear, and makes the working parts exceedingly quiet.

"Other interesting features are as follows: Remy starting, lighting and ignition system; Burd piston rings; Borg & Beck single plate dry disc clutch; irreversible steering gear; full floating rear axle; one man top, jiffy curtains; double ventilating, rain vision windshield; electric motor-driven horn; nickel plated robe and foot rails; tire carrier at rear of chassis and Firestone demountable rims. The weight of the car ready for shipment, is 2575 pounds.

"The standard color is Brewster green, with hood, fenders and running gear black enamel. In addition to the five-passenger touring car, a five-passenger sedan and a four-passenger roadster are available on the same chassis."

'Way Up.

HAYNES LIGHT TWELVE BOOSTS SALES RECORD.

THE Haynes Motor Company, the pioneer automobile firm of America, now is capitalized for $4,000,000. This announcement was made to dealers last week, together with the information that a stock dividend of 108 per cent. had been declared. The former capitalization of the company was $1,400,000, and the net earnings for the last year $1,000,000.

The Haynes light six experienced a remarkably successful season last year, and the announcement of the Haynes light twelve, the first light twelve to be placed on the market, boosted the record of the season of 1915-16, while the prospects for the coming year, according to Milo Bekins and Froman Speers of the Bekins-Speers Motor Company, Southern California and Arizona representatives for the line.

Plans have been announced for the further enlargement of the Haynes factory, and the new factory will be ready by the first of the year. This will give the Haynes one of the largest plants for the manufacture of motor cars in the country. The Haynes car is not an assembled car, but is practically built entirely in the Haynes shop, and this makes a large plant necessary.

Another record for fuel economy was established by the Haynes light six, when Mr. Ygnacio Carillo drove his Haynes from Calexico to Los Angeles, a distance of 274 miles, on fifteen and a half gallons of fuel. This is an average of seventeen and one-half miles to the gallon of gasoline.

The average for the first 142 miles, which included desert and mountain going, was not so good as that from San Diego to Los Angeles. In this 132-mile stretch the average per gallon was nearly twenty-one miles.

TIRE BUSINESS IS ON THE UPGRADE.

The United States Tire Company has smashed all previous sales records into splinters, according to a statement just given out by Mr. J. C. Weston, general sales manager.

"Our business," says Mr. Weston, "this month has been far greater than even our greatest optimist expected. Our sales have reached a point that is absolutely unprecedented in our history, and I am speaking now only about sales to dealers in the United States. Naturally, if we took into consideration our sales to manufacturers alone we would show a large increase, because of the immense number of automobiles manufactured this year. But I am talking about sales to dealers who have to meet the demands of the public."

WORM GEAR IS HIGHLY BOOSTED.

The worm gear type of final drive is one of the most important contributions that have been made to increase the haulage efficiency of motor trucks in the last three years, asserts Mr. C. S. Anthony, local distributor for the Signal Motor Trucks.

"The principal reason upon which I base my claims," says Mr. Anthony, "are that the worm drive, such as the Timken-David Brown type used in Signal Motor Trucks, is absolutely silent, exceptionally durable, highly efficient and practically fool proof. It is composed of so few parts and is so simply, yet ruggedly constructed that if left alone, except for occasional lubrication, it will run for thousands of miles without an adjustment or inspection being necessary; and right here in Los Angeles we have had instances where Signal Trucks thus equipped have run over 100,000 miles without a single adjustment to the worm."

Sensational.

ANNOUNCEMENT CAUSES A BIG JUMP IN SALES.

"IT HAS been just a little over two weeks since the Reo Motor Car Company announced their plans for 1917. Since that time we have closed contracts with our sub-dealers for a total of 858 Reo cars and trucks." This was the declaration last week of Leon T. Shettler, general manager for Earle C. Anthony, Inc., State distributor for the Reo line.

"These are not 'conversation' sales, either," continued Shettler. "The total represents the most conservative estimate that our sub-dealers were willing to make as to their volume of business for the coming season.

"Our contract with the Reo factory for the coming season calls for the delivery of 1524 Reo cars and trucks. This represents practically 6 per cent. of the entire output of the huge Reo factory, and is good evidence of the remarkable popularity that the Reo line has attained in this State. The output of the Reo factory has been increased by 50 per cent. this year, and the factory officials promise us that they believe for the first time that they will be able to keep up with the demand for Reos in California. Our season has already commenced with a rush and we have delivered between sixty and seventy of the new Reo series since th announcement.

"The sensational drop in the price of the Reo six has put a remarkable spurt in the sales of this car. The Reo reputation for putting nothing but the best of materials in their cars is so long established that motor car buyers have never even once asked us if the car had been cheapened in any way. The steady decrease in the price of the Reo four to the rock-bottom figure it has now attained, and the steady improvement in the car has made motor car buyers expect a similar course of events in the Reo six as a matter of course."

Notification has been issued by the government of the province of Ontario in Canada that license reciprocity with the State of Rhode Island is not in existence now and that any provisional arrangements made between the Ontario and Rhode Island governments are cancelled. The blame for this action on the part of the Canadian authorities is said to rest entirely with Rhode Island.

Independence, Mo., has passed an ordinance holding the speed limit in the business district to five miles per hour and increasing the limit in the residence district to twenty miles an hour.

"Genuine."

The road conditions in the immediate vicinity of the training camp were reported to be very bad. The soil is very sandy, with a surface covering of grass. As long as a vehicle can stay on this top surface it is all right, but if it breaks through it is like a quicksand and the wheels rapidly settle down to the axles.

SUN LIGHT SIX

—the "hundred point" car in which mechanical excellence is delightfully blended with those qualities that please the eye, carry prestige with ownership and add immeasurably to the joys of motoring.

Plowing through mud hub-deep, negotiating hazardous mountain curves at breakneck speed, throttling down under favorable conditions to less than two miles per hour; then without shifting gears and without changing carburetor adjustments, showing a speed of better than a mile a minute, the Sun Light Six has established new records on America's most famous test hills.

The Sun Light Six is an exclusive Sun design. The motor is of the high speed, high efficiency type, guaranteed to develop 50 horsepower on the block test. The car weighs only 2600 pounds.

CONFIDENCE POLICY IS THE ONLY ONE.

The policy of automobile manufacturers of today is to take the public into his confidence, according to Stewart McDonald, vice-president of the Moon Motor Car Company.

"This is illustrated," McDonald says, "by the attitude of the Moon Company in welcoming visitors to the factory and showing them in detail every department.

"Members of our office force are detailed to take visitors through the factory, explain everything fully and show them every consideration," McDonald declared. "This open-house attitude of ours has brought more visitors to our factory the last year than have come in any similar space of time.

"The wonderful organization that is necessary in an automobile plant, the methodical progress of the assbling of parts, the army-like precision with which the efforts of one department dovetail with those of another, have all been a source of wonderment to visitors."

OLDSMOBILE EIGHT AGAIN FIGURES IN RECORD RUN

MISS AMANDA PREUSS arrived in New York yesterday, co pleting her coast-to-coast run in eleven days, five hours thirty minutes. By so doing she set a record for a wo driving alone in an automobile. Her time would have been better had it not been for the adverse conditions of the roads Nevada and through the Middle West. In the latter portion of country she was forced to buck mud and rain for four days. total average was 300 miles per day, which is remarkable consi ering the fact that she drove the car absolutely alone from to finish and did all her own tire changing.

The car in which she made the trip was the Lincoln Oldsmobile Eight. The trip was made in celebration of Touring Week in order to show that the Lincoln Highway open and passable for a woman.

Miss Preuss will drive the Olds in the Dixie Highway run takes place in October, entering the car for the purpose of senting the Lincoln Highway Commission and California.

A Little Bit Rough.

POINT FIRMEN ROAD IS A SCENIC WONDE

FROM the viewpoint of scenery alone the dirt road that skirts the shore line between Point Firman and Clifton, adjacent to the Palos Verde hills, is unsurpassed, but C. H. Hunter says he would not advise it to any motorist touring about the country whose eye is not trained to overlook the unpleasant and see only the beautiful. Upon reading the recent announcement that the eastern capitalists who own the Palos Verde ranch intend to begin work on the construction of a permanent road within a short time, Hunter determined to drive over the tentative route in his Chandler Six touring car. His opinion is submitted so that other unwary ones may beware.

THRILLS.

"It is only about ten miles between the Point Firmen lighthouse and the improved boulevard at Clifton," Hunter said, "but a variety of thrills is to be experienced by the motorist who drives those ten miles. The other members of our party pronounced the scenery as wonderful, but I was so busy keeping the car from straying off the road I did not have much time to look. The dirt road equals in difficulties some of the worst stretches we encountered on our Mexico to Canada Chandler run last year.

A TABLELAND.

"The whole ranch is a tableland except the hill region and it is all under cultivation. The ranch ons have cut a road across steel tires but when heavy loads six or eight hitched to one wagon. The road follows the coast and the high bluffs overlo ocean present a view in this vicinity accessible ists. At sunset the view sublime. The road now is dust and badly rutted owners do carry out their intention and improve it will be incomparable and new show place to visitors."

AMONG the discharged American soldiers who have made their way from the Mexican border to Los Angeles is the chauffeur of the car used by Gen. Frederick Funston, while at El Paso and other points of communication along the Rio Grande, when the situation had a dangerous aspect a few weeks ago. This chauffeur told Don P. Smith, sales manager for Earl V. Armstrong, Inc., distributors of Chandler automobiles in Southern California that Gen. Funston's private car was a Chandler Six.

According to his story, the general had at his service three years ago when when he led the American forces in their expedition against Vera Cruz, a Chandler touring car. One day, at Vera Cruz, while Gen. Funston was riding in the car he was fired upon by snipers. DESTRUCTIVE ROAD JARS TAKE MILES FROM TI

"THE action of the well-constructed motor, clutch, springs and other mechanical parts of a car, of course, assist in delivering riding comfort to the passengers, but the four tires are the biggest factor when comfort is taken into consideration," says L. S. Rounsavelle, general manager of the Norwalk Tire Company, local distributors for Norwalk Tires and tubes.

"The utmost luxury in riding comfort can only be had by using quality tires of extreme resiliency; those that are full of 'life' and retain that vital feature as long as the tires are used.

"The four tires receive the brunt of a million and one destructive jars and jolts with every mile of service rendered and in addition to this, the entire weight of the car and passengers rests upon four points of a few square inches each on the surface. TREMENDOUS GROWTH PROVES WORTH OF MORELAND TRUCKS.

The new and the old.

One of the latest products of the Moreland factory is shown (above) with a full-sized load. The exhibit (below) is the first car ever turned out by the local truck concern. Quite a difference, huh?

PROVING conclusively that Los Angeles can become a great manufacturing center, and that the resources of Southern California are boundless, the Moreland Motor Truck Company stands as a great example of achievement in the local motor world. Smashing all precedent, when it comes to commercial car manufacturing plans, and disproving the statement that trucks can be manufactured in the East at less cost than in the West, the record established by Watt Moreland, manager of the Moreland truck company, stands out like letters blazoned on a scroll of fire.

When Moreland built his first truck and demonstrated it seven years ago, not one of the motor men who saw in that remarkable achievement a standard truck, had even the remotest idea of what this great industry would amount to in years to come. Then, as the little 15x20-foot shack was replaced with larger buildings, and these in turn gave way to even larger and more substantial structures, the public began to form an idea of the expansion made possible by that one-ton truck.

That two-cylinder commercial car, which proved its worth under the most trying conditions, was the forerunner of the mighty motor vehicle, the final triumph of the Moreland plant which was turned out yesterday. That old truck is still running and is doing its full quota of work every day. It was sold to the Gorham Rubber Company and those who saw it took note of the possibilities and Moreland was forced to manufacture more and larger commercial cars.

Now the slogan of home industry is being sounded everywhere in the State, but the demand for the Moreland trucks is so great that the merchant is obliged to place orders in advance that he may secure the trucks on time. With nearly 2000 Moreland trucks operating on the roads of California, the worth of the product and its ability to withstand the severest tests is shown to a nicety. With the Moreland gasifier and its success of distillate fuel, the question of economy has also been met and the Moreland owner can show an operating cost sheet that will not only surprise but will more than satisfy the most exacting.

DEMAND STRONG FOR QUALITY CARS.

That there is a steadily-increasing demand upon the part of automobile purchasers for quality cars, and that the discriminating buyer is the most satisfactory customer to do business with was the gist of some remarks made recently by Elmer Apperson, pioneer motor car manufacturer.

"When we announced the Apperson Roadaplane recently, to list in the $2000 class, a number of would-be prophets tried to discourage us by saying that the demand in this class was decreasing rather than becoming greater. We believed in our theory, however, and are now enjoying the satisfaction of knowing we were right."

MILEAGE BOOSTED BY TIRE TREAD.

A new tire accessory is added to the list of products manufactured by the Miller Rubber Company of Akron, O., makers of Miller Geared-to-the-road tires.

It is called the Adona tread. Its use enables the motorist to get several thousand additional miles out of a tire which would otherwise be ready for the scrap pile.

When the tire is worn down to the last ply of fabric one of the Adona treads can be slipped over the old tire and sewed fast by stitching all around the tire close to the bead, just as a new sole is stitched to a shoe.

KING EIGHT MAKES ROUND TRIP TO BIG BEAR ON EXACTLY THREE QUARTS OF WATER

THAT the motorist need not worry any more about carrying water with him when he travels in mountainous districts was demonstrated by the fact that "Hi-gear" Jerry Woodill, in a new model King eight, drove 246 miles over the beautiful "Rim of the World" drive without taking on water and without the radiator boiling once.

Preliminary to the test the radiator was first filled to the top and then sealed in Los Angeles by County Inspector of Weights and Measures Fuller.

EARLY START.

Starting at 8 o'clock in the morning from Los Angeles, Jerry Woodill drove his King eight along the Valley boulevard through Pomona and over the new State highway that has just been completed. At San Bernardino a short stop was made for gasoline and then came the long, hard climb up Waterman Canyon. To give the motorist who has never been over the route an idea of what the grade is, there is approximately seven miles of hard climbing, where you switch back and forth until you reach the summit of Waterman Canyon, an altitude of 5200 feet.

This climb was accomplished by the King eight in second gear, carrying a load of approximately 1050 pounds, which in itself is a remarkable feat. That Jerry Woodill was able to put his cheek against the radiator upon reaching the summit speaks for itself.

From the summit the going was easy and good time was made around the shoulder of Strawberry Peak, past Heap's ranch, through the valleys of Deep Creek and Green Valley. From Green Valley the road rises and falls like huge waves on the ocean and gradually reaches an altitude of 7500 feet. This is the summit of the range, and then comes a gradual descent through Fawnskin Valley and finally to Big Bear Lake.

Motorists who make this trip are advised to carry camping equipment and provisions with them, as there are many beautiful spots along the road, by little streams and under giant pines, where one would be content to stay for days if he had the time.

One spot that is especially picturesque for camping is along the north shore of Big Bear Lake, among a forest of pines, some of which have taken root in the lake itself and rear their trunks like masts from the water.

But to continue with the King eight. Night was spent in Big Bear Valley and in the early morning a start was made for home by way of Seven Oaks. From Big Bear Valley the motorists traveled through forests of pine, underneath which big boulders are scattered in every direction. Just before arriving at Clark's ranch the road that runs to Seven Oaks branches to the left, and this was the route taken by the King eight.

Upon rounding a sharp curve a most wonderful view unfolds itself before the eyes of the fortunate motorist. He finds himself on the top of a range that is practically clear of vegetation, and looking down he sees the road that he is about to travel zigzagging back and forth below him, while across from him is another range covered with stately pine forests and with little spots of the road showing here and there through the distant foliage.

On the descent into this valley an opportunity was afforded to test the s[illegible]gs of the King eight, as the road is very bad, with great chuck holes which you are forced to drop into, the road being [illegible] avoid them. At various [illegible] vicinity the road descends [illegible] grade of 38 per cent. Motorists [illegible] advised not to take this [illegible] reach Bear Valley, as it is [illegible] impossible to ascend, although [illegible] descent is comparatively [illegible] ever, this road is bad only [illegible] Seven Oaks, as from there [illegible] in excellent condition, having [illegible]ly been reconstructed.

CLIMBING AGAIN.

From Seven Oaks the road [illegible] by Snyder Creek and then [illegible] through more pine forests [illegible] summit of this range the road [illegible] to Mill Creek Canyon. For a [illegible] of seven miles the road is so [illegible] that there is no room for [illegible] pass, so watchmen are [illegible] each end, who allow [illegible] to go up on even hours and [illegible] on the odd, thus insuring the [illegible] of motorists. The King [illegible] held up at this point for [illegible]utes before being allowed to [illegible] the descent.

Harvey's which, is in [illegible] Canyon, was reached after a [illegible] journey and from there the [illegible] eight followed the straight [illegible] Colton and thence by way of [illegible] Valley boulevard back to Los Angeles.

In Los Angeles, when the [illegible] was unsealed, it was found that [illegible] King eight had consumed [illegible] three quarts of water after [illegible] traversed a distance of 246 miles [illegible] a total running time of [illegible] fifty-nine minutes.

One more King record.

A new model King eight was driven 246 miles last week over the "Rim of the World" drive to Big Bear Lake. The radiator was sealed before the start and no water was taken during the entire trip. Added to this the water didn't boil during the journey. At the conclusion of test it was found that only three quarts of water had been used. Some record.

ELECTRIC TRUC[illegible] IN WAR [illegible]

With the outbreak of the [illegible] pean war, horses and motor [illegible] abroad were commandeered [illegible] wholesale, causing considerable [illegible] fusion in the delivery [illegible] commercial and municipal [illegible] ties and others having need of [illegible] nomic delivery means, which [illegible] handling their work in an [illegible] successful manner, would not be [illegible]ceptible to call for purely [illegible] purposes away from the [illegible] suburbs, were made to [illegible] the ideal qualifications of the [illegible]tric truck, which had already [illegible] considerable recognition [illegible] many European countries.

Many concerns, after [illegible]ing with one or more electric [illegible] quickly realized that such [illegible] not only suited to satisfy the [illegible] usual and somewhat [illegible] mands, but further [illegible] quiet, simply-controlled [illegible] the transportation [illegible] to handle their delivery [illegible]manently.

Prince Henry, the [illegible] King George of England, [illegible] first race at Eton in the [illegible] liminary heats of the [illegible] the final of which was won [illegible] Earl and R. M. Nisbet, [illegible] and M. Donaldson-[illegible] third in their heat.

The directors of the [illegible] (Ill.) Motor Club have [illegible] a campaign to dispose of the [illegible] to cover the cost of the [illegible] house and grounds.

50⁸⁄₁₀ Per Cent Will Have No Other Car

Hupmobile Owners who have discarded higher priced cars . . . 24³⁄₁₀%
11,000 Owners vote Hupmobile efficiency 99%

THE BUSINESS that endures is the sound, strong business, whose customers keep on coming back. Judged by that high standard, the Hupmobile shows a record that few, if any, can rival.

Figures just compiled from our service station statistics prove that it is unique in the number of those who repeat their orders from year to year.

No Other Car At Any Price

It is part of Hupmobile policy to keep in close contact with owners by our intensive system of service. This gives us invaluable information from a dozen different angles. Our fingers are on the pulse of public opinion. We know what people want, and how they are pleased.

If we have erred even a trifle, a danger signal is flashed to us from all parts of the country.

Incidentally, repeat sales tell us how many of our owners cannot be won away by any other car at any other price.

And the latest, freshest figures prove that high-price and low-price—four cylinders and multi-cylinders—are equally powerless to influence 50 8/10 per cent of our sales.

In other words more than half of all Hupmobile owners keep on buying, year after year.

Stop and think of the powers of resistance—the superiorities — the Hupmobile must possess to hold these owners to their allegiance.

Millions of dollars are expended to tempt them away. The lure of a lower price on the one hand; confusing claims of multi-cylinder performance on the other.

Neither Price Nor Type Tempts Them

But the 50 per cent phalanx stands fast year after year. Convinced, in the one case, that a lower price cannot compensate for the loss of Hupmobile goodness.

Convinced, in the other case, that more cylinders can add nothing to that Hupmobile efficiency which eleven thousand owners have rated at 99 per cent. And convinced, in the last instance, that no other car can yield better performance.

What They Get In Performance

In high gear work, they see their Hupmobiles outdoing cars that have more cylinders, or cost more money.

In pulling power and quick getaway, they see nothing under another name that they do not have.

In flexibility, they find themselves relieved of gear-shifting to an amazing extent.

In smooth, steady motor action—in the effortless development of power, the swift response to the throttle—they believe they have the motor car maximum.

In the Hupmobile service system, they know they are getting more than any other car offers: expert inspection, adjustment and care each month for eight months by trained Hupmobile experts at Hupmobile service stations. A service they pay for with coupons which we supply free of cost.

So they are content, this 50 per cent, to stake their preference on the Hupmobile.

D. A. PLUMLY.

D. A. Plumly, the genial editor of the checker column in the Salt Lake Tribune, was a welcome visitor to our city the fore part of this week. It was Mr. Plumly's first visit to Southern California, but, in his short sojourn in our midst, he convinced us that he was not to be trifled with "across the board" at either chess or checkers. In his "battles" here he left many "scars" and received very few in return.

Even in victory his manner was so pleasant and conciliating that one almost felt it an honor to be beaten by him; while he accepted defeat with a grace that few have learned to acquire.

Such men are an honor to the fraternity and do much towards elevating the game to the high plane that it deserves.

We are hoping that his interest never wanes, but on the contrary, circumstances will be such that he will be able to devote more of his time to the greatest of all games—checkers.

a—It is usual to either retreat the bishop or play BxKt here.

d—There was nothing to be gained by retaining the two bishops.

In Woods and Sawmill lakes, hundred of feet deep, are probably the largest loch Leven trout in America, but these wary, big fellows aren't straining their muscles jumping for artificial flies or diving for bait and it is time wasted trying to catch them just at the present.

They look like whales far down in the water, and most of them stay far down. Just below Woods is a pretty lake misnamed Salty, in which the eastern brook are so abundant that they almost crowd each other. They are comparatively small, but snappy as steel springs and can be taken as rapidly as the angler can wield his rod. The group of Baxter lakes is also well stocked with eastern brook.

Commissioners Connell and Westerfeld are ardent fishermen, and Attorney Duke will miss a meal on the chance of catching a trout. Mr. Connell was trying out the lightest three-jointed bamboo rod ever made, eight feet six inches long, weighing two ounces, and declared impossible by manufacturers, and it proved its worth. The commissioner landed a number of doubles at Rae Lake, and took a four-and-a-half-pound loch Leven from Sawmill Lake. But that's a rod for an expert.

Everywhere up there is almost incomparable scenery—peaks upon peaks piercing the blue vault, waterfalls roaring down the long slopes, snow splotches gleaming against the rock masses, blossoms carpeting the meadows—but the crowning glory of it all is Rae Lake in its never-to-be-forgotten setting of impregnable fastnesses. Its golden sunsets, crimsoning the clouds and gilding the castellated summits even after darkness has fallen upon its waters, linger in memory as pictures of another world. So high is it that autumn's storm clouds from the north will soon brush its soft face, and winter's snows quilt it over half the year with a hundred feet of downy white; yet today at its cold edges the wild flowers—fragrant Alpine lilies, tiny roses of Switzerland, and dainty immortelles — are a-bloom.

Here is a future summer playground for the dwellers of the lower places—here in this flower garden of the California Alps!

"Stunting Ground."

FOUR CYLINDERS PULL KING OVER STEEP HILL.

THAT faithful "stunting ground," the Grand-avenue hill between Fourth and Fifth streets, has again come a cropper—this time with a King "eight" transformed into a "four" by the simple expedient of removing four spark plugs.

Despite the fact that Old Faithful has been coated with gravel, which, combining with an ooze of oil, has made it somewhat more difficult, the King demonstrated its prowess in hill-climbing yesterday before an interested group of apartment-housers gathered on near-by steps and fire escapes.

PROVING POWER.

"The greatest value of a demonstration of this kind is the proving of the power of each individual cylinder of the King," stated Clarence A. English, local distributor, yesterday.

"Not so very long ago the Grand-avenue hill was a favorite for demonstrating the climbing ability of any car, but now it does not figure at all, except in an instance such as this, where only half the power is given the car out of its full quota of cylinders.

"It goes to show that should four cylinders of the King be disabled while mountaineering its remaining four would pull the party out of some pretty steep places. The Grand-avenue hill is over twenty-one per cent. grade and there are few mountain roads which grow much steeper."

SAME MACHINE.

The car used in the demonstration was the same seven-passenger model which climbed Mt. Wilson on high gear, and which negotiated the round trip between Los Angeles and San Francisco also "on the high." While the King has been making history for itself on the Pacific Coast, its brethren have been equally busy in the East finding hills worthy of their metal, Mr. English stated yesterday.

Some Trip at That.

KEENER APPRECIATION OF HIGH-GEAR JOURNEY.

AS TIME elapses a keener appreciation of the record established by the Pathfinder Twelve, "all the way on high across the continent" is becoming apparent in the automobile world.

In a letter received this week by George I. Lufkin, Southern California distributor of Pathfinders, from Walter A. Weideley, who piloted the famous Pathfinder Twelve on its transcontinental high-gear tour, Mr. Weideley said that the radiator boiled but once on the entire trip, in spite of the fact that for five days the car traveling through the Great Salt Lake Desert encountered temperatures which registered 100 deg. on the thermometer.

Quoting from Weideley's letter, Mr. Lufkin said:

"Grades up to 24 per cent. were successfully negotiated by the car in the high gear. On the Great Salt Lake Desert an eight-mile stretch of sand, in which the car sank almost hub deep, was also encountered and overcome.

SOME GRADES.

"Lucky Boy Pass, between Yerinnger and Tonopah, Nev., proved to be a 24 per cent. grade, with many turns and twelve miles long. Tejon Pass, in California, and Emigrant Gap, in the Sierra Mountains, were easy for the Pathfinder Twelve. The steepest California grade encountered was at the top of Norton Summit between Colfax and Truckee, where the high-grear car had to plow through snow and up a 21 per cent. road.

"At the summit of the Sierra Nevada Mountains the roadway led through a ten-foot bank of snow. When Denver, Col., was reached, the Pathfinder Twelve was driven up famous Mt. Lookout, a distance of six miles and a winding road. This climb was made in the remarkable time of fifteen minutes and eight seconds without boiling of the water. Ligonier and Cove Mountains in the Pennsylvania Alleghanies were also vanquished by the Pathfinder Twelve in high gear."

To Some Extent.

WILL THE PROFESSIONAL CHAUFFEUR PASS OUT?

THE advent of the twelve-cylinder automobile has had a noticeable effect in marking the passing of the professional chauffeur, in the opinion of W. E. Lanphier, sales manager for Hawley, King & Co., who distribute the National line of pleasure cars. Many owners, who formerly employed chauffeurs are driving their own cars since purchasing a National Twelve because they find the gradual flow of power from a twelve makes driving so simple and enjoyable, he says.

The twelve-cylinder motor gives the crankshaft six shoves to every revolution. This makes the balance of power application almost perfect, Lanphier explains. The cylinders are small so that the explosions are less forceful. The application of power is persuasive instead of violent. This even flow eliminates much of the gear-shifting to which many owners formerly objected and therefore employed chauffeurs.

A car, such as the National Twelve is in the somewhat unusual position of getting better with age, Lanphier says. The longer it is run the better it operates. All adjustments are made very tight, but after a few hundred miles the car is in perfect working trim and it continues to get better as the thousands of miles are piled up on the speedometer.

Don't Procrastinate.

Type 17
CHANDLER SIX

No "Mark Up" in Price

The Truth Made Men Stop and Think

A RECENT statement by the President of the Chandler Motor Car Company on "motor car values and motor car prices" occasioned more searching thought on the part of prospective motor car purchasers than any other announcement that has been made by the Automobile Industry this year. It came as a revelation to many who had considered themselves well informed.

That statement led to the purchase of Chandler Type 17 Sixes within the past three weeks by hundreds of men who had been attracted, by extravagant advertising or otherwise, to some one of the several "marked up" cars in the medium priced field.

If you read this statement by the President of the Chandler Company, as you probably did, you know what we mean by "marked up." You know that in recent months sums ranging from $80 to $200 have been quietly tacked on to the selling prices of these Chandler competitors.

The explanation of the marked up prices has been the abnormal conditions, said to exist and really existing in a degree, in the motor car material market.

But you know, too, that the Chandler car has not been marked up.

And so you can still buy this great car—greatest of all the Sixes—at the same price established eighteen months ago, long before the war had made any effect on the material markets. And bear this in mind, that every change made in the Chandler car in all these past months has been a refinement and an improvement. Every addition to it has represented increased manufacturing cost. Not a single thing has been cut out of the car.

Bear in mind that today, while others are asking you to add eighty, a hundred, a hundred and fifty or two hundred dollars to your check, $1295 plus freight buys you this big luxurious highly refined Chandler—this Chandler with the marvelous motor, the exclusive Chandler motor which has been developed and perfected through four years of intelligent manufacturing and four years on the road in the service of thousands of Chandler drivers.

Bear in mind that the Chandler is still featured by its Bosch Magneto ignition—which others leave off, even the marked up cars, because it costs so much more; still featured by its solid cast aluminum motor base extending from frame to frame—where others use cast iron; still featured by the sturdiest, simplest chassis; still featured by ball bearings in rear wheels, differential, transmission and elsewhere, which helps make it the lightest running car on the road.

Bear in mind that in this Type 17 Chandler you get the exclusive Chandler full floating rear axle with its silent spiral bevel gear differential. And that you get the highest standard of carburetion that the market affords; Gray & Davis separate lighting and starting system; big double external and internal brakes, which stop the car at the instant of command and hold it safe on any grade.

Bear in mind that you get all of these highest grade, high priced features and scores of others which, together with Chandler workmanship, go to make up a car the superior quality of which cannot be questioned in comparison with the quality of any one of the many "marked up" cars.

And remember, too, that in the Type 17 Chandler you are offered the beautiful tonneau cowl bodies which preceded the mid-summer "new models" of other makes by seven months time.

In the Chandler you get mechanical excellence, luxury of body design, trim and finish, at the minimum of purchase price.

If we asked you to pay $100 more or $200 more that wouldn't make the car a bit better.

In considering your purchase of a new car, think for yourself.

Measure what Chandler offers you along side of what any other car in the medium priced field offers you, regardless of price, and we think we know what your decision will be. Measure it along side of what any other car offers, keeping the marked up price in mind, and we know what your decision will be.

NEW ROAD OPENS ROMANTIC COUNTRY OF BRET HARTE.

ANOTHER road over the High Sierras for motor travel, which is certain to find favor in the eyes of motorists, has been traveled to some extent this summer. Like the Tioga, the famous road out of the Yosemite National Park to Mono Lake, the new road is an old road, one that served mining interests many years ago.

It was one of the first of the trails built over the mountains, and accommodated much of the early travel in the days when Stockton was the main outfitting camp for the southern mines, and boasted a large portion of the cross-continent travel.

This road, which follows the old "southern district" mines along the Stanislaus, Mokelumne and Calaveras rivers, through the Calaveras Big Trees and past Silver Lake and peak to Markleeville, the county seat of Alpine county at present is a difficult one for motorists to traverse, but road work is included in the State Highway Commission's plans for mountain highways.

OLD DIGGINGS.

Aside from the old diggings of the historic Jenny Lind mine, there is little of keen interest in the lower stretches of the road, but soon one is in the historic country written of by Bret Harte—Angel's Camp, Vallecita, and other scenes of his stories, the Big Trees, and all the beauties of the High Sierras.

In the opinion of Andrew Wood, who made the drive from Stockton a week ago, in his eight-cylinder Jackson, this soon will become one of the most-traveled routes across the mountains. At present road conditions from Stockton to Angels are good, fair and bad. The Linden road is paved for a long stretch, and just beyond the paved section road work is under way, which should reach early completion, adding a valuable feature to Stockton's claim as one of the gateways to the Tahoe country. In Calaveras county the State Highway Commission has a number of convicts engaged in road work of a good character, but these could be added to profitably in numbers and the extent of their work materially widened.

Leaving Angel's Camp, the road turns northerly to Murphy's, which boasts a natural park in a unique setting, likewise a cave that takes its name from the town and is one of nature's underground marvels. Beyond Murphy's the climb over the Sierras begins in earnest. Heavy teaming through the forest as far as the Big Trees has chewed the road up in many places, leaving considerable dust and many hidden chuck holes, requiring gear work and slow going for the sake of comfort.

If the motorist makes an early start from the bay region he can reach the Big Trees easily the first evening. Good hotel accommodations may be had there, also supplies, but it will be found cheaper to purchase these the next morning at Hinkelman's, a few miles distant. One should not leave the grove without first seeing the Big Trees, which are of the Sequoia Gigantea type. The grove which is considered more beautiful than the others is the Calaveras.

After leaving Hinkelman's the real climbing of the tour commences. The grade finds its first climax near Bloods at an elevation of 8000 feet. From that point the road drops down to Pacific and Hermit valleys, then commences its steepest ascent, reaching in a few miles an altitude of 8800 feet, the highest point attained on the entire journey. There is only one road across the Sierra that reaches a higher point, and that is the Tioga road, which at its summit attains an elevation in excess of 9000 feet.

Dropping down from the 8800-foot elevation to Markleeville, a distance of eighteen miles, the road passes through a region which is a scenic wonderland. The road is a steady down grade and one which calls for little use of one's engine, except for braking purposes. Were it not for a few short, comparatively level pieces of road, one could almost drive into Markleeville on compression, using to great advantage most of the time the low gear.

There is an "S" turn directly opposite Silver Mountain, about four miles north of the second summit, which is a real thriller. Motorists declare there is nothing like it elsewhere in California. The grade over the entire "S" is in excess of a 30 per cent. pitch. The last few hundred feet of the turn have the appearance of being a toboggan slide directly into the sheer granite wall of Silver Mountain. The road veers to the left around a projecting shoulder, just as one has nerved oneself for a seemingly certain collision with the mountain, and from there on takes a more level course along Silver Creek to the junction of the latter with the East Carson River, than which there is no more beautiful stream in the Sierra.

SUGAR BARON IN THE LIMELIGHT.

TRANSCONTINENTAL TRAVELER IS DISCOVERED HERE.

Mr. Havemeyer Drives Stutz Across Continent and Successfully Keeps Out of the Limelight Until He Gives up the Motor Car for a Boat.

If Theodore A. Havemeyer, the New York sugar baron, who came to Los Angeles after a transcontinental automobile trip, had not forsaken his motor car for a motor boat, his desire to escape public attention while here might have been fulfilled. Mr. Havemeyer crossed the continent in a Stutz touring car and upon arrival announced he desired a quiet stay and did not care to have mention of his coming made in the newspapers. He was here two weeks, driving his Stutz to a number of places of interest and his wishes to avoid publicity were respected until his unfortunate experience in a boat while on a fishing trip from Catalina Island put him in the limelight.

The fact that the noted financier succeeded in crossing the country in an automobile and avoided publicity is now being remarked upon by Los Angeles automobile men as bringing out another point in favor of the motor car. It lies in the secretiveness of travel, if one prefers it. The dependability of a car, such as the Stutz, enabled the distinguished visitor to have his way entirely across the United States, as he was able to seek out remote hotels and avoid railway stations, thereby escaping the eagle eyes of the vigilant reporter.

NEW HEADQUARTERS FOR AUTO AGENT.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Aug. 23.—F. G. Warren, the local agent for the Overland and Willys-Knight automobiles, has established new headquarters with the Osbun garage on West State street. There he has taken the large building of the garage facing on West State for display purpose, the Osbuns continuing to have the machine shops facing on Central avenue. Mr. Warren is also the local representative for the Smith Form-a-Truck.

The Osbuns, who recently lost the Ford agency here, are negotiating with a well-known automobile company for the exclusive territory for the automobile made by the company.

COMBINATION PARTY TO BISHOP CREEK.

One of the easily-reached hunting and fishing grounds of the east slope of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, where a motor car can be driven right to the site of the camp, is that of Bishop Creek, near the head of Owens Valley.

A combination Hudson and Dodge Bros. motor car trip to that interesting district is now being taken by Harvard Clement and wife in their Hudson six and Roy Curtis and wife in their Dodge Bros. motor car.

ANCIENT "LENA" CAN'T WEAR OUT THE NORWALKS.

"YES, it is decidedly unusual for one to start a trans-continental trip on anything but a set of new tires and I was strenuously advised to put new ones on 'Lena' before starting for New York," said L. M. Maynard, who has just returned from what he claims has been the most interesting transcontinental trip he ever made.

THE SAME ONES.

"But these tires just received from the express company returned from Philadelphia are two of the four Norwalk non-skids that shod 'Lena' before the start of the San Diego to Oakland high-gear run and four months prior to the beginning of the trip I have just finished.

UNMERCIFUL.

"I gave these tires 8251 miles of unmerciful usage before the start of my eastern trip. Skidding the corners on those hills between here and Bakersfield, driving the rough stony road of Pacheco Pass, from west to east in high gear and a hundred and one other stunts 'Lena' and I went through, probably does use up tires and possibly it did make you believe they could not stand a transcontinental trip on top of all this, but they did and what do you think now after the trip they have just finished?

"Here's a letter from W. M. Beadle of Santa Barbara, another from D. Welsch of Riverside, one from the manager of Arrowhead and one from Paul Entenmann, manager of Pine Crest, all stating that I was at their places of business this week with these old Norwalk tires, giving the series numbers and speedometer readings.

"Then here's one from George R. Hamilton of the Western Mechanical Works, giving the meter reading before we took them off with service still in them. And here's the meter reading as Chief of Police Snively checked them out—it makes 578 more real miles of service put on them since they returned from Philadelphia and there's miles in them yet.

SOME MILEAGE.

"You understand these tires were taken off 'Lena's' wheels at Philadelphia because my companion insisted that it was dangerous to drive them longer. They had roaded 12,680 miles up to Philadelphia and 4468 miles of it was transcontinental travel through the boiling heat of the desert land between Reno and Salt Lake, over the summits of many a mountain, along the rock strewn roads of canons and passes and into the heat, rain and mud of the East and Middle West. Yet through it all, from February 11 to August 31, which includes every foot I drove 'Lena' and this last 578 mile trip on her two old tires, as well, five punctures was all the tire trouble I had. And their present total mileage of 13,258 miles is the actual contact these Norwalk tires have had with the road as none of these casings ever rode in a tire cradle."

The Prison Labor Commission of Pennsylvania was the lowest bidder for furnishing license tags to the State highway department for 1917.

Thoroughly Renovated.

FORM-A-TRUCK PLANT ENJOYS GREAT CHANGE.

IMPROVEMENTS now in progress at the local headquarters of the Smith Form-a-Truck Company, Pico and Hill streets, will provide one of the best-appearing salesrooms devoted exclusively to motor trucks in the city. The entire building is being thoroughly renovated and a corps of painters and carpenters has been busy for a week. The walls are being decorated with beautiful scenic paintings depicting scenes in Switzerland and copied from the works of famous masters. The whole interior has been painted white and new office equipment gives the appearance of prosperity.

W. O. Gates, western sales representative for the builders of this popular attachment for the conversion of Ford automobiles into trucks of one-ton capacity has left for an inspection of the northern territory. He will visit the dealers at San Francisco, Portland and Seattle and go over with them the proposition of selecting subdealers to handle business in their respective territories.

The Smith Form-a-Truck attachment is rapidly developing in popularity, Gates says. He is supplying about twenty of the units weekly from the Los Angeles branch and the local retail sales are showing a rapid growth. The sales force was increased during the past week by the addition of C. M. Worthley, who has been identified with the truck business in this city for several years.

Must Have Them.

PAVED ROADS NEEDED INTO THE YOSEMITE.

THE bond issue for good roads, which will be voted on at the election in November, will provide, if it carries, an appropriation for a paved road into the Yosemite. To further these bonds, David A. Curry, stentor of the Yosemite and one of California's first good roads boosters, has formulated a plan for a noval campaign for good roads, in the shape of a carnival tour to the valley.

More than half of the tourists who enter the Yosemite Valley travel in motor cars, and this fact, declares Mr. Curry, makes it imperative for the State to provide better roads into the valley. The Yosemite headquarters has distributed more than 2000 Yosemite booklets during the last week, and the reports from there indicate that more than two-thirds of those who asked for the booklets were motorists. Owing to this Mr. Curry has suggested that Southern California motorists unite for a good roads tour from Los Angeles to the valley.

The tour is scheduled to start from No. 604 South Spring street on the morning of August 25, a two days' schedule being arranged for the drive.

Several motorists already have signified their intention of taking part in the tour, and all those who wish to join the motorists are requested to register their names and addresses with the Camp Curry headquarters.

Motor travel during the month of August will be heavier than ever before in the valley, according to reports received from the forest service. While not so many machines will enter the park as in June and July, probably twice as many as entered last August will be in line.

OFFICIAL SIGNS TO BE AWARDED

Guaranteed Service will be Insisted Upon.

Garages and Hotels to be in Official Lists.

New Department is Created to Handle the Matter.

An innovation undertaken by the Automobile Club of Southern California is the establishment of a chain of official garages and hotels throughout the State, which, acting under contract with the organization, will give guaranteed service.

The largest hotels in California have already applied for the big "official signs" or have signified their intention of doing so.

In view of the fact that thousands of motor parties are pouring westward now, and that the stream will continue throughout the fall, this is of particular importance. The majority of those coming here apply at once for information to the Automobile Club, and in a very short time they will be directed at once to the best hotels and garages in the State.

In addition to erecting the club's emblem and sign above the door of the hostelry or the garage, the club in the future will print an official list of those recognized as reliable by the club officials.

"In order that the Automobile Club of Southern California may guarantee efficient hotel and garage service to its members and to the touring public, the board of directors of the club has authorized the establishment of an 'official hotel department' and an 'official garage department,'" stated President Fred L. Baker yesterday.

LATERAL TO CONNECT VALLEY WITH COAST.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 21.—Of all the laterals to connect the valley and coast trunk lines of the State Highway system as provided for in the $15,000,000 bond issue act to be voted upon in November, perhaps least has been said of the proposed highway to connect Bakersfield in the San Joaquin Valley with the city of San Luis Obispo on the coast. Yet this road, long desired by the people of both sides of the ridge that separates coast from interior, is one of the most important projects contained in the bond issue act for the reason that it will open up to national tourist travel a section of Golden California whose attractive potentialities are generally unknown at the present.

VALLEY LATERAL.

Recently, State Engineer W. F. McClure, State Highway Commissioner C. F. Stern, and Division Engineer W. C. Howe of this city, made a tour of the proposed San Luis Obispo-Bakersfield highway route. They refused to be interviewed, but it is understood that the members of the party were very strongly impressed with the feasibility and desirability of this proposed valley to coast lateral. The farmers and land owners along the route are united in their efforts to aid the Highway Commissioners in routing the proposed new State highway and rights of way will be donated undoubtedly for the entire stretch. The Kern county portion of this proposed San Luis-Obispo-Bakersfield lateral is rapidly nearing completion at the hands of Kern county, which recently issued bonds for a county highway system that is being extended throughout the oil fields and part of which system will be taken over by the State as part of the cross-country road, connecting valley and coast, if the $15,000,000 bond issue carries this November.

The San Luis Obispo-Bakersfield highway will be the southernmost in the San Joaquin series of laterals, and will tap the coast at a point approximately half way between the cities of San Francisco and Los Angeles. This means that from north or south or east San Luis Obispo will be easily reached. Tourists will be enabled to make short interesting trips from Southern California points via the coast or inland highways, crossings over the San Luis Obispo-Bakersfield lateral for the return. Northern tourists may make similar trips south as far as the San Luis Obispo-Bakersfield lateral.

MUCH DESIRED.

First of all the completion of this San Luis Obispo-Bakersfield road will bring to the coast in San Luis Obispo county the great majority of people in the southern San Joaquin who crave the cooling sea breezes and the ocean shore as relief from the heat of the interior in summer.

This will result in the development of tourist attractions, so far barely dreamed of in this section, because of the practical isolation now. Among the points of interest in this district are and will be: Pismo Beach, having a hard packed sand, and gentle slope, twenty miles long and a quarter-mile wide; Morro Beach, where the famous Morro Rock stands sentinel; the well-known Atascadero Colony, ten miles long and seven miles wide; the Paso Robles Hot Springs and the San Luis Hot Springs.

Very Popular.

TIME LIMIT PLACED ON DEMONSTRATIONS.

Retail deliveries of the new series nine Franklin automobile are to begin with the arrival of the next shipment, which will be within two weeks, according to Ralph C. Hamlin, the distributor. Mr. Hamlin was able to retain only [illegible] cars from the first shipment, the others being placed with subscribers.

The requests for demonstrations of the new car have been so numerous that a time limit has been established on the use of the car for this purpose. Those who have ridden remark about the improvement in acceleration and the greater speed possibilities. In its first run after being washed up the new car climbed West Sixth-street hill on high gear and showed a pick-up of from five miles an hour at the bottom to twenty-five at the top.

By the use of ball bearings exclusively friction has been reduced almost to the minimum in the Franklin. The car weighs but 2350 pounds when the tanks are full of oil and gasoline. A pressure of sixteen pounds will start rolling the car on the street and ten pounds will keep it in motion. When standing on a slight decline, it is necessary to keep the brake set to prevent the car from seeking a level. In fact, on a street that appears perfectly level to the eye, the car will roll, indicating a down grade.

Absolutely.

PACKERS CONVINCED OF MOTOR TRUCK VALUE.

Of all American business enterprises, the one which might be called most typically American is the packing business. The [illegible] houses of Chicago have become proverbial as the industries in which everything, even the squeal, is utilized, either as food or some by-product, and nothing goes to waste. The very nature of their business, and the economical lines along which it is conducted, naturally has made it foremost among those industries in which the motor truck has become the standard method of transportation. The fact that Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Morris & Co., the Cudahy Packing Company, Sulzberger & Sons & Co., and other large packers are using Autocars is a striking testimony to Autocar efficiency.

"The stockyards in Chicago are one of the chief sights of the city," said Salesmanager Vernon of the local Autocar organization, in speaking of a recent visit. "The area they cover and the number of heads of live stock they kill and ship each day is to the layman a mass of figures so large as to be bewildering. But to talk with the purchasing agents, the garage superintendents and the truck drivers is worth a long trip to anyone interested in transportation.

"For a whole day I had the pleasure of meeting different men interested in the truck end of several of the large packing-houses. The thing that was of particular interest was the exactness with which upkeep and operating figures came from the men on the road to the executive offices. Motor trucks have had a thorough tryout here and have come into their own.

"At the loading platform of one concern we talked to the foreman who has charge of loading and routing the trucks. He was most enthusiastic in his praise of the Autocar, for, as he said, 'with its ninety-seven-inch wheelbase, the Autocar can get around where other trucks have difficulty, and it is so simple in construction and so reliable that we know it will always turn up at this platform on schedule time.'"

STRENUOUS TRIP INTO NEW REGION.

In less than a week, a journey of 926.7 miles from Caldwell, Idaho, to Portland, Or., that formerly required no less than sixty days by stage, the only method of transportation, was completed by three Cole eight motor cars, according to advices received by James L. Irving, the local Cole dealer.

The personnel of the party that made use of the three Coles was composed of Gov. James Withycombe of Oregon, ex-Gov. Hawley of Idaho, several other officials of the two States, prominent Chicago capitalists and R. P. Henderson of the Cole Motor Car Company.

The trip was made for the purpose of exploring this little-known region of the two States and ascertaining the possibilities of development. The tourists learned that there are vast mountains of potassium nitrate that tower hundreds of feet in the air and alkali lakes covering thousands of acres that can be reclaimed and vast areas of good farming land opened up.

G. S. Corpe of El Monte among hundreds of others has received exceptional mileage from Portage Tires. Read what Mr. Corpe says:

Such instances as this have resulted in the Portage being termed the "High Mileage Tire."

CORRECT SPEEDOMETER WILL SAVE BILLS.

A rather amusing letter, accompanying an order, was received last week by the California Sales Company, dealers in Stewart-Warner products exclusively, from a party living at Brawley, Imperial Valley, telling why he was sending in his old speedometer to be exchanged for one of the new Warners.

It seems they have speed cops down in that section and this man was "rambling" along about thirty miles an hour when he was overtaken by the officer and notified to appear in the justice's court. In trying to reason with the officer he stated that he was positive he was going just thirty miles an hour, as he had been watching the speedometer, while the officer claimed at least forty-five miles an hour. Seeing that the man was sincere in his talk the officer then tested the fellow's speedometer with his own, and at a speed of forty-five miles the man's instrument registered only thirty miles, so taking the officer's advice he was getting a new speedometer.

Cleveland may try professional football this fall and should the idea meet with approval a six-club league may be launched including Columbus, Toledo, Youngstown, Canton and Massillon.

TRUCKS USED IN MANY EMERGENCIES.

There are few emergencies arising nowadays in which the motor truck is unable to play an important part.

Trucks have been used this summer to carry refugees and their personal effects out of flooded or burned areas in the Southeast and Northwest.

Out in Nevada recently a Federal two-ton truck owned by the Verdi Lumber Company was called upon to transport troops to a town that had been completely destroyed by forest fires.

Can't be Done.

STORMS, RAIN AND MUD FAIL TO STOP HUDSON.

SPEEDING over the hills and valleys on his return trip Dr. C. E. McCoy of Bozeman, Mont., is now en route from this city to his home in that northern State.

Dr. McCoy is traveling in a Hudson Super-six roadster and is making a quick trip up the Coast route, through San Francisco, over the Shasta route to Portland, Or., and then to Seattle, from which point he will turn east, crossing the Cascade Mountains over the new Sunset highway, through Snoqualmie Pass, across the dry valleys of Eastern Washington, and after a short visit at Spokane, will send his car through the Bitter Root Mountains to his home at Bozeman.

SOME DRIVER.

That the doctor is some motorist is shown by his run from Bozeman to this city, when he made 1500 miles in seven days. In two instances he forced his car through great snow drifts at 8000 feet elevation, and then crossed the great Nevada deserts of alkali, sand and millions of arroyos and cross washes. In spite of those difficulties the Hudson averaged over 200 miles a day.

When Dr. McCoy reported to Harold L. Arnold that he had made this remarkable trip, he stated that the sum total of his delays en route was that caused by two punctures. The doctor stated to Mr. Arnold that he wanted particularly to compliment the Hudson company in putting out a car that absolutely could not be heated in climbing the longest mountain grades or plowing through the deepest snows or sands of the desert. He also spoke most favorably of the fact that no adjustments to the carburetor were made on any of the eight mountain ranges he crossed on his road from Montana to Southern California.

LITTLE WATER.

"We never put a drop of water in the radiator from the time we started," said the doctor, "and never had occasion to lift the hood, except to put oil in the crank case, for the entire 1500 miles of the trip. We found on the good stretches that our Super-six could do seventy-five miles an honr without a whimper, and while that much speed is not necessary, it is rather satisfying to know that you have a car that can do it if you want to.

"In spite of mud, snow, rains and sand that we encountered on various portions of the trip we were not delayed for a single moment for any road or car trobules. For two days and a half we had so much rain that the storm curtains were never lifted. After taking this trip, and from the standpoint of a physician, too, I wonder that many fagged, town-weary business men still take their vacations in crowded sleepers and city hotels, monotonous in their sameness, when they can make such a drive as I have just made and have the thrill of combatting the great 'out-of-doors,' a thing that always puts an edge on the appetite and makes nine hours on the Ostermoor none too much.

Try it, Girls.

DRIVING A CAR IS NOT SO HARD.

DARGE CAR IS AS EASY TO HANDLE AS SMADD ONE.

Mrs. Hanshue Advises Women Try Driving Before They Make up Their Minds that it is too Difficult—Ease of Control Makes Driving a Matter of Practice.

"A woman never knows just how simple it is to operate a big, powerful, high grade automobile until she tries it," remarked Mrs. Harris M. Hanshue, wife of the manager of the local Apperson branch, when commenting upon her recent exploit of driving an Apperson Roadaplane roadster from San Francisco to Los Angeles in high gear.

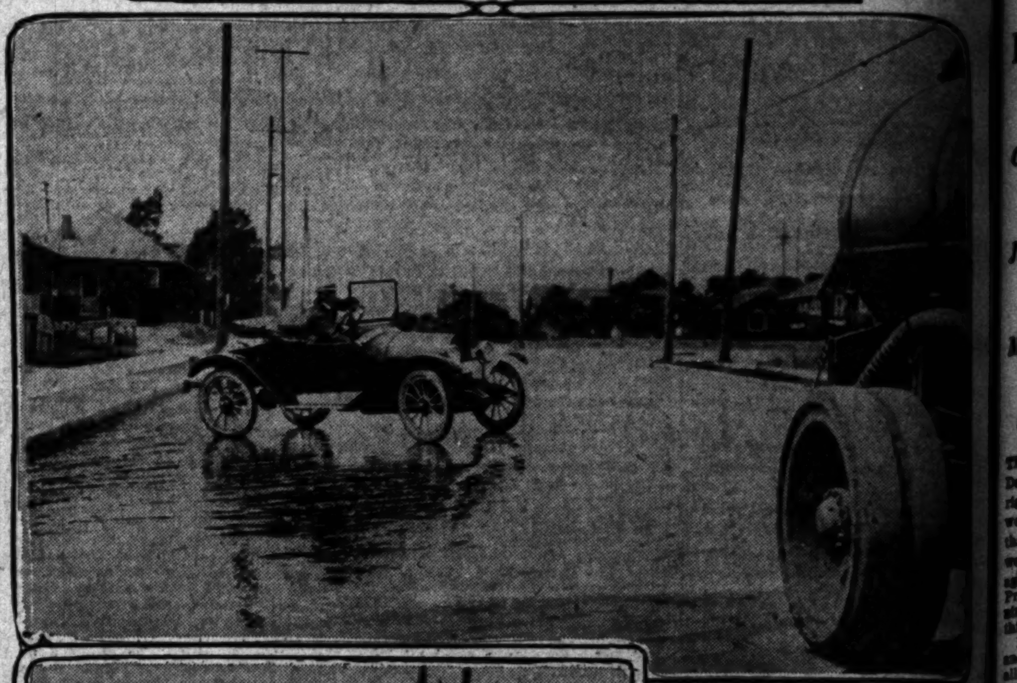
"I have heard women say they would not care for a 'large' car. For their personal use they prefer an automobile of short wheelbase, and lacking in the power and quick response that most men seem to demand in the car they drive," she said. "They may have good reasons for their opinion and I do not regard myself as qualified to be a superior judge. Before my run down from San Francisco, my driving experience all together was limited to less than 100 miles and I never have driven anything but an Apperson.

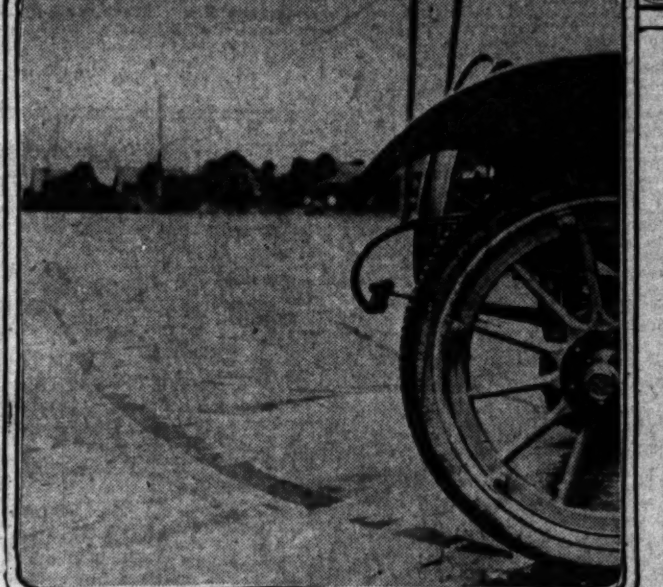
BEST BOOSTERS.

"My husband says it is the ease of control of an Apperson that makes it so well fitted for a woman's car. I understand that some of the best boosters of our cars are women, who have had experience with other automobiles and they say the Apperson is unusually easy to handle. I realize there must be the proper apportionment of weight to horse power, simplicity of operation, dependability and comfort to make them think this way."

Mrs. Hanshue was asked if she experienced any thrills or had an attack of "nerves" at any time. She was alone in the car and her inexperience put her absolutely on her own reliance.

Springfield (Mass.) is to try a utility horse exhibition in connection with the National Dairy Show, October 16 to 21.





A new science—skidding.

One of the new Monroe roadsters was taken out on a slippery stretch of pavement the other day and it conclusively demonstrated the fact that skidding is an art. The driver, Mr. Pennock, would get a speed of thirty miles per hour, throw the machine onto the slippery stretch and lock the brakes. He would aim at a curb or telegraph pole and when the car would begin to skid in that direction he would yank it up into the middle of the road with a simple twist of the wrist. He claimed, and certainly proved, that he had absolue control of the car on any kind of street, wet, dry or otherwise.

Fair Enough.

TRUCK OWNERS HAVE EXACTING REQUIREMENTS.

THAT the Stewart line of trucks completely fills the requirements of the most exacting buyers is the firm belief of Lieut. C. A. Shephard of Carlton-Shephard-Bowles, Inc., and this belief is more than justified by the way the Stewart trucks have been selling since the agency was taken over by the above firm. Four trucks in one day is the record for the past week, each truck an individual order and all going into different lines of business.

Before the Stewart line was taken over by Carlton-Shephard-Bowles, Inc., the trucks were given a most thorough testing by the firm, and each of the three classes of trucks more than lived up to every requirement. Lieut. Shephard is in a position to know just what is expected of a good truck and just what is needed in order that it may fulfill every demand that is made upon it, for his years of service in the United States Army has given him a knowledge of trucks which few civilians possess. Lieut. Shephard was one of the officers detailed by the War Department to test out trucks for army service, was assistant to the chief quartermaster, under Gen. Funston in the Philippine Islands, and for two and a half years was on the Mexican border, where trucking conditions are at their worst.

The loads carried by army trucks are always maximum capacity, with frequent overloading, and if there is any defect in a truck army service will invariably bring it out, for they are subject to the roughest kind of use. To successfully qualify as a real truck the machine must be designed for truck purposes only and built to withstand the hard service that this type of car is given.

The old military road across the Cascade Mountains is to be improved for motor travel.

That Record Run.

MILITARY MEN ARE INTERESTED.

CROSS-COUNTRY TRIP CA[illegible] MUCH DISCUSSION.

Rigidly-followed Schedule Adds Importance to Run in Connection with Transportation of Troops — Speed Required in Rapid Changing of Positions.

Military authorities in all parts of the country were keenly interested in the recent record-breaking transcontinental run of the Marmon [illegible] from New York to San Francisco, according to Al G. Faulkner, Southern California distributor for the car, who recently returned from a trip East, during which he was in New York from the time the run started until it finished. The car ri[illegible] followed a schedule which had been mapped out for it, and which demanded that at no time should a speed of more than fifty miles an hour be attained. This speed, it was considered, was the maximum at which troops could be carried with safety over open roads. The fact that the car successfully followed the conditions imposed on it was a source of pride and gratification to every army man.

NO TROUBLE.

"Even should there be trouble with railway transportation during time of war," said Mr. Faulkner, "there would be no difficulty in transporting troops from one end of the country to the other. And the speed would be practically as great as that of trains. The work of the car, with amateur drivers, through the [illegible] Mountains proved without a doubt that they could offer no obstruction to the mobilization of troops by motor car.

"The sturdy construction of the Marmon, and the unqualified success of the new ideas in construction which the car introduced, were amply proved by the test. The inspection of the car at San Francisco showed that every part had been faithful in its work, and that no undue strain had appeared at any point in the car."

LARGE SHIPMENT OF VESTA PLATES.

A large shipment of Vesta batteries and Vesta plates was received last week by Alle S. Hamilton of the Los Angeles Ignition Works, who reports a larger volume of business than at any previous time.

Mr. Hamilton, the pioneer ignition battery man of this city, says that even his greatly-enlarged floor space is not adequate to accommodate the cars that have been coming in for ignition repair work and for the installation of the Vesta batteries.

We are also shipping out a great many of these Vestas through different points in Southern California, and only last week five of these batteries went out in one shipment to one small town, as the result of the indorsement of a satisfied user in that section.

DECIDED VIEWS ON AUTO PROBLEMS.

Contending that the automobile road funds of California should be expended in the district where they are collected, rather than used as the county and State officials see fit, Herman C. Lichtenberger, candidate for Supervisor of the Fourth District, believes this method should be changed and has gained the political support of many motorists who see the unfairness of the present system, especially as it applies to the Fourth Supervisorial District. His many friends predict victory for him at the primaries on Tuesday because of his decided views on this as well as many other matters.

MILLERS WIN CHICAGO RACE.

Another great carburetor victory was recorded for the Miller carburetor, Saturday, August 19, when Dario Resta won the Chicago Grand Prix on the Chicago Speedway, average speed, 100 miles per hour. Immediately after the race, Dario Resta wired Harry A. Miller Manufacturing Company, as follows:

"Once again Miller carburetor and pistons help me to victory, winning the Grand Prix race here Saturday. Average speed 100 miles per hour."

Sit alone at the throttle of a 7-passenger Chalmers or, if you like, with three or five or seven friends. You'll find the same uniform, easy, steady feel of the motor. It makes no difference to a Chalmers motor how many people you take with you.

It is the remarkable lack of effort, the utter unconcern, the absence of strain and grunt that makes Chalmers driving a joy. The 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers motor takes the nerve-snapping tensity off the driver and puts it on the motor, where it belongs. It makes you feel like holding back, instead of pushing forward.

Plenty of power for every use and plenty to spare has put the famous 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers at the head of the master-of-the-road class. On the level, on the hill, across the country, in desert traveling or wherever automobiles are wont to go, the Chalmers 3400 r. p. m. motor has established itself. It has established the stock car record from Chicago to New York, Detroit to Indianapolis, Atlanta to Chattanooga and Jacksonville to Atlanta.

The 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers motor has made power-dependability a fact. This is a quality that makes every Chalmers owner a Chalmers enthusiast, a Chalmers patron, year after year.

Why have Chalmers sales increased nearly 800 per cent. and the number of newly appointed Chalmers dealers been enlarged nearly 700, if not because of the establishment of the 3400 r. p. m. power plant? It is for this same reason that you see so many more Chalmers cars on the road than you ever did before. It makes no difference to a 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers.

The New Series Franklin Car

Here is the solution for motorists of America of a difficult mechanical problem that is engaging the attention of some of the world's greatest engineers today. The method by which the Franklin Company has eliminated in the Series 9 Franklin 400 pounds from an already scientific-light-weight car is an achievement that is five years in advance of current engineering practice.

LET the man who is looking for an automobile which gives maximum service—and by maximum service we mean more COMFORT, more SAFETY, more RELIABILITY and less cost of UPKEEP and DEPRECIATION—consider the facts:

The Franklin car holds the world's record for tire economy and gasoline economy.

The New Series Franklin Car will deliver its owner 17 per cent. more tire economy and 20 per cent. more gasoline economy than the Franklin Cars which established these world's records.

The Franklin car is acknowledged to be the easiest riding car in the world.

The New Series Franklin Car is a smoother rolling, easier riding, easier controlled car than any of its predecessors.

THE New Series Franklin incorporates all the established principles of Franklin construction:. Six-cylinder direct-air-cooled engine; full-elliptic springs front and rear; wood chassis frame; flexible drive through the springs; large tires (cord type.)

Built in eight types: Touring Car, $1850; Runabout, $1800; Four-passenger Roadster, $1850; Cabriolet, $2650; Sedan, $2750; Brougham, $2700; Limousine, $3000; Town Car, $3000; F. O. B. Syracuse.

An inspection of the car now on our salesroom floor will make these points plain. Driving it will open up a new conception of motoring pleasure.

BOBBY DAVIS GETS HOMER.

Oakland Takes Four Out of Five from Angels.

J. Ryan Loses Second Game this Week.

McLarry Makes Circuit Swat with None On.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Aug. 26.—To Bobby Davis and his home run over the right-field fence when the bases were full, the Oaks can extend their thanks for the fourth win of the week and a cinch of the series against Los Angeles. But when Bill Prough started skyward in the ninth, the tailenders needed everything they had to win out by 8 to 6.

It was a game of heavy hitting and wallops for extra bases, but for all the smashing of the ball, the pitchers stood fast to their jobs. Why Jack Ryan was allowed to weather the storm, particularly as he was in a hole in almost every inning he pitched, is something Frank Chance can best explain.

The Angels got away to a two-run lead, McLarry hoisted the ball over the fence tops in the third, while doubles by Rube Ellis and Galloway in the fourth accounted for another.

It was evened in the last of the fourth. Kenworthy walked and when Lane skied to the clubhouse, Maggert dropped the ball and Kenworthy just did get to second in time. Davis sacrificed while Barbeau drove to center to tally the pair.

In the fifth, however, the Oaks forged so far to the front that pursuit seemed useless. Middleton hit to the right field fence; Berger walked and Barry sacrificed. Kenworthy was purposely walked. Lane smashed to left for one run and Davis lifted over right for four runs.

The Angels edged one closer when Harry Walter, Phil Koerner and Galloway produced singles in a row, but the Oaks took it back as Barbeau doubled to center in the eighth and scored on infield outs by his battery mates.

Which brought us up to what looked to be a peaceful ninth inning. McLarry opened with a single to short and was forced by Jackson, subbing for Butler. Ryan poled to right and when Kenworthy booted on Maggert's drive a run came in. Ellis accounted for two more as he clicked to the outfield, but there the rally died. The score:

PORTLAND, Aug. 26.—Ineffective pitching cost Portland a double-header to Salt Lake today, 6 to 5 and 6 to 3. Southpaw Fittery was hit hard in the opener, but Hagerman's wildness and poor support by Roche gave the Bees the edge. Southpaw Hoff clearly outpitched Sothoron in the second. Scores:

The Angels got away to a two-run lead. McLarry hoisted the ball over the fence tops in the third, and doubles by Rube Ellis and Galloway in the fourth accounted for another.

It was evened in the last of the fourth. Kenworthy walked and when Lane skied to the clubhouse, Haggert dropped the ball and Kenworthy just did get to second in time. Davis sacrificed while Barbeau drove a double to tally the pair.

In the fifth, however, the Oaks moved so far to the front that pursuit seemed useless. Middleton hit to the right field fence; Berger walked and Barry sacrificed. Kenworthy was purposely walked. Lane smashed to left for one run and Davis lifted to right for four runs.

The Angels edged one closer when Walter, Phil Koerner and Galloway produced singles in a row, but the Oaks took it back as Barbeau doubled to center in the eighth and scored on infield outs by his teammates.

Which brought us up to what seemed to be a peaceful ninth inning. McLarry opened with a single to short and was forced by Jackson, batting for Butler. Ryan poled to left and when Kenworthy booted Haggert's drive a run came in. He accounted for two more as he hied to the outfield, but there the rally died. The score:

PORTLAND, Aug. 26.—Ineffective pitching cost Portland a double-header to Salt Lake today, 6 to 5 and 6 to 3. Southpaw Fittery was hit hard in the opener, but Hagerman's wildness and poor support by Kelly gave the Bees the edge. Sothoron Hoff clearly outpitched Sothoron in the second. Scores:

CLUBMEN GO OCEAN FISHING IN YACHT.

A number of the members of the Los Angeles Athletic Club are spending today in a fishing party off the coast somewhere. They left Santa Monica late last night in Lee's yacht.

Those making the trip were Art, Dan McLeod, Joe Paglia, Webb Brain, Ben Brain, McLearn, Clark Jargstorff, Lee, Nye Williams, W. W., Walla Wheeler, Jack Nest, F., Frank Rea and Harry.

None of the above named expected to do any sleeping last night.

Tigers Win.

In the fourth inning, Risberg scored. He walked, took second when Coffey dropped Sepulveda's peg and scored when Callahan's hit took a nasty bound over Coffey's head. The fans should have blamed the pebble that deflected the ball, but they didn't. They shouted at the old veteran who was trying to come back.

"Ah, come on in out of the sun, West," somebody yelled, "Give the Seals a chance."

PITCHING.

The innings went by. Tiger after Tiger retired helplessly. The fans began to realize that West was pitching baseball and that, except for tough luck, he would have shut the Tigers out. They began to clap when he walked to the bench after every inning.

In the seventh, when Sepulveda went to bat, Wolverton grabbed a bat, motioned West to the clubhouse and ordered Ericson to warm up. Sepulveda grounded out, Mitchell to Autrey. Wolverton countermanded his order and sent Hi to bat. By this narrow margin was Hi saved to fame.

In the next inning came the Seal rally that tied the score, and when it was Hi's turn to bat again nobody thought of yanking him.

THE RALLY.

Autrey and Fitzgerald both singled. Chief Johnson and Decanniere began warming up. Schaller sacrificed. Bodie straddled the plate. Mitchell didn't like his looks and walked him. The bases were full. Downs grounded to Mitchell. The latter threw wild to the plate and Autrey slid home safe. The bases still were full. Wolverton, batting for Sepulveda, stalked forward swinging a bat. He fussed Mitchell completely. The latter walked him. Fitzgerald crossed the plate with the tying run. Decanniere retired the Seals.

Hi West shut out the Tigers in their end of the eighth and also in the ninth, as did Dec the Seals. But in the first of the tenth Ping Bodie, who was now the shortstop, raised the dickens. Fitzgerald was on second, having singled and reached the keystone on Schaller's sacrifice. Bodie caught one of Decanniere's bends and rattled it against the right-field fence, Fitzgerald scoring. A little later Bodie scored on Dec's error.

SOME TROUBLE.

Hi West retired the Tigers in their half with some trouble. McGaffigan singled and Hess walked. With two on, Patterson thought he was Wolverton and undertook to pinch-hit amid shrieks and boos. He drove a liner across third. Jones dove and nabbed the ball and crawled on his stomach to third, retiring McGaffigan. Doane and Gleichmann filed out.

CONGRATULATIONS.

At the close of the tenth inning the fans crowded around the Seal box and congratulated Hi West. Seldom has this happened in the Coast League or any other. As he walked across to the clubhouse the fans crowding to the exit stopped long enough to clap.

Thus did a veteran come back and those, who in the beginning scoffed, remained to cheer him. The score:

BUSH TWIRLS HITLESS GAME.

Graney Gets Pass and is Only One to Reach First.

Seven Batters are Retired by Strikeouts.

Joe Gets Excited and Joins in the Cheering.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—Joe Bush entered the "hall of fame for pitchers" when he shut out Cleveland and did not allow his opponents a hit today, the score being 5 to 0. Only one of the visiting players reached first base. This was Graney, who, in the first inning, drew a base on balls. Bush struck out seven batsmen, eight went out on grounders, eleven were retired on fair flies, and one on a foul fly. When Graney ended the game by putting up a fly to McInnis, after O'Neill and Coleman had fanned, the crowd broke onto the field to congratulate Bush, and the latter was so excited that he pulled off his cap and joined in the cheering. This was the first no-hit game pitched in a major-league contest here in several years. Philadelphia won the game by hitting the delivery of Coveleskie hard, he being knocked off the rubber in five innings. The score:

DAVENPORT OUT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—New York won a see-saw game from St. Louis today, 10 to 6. Davenport, St. Louis's star pitcher, was hit on the right hand in the fourth by Fisher and was unable to continue pitching when St. Louis took the field. Fisher was forced to retire in the sixth after injuring his nose in a head-first slide.

New York made a triple play in the third. With two runs in and the bases filled, Severeid hit to Peckinpaugh, whose throw to Alexander forced Sisler at the plate. Alexander shot the ball to Pipp in time to retire Severeid and Pipp returned the ball to Alexander, who retired Pratt, trying to score from second. The score:

VITT GETS TRIPLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—On its final appearance in Boston, Detroit defeated the Red Sox, 2 to 1, today. An error by Hoblitzel in the eighth inning gave Detroit its first run. A triple by Vitt, first man up in the ninth, and a sacrifice fly by Bush brought the second. Boston scored its only run on a two-base hit by Ruth, batting for Lewis, and a single by Hoblitzel. Mays pitched a great game. He was retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth. In the first inning he caught both Bush and Cobb napping off first. The score:

SCHNEIDER TOO GOOD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26.—Brooklyn was unable to score off Schneider and Cincinnati won today, 1 to 0. It was a pitchers' battle between Coombs and Schneider, with the latter keeping the hits better scattered. The one run was made in the sixth inning when Louden singled and took second on Hobbs's sacrifice hit. Neale then singled, scoring Louden. The score:

CUBS LOSE AGAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Boston bunched its hits off McConnell today, driving him off the mound, and then continued the assault against Packard and with the assistance of some erratic fielding scored an easy victory over Chicago, 8 to 3. The locals scored three runs while Barnes was on the mound for the Braves, but when Tyler replaced him the Cubs were unable to score.

President Weeghman said after the game that as yet no deal had been made for the trading of Heinie Zimmerman, but several were still pending. He expected to talk trade with the Philadelphia club Monday. The score: demands more than appearance. It insists uninterruptedly upon powerful service, while requiring a consistent appearance as a basis of business dignity.

Business

The beauty of Scripps-Booth cars is merely an outer expression of inner harmony.

Scripps-Booth

From the very heart of things—from the heart of machinery, rods, cams and valves operating in perfect unity of purpose—rises its wonderful reputation for smoothing out rough roads.

From speeding on suburban boulevards to winding the tortuous sand and rocky roads of a trans-continental trip, Scripps-Booth has responded to all that has been asked of it and more. It has fought its way over mountain passes, and has barked defiance at desert and cactus trail—not one car but hundreds—and has stood the test. No car enjoys so many miles per day in the hands of the average owner as does the Scripps-Booth.

For city work it is known as ideal; few, except owners, realize its country road value. Note its comfort-action the next time one passes your car on rough going.

Scripps-Booth is a new spirit in motoring.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—The seventeenth annual Grand American handicap of the Interstate Association of Trap Shooters closed here today with the shooting off of ties for places in the grand American handicap, which was won by J. F. Wulf of Milwaukee, Wis. The consolation handicap resulted in a tie between H. E. Furness of St. Louis, shooting from sixteen yards, and W. E. Phillips, Jr., of Chicago, shooting from eighteen yards. Furness won on the shoot off of twenty targets, seventeen to sixteen. Phillips is 16 years old.

Third place went to Mrs. L. C. Vogel of Detroit, Mich. The purse in the consolation event was $850.

During the week 227,250 targets were thrown. The purses for the different events totalled $20,000. R. A. King of Delta, Colo., was the greatest money winner, his winnings totalling more than $1000. He placed in nearly every event.

Hats were awarded to the women shooters. Mrs. L. C. Vogel won the first hat in the grand American handicap with eighty-seven, and Miss Harriet Hammond of Wilmington, Del., was second, with eighty-four. Miss Hammond was the only woman to break twenty straight in the handicap.

E. Malon, Jewell, Iowa, 98, $557.
H. C. Daley, Carlinsville, Ill., 97, $443.

QUAIL PLENTIFUL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MURRIETTA SPRINGS, Aug. 25.—The opening of the dove and quail seasons here will see an abundance of the birds, and numerous limit bags will mark the opening of the killfest. That the fields will also be well filled with hunters is already indicated by the inquiries coming in regarding the birds. Local conditions have been excellent for the hatch and growth of the birds, and the immense acreage of wheat and barley fields has provided an unlimited food supply for the birds, while arroyo, canyon and miles of chaparral-covered slopes have given them protected nesting places and protected runs.

ARMSTRONG WINS AGAIN.

E. S. Armstrong, who is playing at the top of his game just now, again won the weekly sweepstakes at the Los Angeles Country Club yesterday with 3 up on par. Armstrong himself says he has never played so well as he is doing now, so that his entry for the national championship, for which he leaves next week, is fraught with great possibilities.

The class-B cup in the same event was won by M. P. Snyder, who, after tying with four other players, won in the play-off with 12-12 even.

Owing to the absence of Macbeth, the semifinals in the president's cup have been a little delayed. Macbeth defeated McMullen 3 up and 2 and now has to play H. A. Barclay. The winner of that match will play young C. L. Barker in the finals.

Another New One.

REMARKABLE MOTOR IS FEATURE OF NEW BRISCOE.

ONE of the latest arrivals in automobiles in Los Angeles this week is the car with the half-million-dollar motor, known to the motor world as the Briscoe 4-24. The Pacific KisselKar branch has the representation of this car for the entire Pacific Coast and has been representing it for the past two years. By the arrival of this latest product of the Briscoe factory a triumph of success is achieved.

This new Briscoe is the work of ten of the most noted engineers of the world, including both French and Swiss workmen. In a word, motordom now has the fully-developed remarkable motor of Benjamin Briscoe, who is one of the founders of the industry, in the refinement of which he has spent $500,000 and which embodies the genius of Sizaire, the famous French builder, and the noted Swiss engineer, Louis Gerster. It is understood that Benjamin Briscoe's story of how he and his associates designed and built his lifetime masterpiece in Europe is very gripping—how he achieved the half-million-dollar motor, and how fourteen scientists worked with him for a year and a half to give the American people a really good motor car of European engineering excellence at a price made possible only by American methods is a wonderful story.

At last this car has come to live. It is a real automobile for the American of ordinary means, of everyday income, who wants and must have a car of beauty, power, speed and topnotch efficiency. This is the car with the motor that cost $500,000 to create and perfect, the car in the class with unfillable demand, the car with the right price, the car that is bound immediately to win pre-eminence because of the distinctive characteristics that challenge comparison with any automobile selling in America today for $1000 or less.

UNDERLYING PRINCIPLES ARE PROVEN CORRECT.

THE soundness of the fundamental principles underlying the construction of the first eight-cylinder Cadillac has received further emphasis in the announcement that again this season there will be no radical change in the car. This will mark the third season in which the Cadillac eight has been marketed. At present 31,000 of these cars are in the hands of owners, and yet no weakness in the motor or chassis has been developed.

There will be eleven body styles from which to choose. There will be slight changes in the body lines. The drop in the frame will be lower than formerly. The wheel base will be lengthened to 125 inches, with a 132-inch wheel base for the enclosed cars. General refinements and added equipment will feature the new car, and the first shipment will be here within two weeks. These are the most important facts revealed by the announcement.

The fact that there have been no radical changes does not mean that the Cadillac process of refinement has come to a conclusion. In many ways the new car is a better, finer car than any which has preceded it. It means that the fundamentals of construction have proved thoroughly sound. It means that the Cadillac company has arrived at the deliberate judgment that the kind of a motor car which it is now building represents a higher degree of efficiency than any other in existence. It means that this is the joint judgment of every expert mind associated with this company, as well as the experience and judgment of 31,000 owners. The new Cadillac conforms to the finest Cadillac tradition, down to the least and last of details—and it advances them still more closely toward perfection.

MOTORISTS HAVE A KICK COMING.

Who Threw GLASS in ROAD

Is the glass thrower worth killing?

This is what motorists of Southern California want to know. People who toss bottles or any kind of glass in the public highways, thereby causing numerous punctures and blowouts, certainly should be dealt with in some way or other. A crusade is being started to exterminate the glass thrower, and it looks like a good one. The unfortunate gentleman in the picture who is dangling from the radiator cap of a Studebaker Four, is being given suitable treatment. Motion pictures were taken of this stunt and the films will be shown in an effort to keep glass off the public highways.

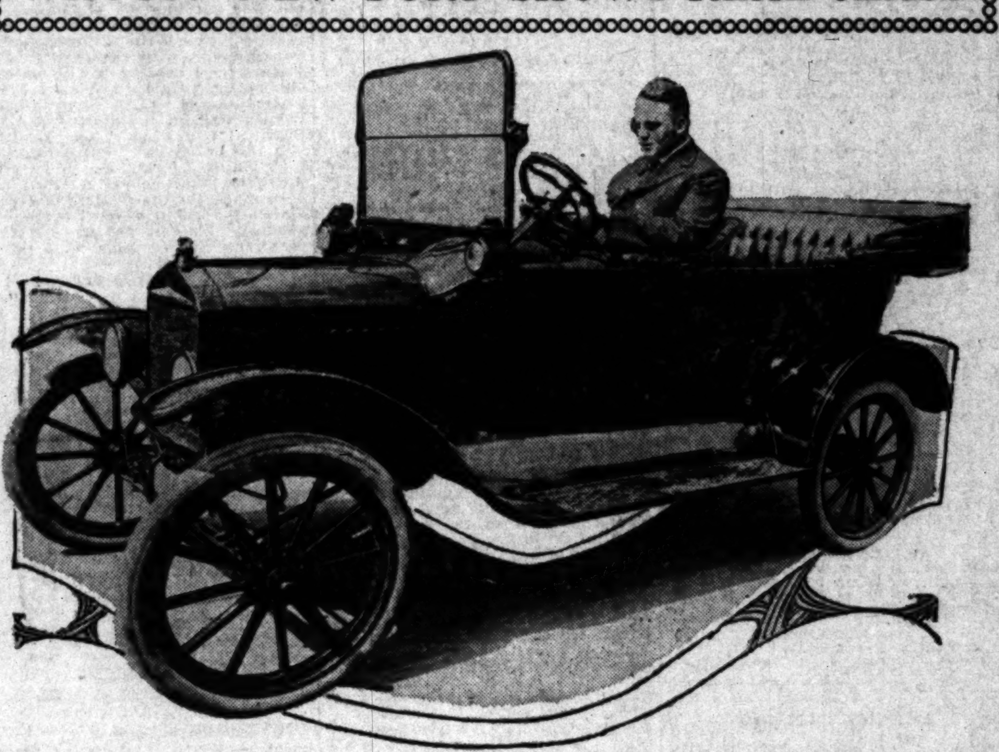
WILL a regular human being throw an empty beer bottle in the road where automobiles must pass? Answer: He will not! The glass-thrower may look like a human being; he may sound like a human being; he may act somewhat like a human being at times, but the soul of him is, in reality, the soul of a gnat, a mosquito—he is a human gad-fly.

If old man Job had had a brand new automobile on modern pneumatic tires, and if he had gone out with Mrs. Job for a nice spin on a Sunday afternoon, and if some craven-hearted creature of the bottomless pit disguised as a human being had thrown an empty beer bottle in the road and then the two right-hand tires of the Job car had made connection with the said broken glass and exploded like a cannon cracker, the chances are "The Patience of Job" would have become the impatience of Job, and the history of the world would have been changed, or at least sadly dented.

The picture herewith depicting the hanging in effigy from the "yard-arm" of a Studebaker four of the infamous characters in human disguise who throw glass in the road, it is hoped will cause careless people to think twice before tossing an empty bottle in the road.

The careless practice, by no means uncommon, of throwing glass in the road is costing the motoring public hundreds of dollars from week to week, to say nothing of much needless irritation and delay. The throwing of glass, tacks or tin cans in the road is a serious violation of both city and State laws, and motorists are urged to take the license number of any automobile from which empty bottles are tossed on the road and report same to Lieut. Butler of the Los Angeles police department, who has "something to say" that will be a source of satisfaction to the long-suffering fraternity who pay the tire bills for the motoring public.

WHOOP! NEW FORD SHOWS REAL CLASS



Look what's among us—the 1917 Ford.

This nifty creation arrived in town yesterday and immediately became the center of interest. It's new radiator, crowned fenders and classy hood give it a distinguished and somewhat foreign appearance.

AND now comes the new 1917 Ford. To say that it is an improvement on all other models would be putting it mildly. The mechanical construction remains practically the same, but the body lines, radiator, fenders, etc., are all new style and improved.

The first shipments of the new models were received by the Fahy-Atterbury Sales Company, authorized Ford sales and service agents. A new salesroom has been opened by this concern at No. 1036 South Grand avenue and the business on the initial day predicts a tremendous success for this branch.

This branch, according to T. B. Atterbury, is one of several that will be opened up in Los Angeles county. These branches will specialize in the retail end of the business and will be authorized Ford sales stations.

That the new car is a distinct improvement on the old models is the opinion of every one who has seen the latest arrival. Heavy, crowned fenders take the place of the plain ones formerly used. This little item adds a good many percent to the looks of the car. A stream line effect is introduced in the body, necessitating a changed hood and new radiator lines. The radiator itself is much larger than formerly and holds over three pints more water. The cooling surface is larger and its general efficiency is much greater than the old style. The radiator lines are improved and harmonize with the rest of the machine.

Much of the former brass trimming has been done away with and black enamel has been substituted.

On the whole, the new machine should make a tremendous hit. It has it's predecessors skinned a mile.

HERE'S A SPEED RECORD FOR FILMS AND AUTOS.

CHARLES E. HUGHES first set his foot upon California soil when he stepped from his private car at Dixon into a Chalmers automobile. Through the courtesy of the Chalmers company a car was driven to Dixon from San Francisco, in company with a motion-picture newsman, where the Hughes train was intercepted and the film made. The Chalmers hurried back to San Francisco, beating the Hughes special into that city. By the time the distinguished guest arrived pictures of his entry into the State were being shown on Market street.

The unique stunt was engineered by Christy Walsh, former publicity manager for the Greer-Robbins company of this city, in conjunction with a motion-picture news company. The Chalmers was driven by Demartini, and upon the return trip was forced to make twice the distance covered by the train. In spite of this handicap, with all arrangements made for the immediate development of the film upon arrival, the picture was on the screen before ex-Gov. Hughes reached the city.

WYNN MACE IS TWICE WINNER.

Takes Both the Singles and Doubles at Coronado.

Miss Manson Conquers Over Miss Williams.

Sindorf Reaches Finals in Two Events.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 26.—That the steadiness of the older player wins over the slashing of the more youthful player was demonstrated today in the finals of the Coronado Country Club tennis tourney. Wynn Mace, in the gentlemen's singles championship, won in a spirited match with Ralph Sindorf, 6-4, 6-2, and again in the gentlemen's doubles Mace and William Horrell won from Sindorf and W. Ferguson, 6-1, 6-3. The first set was hotly contested. Mace was invincible at the net and his placing was wonderful, backed up by Horrell. The pair made an unbeatable team.

Miss Margaret Manson of La Jolla won the ladies' singles in a match with Miss Marion Williams of La Jolla. The score was 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. The match showed brilliant play, but in this case also Miss Manson's steadiness won over the more youthful player.

Miss Katherine Richards and Charles Herreshoff of Coronado won the mixed doubles from Miss Marjorie Wyatt and Kenneth Kendall of Coronado. The score was 6-4.

The semifinals today resulted as follows:

W. Mace beat K. K. Kendall, 6-1, 6-2; Miss K. Richards and C. Herreshoff beat Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Kenneth, 7-5, 6-2; Ralph Sindorf and W. Ferguson beat K. K. Kendall and William McCarty, 6-4, 6-4.

Because Mace and Sindorf were both the doubles and singles the Tournament Committee allowed the gentlemen's singles to go to the best two out of three instead of three out of five.

Tonight at the Hotel del Coronado a dinner and dance was given for the tennisers.

HARRY STUTZ TO JOIN LOCAL NIMRODS AT SALT LAKE.

Walter Brown and Earl Cooper Leave for the Mountains Where They Hope to Get a Shot at Some Moose, Elk, Bear, Etc.—Cooper to Train for Local Racing Classics.

Walter M. Brown and Earl P. Cooper left Tuesday for the Jackson Hole country in Wyoming to the haunts of big game. Mr. Brown is the local distributor for motor cars and Cooper's fame racing car driver in connection cars of this make is well known. At Salt Lake City the Los Angeles nimrods will be joined by Harry Stutz, president of the motor company that bears his name, and R. E. Maypole, the Chicago dealer in these cars.

LENGTHY TRIP.

It is the expectation of members of the party to remain in the wilds six weeks. They will go in quest of moose, elk, bear and other game that frequents the locality. Cooper expects the recreation to put him in trim for the Coast racing season of this fall and upon his return will immediately begin preparation for the Vanderbilt and Grand Prize for which he has submitted entry.

The first shipment of six-passenger touring cars of the 1917 model received by Brown a few days ago. There is no departure from Stutz stream line body design established last season, but the body six inches longer than the four-passenger model. The cars are all equipped with wire wheels exclusively this season and a spare wheel and are furnished. Only cord tires used.

Robert Lackman of Redlands was to take delivery of one of the cars. The second order came Mrs. Norton of West Washington street, who now is traveling in Yellowstone Park. She will take the car, she writes, as soon as she comes

HOT WEATHER IS HARD ON TIRES.

According to M. L. O'Brien, manager of the Los Angeles branch of Savage Tire Corporation, motorists can save thousands of dollars by proper attention to the air pressure in the tires on their cars. The tires and the air that is contained in them readily heat and expand when a car is driven at any but moderate speed over pavements and even at the slowest speed through sand or any other soft, dry surface. A motorist can start with the air pressure just right in all his tires and after he has driven for an hour or two, he will find that the pressure has greatly increased. This condition is very much exaggerated in hot weather. Road surfaces retain the heat of the sun and just as readily impart this heat to tires passing over them. This, with the heat that is always generated by the friction of the tire, brings it to the danger point and causes blowouts.

DEER HUNTERS, BEWARE COPS.

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 26.—Ambitious hunters for deer next week will be given an unusual reception when they attempt to hunt deer on the land of the Santa Monica Mountain Park Co., as they will be met by ten mountain rangers, all of whom will be special officers of Los Angeles. The Los Angeles ordinance forbidding the discharge of firearms in the city, according to City Prosecutor Warren L. Williams, will be enforced, and all of the mountain included was recently taken into the city with the annexation of the Brentwood-Westgate district.

NATION-WIDE PLAN APPROVED.

AUTO COMFORT STATIONS MAKE TREMENDOUS HITS.

Idea of Railroad Comfort Stations Inspires Motorists to Start Campaign for Similar Proposition—Movement Should Result in Decided Success.

It is believed that Southern California motorists will be glad to participate in any way possible with what is called "the American plan," a nation-wide movement just launched in New York by the public comfort station bureau and supported by the American Automobile Association. The object is to provide roadside stations in cities along the principal transcontinental lines of automobile travel, similar to passenger stations along the right-of-way of railroads.

FIRST ADVOCATE.

James L. Irving, distributor for Cole motor cars in Southern California, is among the first to advocate suport of the project in this section. Mr. Irving has traveled extensively in Europe and he says that the United States is far behind European countries in providing such places for motorists.

"As the usual thing the automobile tourist is a liberal spender and there are dozens of hotels and inns along the principal cross-country highways that depend almost wholly upon this class of trade for their support," Mr. Irving says. "But it should not be necessary for the motorist to have to pay for every comfort. Every railroad in the country provides comfort stations and something should be done in the interest of those who prefer to travel by motor."

GOOD IDEA.

As explained by the Cole eight dealer, the several national associations co-operating in the campaign propose using their joint influence to have erected in every city through which a main highway runs, one or more public comfort stations, provided with a comfortable waiting-room, equipped with sanitary toilet accommodations for men and women. The stations are to be equipped with telephones, so that wherever located, the traveler will always be in touch with the outside world. The waiting-room can be used as an emergency hospital in case of accident along the road, while telephones connecting the stations along the line will tend to prevent crime or check the escape of those engaged in criminal practices along the highway.

Mountain Stuff.

HIGH SIERRAS TAKEN BY GRANT.

WILD, MOUNTAINOUS ROADS MAKE TRIP A WONDER.

Hill Climbing is Real Feature of Little Machine and no Trouble is Experienced on Any Part of the Trip—Gasoline Hits the High Spots in the Mountains.

After 1500 miles of mountain road with an average of more than eighteen miles to the gallon, George W. Case and his wife arrived last week in Los Angeles. They drove their Grant six roadster, a wedding anniversary gift of Mr. Case to his bride of a year. Their home is in Oakland.

The journey took them through the wildest part of the Sierras, as they drove from San Francisco and Stockton to Lake Tahoe by way of Big Trees, Silver Peak and Markleeville, over the little-used Silver Peak road. From Tahoe their route lay south by way of Carson City, Bridgeport, Mono Lake, the Owens Valley and the Mojave desert to Los Angeles.

VACATIONING.

During their visit to Southern California they will drive to the San Bernardino Mountains and will stay a week at Forest Home. From there they will go to San Diego and return to Oakland by the coast route.

The Grant performed wonderfully in the mountains, declared Mr. Case. In fact, hill climbing seems to be one of the best features of the 1917 car. The powerful little overhead-valve, six-cylinder motor, and the perfect balance of car weight to motor power, make the Grant the best sort of car in the hills.

OUCH!

Especially is this true when one drives into the high Sierras, where gasoline nowhere is low in price, and at one or two places on the route touches the 75-cent mark. The Grant, with all the mountain climbing, averaged more than eighteen miles to the gallon for the 1500 miles, only eighty-one gallons of gasoline being used. The average for the entire trip probably will be well over twenty miles, as practically all the remaining distance will be over boulevards or level roads.

"The unfrequented parts of the high Sierras are among California's most wonderful scenic regions," said Mr. Case. "It will not be long until those who have made the drives over little-known roads will spread the stories of their beauties to all motorists of the State, and these little-known roads will become as well traveled as any others in the mountains."

Backs Up.

TO GUARANTEE TRUCK AXLES.

MANUFACTURER HAS FAITH IN HIS PRODUCT.

Usage of Spindles Severe on Heavy Motor Vehicles—Must be Built of Best Material in Order to Uphold Weight and Withstand the Jar.

Marking a new standard of construction, and indicating the highest confidence which a manufacturer can place in the quality of his product, Mr. D. F. Poyer, Republic internal gear drive distributor for Southern California, announced this week that the Torbensen Gear and Axle Company, makers of the famous internal gear drive unit used in Republic trucks, from this time on would guarantee the axles and spindles of their construction for life of truck to all Republic truck users.

A GREAT STIR.

Back in the motor manufacturing districts this guarantee announcement has createda great stir. Until this time, such action has been unheard of, and far in advance of all guarantees of this kind usually given consumers.

While it is aknown fact that motor cars get the hardest usage known of all vehicles, it is also an undisputed fact that motor truck usage even under average ideal conditions is unusually severe, and for a manufacturer to give a guarantee covering the life of the truck is significant of the unusual quality and confidence which is imposed in his product.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

When making the announcement of the guarantee bond which now accompanies Republic internal gear drive trucks, Mr. Poyer said:

"Ever since the internal gear drive was introduced into this country, various means of proving its practical efficiency and superiority to other driving mechanisms has been produced. When the Republic Motor Truck Company, the largest exclusive manufacturers of motor trucks in the United States, adopted the internal gear drive principle for all of their models, they decided to prove beyond question the superior features to be found only in this construction.

LOTS OF BUCKS FOUND IN VICINITY OF CAMP NELSON.

BY FRANK GREAVES.

[SPECIAL CONTRIBUTION.]

CAMP NELSON, Springville, (Cal.) Aug. 22.—In the first week of the deer season, which opened August 15, in District No. 1, fifteen fine bucks have been brought into Camp Nelson from near-by territory, and hunters of experience in these parts report that the big game has not been so abundant for many years.

On the opening day, two deer were shot within two miles of this camp, and others were taken the same day in the country farther back.

Every day during the last week successful hunters have come in with their trophies, while new parties are going daily into the mountains around here or back to the Kern River country. This is the supply station for a vast expanse of back country and there is constant passing of burro and pack-mule trains.

The mountains which practically surround this camp seem to be alive with deer. Fire Lookout Barnes, who makes daily sallies down the trail from his lofty observation station on Jordan Peak, reports that he "jumps" two or three bucks or does on every trip and hunters who come back empty-handed say they find plenty of signs.

The first prize brought in here was shot by Allen Hodge, a Lindsay high-school boy. It was a forked-horn and weighed when dressed, 115 pounds. Young Hodge was out with a companion on Coffee Mill Meadows, four miles east of here, early on the opening day of the season, and got the deer at the first shot—and it was the first he ever had attempted to get.

Still more remarkable was the success of W. H. Hammond of Visalia, who went out from here at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and was back at 6 o'clock, with the buck, dressed, hanging in a tree on the mountainside, awaiting transportation to camp. Hammond got the deer, a four-pointer, near the head of Nelson Creek, a mile and a half from camp. The hunter had gone out to spy over the ground, preparatory to a hunt on the following morning, when, as he passed through the brush, the deer leaped out just ahead of him.

One shot, at the distance of less than 100 feet, and the buck was venison.

Fortunate in getting a deer on the first day, but luckless in losing his prize and himself, was a hunter who started out from Rogers's Camp, three miles above Nelson.

Unacquainted with this section, the stranger started over a brush-grown ridge and early in the afternoon he shot a buck, which ran for probably two miles before falling, the hunter tracking it and finally coming upon the carcass.

Hanging the deer in a tree, the hunter endeavored to get his bearings, intending to return to his camp for assistance in dressing and taking in the animal.

Beating through the brush on the steep slopes, he lost his way entirely and, when darkness fell, was obliged to build a fire for warmth. He spent the night beside the fire, two bob cats in the trees above him serving to keep him awake. In the morning, sighting the buildings of Camp Nelson in the distance he made his way thither and from here was able to reach his own camp.

Two days later the man had failed to find his deer, and to add to his discomfort, he fell under the suspicion of forest rangers, who had been obliged to fight a small forest fire which had started, it was alleged, in the vicinity of the spot where the hunter had camped.

Joe McDonald, assistant forest ranger, whose station is in the Hosick Meadows, three miles from here, brought down a forked-horn on the trail between Nelson and the meadows. The hide of the buck, punctured by two bullets, hangs drying on the log sides of the ranger station at Hosick's.

George Hill and J. E. Tullock of Santa Susana have gone down the trail with a fine buck and John Stewart of Globe, brought in two from Slate Mountain. Jack Summers of Lindsay, bagged a four-pointer between here and Trout Meadows, and A. P. Churchill, constable at Strathmore, who was hunting with Dave Freeman of the same place, got a forked-horn at Kern Flats.

The bucks are still in the velvet and some hunters who have had opportunity to get the limit of two have postponed getting the second until the first half of October, when the horns will be in better condition for mounting. Success of the hunters has proved a bonanza to the camp barber at Nelson. In addition to his ability with the clippers and the razor, he is a skilled taxidermist and already is mounting a number of fine deer heads.

In game district No. 1, which comprises the higher mountain country north of the Los Angeles and San Bernardino county lines, the deer season is open from August 15 to October 14, inclusive, fifteen days longer than in districts 2 and 3, open from August 1 to September 14, and one month longer than in district 4, open only during the month of September.

OPPORTUNITY TO BUILD A HOUSE IN FOREST RESERVE.

FREDERIC WINN, supervisor of the Apache National Forest, whose headquarters are at Springerville, Apache county, Arizona, announces that he has completed the survey of a number of summer home sites on the headwaters of the Little Colorado River, for the benefit of the dwellers in the hot countries of the Southwest.

Nine of these sites are on a mountain slope, with the river only a few yards below them, and each has a spring above that can be piped into the house—to be built, at small expense.

CIVILIZATION.

These lots are opposite the post-office of Greer, which accommodates a half-dozen families of old-time settlers—many of whom have never seen a railroad—and the Riverside station of the Forest Service. Mail three times a week, and telephone connecting with the outside world. Greer is 108 miles south of Holbrook, on the Santa Fe, and eighteen miles south of Springerville, where several good stores supply the needs of the settlers. It is five miles within the northern boundary of the Apache National Forest, the largest virgin forest left within the boundaries of the United States, outside of Alaska. The altitude of Greer is 8500 feet, and not far south of it is the crest of the White Mountain range, 11,456 feet.

SOME FOREST.

The forest is about seventy miles north and south, by forty wide, and adjoins the Sitgreave's forest on the west, and another large forest in New Mexico. The great forest of Douglas fir, white pine, spruce and quaking aspens, is interspersed with large grassy parks, and has no underbrush; one can ride horseback anywhere through it. The Ocean-to-Ocean highway is only five miles, by a good branch road, from Riverside Station. By leaving Holbrook in the morning, one can arrive at Greer in the evening, crossing a great desert and volcanic cone country and one of the petrified forests.

Logs for building summer homes can be obtained from the Forest Service at $2.50 per 1000 feet, and a small saw mill near by will furnish beautiful finishing lumber at moderate prices. The sites for building can be had on a term of thirty-three years lease—with privilege of renewal—at something like $5 per year.

OUT-OF-DOORS.

Perhaps you know what 8500 feet in the air means: summers of not too warm days, and nights usually frosty; the ideal climate for those who dwell in the hot lowlands of the Mississippi Valley and the southern coast country.

And then, the attractions there for the sportsman, and the lover of the great out-of-doors. The game comprises great numbers of wild turkeys, plenty of mule deer, and white-tail deer, numbers of mountain lions and wolves, and last and best, fair numbers of the Southwestern grizzly bear, Ursus horribilis! Within the past three weeks they have killed no less than six head of cattle near Riverside Forestry Station. And then, the trout in the streams—the Little Colorado and its tributaries; Salmo pleuriticus, the trout peculiar to the mountain tributaries of the Colorado from Wyoming down, weighing up to eight pounds! And recently rainbows have been introduced. Then, including smaller game, are blue grouse, Mearn's quail, and in the high mountain lakes no end of ducks in season. The canvasbacks, red heads, and widgeons and teal breed there.

ATTRACTIONS.

Other attractions are immense—and as yet—unexplored caves, prehistoric ruined homes of the ancient agriculturists, shrines on the tops of the mountains, where any number of sacrifices to the rain gods, beads of wonderful beauty, and various implements can be found with little search.

One writer and sportsman already has a summer home near Riverside Station. Stewart Edward White, Mary Roberts Rinehart and other writers are planning to build summer homes there. Why not have there a real colony of the writers and out-of-doors people of the Southwest?

EDWARDS VS. O'BRIEN AT VERNON CLUB.

A high-class programme of bouts will be staged at the Vernon Athletic Club next Tuesday night, with Frankie Edwards and Danny O'Brien clashing in the main event. O'Brien made his first start here a few weeks ago by handing Louie Rees a trimming, while Edwards is one of the best-known lightweights on the Coast.

Jimmy Doyle and Billy Mason, lightweights, will battle in the semi-wind-up. The rest of the card follows: McManus vs. Hill, 128 pounds; Homestead vs. Martin, 128 pounds; Hall vs. Moore, 135 pounds, and Frenchie vs. Brenton.

ANCIENT WHITE STILL STEPPING.

SIX YEARS OF HARD USAGE FAIL TO STOP MACHINE.

Over 125,000 Miles Covered in Years of Varied Existence—Repair Bill is Exceedingly Small and Running Costs are Low. Old Machine Traded for Latest.

After operating a 1910 model White "30" five-passenger touring car continuously for over six years, George L. Crenshaw, president of the Crenshaw Security Company and prominent realty dealer of this city, placed his order with the Pioneer Commercial Auto Company, Southern California distributors of White products, for a 1917 White four-thirty five-passenger model of the very latest type.

Mr. Crenshaw is one of the most enthusiastic motorists in Southern California and is a great admirer of the sturdy qualities of the White pleasure cars. "My White '30' has not been used as a boulevard car," said Mr. Crenshaw. "It has covered over 125,000 miles and negotiated a great many mountain trips during the past six years. I had my car completely overhauled about three years ago at a cost of $40 and with this exception my actual expense for repairs has been less than $5 a year. I am averaging about twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline and consider my car in as good mechanical condition today as on the date of my original purchase and I would not consider making an exchange for a new model White car were it not for the fact that I am anxious to have the latest up-to-date equipment in the way of body design, electric lights, etc."

The Pioneer Commercial Auto Company also report the sale of a White four-thirty five-passenger touring car to D. A. Millett, Long Beach. Mr. Millett decided on a White after a gruelling demonstration in the Los Angeles River bed.

GAME TODAY.

The Miller's Theater ball nine will tangle with the fast McKinley nine today on the former's diamond. The boys representing the movie house have been putting up a steady brand of ball and can see nothing but another win today.

ANCIENT RELIC NOW IN THE RACE.

A dark horse has come into the race in the Haynes Automobile Company's old car contest, and the Haynes company has two old surreys of 1897 to decide between before making the award. The newcomer among the old cars belongs to James E. Howard, of a Jeffersonville, (Ind.) shipbuilding firm. Mr. Howard came to the Haynes factory in 1897 and purchased the car from Elwood Haynes.

The Howard car was the first automobile in Jeffersonville, and also preceded the advent of any motor car in Louisville, Ky., which is just across the Ohio River from Jeffersonville. It is one of the old surrey models, with the motor in the rear of the car, a water tank on either side, and the gasoline tank in the dash.

TEN HORSES ENTERED STATE FAIR EXHIBIT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 25.—As entries in the live-stock exhibitions at the State Fair at Sacramento, ten fine horses from the tables of R. C. Gillis in Santa Monica Canyon, were sent to Sacramento today. The animals, all of fine stock, belong to Mrs. Drederick McCormick. They came from the San Jacinto ranch. They are saddle horses and of Kentucky stock and most are by Don Castana and Highland Monarch.

BURDICK WINS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Aug. 26.—Ralph Burdick of Chicago defeated Jack Cannon of Kansas City for the Missouri Valley Tennis title here this afternoon, 6-1, 8-6, 8-6.

Eight tennis bowls have been won since the national lawn tennis championship was instituted by the United States National Lawn Tennis Association in 1881, which must be won three times, not necessarily in succession, to become the property of the victor.

More Speed and Class.

MOTOR TRUCKS TAKE THE TALLY-HO'S PLACE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CRAFTON, Aug. 22.—There are just two methods of mountain travel now. One of them is the hike, which many indulge in for health's sake; the other is the automobile truck and motor car. The four and six-horse teams and the tallyhos formerly used are a thing of the past; how much is shown by the figures taken from one town at one of the gateways into the San Bernardino Mountains.

ALL GONE.

Less than half a dozen years ago there were six big livery barns in that town. Each stable man had a dozen or so teams trained especially for mountain travel and several three-seaters, four-seaters and big tallyhos. Recently the last of these livery men sold his horses and rigs at auction. There is not a livery barn in that city now. Most of these men have gone into the auto truck business, doing their heavy hauling and freighting to the mountains with the powerful auto trucks.

At all of the mountain resorts the stables have been made over into garages, and it is not once a week that a horse-drawn vehicle is met on the road. But there are all sizes and shapes of automobiles, and for that reason fully-equipped oil and gasoline stations, with repair shops in charge of mechanical experts, are now the features of the resorts of the San Bernardino Mountains. Gasoline and oil can be bought at the prevailing rate plus the cost of freighting it in by auto trucks.

FAST RUN IN SUPER-SIX TO LOS ANGELES.

A. H. Patterson of Stockton, Cal., has just finished a motoring trip to Los Angeles and return, which, so far as known, beats all records for just plain, ordinary touring. Patterson, with his family and party of friends, left Stockton in his Hudson Super-Six in the morning at 4:37 o'clock, and at 6:01 o'clock in the evening pulled up at the Hotel Alexandria in Los Angeles. The 371 miles between Stockton and Los Angeles were covered in the day's touring of thirteen hours and twenty-four minutes, elapsed time. The actual running time was only ten hours and two minutes, several stops having been made en route for oil and gasoline—also one hour and forty minutes for lunch at Bakersfield.

A Long, Low, Hammock-Slung Body

Exquisite Coachwork Matches Exquisite Performance in the New Jeffery Six

A CREATURE of prowess and grace and might! Hammock-slung springs bring it close to the ground and lend a feeling of sure-footed stability.

Rich, lateral roll-edges soften the arrow-like severity of exquisitely fashioned body lines and flow gracefully into the broad-shouldered hood. It is a giant refined into beauty.

Your eye lingers when you see this new Jeffery Six. There is a strange, magnetic charm about the Car of Mechanical Precision. It holds you in admiration.

You are curious. You have seen hundreds of automobiles—admired scores. But never have you been won so wholeheartedly as by this car.

And no wonder—

Twenty-two finishes of paint and varnish have given this Jeffery a brilliant attire—a luster that service will not dim.

Color—rich, deep, Midnight Blue.

The Lower Price—$1365

The price of the new Six is a real surprise—Thirteen Sixty-Five. You would have judged much more. But greater production and greater economies of the greater Jeffery organization bring you this remarkable value in the Car of Mechanical Precision.

Vibrationless Motor

The new Six motor is vibrationless at all speeds—a phenomenal quality you will find in no other motor. The Jeffery-perfected crankshaft—inherently balanced and oversized—brings this marvelous softness.

Before entering its chassis, every motor passes factory tests more severe than those employed by any other maker we know.

Performance

A ride in the new Six brings even greater respect for this proud monarch of the road. Fifty-three supple horse-power harnessed and obedient within the six cylinders. There is manageable might, meeting every whim or wish of the man at the wheel.

Without Vibration

The vibrationless feature of the new Jeffery Six motor is an exclusive development of Jeffery engineers. The motor is without vibration at ANY speed.

This wonderful softness is largely the result of the inherently balanced oversized crankshaft. All Jeffery motors are subjected to the most rigorous tests given in any factory.

You troll along at a Shetland pony gait or speed the landscape panorama up to 60 miles. Your motor's at ease all the time. Never a fretting sound from the engine. Just peaceful flight as you cleave the countryside and level the hills before you.

Long, flat springs enhance your riding ease.

Luxury and Investment

Jeffery owners are contented owners. For the new Six is more than a luxury; it is an investment.

The rugged simplicity of the chassis construction and the honest make-up of the car make the Jeffery spell maximum service and minimum care. Almost unknown in the second-hand market, Jeffery cars bring exceptionally high re-sale prices.

Doubled Production

Jeffery expansion, bringing doubled production this year, comes without sacrificing the Company's ideals of mechanical nicety.

With this greater output we hope to be able to fill the demand. Still, nothing can be gained by delay. Promptness alone, on your part, in placing your order with us will gain an early delivery for you.

We are ready now to show you the new Jeffery Six.

The new Reo the Fifth; "The Incomparable Four"
$990 Here

There's a Reason For Reo Success

REO SUCCESS has been phenomenal. It has been one of the solid, substantial successes of the industry.

NOT MUSHROOM GROWTH—Reo the Pioneer could have been the largest producer long ago, did the Reo policy tend toward volume to the exclusion of other considerations.

BUT IT DIDN'T. The Reo Folk have always said, "We would rather build less and build them better, so we will never make any more automobiles than we can make and make them all good—every individual Reo just as good as the best Reo ever turned out."

"WE DON'T WANT to make all the automobiles or motor trucks—only the best ones," say the Reo Folk.

SO THE REO growth has been slow by comparison with some—but it has been hardy and steady.

REO IS NOW one of the very largest—but it has taken years to attain that status, while some have made it in as many months.

NEED WE SAY MORE to indicate to you the difference in the product of this sound Reo policy and that of others?

WE THINK NOT: You will make your own deductions—and they will be right.

AND THAT IS THE REASON for Reo success—the quality of the product backed by the kind of service that goes with any Reo car and motor truck.

IF WE ARE BEHIND on deliveries today, it is because of the tremendous over-demand that Reos always enjoy.

AND THE OVER-DEMAND is directly due to Reo quality as it is universally known and appreciated.

THE "GOLD STANDARD" of values in automobiles and motor trucks—as such, Reos are now known the world over.

YOUR ORDER should be in our hands at once if we are to give you an early delivery.

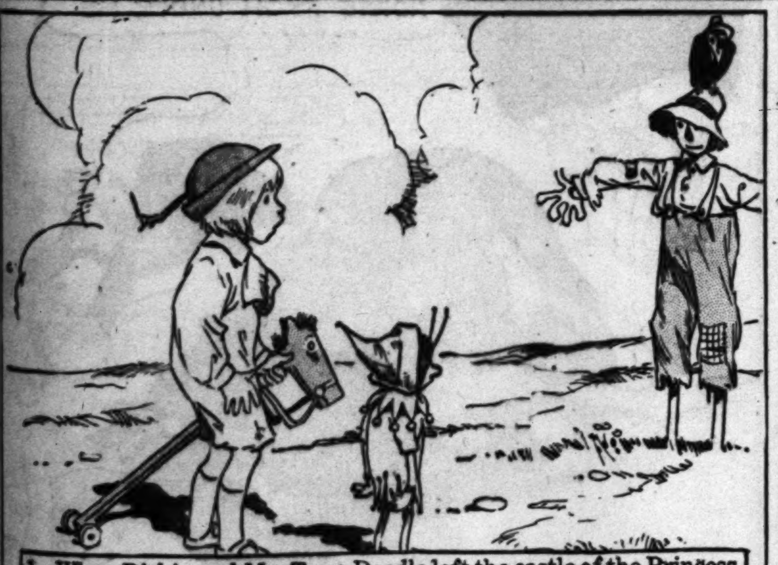
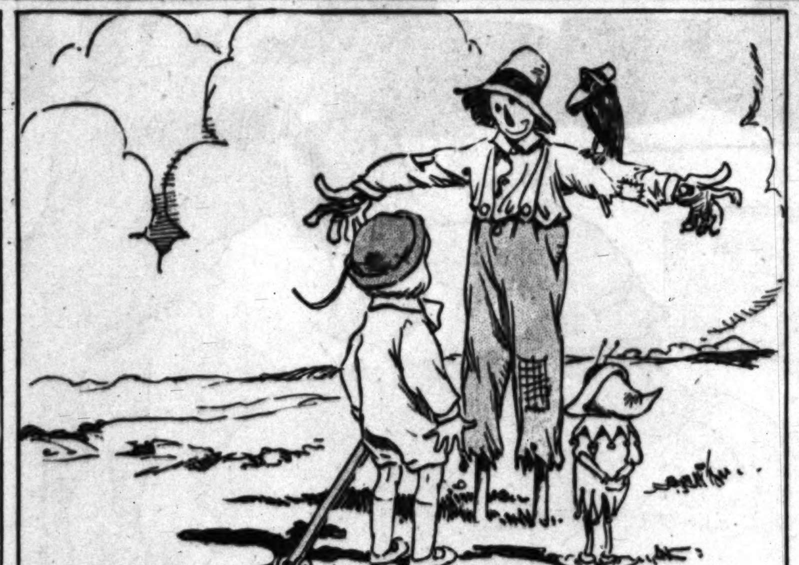
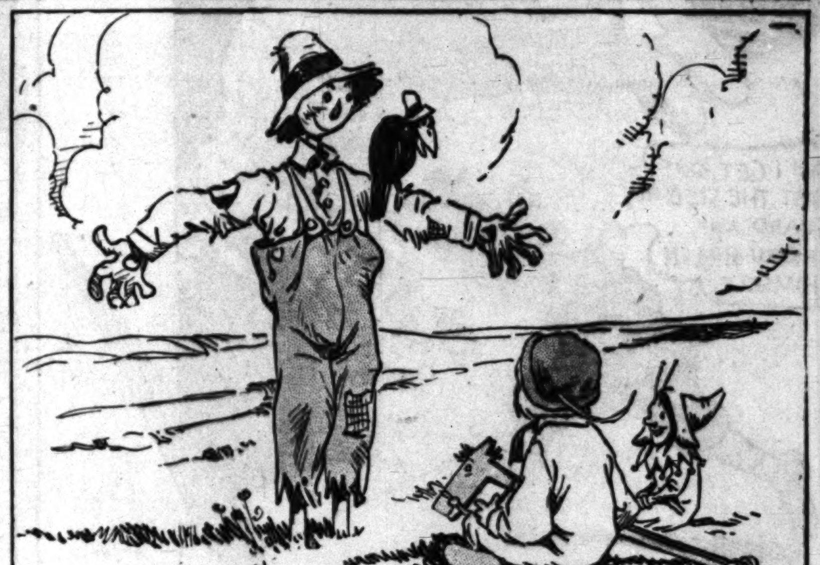
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.



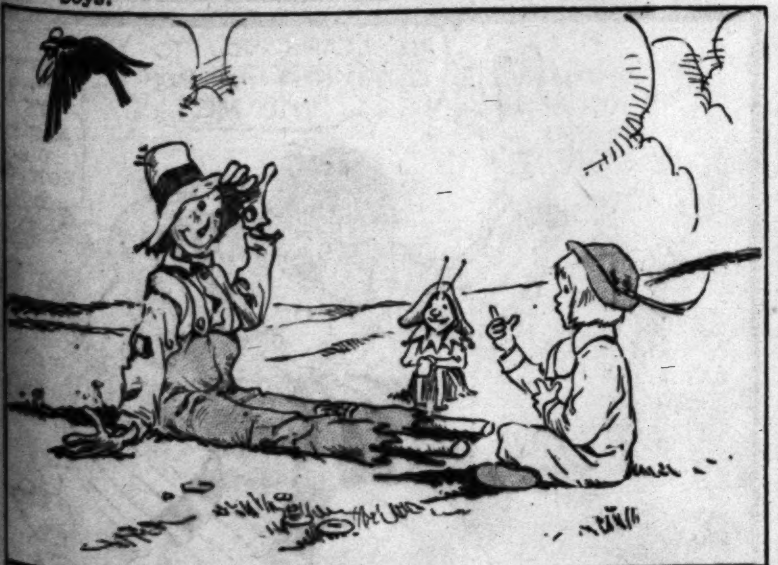
1—When Dickie and Mr. Twee Deedle left the castle of the Princess they rode upon Dickie's hobby horse for many miles—until, 'way out in the centre of a prairie, they came upon a scarecrow. They were wondering what use a scarecrow could be out there, when the scarecrow, without opening his mouth, said, "Hello, boys!"



2—"Good morning!" replied Dickie and Mr. Twee Deedle, very much surprised that the scarecrow could talk. "What are you doing 'way out here?" Dickie asked. "Oh! just standing around talking to Old Man Crow on my shoulder here," the scarecrow answered good naturedly.



3—"Excuse so many questions." Dickie said as he and Mr. Twee Deedle sat down in front of the scarecrow, "but it is rather unusual for a scarecrow to talk, isn't it?" "Really, I can't say!" the scarecrow replied, "I'm the only scarecrow I ever met!"



4—Thinking, perhaps, if the scarecrow could talk he might walk, Dickie and Mr. Twee Deedle, after asking permission, pulled the scarecrow's legs out of the ground. "I don't believe I can walk!" the scarecrow cried as he sat down so hard his wooden arms rattled.

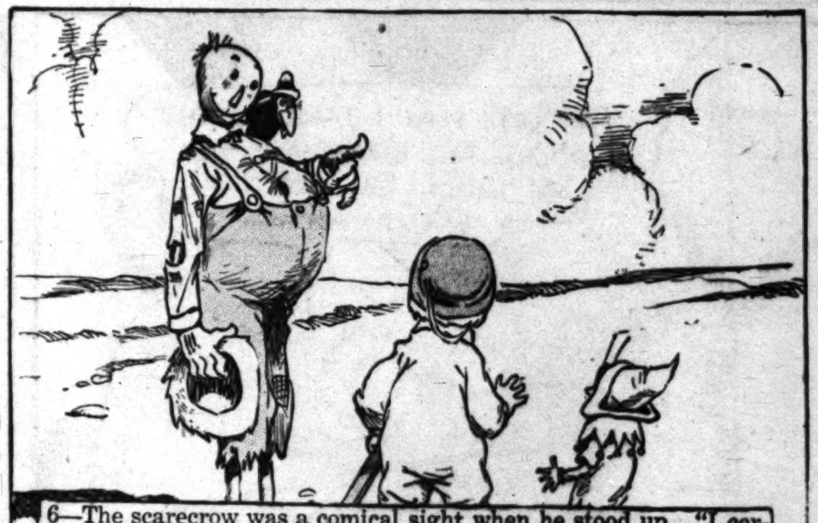
5—"I know," said Dickey, "you need food; that will give you strength." "So Dickie and Mr. Twee Deedle pulled grass and stuffed the scarecrow's shirt, for they saw his mouth was only painted on his face.



6—The scarecrow was a comical sight when he stood up. "I certainly feel full," he said in a muffled voice, "and the food has given me great strength. Old Man Crow says that if we go to the north we will not miss our way!"

Dickie wondered how it was possible to miss their way when they did not know where they were going, but he said nothing and the three new friends struck out across the prairie.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME

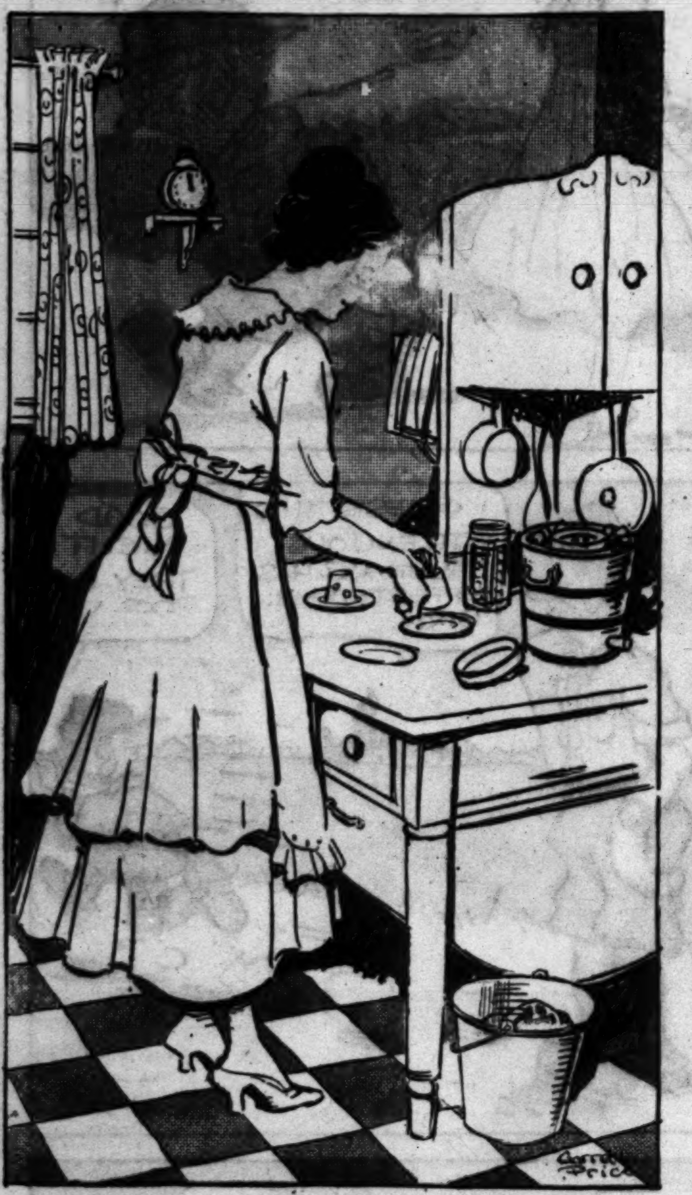
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

COLD DESSERTS AND COLD DRINKS.

HOT desserts, with a few exceptions, do not appeal to the palate during the heated term. Fruit puddings, whether boiled or baked, have their place in the affections of most of us, and these sweets must be served smoking from the oven or the steamer. But the general preference is for desserts that are either frozen or chilled through and that will not raise the temperature of the body when the weather is doing this already.

The housekeeper is wise who makes a study of such dishes when the mercury is high in the tube. Ice cream is no more trouble to make than pastry, and need be no more expensive. Water ices and sherbets are cheaper than pies and puddings; they are also easily made.

Along the same line are cold drinks, and these, accompanied by light cakes, will often take the place of a more elaborate dessert. The palate craves a little something sweet to conclude the meal, but often turns from anything more than a taste that the chilled drink and the cake will supply.



CHILLED PEACHES WITH CUSTARD.

Make a custard by cooking together in a double boiler three cups of milk and four tablespoons of sugar until the latter is entirely dissolved. Have ready the yolks and whites of four eggs, beaten separately. Pour some of the hot milk upon these, return to the boiler, and stir until the custard thickens; flavor with a few drops of bitter almond, take from the fire and set aside to become thoroughly cold.

When the custard is chilled, peel carefully freestone peaches of uniform size, make an incision in the side of each large enough to enable you to remove the pit, and slip into its place a maraschino cherry. Dip each peach into the custard, sprinkle powdered sugar over them, and lay in a deep dish. Put this in a pan with a cover, set this into cracked ice and heap ice above it. Put the custard where this, too, will become cold. The peaches should remain in the ice for at least an hour before serving. The process of chilling them will be hastened if a little rock salt is mixed with the ice—about one-fourth as much salt as there is ice. The custard should also be chilled. Pour the custard around the peaches just before serving them and heap whipped cream on top of them. The custard can be made the day before the dish is to be served, and the peaches not prepared until an hour or so before sending to table—long enough for them to become well chilled.

ORANGE JELLY FRAPPE.

Soak half a box of gelatin in a scant cup of cold water, add to it one cup of granulated sugar, the juice of two lemons and of one tart orange, the peel of half a lemon and of a quarter of an orange. Pour upon all two cups of boiling water; stir until the gelatin is dissolved and strain. Set the jelly aside until cold. When it begins to form, line a plain mold, wet with cold water, with sections of orange, cut into small pieces, and pour the jelly carefully over them. When the mold is full, fit a cover tightly on it, bury it in ice and salt, and leave thus for two or three hours. Be careful in turning it out to get no salt into the jelly. Serve light cakes with this.

The dish may be varied by using half oranges and half peeled and sliced bananas in the jelly.

PEACH SNOW.

Put a cup of granulated sugar and a quarter of a cup of water over the fire in a clean saucepan; boil without stirring until it spins a thread from the tine of a fork dipped into it. Have ready peaches of medium size, peeled, and two tablespoons of shelled and blanched almonds, chopped fine. Stick each peach on a fork, dip it into the sirup, roll in the chopped almonds, and lay on a flat plate. Set aside in chopped ice until cold, heap with whipped cream, and serve.

CANTALOUPES WITH PEACHES.

Slice peaches small, sprinkle them with sugar, and put in the ice until very cold. Cut cantaloupes in two after leaving them in the ice until well chilled, remove the seeds, and heap the sliced peaches in the middle of them. Whipped cream may be put upon these, or a spoonful of ice cream may be heaped on each portion of peaches in the melon.

CHILLED PINEAPPLE.

Cut pineapple into dice, sprinkle with sugar, and pack it in ice as directed for peaches with custard. When ready to serve pour over a cup of the dice a couple of teaspoons of sherry and send to table.

RASPBERRY MOUSSE.

Crush enough red raspberries in a fruit press to get three-quarters of a cup of juice, strain this, put it over the fire with a cup of sugar and make hot. Beat the yolks of six eggs light, pour the hot raspberry juice upon them, put over the fire in the double boiler and cook, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens. Take from the stove and beat the mixture until it cools. Beat the whites of the six eggs to a stiff froth, whip half a pint of cream and mix lightly with the custard. Turn into a melon shaped mold, pack down in ice and salt, and let it stand for at least four hours.

Mousse may be made in this way with any fruit juice of decided flavor. It is also good substituting heated maple sirup for the fruit juice and proceeding as before directed, omitting the sugar. The maple sirup will sweeten the mixture sufficiently.

PEACH SURPRISE.

Peel, stone, and chop enough peaches to have a quart of the pulp. Add to it two cups of sugar, one cup of cold water, and the whites of four eggs, unbeaten. Mix all well together, turn into the freezer, and turn until firm. Withdraw the dasher when the ice is too stiff to enable you to turn it any longer, pack down the sherbet, and let stand, packed in ice, for an hour or more before serving.

This "surprise" may be prepared with any sort of fruit or with a mixture of these. Apple sauce may also serve as a basis for the dish, as may other stewed or canned fruit

RASPBERRY ICE (I.).

Heat together over the fire a quart of water and a cup of sugar until the sugar is dissolved. Put with it a pint of raspberry juice, turn into the freezer and freeze until firm.

RASPBERRY ICE (II.).

Boil two cups of water with three-quarters of a cup of granulated sugar; add a teaspoon of melted gelatin and put with this two cups of raspberry juice. When hot through take from the fire and strain; set aside to cool. Add to it the well beaten whites of three eggs and freeze as you would fruit surprise or ice cream.

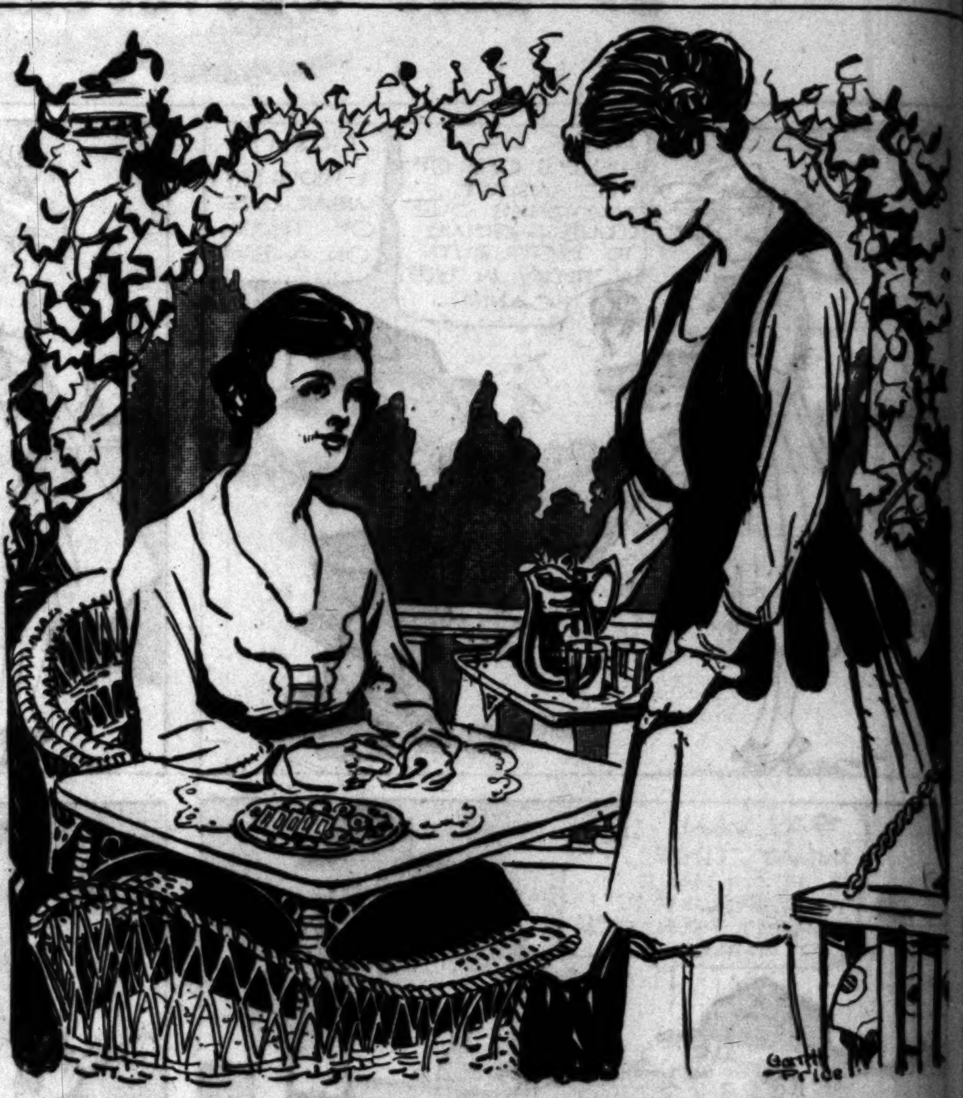
Any sort of fruit may be used in making sherbet, following the instructions just given. When the fruit has not a decided flavor more of it will be demanded in proportion to the quantity of water used. A little practice will show what is needed.

TEA PUNCH.

Make a strong tea, using four teaspoons of tea to a quart of boiling water; strain from the leaves. When it is cold put with it two tablespoons of tart orange juice, five tablespoons of lemon juice; strain both from seeds before putting them in—two cups of granulated sugar and a pint of charged water. Have a large block of ice in a punch bowl, pour the mixture upon this, put in a handful of raspberries or of maraschino cherries, and serve. Or the punch may be mixed in a large pitcher.

GINGER ALE MINT JULEP.

Squeeze the juice from half a dozen lemons upon a cup of granulated sugar, and let this stand for half an hour on the ice. Put two cups of cracked ice into a punch bowl or a wide mouthed pitcher, with the lemon and sugar; add a pint of water, two bottles of ginger ale, and a dozen long stemmed sprigs of mint, pinching the stems of these between the fingers in order to get out all the flavor of the mint. Let it stand thus for five minutes and serve.



ORANGE SHERBET.

Slice six large oranges and two lemons in a bowl with a cup of granulated sugar, and let this stand for half an hour in a cool place. Add a heaping tablespoon of chopped pineapple when the sugar is melted. Put a block of ice in a punch bowl or large pitcher, pour in the fruit and sugar, add a quart of charged water, and serve at once. If you prefer, plain water may be used instead of the other.

PINEAPPLE SHERBET.

Put three pints of boiling water over the fire with a pound of granulated sugar; boil for half an hour. Peel a large pineapple while the sugar and water are cooking. With a fork tear the flesh of the pineapple to shreds. Pour over this four teaspoons of lemon juice and add an orange peeled and cut into small pieces. Set it aside to cool, and chill the sirup after it has boiled; put this with the fruit, turn into a large jar or pitcher and bury it in the ice for two hours. When ready to serve, pour over a large piece of ice in a punch bowl. Add a pint of charged or plain water to it and serve. Maraschino cherries or berries of any sort may be added to the sherbet before turning it into glasses.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

Stamped Pieces and Reading Matter.

"I NOTICED the offer of G. E. B. in the Corner of embroidery silks and stamped pieces in exchange for flower seeds and crochet lace. I should be glad if you could send my address to her or to some one who has stamped pieces for embroidery or quilt pieces, also books and magazines. I will return the favors with a few flower seeds or crochet edging. I get lonely at times, as I have no children to cheer me, and my fancy work and sewing are my only source of pleasure. I know the Corner has helped other lonely souls, and so I thought I would ask for some reading matter and fancy work, and I truly hope I may be able to return the favor in some way. If you care to have me I will come again and bring some of my choice recipes. MRS. G. H."

I was sorry to have to tell this correspondent that the articles offered by Mrs G. E. B. had been given away before the above letter came, but I print it here in the sure hope that some one else will respond to her appeal and do something to help drive away her loneliness. I shall be glad to supply her address. The recipes she offers will be welcome.

Tatting for Plants.

"I wonder if there is any one who would be willing to do tatting for me in exchange for strawberry plants. The plants are ready to transplant. I would send material for the tatting to any one who would make it for me. MRS. S. H. R."

Such an opportunity as this should meet the wishes of some of our many gardeners and I shall be happy to put these in touch with this correspondent.

Religious Leaflets Wanted.

"I should like the name of the widow in addition to the other addresses I ask for. I might be able to help her a little or send her some cards. I may be inclined to look on the dark side, but I wish there were a little more cheer and good will in our every day life, such as the spirit shown by the Corner. May I ask if some one has a Bible concordance or an enlarger used in art work and will tell me how to use the enlarger? I should also be glad to get a few religious leaflets that explain the book of Revelation. I will gladly pay postage. In making portieres out of wallpaper beads I think kindergarten or basket beads are more serviceable than those made of salt and cornstarch, as the salt absorbs moisture and the beads crumble in a short while. When I make mine I am going to put two basket beads and a kindergarten bead between each pair of wallpaper beads. Maybe I didn't have good luck with my paste beads. I made them for a necklace. The widow I write of was asking for something she could do at home so that her little boy could be with her. I have some letters and papers I don't feel able to use just now that I could send on to her. "MRS. F. E. O."

I am very sorry this correspondent did not send the signature appended to the letter of the widow in whom she shows such a kindly interest. Without that signature I cannot identify her, and I can only trust she may see this letter and let me hear from her again. Will not some one endeavor to grant the wish of Mrs. F. E. O. as to the Bible concordance and papers on biblical subjects, as well as the enlarger of which she writes?

Letters for Invalids.

"I have recently seen in the Corner the request of a correspondent for people who are willing to write to shutins. I have time and would be glad to have you give my name and address to any one who wish to receive letters—shutins, lonely ones, or sick. M. S."

Another Cornerite who does not give the signature of the person who wrote. I can only print the letter with the conviction that applications will soon come for the name of any one who is willing, as is M. S., to go into the business of cheering and comforting.

"Please send me a number of addresses, especially of girls and elderly women, who are shut in and would like to receive a letter or card. H. K."

Another chance for some one to be brightened up by the kindliness of one of our constituency. This address, like that of the writer of the preceding letter, will be sent on application.

An Inexpensive Bassinette.

"I see that a correspondent asks instructions for making an inexpensive bassinette. Here is a direction which may prove useful: Get a chip clothes basket, as long as possible, but not deep, and fasten it to a stand which can be made out of a box; put a caster on each corner, so that the stand can be moved about with ease. You can make a drawer in the box, if you like, to hold the diapers, so that they are always at hand when needed. We made our bassinette so that the basket would be the same height as my bed, and if the basket is rather shallow it makes it easier when you are in bed to pick up the baby for his night feeding and then to put him back again Enamel the basket and stand white (both basket and drawer should be enameled on the inside), and if you want it to be fanciful weave pink or blue ribbon in and out of the spaces of the basket. While the baby is tiny you can put pure white cotton around the inside of the basket, but I deem this unnecessary. I find the enameled bassinette much nicer than those covered with swiss, as they are more easily kept clean. If you do not care to weave the ribbon in and out the basket need not be of chip.

"A pretty receptacle for baby clothes is made from a box three feet high by eighteen inches square. Put four legs on the bottom, a door on the front, and little shelves on the inside. White enamel this on the inside and outside and it will be nice for the child's clothes until he is quite large and will always look nice and fresh.

"Here are a few things I have found good. When we have a pot roast I always put raisins in when making the gravy. We wash and dry our apricot seeds and chop the kernels to use in our fruit cake, especially at Christmas time. They take the place of bitter almonds and cost nothing. They are nice ground up and put on coffee cake, or a little added when making coffee gives it a pleasant flavor. Peach and plum seeds answer just as well, only the kernel is smaller. When we made noodles we used to dry them before cutting, but I find this isn't necessary. After rolling out your dough sprinkle with flour and fold and you can cut your noodles immediately. This saves a good deal of time and they cut better.

"Can you tell me the cause of bread looking dark after it is baked?

"This is the first time I have written to the Corner. I hope some of these things may be of use. MRS. A. B."

I am sure they will prove helpful to some one and we shall hope to hear from you often. The reason for the bread being dark may be due to various causes. Possibly the flour is dark—not sufficiently dried out—or the bread may not have been worked enough. Long and vigorous kneading will make bread whiter than it can be without adequate working.

Scraps for Sewing.

"I live upon an isolated farm and seldom leave home. I wonder if some of the generous readers of the Corner would send me some scraps of silk, satin, velvet, or ribbon, bits of lace, lace netting, or pieces of fine white goods that could be made into handkerchiefs. I am expert with the needle and crochet hook and want to make some articles to sell at a country church fair. I can make use of any sort of material and work all sorts of odds and ends up into lovely fancy work. H. L."

Who will reply to this appeal and have a share in helping the country church at its sale? Please write promptly.

Cookie and Salad Recipes.

"Will you please send me the addresses from the two clippings I inclose? I live on a farm and do all the work, so that I am busy, but these poor souls appeal to me and I intend to find time for them both. If they live near enough I shall get them and take them for an auto ride. I am inclosing a stamped envelope and another lonely stamp. I would send more but this is the only one I can find. Although I work hard I am perfectly happy, having the best of husbands and a little boy 9 years old. We have been married fifteen years and couldn't be happier, unless perhaps we had more money. So I want to pass a little cheer along. Here are two excellent recipes you may like:

"Frosted Creams (cookies)—One cup of sugar, one cup of molasses, one cup of shortening, half cup of cold coffee, yolks of two eggs, one teaspoon of soda, one teaspoon of cinnamon, one tablespoon of ginger, flour to form dough that can be rolled to a quarter of inch thickness. Cut in oblong pieces; when cold frost with boiled icing, made with one and a half cups of sugar and the whites of two eggs.

"Fruit Salad—Any kind of fruit cut into dice. Serve with golden salad dressing, made as follows: Quarter cup of pineapple juice, quarter cup of lemon juice, one-third cup of sugar, small pinch of salt, two beaten eggs. Mix and cook, stirring constantly until the dressing thickens and stiffens. It gets thicker when cool and takes about two minutes to cook. M. W. K."

Thank you for your charming letter. The addresses asked were sent and I am sure the "poor souls" to whom reference is made will benefit by the association. I am grateful for the "lonely stamp" and for the two recipes you send.

Milk Yeast Bread.

"The Helping Hand reaches so many forlorn ones, and it is a grand thing to feel we can relieve and cheer those in distress. The thought expressed by the lines 'If you have a kindness shown you, pass it on,' has always seemed to me Christlike. I wonder if you care to print this recipe for an old fashioned milk yeast bread: In the middle of the morning take one pint of corn meal, one teaspoon of salt, and one tablespoon of sugar. Sift them and pour enough hot [not boiling] water on the mixture to wet it; put into an earthern vessel until the next morning. Then add a quarter spoon of soda, one pint of scalded sweet milk, and flour enough for a stiff batter. Put into a pitcher placed in a bucket of water as hot as you can bear your hand in and keep at that temperature. In three or four hours the contents of the pitcher will be foamy. Mix with a spoonful of lard and flour sufficient to make a medium dough; knead well, shape into loaves, and when risen, bake. This will take three-quarters of an hour or an hour. This bread is easy to make and is delicious when done properly. M. B."

Good and trustworthy recipes for bread are always in demand, and I am sure this will be gratefully accepted and tried by our housekeepers. The addresses requested were sent by mail. I appreciate the kind words said of the Helping Hand. This passing on of good services is one of the objects we strive for.

Songs and Magazines.

"I have a number of songs, some popular, and some instrumental pieces which I should be glad to pass on to any one who cares to pay the postage. Also I have a number of old magazines which have interesting reading matter in them. I should like to pay postage on these, but I really cannot afford it. L. L."

Musicians will take note of this offering.

Lonely Girl Wants Letters.

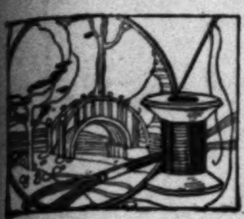
"I am a girl of 22 with few friends of my own age and would like to correspond with or make the acquaintance of other girls near my age. LONESOME."

I should be glad if we could manage to bring this girl into touch with suitable associates. Always when giving the address of such a girl we like to be informed of the references of those who desire to meet her or to correspond with her in order to protect against possible unpleasant circumstances. References should always be exchanged and should prove satisfactory to the parents or guardians of the girls seeking to become friends.

Toffee.

"J. V. R. asked for an English toffee recipe. I send the following: One pound of loaf sugar, one pinch of cream of tartar, one gill of water, flavoring to taste. Place the sugar and water in a pan and stir occasionally until melted. When it begins to boil, put the lid on the pan and let it boil thus for three minutes. Then boil up to 310 degrees. Pour the toffee while still warm into well buttered tins. Mark with knife and break up when cold. This recipe came in the book when I bought my candy thermometer, so it must be reliable. I have five other recipes for the toffee if J. V. R. wishes them. "MRS. L. S."

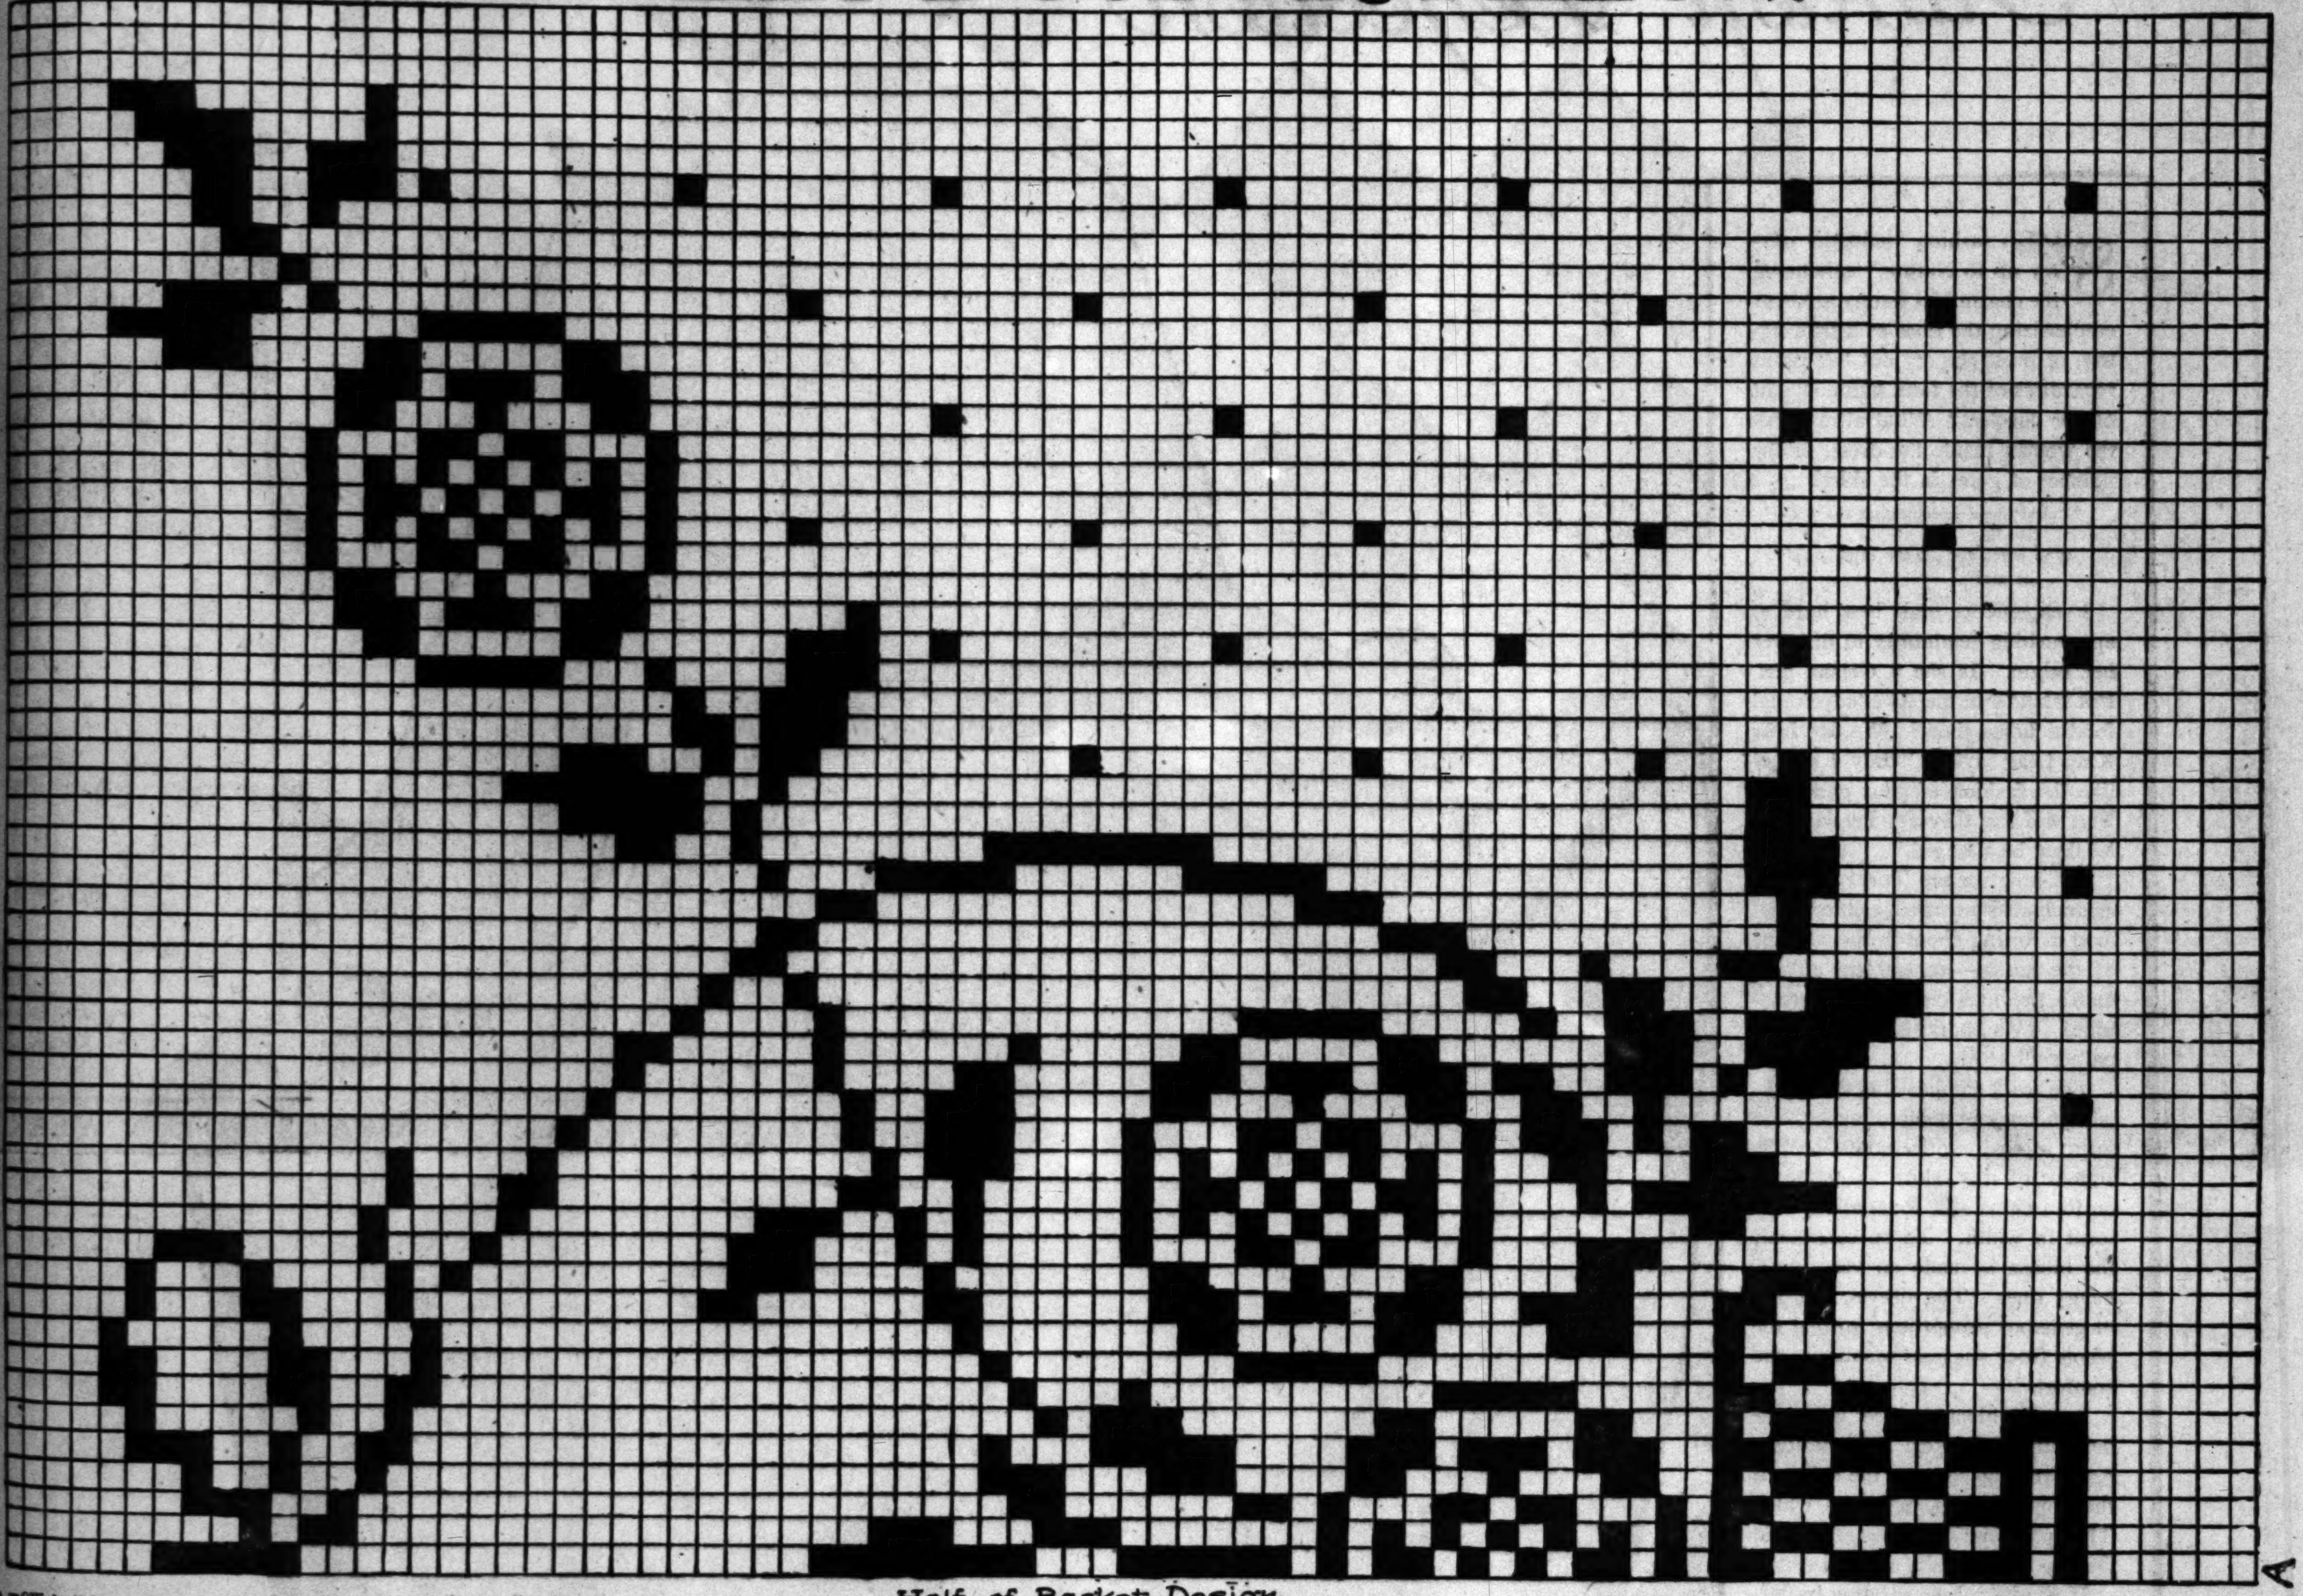
I hope this recipe may be the one J. V. R. desired, and I am sure it will be welcome to others.



FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

BY ADELAIDE BYRD

A FILET BOUDOIR PILLOW.



Half of Basket Design.

NOW don't be scared at the size of this design for filet crochet. It looks stupendous at first glance, but the worker in filet who has already accomplished a few things, like curtain medallions, towel insertions and a nightgown yoke, will find this pillow top an incentive to further work.

In many ways it is not as difficult as a smaller bit of work, because until you reach the basket in the center there is much open mesh work, which always goes quickly. I would advise you to begin to crochet from the side of the design toward the basket, and reverse the design after you have reached the center row of meshes marked A. Don't repeat the A row of meshes. The narrower band of filet is easier to handle than the wider one, which would result if you began to work from the bottom up.

As to cotton, you will have to use your own judgment. Numbers vary so much in different makes of cotton that I cannot advise you correctly as to number. Of course, the finer the cotton you use the smaller top you will have; and in the case of a very fine cotton you will probably have to set the top into a frame of linen to make it any practical size. In a soft cotton that does not make a harsh lace this is lovely for a baby's pillow. It could also be done in white wool to match a coach cover, using the same basket motif for a central design and finishing out with a plain filet mesh.

For the library this pillow worked in a deep ecru and mounted over a dark silk lining would not be out of place. In making up the pillow it will be found to set much better if you go over the entire edge with a single crochet stitch to give it firmness.

Another use for such a filet square is for the glass-bottomed tray. A beautiful bit of work such as this will be is worth framing; and when turned into a tray, with a white enameled, or, better still, a dark mahogany, framing and a glass bottom, it will be protected and give serviceable pleasure at the same time.

DIMINUTIVE DARNING BAG

A GIRL at a summer resort ascribes the greater part of her popularity, with the feminine part of the summer colony at least, to a diminutive darning bag which she invented herself. Once she had explained its intricacies to a friendly guest at her hotel, the fame of the bag spread, and pretty soon each woman within speaking distance was taking a paper pattern of it for future reference.

She made it of ribbon, five inches wide. It required twenty-seven inches of ribbon of that width and a little less than a yard of half-inch satin ribbon to match the color of the other, or, in case of a flowered ribbon, to match the predominating flower shade.

She turned in the ends of the wide ribbon an inch and a half and stitched them twice to make a half-inch casing. She then folded the ribbon in half lengthwise. The casing openings were left open, but the rest of the edges, both of the ribbon and the inch-wide heading, were carefully overcast together. This left a long, twelve-inch bag. In the bottom of this bag she dropped a five-inch whalebone, which she stitched into place with a small casing right across the bag. Three inches further up she ran another row of stitching across the bag, and another row about an inch and a half from that. She now had a three-compartment bag. In the top she purposed to place her darning egg, thimble and scissors and maybe a spool or two of cotton. She ripped one side of the bag to get at the two lower compartments—she says if she were doing it over again she would not sew this first five inches of the lower part of the bag on the one side at all. Into the inch-and-a-half middle portion she slipped a piece of cardboard an inch and a half by five inches, which she had covered with flannel and into which her darning needles were to be stuck. A tiny tab of ribbon she fastened on the end of this so that it could be pulled out with ease.

On the open side of the lowest pocket she sewed tiny snap fasteners to keep it shut and in this she designed to keep small flat bobbins of pasteboard with silk to match every pair of silk stockings she owned.

Over the stitchings she featherstitched in a silk twist to match the ribbon coloring, and she had a bag which took a very short time to make, but which she avows was a comfort every time she tucked it in her traveling bag or trunk. The whalebone kept it taut at the bottom and the bag could thus be folded three times into a five-by-five space.

SOMETHING WORTH WHILE

NOW that cooler days and longer evenings are approaching the needleworker naturally welcomes a piece of work that for hot summer weather might be too tedious. If you start now you can get the filet boudoir pillow finished for Christmas, with time left over to make several other smaller gifts besides.

The Kiddie's Toy Is Embroidered

HAVE you one of the cunning little embroidered dollies or animals for your youngster? They are very simply made: cut in two pieces and embroidered on one or both sides. The "embroidery" is chiefly outline in black with an occasional bright dot here and there for eyes and mouth. After they are embroidered they are sewn up and stuffed very tightly so that no little hands can pull them apart. They can be obtained in any variety of animal or doll—dogs, cats, tigers and ducks, Uncle Sams, nurses or little boy and girl dolls.

A Man's Couch Set

A MAN especially will delight to find this set on his couch some cool evening, but a certain kind of arts and crafts library will welcome it as well. It is crocheted from a lovely warm shade of old-blue wool. In the center of the pillow is an Indian motif in bright reds, browns, yellows and greens. One could easily copy the motif from a Navajo blanket or rug, using slightly brighter colors here. The afghan is made to match. The same motif appears in the center and there is a crocheted band of the same [illegible] across each end. The stitch used thruout is a single crochet, and as the blanket is oblong and the pillow [illegible], the only difficulty in making such a set would be in following the pattern and changing the different colored [illegible] for the border and central motifs.

Attractive Luncheon Set

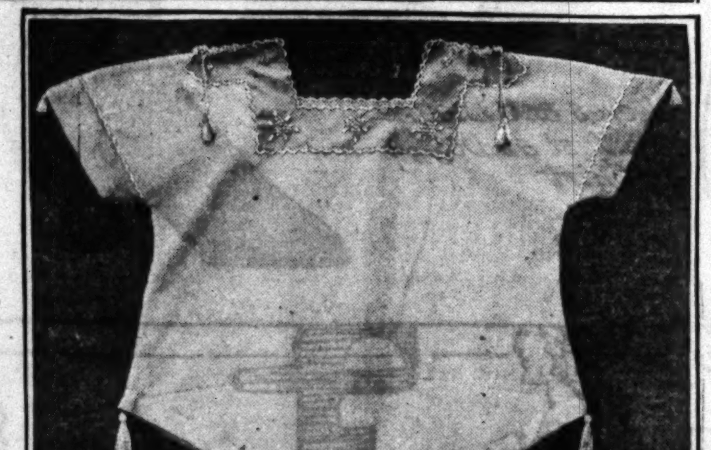
ONE of the most attractive and dainty luncheon sets is made of white linen and embroidered in one or more colors. Just now there seems to be such a vogue for embroidery in different colors. This set consists of only seven pieces and yet virtually covers the whole table. The largest piece is the runner, being the length of the table from end to end. Then there are two other pieces one-third the size of the runner. These are placed on either side of the runner at the middle, giving the effect of a double runner. Then there are four small dollies set into the four corners. The napkins may be embroidered to match. A very fetching color scheme is pink, green and a little black. Of course, if you have a blue dining room, the set would be charming worked in blue.

New Initials

DID you know, needleworkers, that you could now buy padded initials all worked on a foundation of thin cloth? They are soft and pliable, and all you have to do is to baste the cloth with the padded initial on your goods and work with embroidery cotton over the closely machine-stitched padding. When your embroidery is finished you cut away the cloth. It is so sheer that you can cut close to the initial and pull away any loose threads which might remain under the padding. This is but another evidence that needleworkers, too, have bowed to the inevitable time-saving device.

Embroider Your Pajama Jacket

AFTER all, it is the jacket which is the important part of the pajama suit, so only the jacket is shown for you in the photograph. The trousers are exactly like the usual straight trousers, tho you can add embroidery or tassels to them to match the jacket if you like.



Two Tones of Crepe in an Odd Pattern.

The material for the suit pictured is cotton crepe in a fine weave—the easily washable kind that needs no ironing. The cuffs on the short kimono sleeves and the square yoke are of a colored crepe in your favorite boudoir color—in this case pink. The tassels are pink cotton, and the cords which lace the garment together on the shoulders are also pink.

Where the two materials are joined together white buttonholed scallops thru both materials finish the joining. To do this the pink yoke stamped with the buttonholing is basted on top of the white and the stitches taken thru both pink and white crepes, the pink being cut away from the buttonholing afterward.

The embroidery is the simplest, a few French knots and tiny filled-in petals for the flowers. The eyelets are worked thru both materials, of course, and should be first reinforced with running stitches to make them strong and neat. There is no opening in this jacket, as it is designed to be slipped over the head. One shoulder may be unloosed if necessary.

A Dainty Sack

AMONG the most acceptable gifts for the baby is a flannel sack. Very attractive ones can be bought readymade, but as they are apt to be expensive, it is more economical to make the gift yourself. You can easily do this if you are handy with the needle. Cut from cream flannel a coat sack, being sure to make the armholes large enough. Remember that babies are pretty active and are most uncomfortable if their clothes are too tight. Scallop the sack about the edge. You can scallop before cutting if you wish. Pad the scallops and buttonhole them in pale blue. Add a Dutch collar to the sack. On the front corners embroider forget-me-nots. Scallop the edge of the collar and buttonhole it in blue. To fasten the sack at the throat, place two small crochet buttons in cream on white, one on either side of the opening, just under the ends of the collar. Proceed to make a loop of silk or a tiny frog to form a fastening. Ribbon bows on sacks are so apt to become soiled, and sometimes get into the baby's mouth.

A Sham Sheet

THE idea is not as well-known as it might be—the idea of the sham sheet, and its consequent saving of laundry bills. So many housewives like to see the hem of a beautifully embroidered and hemstitched sheet lying in unwrinkled splendor over the top of the coverlet, and yet it is their painful experience to find that one using of such a sheet musses it beyond further use.

The sham sheet does away with this trouble. It is merely a piece of linen the width of a sheet, but only three quarters of a yard wide. One edge is finished exactly as if you were making an exceptionally lovely sheet. It may be hemstitched and embroidered and lace-set with a monogram and initials. The other edge is merely hemmed neatly.

After the bed is made and the spread on, merely slip this sham sheet under the spread and fold it over with the right side out, of course. This can be removed at night and may be used for several weeks without changing.

For Baby's Mother

A USEFUL gift that will be appreciated by a mother with a small baby is a lap or carriage pad. It is a crocheted affair, made of rather coarse but soft knitting cotton without a decided twist. Two sixteen-inch squares of solid shell-stitch are first required. This is perhaps one of the easiest of crochet stitches to make. You begin by crocheting a sixteen-inch chain and go back, running four double crochets in about every fourth chain, with no chains between the doubles. For the next row, you merely take four chains for the turn and make your four doubles between the second and third of each underlying group, and so on.

When the two squares are finished join them together, with the exception of one side, with single crochets. To this single crochet edge now make a beading by using a double crochet in every other stitch with one chain between each double. Finish with a shell of six doubles with a chain between each, in every third mesh of the beading, holding the ends of each shell by a single crochet on top of the second double following the mesh in which the shell centers.

When this pad has been finished, slip thru its open end a piece of rubber sheeting of good quality and thickness. This is an invaluable article for nursing or bathing time, and may be used whenever the baby is to be laid down for any length of time. Ribbon should be run thru the beading in the pad if it is to be given for a gift. If a mother is making one of these for herself she will hardly bother with the ribbon, and may, therefore, omit the beading. They launder quickly, and may be crocheted almost in an afternoon.

When Flies Annoy

A PRACTICAL cover for the baby's coach to keep off the flies is made of point d'esprit, or, if you have economy in mind, from mosquito netting. It is hemmed around the edge and featherstitched in color. On each corner dangles a tassel which hides a weight like those used in dressmaking. This can be thrown over the coach or crib and will not blow away or become disturbed because the weights hold it securely.

Bloomered To Turkish Perfection

SHALL fashion "hold the mirror up to Nature," enhancing the charm of a dainty ankle or emphasizing the lines of a trim figure, or must she cry out her wares regardless of the face, figure or gait of her devotees? What attracts us, the woman inside the dress, or the number of gores in the skirt?

> "Unless some sweetness at the bottom lie,
> Who cares for all the crinkles of the pie?"

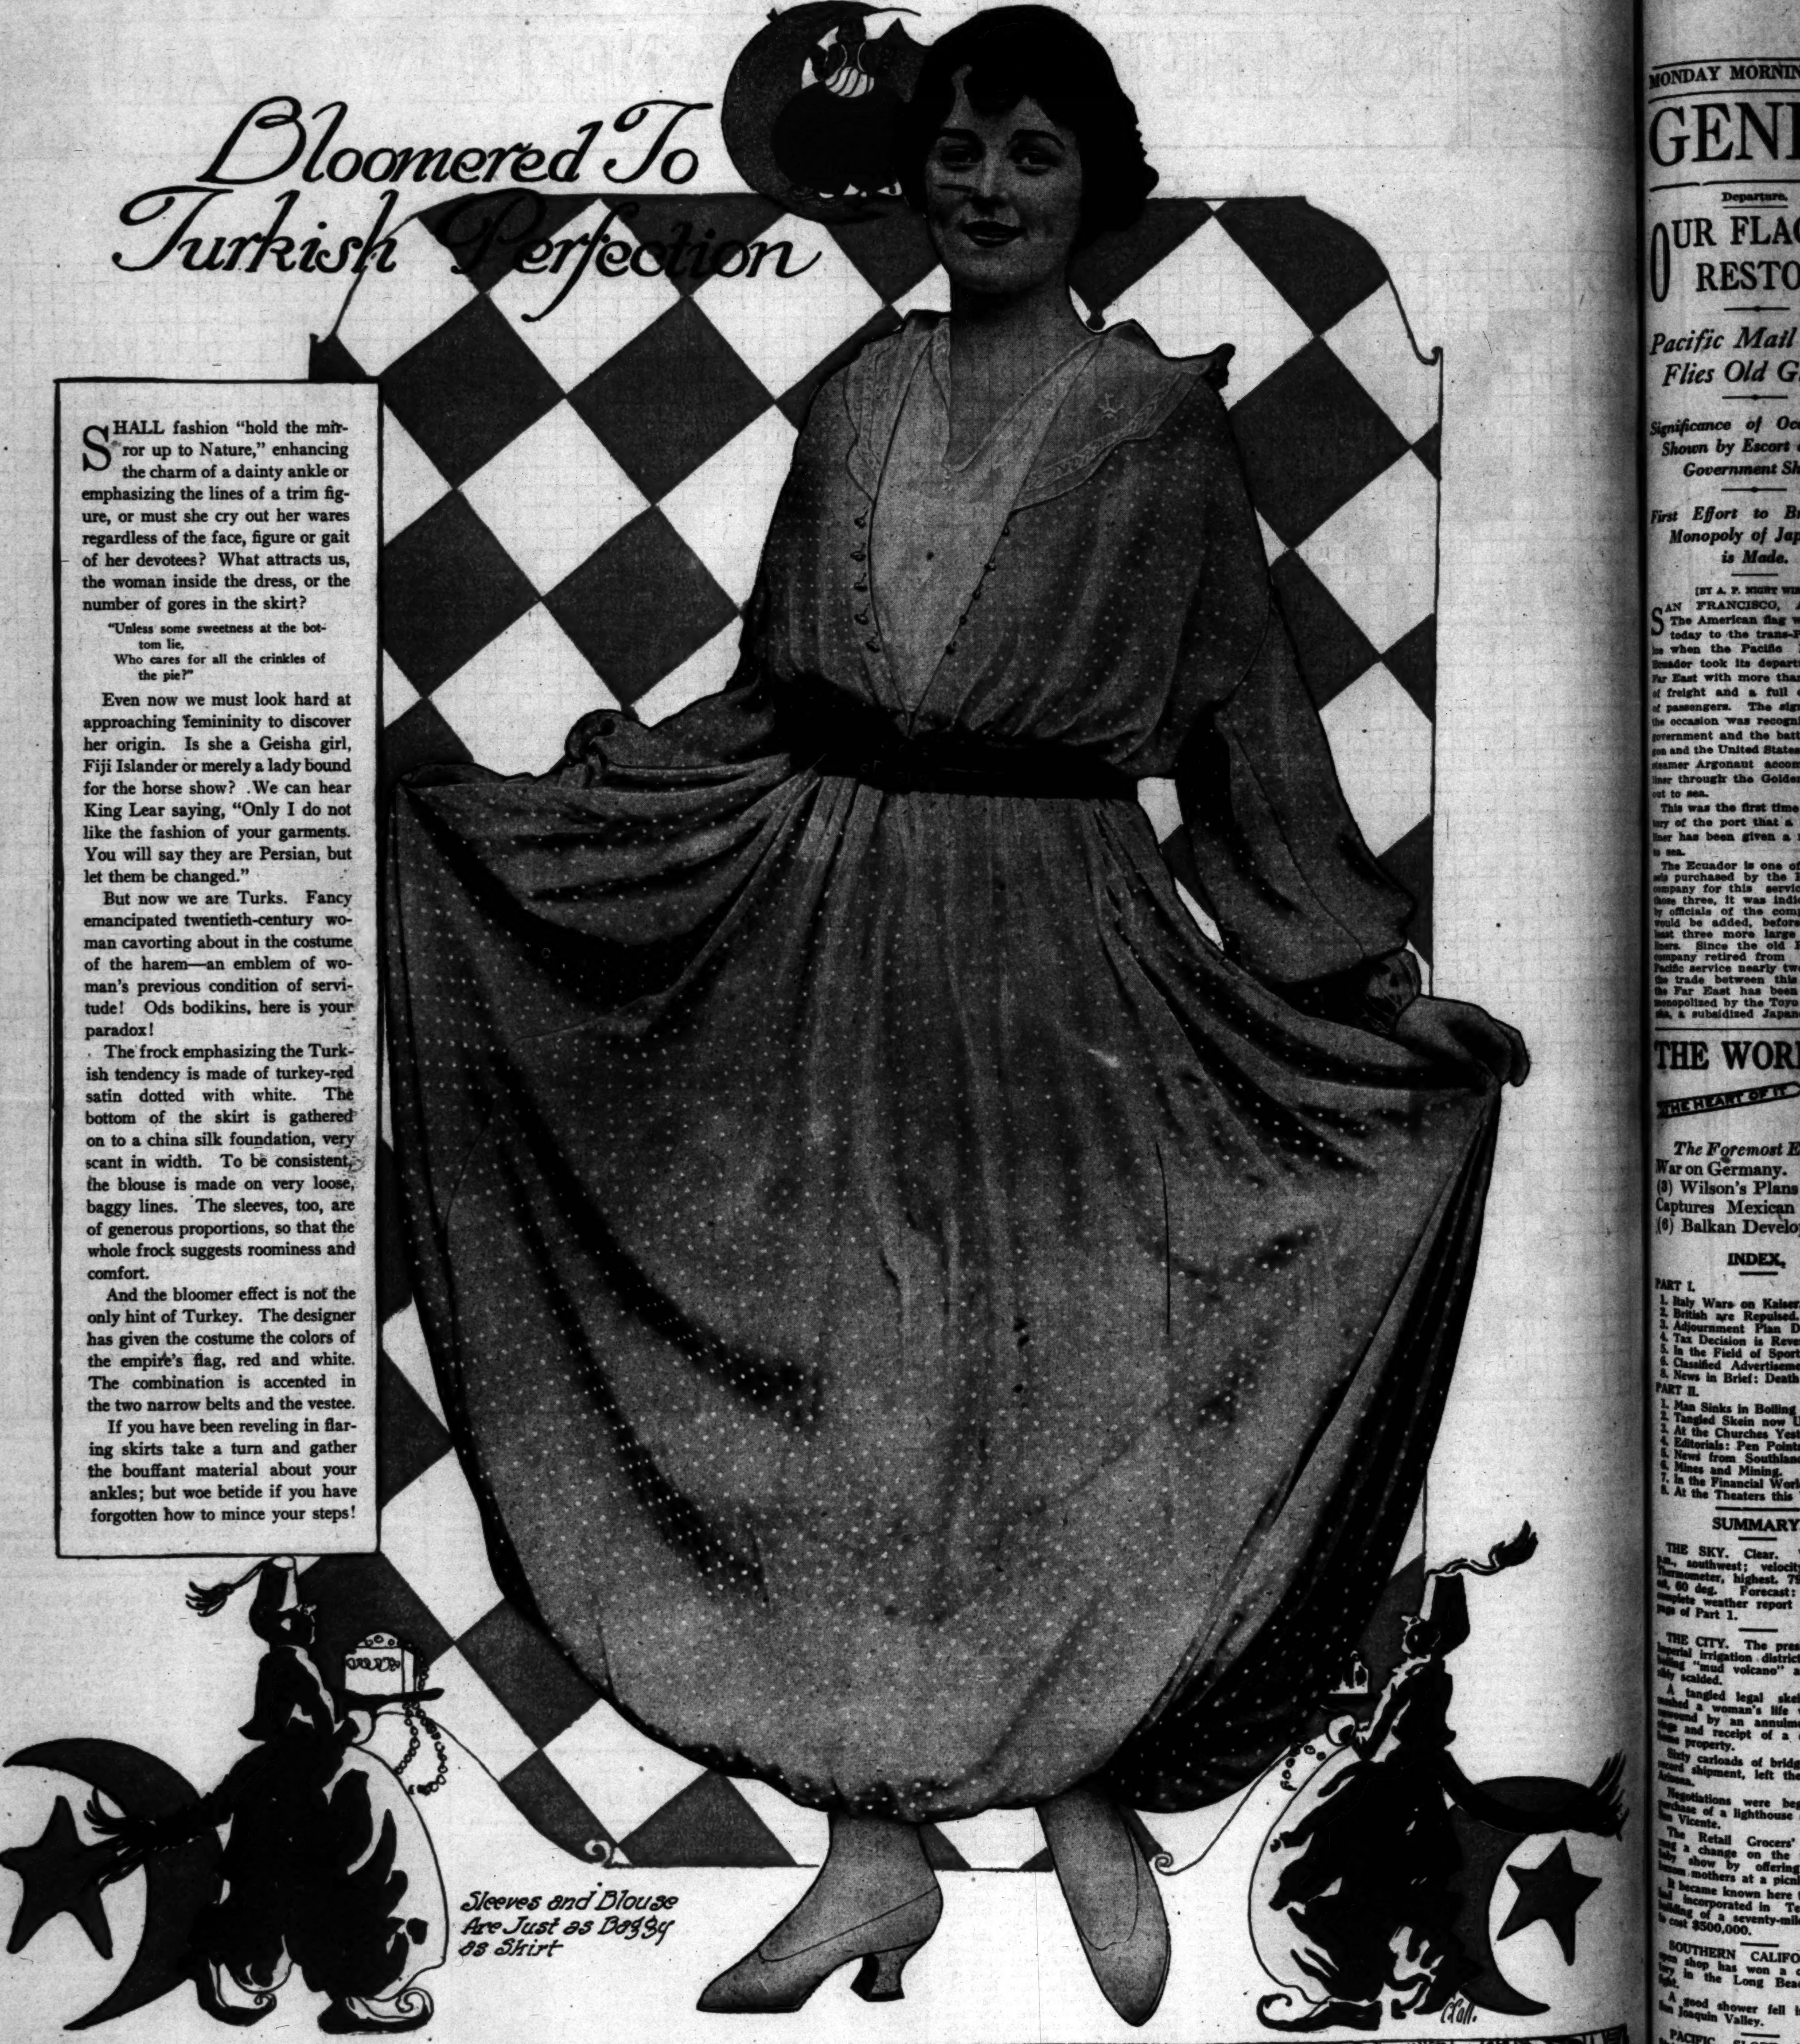
Even now we must look hard at approaching femininity to discover her origin. Is she a Geisha girl, Fiji Islander or merely a lady bound for the horse show? We can hear King Lear saying, "Only I do not like the fashion of your garments. You will say they are Persian, but let them be changed."

But now we are Turks. Fancy emancipated twentieth-century woman cavorting about in the costume of the harem—an emblem of woman's previous condition of servitude! Ods bodikins, here is your paradox!

The frock emphasizing the Turkish tendency is made of turkey-red satin dotted with white. The bottom of the skirt is gathered on to a china silk foundation, very scant in width. To be consistent, the blouse is made on very loose, baggy lines. The sleeves, too, are of generous proportions, so that the whole frock suggests roominess and comfort.

And the bloomer effect is not the only hint of Turkey. The designer has given the costume the colors of the empire's flag, red and white. The combination is accented in the two narrow belts and the vestee.

If you have been reveling in flaring skirts take a turn and gather the bouffant material about your ankles; but woe betide if you have forgotten how to mince your steps!



Sleeves and Blouse Are Just as Baggy as Skirt
